LENAWEE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING TECUMSEH, BRITTON, RIDGEWAY, MACON AND TIPTON

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 13 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1963 | 12 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Start walking if you want to stay healthy and live to a ripe age.

That seems to be one of the big items in the life of spry Guy Grieves, who just turned 90 and looks 39.

Guy travels the Ankle Express everywhere he goes and loves the exercise.

They say there is no better tonic for the human body and maybe we all should take the cue from Guy and burn up shoe leather instead of gasoline.

Mrs. Ed Boss says this split week business has so confused her she has to keep telling herself what day it really is.

Join the parade, Agnes. We've all been thoroughly befuddled the past two weeks, suffering Blue Monday on Wednesday and never knowing the difference.

☆

Key personnel really count in the operation of a business.

No one realizes this more than Ken Blumerick, owner of Meadowridge Dairy, currently celebrating its 35th year in serving Tecumseh.

One of Ken's leading lights is tiny Art Teske, who has been delivering milk to homes hereabouts for 19 years.

Art's task is the last vital link in the chain of operation—getting the product to the customer when he wants and needs it, regardless of wind and rain, snow and sleet.

Ken credits Art for the smooth switch-over when the local dairy decided to change from Sealtest to Valley Lea milk several years back.

It went off without a hitch and everyone was happy with the new brand—just so long as Art was bringing it to their doorsteps.

Art's popularity reminds me of a fellow who used to peddle milk for Borden's Creamery in Detroit during my youth.

This was in the early Thirties, when the milk wagons were horse-drawn and two or three creameries had routes in every neighborhood.

Our family always took from Detroit Creamery.

Mac had customers all along the block and the kids in these homes used to tell what a swell guy Mac the Milkman was.

Once he stopped his wagon as we were playing softball in a vacant lot.

"Hey, kids, I'll bet you a quart of chocolate milk that I can hit a home run every time I swing," Mac challenged.

We immediately took him up.

Mac banged about half a dozen blows deep into the next lot, puffing around the bases every time. Finally he dribbled a grounder to third base and someone grabbed it and tagged him out.

Pretending to be terribly disappointed, Mac went to his wagon, trailed by a gang of yelling kids, to produce the quart of chocolate milk.

It was passed from hand to hand as we gulped it down, teasing Mac about how we had beaten him in the wager.

What the other kids said that night at the supper table is something I never knew, but at our place I told the exciting event, ending with:

"Mom, can't we have Mac the Milkman deliver to us?"

Well, mothers being the wonderful people they are, we soon were drinking Borden's milk.

Looking back now, one might think that running all those bases was a tough way to get new customers, but those were depression days and salesmen really worked for every order.

Besides, the exercise kept Mac young. For all I know he's 90 this week along with Guy Grieves.

Watch for a big news break, which will probably hit in next week's edition.

Results of the successful Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation annual drive are also due.

He's 90, Still Likes Walking

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Ninety years ago, Jan. 2, 1873, a boy was born in Philadelphia, Pa. to gladden the new year for his parents.

The infant was Guy Grieves, who now has his residence at 409 W. Brown St.

Extremely active, Mr. Grieves walks downtown from Brown St. almost every day.

Sunday he strolled to the hospital to visit a patient there — covering several miles each way — definitely a long, cold junket for one of any age.

A painter all of his life, Mr. Grieves retired about four years ago.

He was often seen painting by patients at the Herrick Memorial Hospital, where he worked under the administration of Gertrude Spaulding.

He painted continuously, covering the complete building in a year's time.

Speaking of his former employer, he said, 'She was a perfect little lady and did a remarkable job in the 15 years that she was here."

☆

THE GRIEVES came to Tecumseh from Detroit in 1930. His wife died in 1947. His other relatives live in Bad Axe

Mrs. John Bolden, 408 W. Brown St., is a sister-in-law of this senior citizen and remarks about the spryness of her husband's brother.

She told this Herald reporter that Mr. Grieves is an active member of the St. Peter's Episcopal Church, attending regularly.

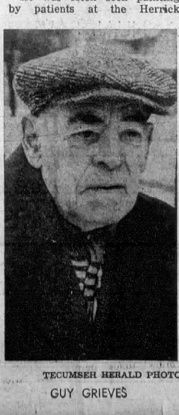

He has been most enthusiastic about the construction of the new church watching the progress almost daily and attending the Christmas midnight service.

☆

MR. GRIEVES proves himself extremely sensible, having driven his car until last summer when he put it away stating that a man og his age should not be driving.

When asked about his longevity, the gentleman said that he believes that anyone who realizes what is ahead for him and takes care of himself can get along pretty well.

He said, "I don't use any alcoholic beverages or tobacco and I eat plain food."

Osteopathic Physician Dies at 67

Dr. Truman Rentschler, for many years an osteopathic physician in Tecumseh, died Tuesday in Detroit Osteopathic Hospital.

He had been a patient there since October when he underwent surgery.

Active professionally until the illness, Dr. Rentschler had his offices in the family home at 311 W. Shawnee St.

Born 67 years ago in Illinois, the doctor was a Mason and a veteran of World War I.

The body was taken to Springfield, Ill., where services will be Saturday in the Vancil Funeral Home. Burial will be in Springfield.

Surviving Dr. Rentschler are his wife, Ruth, and a daughter, Sally, who has been teaching in Rome, Italy and has registered at the University of Michigan to continue her education.

A brother, Clarence Rentschler, of Springfield also survives.

The family has requested that in lieu of flowers, memorials could be sent to the Michigan Cancer Foundation, 4811 John R St., Detroit.

Annual City Report Goes to Houses

Every household in Tecumseh was to receive a copy of the city's first annual report Monday.

Distribution was made by 22 Boy Scouts of Troop 73 under the adult supervision of Gordon Gutowski, troop chairman.

Containing 28 pages, the report is in calendar form, with important city meeting dates included.

On alternate pages are reports of various city functions—police, fire, sewage, cemetery, parks and recreation, water, public works.

Major city accomplishments for the past few years are listed with future plans noted.

A complete budget for the city is given, with breakdowns of departmental yearly expenditures.

Pictures accompany the various reports.

Graphs break down the chain of command within city government and show where the city's income comes from and how each dollar is broken down in disbursement.

The reports cost about 50c each.

If any home was missed in the distribution, the resident may obtain a copy of the report at city hall.

1,200 Kids Jam Center for Party

Children swarmed through the Community Center Dec. 21 for the Jaycee Christmas party.

Dec. 28, the Center was transformed with streamers and canes into a partyland for the area's teen-agers, also under sponsorship of the Tecumseh Jaycees.

Because of the 1,200 children crowding the room, "Salty," the television clown, was unable to present his usual program. But he delighted the youngsters by mixing with them.

The hero of the evening, of course, was Santa Claus, who arrived with presents for all.

Some 250 teen-agers met for the dance, with music provided by the "Blue Angels" and the "Hesitations." Members of the Teen Club decorated the center with red and white streamers, candy canes and wreaths.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. James Fielder, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wonderly, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Helms and Rick Creswell.

Financial assistance for the parties was given by the Tecumseh Community Fund.

'62 Passes in Review

A final look at 1962, complete with a variety of pictures, appears in the second section of this week's Herald. It covers the stories — some big, some little—that made the past 12 months memorable for Tecumseh area folks.

Library Receives $900 from Drive To Save St. Peter's

A check for $900.04 will be turned over to the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc. to buy books for the new library.

It is the remainder of the Save Historic St. Peter's fund.

More than $7,000 was donated to the unsuccessful effort to move and restore the 129-year-old Episcopal Church, which is now being dismantled.

All donations in check form were returned by the committee more than one month ago.

Smaller cash gifts, which amounted to almost $1,000, were offered back to givers if they would pick them up.

Donors were informed that whatever was left would go to the Tecumseh Foundation.

☆

AN IDEA was advanced by The Herald that the money be earmarked for the purchase of new books, since the library board will be unable to add any additional volumes for at least another six months.

This situation is due to the library funds being cut this year.

The committee which guided the recent drive to preserve old St. Peter's met last week to close its book and officially dispose of money still on hand.

Two ideas were discussed, including the possibility of erecting a bronze plaque at the site of the famous landmark.

Committee members finally decided that they would "turn the cash balance of the fund over to the Foundation with an accompanying letter suggesting that the money be used for the purchase of suitable books for the library."

☆

THE HERALD has offered to donated book plates, which can be glued into the volumes obtained with the $900. (See editorial on page 3.)

The committee officially dissolved itself after this action.

Its members included Mrs. Joe Rice, Mrs. Louis Schneider Sr., Mrs. Harold Sisson, Mrs. Edward Boss, Art Eaton, John Hamilton, Jim Lincoln and Tom Riordan.

Mary Ann Mead, president of the Tecumseh High School Student Council, was a teen-age representative to the group.

The Very Rev. Msgr. John F. Bradley performed the 11 a.m. ceremony.

The couple received a Papal Blessing.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin rose point brocade fashioned with a scooped neckline trimmed with seed pearl embroidery, tapered sleeves and fitted bodice. A butterfly bow accented the back of the skirt and held a chapel train in place.

A pillbox of lace and seed pearls held her veil of imported bridal illusion in place.

She wore a silver cross at her throat, the gift from the groom and carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

☆

MRS. JORGE Galindo, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a street-length gown of forest green taffeta brocade styled with three-quarter sleeves and full skirt.

He recently completed four years in the navy, serving abroad the USS Cambria. A spring wedding is planned.

Rural Youths Are Sought for Peace Corps Duties

The 5-V clubs in Venezuela, 4-S clubs in Brazil, and their counterparts in many Latin American and African nations desperately need Peace Corpsmen with rural backgrounds. There's a strong demand for former 4-H'ers to fill these positions.

"The Peace Corps has called for 142 young people with agricultural backgrounds by next spring or early summer," points out Mary Woodward, assistant Michigan 4-H leader. "Applications should be on file three months before training starts, so time is growing short."

Miss Woodward notes that the success of the 15-year-old International Farm Youth Exchange Program helped encourage the Peace Corps idea. The 4-H clubs sponsor IFYE, which has "exchanged" over 2,750 young people.

Two Michigan 4-H alumni are already in Venezuela. They and 28 other Americans are helping organize 5-V clubs, which resemble the American 4-H organization.

Anyone desiring information about rural Peace Corps projects should contact county extension offices, Miss Woodward suggests.

Flooded Burner Causes Damage

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Library, Community Benefit

Books are your friends, little children are taught.

This is a lesson which can serve well as the youth becomes a teen-ager, then an adult. Its message applies to all of us.

Reading is truly one of man's most precious abilities. He can read a little or a lot. It makes no matter, the experience is almost always rewarding.

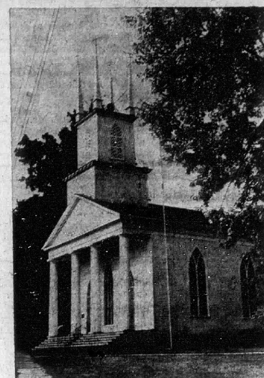

We were thrilled at the erection of a new library for Tecumseh, then disappointed when we learned finances wouldn't permit the purchase of more new books.

Now comes announcement that the library will receive an unexpected boon of $900 for the acquisition of new books. The money comes from the remainder of cash donations to the Save Historic St. Peter's effort, which did not reach its goal.

We wanted to see the historic building preserved, but since not enough money could be rounded up for the job, the idea of buying books and placing gummed labels in each, showing the old church and noting the book to be a memorial to the church, seemed to be the next best thing. (See illustration at right).

At the same time, this disposition of the cash left is filling a genuine need in the community.

Holiday Hoop-a-la

From all aspects, the Adrian-Blissfield-Tecumseh holiday basketball tournament was a rousing success.

The three schools co-sponsored the event, inviting Coldwater to fill out the quartet of teams needed to set up a round-robin tourney.

Such play is tremendously enjoyable for the fellows taking part. There is absolutely nothing like a tournament in sports — especially when you don't have to attend classes the day after the action. The boys can concentrate on the games and forget everything else.

Basketball fans got real enjoyment from watching the action, which always seems to have a little more zip when held under tourney conditions.

School athletic funds realized a goodly chunk of cash — some $500 to each of the co-sponsors and $300 for visiting Coldwater. This helps to take care of plenty of future expenses.

Athletic directors and coaches of the trio of schools are to be complimented for putting together such a fine effort.

With Malice Toward None

Every once in a while, some organization gets provoked with The Herald.

The paper is accused of being biased against the group. Members note that stories haven't run about activities and they can't figure why.

Usually, we don't hear about the hurt. Once in a while we do.

Whenever this happens, we investigate thoroughly and often come up with the findings that the paper had received no information from the group about the affair.

Unfortunately, the members believed that we would be sending a representative to the event or will call about it. In 95% of the cases, this is physically impossible.

Working with a small news staff, we are greatly dependent on the help of publicity chairmen from the community's roughly 50 organizations. When they drop off a story, or call us with facts, we have it in print 99½% of the time.

That other ½% is the normal attrition from human frailty. We do muff some, as no doubt a few of our good readers will be happy to remind us of.

But we make a sincere effort. Always.

To set the record straight for any group which might be unhappy with The Herald, we have absolutely no animosity toward any organization.

We welcome all news.

In fact, to us every item is like a little gold nugget. As they mount up, it means just that many more persons are going to be interested in reading The Herald.

Speedway Driver Speaking

Duane Carter, veteran Indianapolis Motor Speedway driver, will speak to the students of Tecumseh High School, Thursday, Jan. 10, at 10 a.m.

DUANE CARTER

Mr. Carter is one of a team of eight Indianapolis race drivers who have presented the award-winning Champion Highway Safety Program to more than 5,000,000 teen-agers in the last seven years.

His subject, "Highway Safety Is No Accident" is of particular importance and interest to high school students, many of whom are taking driver training education, and countless others who are driving cars in heavy traffic every day.

The Indianapolis race driver compares driving on the big speedway with everyday operations on our highways and insists if every motorist would be as courteous and as alert as the race driver and keep his car in as good condition there would not be the heavy traffic fatality toll being experienced today.

MR. CARTER will relate many of his experiences on the race track and some he has had on the highways which he travels some 35,000 to 50,000 miles a year as he delivers his safety lectures.

Preceding the talk, the speaker will show a sound and color movie made at the Indianapolis Speedway especially for use of the highway safety team.

The National Safety Council has recognized the program by twice presenting its public service award to Champion Spark Plug Co. for developing and maintaining the presentation in the public interest.

It has also been recognized editorially by the Saturday Evening Post and more than 5,000 letters from educators, civic leaders and law enforcement officers attest to the value of the presentation.

Santa Good to Ralph

"Santa was good to me this year," said Ralph Helzerman. He came to the Herald office just after Christmas to show employees the cover for a recording by the Friars released Dec. 22.

Ralph, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Helzerman, said that the record is available at Eggleston's Jewelry.

Now a junior at the University of Michigan, he has been singing with the Friars since his freshman year.

The ensemble of eight young men is associated with the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club.

The club's director, Dr. Philip A. Dewey, advises the Octet in selection of membership and repertoire.

☆

TAPES were made of concerts in Bellingham, Wash., Kansas City and Liberty, Mo.; Bowling Green, O. and various parts of Michigan where the Friars have made appearances.

The tapes were used to make up the final recording in September which includes many favorites Tecumsehites have heard sung by the Friars when they have made appearances here.

Some of them are "The Drainpipe Song." "In College Days" (The Old Friars' Song) and the well known "Ballad of Jimmy Brown."

The Tecumseh Players are arranging an appearance for the Friars here in March, with the date still uncertain. The concert is set for the Community Center, and will be open to the public.

In one season the vocalists traveled some 10,000 miles on concert tour through the western and mid-west states, giving 63 performances.

☆

THE RECORD cover has a picture of the singers on the University campus and the back tells of the group's origins and activities as well as the members' names.

When Ralph mentioned that Santa had been good to him this year he was also alluding to his acceptance into the University Medical School during his junior year on the Ann Arbor campus.

Along with the many extra-curricular activities, Ralph still maintained the 3.3 average which made possible for him to apply for medical school early.

It's doubtful that the old man with the bright red suit had much to do with that.

Need Members

The Twin City Bowlerettes League, which meets at 9 p.m. Fridays in Airport Bowl, needs several new members.

Since the scores are given on a handicap basis, the applicants do not have to be high scorers to be welcome.

Interested women may contact the league secretary, Mrs. Delbert Weaver, at HA 3-4167.

Police Get Blue Lights for Autos

If you see a flashing blue light in your rear-view mirror, get out of the way.

It's a police car, on business.

Under a state law effective in January, 1964, all local, county and state police vehicles will have blue emergency lights. Tecumseh's force got theirs early, discovering they are easier to see and distinguish than the traditional red lights.

Tecumseh chief Murell Clark said the new blue lights can be seen against a background of traffic lights, business signs and holiday decorations that tend to blank out the red flashers.

Effectiveness of the blue lights was tested by state and local officials before the change was authorized.

Indians Win 2-of-3 in Tournament

Tecumseh's basketball team won two of its three games in the ABT Holiday Carnival at Adrian and earmarked itself as a title contender in the Huron League race.

In one of the contests, the Indians stopped previously undefeated Blissfield.

This one was counted as a league game.

Tecumseh also blitzed Coldwater, a Class A squad, then fell to Adrian in the tourney's finale, after almost upsetting the Maples.

In the Carnival's opener Thursday, Coach Doug Murdoch's cager trounced Blissfield, 72-60.

The following evening, the Indians completely outclassed Coldwater, 65-43.

The Maples rallied for their third tournament victory, 68-55, after trailing Tecumseh for most of three periods.

TECUMSEH, now tied for the Huron League leadership, jumps back into competition this Friday night against Milan on the Big Reds' floor.

Four players scored in double-column figures in Tecumseh's win over the Royals. Norm Tucker and Jerry Hebb each netted 14 points, and Jack Dick and Tim Sisson, each 12.

This game, as were the others, were marked with excessive fouling. Nearly 60 infractions were called an almost identical number when the Indians trimmed Coldwater.

Jerry Hebb topped the scorers in the Coldwater clash with seven goals and 10 free throws for 24 points. Sisson connected for 16.

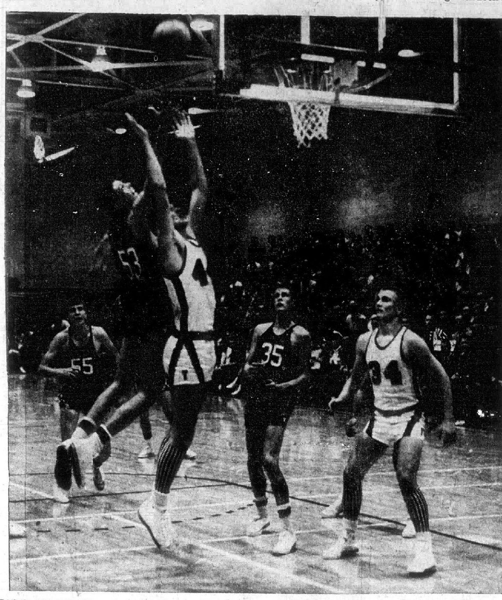

As in the Blissfield game, Tecumseh hit well from the foul line, dropping in 29 of 42 attempts.

☆

THE INDIANS dropped their second game of the 1962-'63 season, losing to Adrian, after once holding a six-point lead in the third period. The Maples pulled away in the final stanza, outscoring Tecumseh 21-11.

Tucker was the game's leading scorer with 17 points. Hebb dropped in 10.

This game, like the others was marked with excessive fouling.

REBOUND SCRAP — Jerry Hebb (in white) battles Adrian center Rick Hunt for a rebound under the Maples bucket with Tecumseh's Norm Tucker (34) and Pete Hodapp (55) and Steve Rymal (35) of Adrian waiting to step in. Adrian won the final game of the ABT tourney, 68-55.

Archers Shooting

Tecumseh archers will start team shooting at the Tecumseh Community Center Tuesday, Jan. 8.

A beginners class is being offered, but so far little interest has been shown. It will be dropped temporarily unless more attend the forthcoming shoot.

Sundays from 2 until 5 p.m. archers may practice.

World's Largest Sports Show Coming to Detroit

The world's largest sports and recreation exposition is coming to Detroit March 1 through 10 at the Michigan State Fair Grounds.

To be known here as the Detroit Sportsmen's and Vacation Show it will be held annually.

Outdoorsmen will see the mammoth "Parade of Outdoor Champions," a 1½ hour stage show which will introduce to the Detroit area a host of events and champions from various parts of the United States.

This will be held twice daily in the Coliseum where more than 6,000 seats will be available without additional charge.

Another building will be devoted to "Tackle Row" with demonstrations of all the newest rods and reels, the live trout fishing pool for public participation, two casting pools, exhibits of guns, golf equipment and archery.

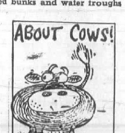

Vacation and travel exhibits will occupy another building. There will be a marine section showing fishing boats and motors and a big area devoted to camping and the pick-up camper.

Another feature will be a Sports Theater with continuous hunting and fishing movies from Michigan and all over the United States.

FORMING A FAMILY PARTNERSHIP may help you save on income taxes. This is possible when you spread farm income over several family members who are in a lower tax bracket. A family partnership must be a valid business organization, meeting all the necessary IRS requirements. You must show intent to have an actual operating partnership. To show your intent you should have a written partnership agreement drafted by an attorney which takes federal and state tax laws into account.

DON'T CROWD CALVES in feedlots or small pastures or you may have an outbreak of coccidiosis. Coccidiosis seldom gives trouble on the open range where cattle have plenty of room, but can cause severe infections in crowded quarters. The disease is usually accompanied by bloody diarrhea and loss of weight. To prevent coccidiosis keep feedlots as clean and dry as possible. Elevate feed bunks and water troughs and don't overstock feedlots.

CHECK DAIRY COWS FOR HEAT at least four times a day when they are due for rebreeding. Specialists warn that more than one-fourth of dairy cows in heat will be missed when observed only twice a day. Checking for heat four times a day rather than twice can boost herd breeding efficiency by 10% to 20%. Remember, it costs about a dollar a day for each day over 90 days past calving that a cow goes unbred.

THE MOST DURABLE WIRE FENCES are those with a heavy galvanized coating. Results of a 20-year test show that fencing with a 0.8 ounce coating of zinc last three times as long as that with a standard coating of 0.25 ounce. Although the price of the heavier coating is a little more, it is actually the cheapest in the long run.

Man Studies Tecumseh's Organizations

Tecumseh's organizations will be the subject of a master's thesis for a Michigan State University sociology student.

The student, Jack Schwartz, who describes himself as "one of the old-men students," has had considerable experience with community organizations. He has 10 years' experience as a Chamber of Commerce manager. Before that, he was a newspaperman.

The Tecumseh study will have to do with participation in organizations and will be limited to the activities of men. "Or," Mr. Schwartz added, "That's what it is starting out to be."

This study is in no way connected with the Tecumseh Community Health Study being conducted by the University of Michigan.

Mr. Schwartz will be contacting organizations for membership lists in the near future.

Paper Box Industry Buys Quaker Plant, Will Create More Than 100 New Jobs

TECUMSEH CORRUGATED BOX CO. PRESIDENT FRED ATTWOOD STANDS BEFORE NEW PLANT WHICH OPENS FEB. 1

Will Fabricate Over 20,000 Tons Yearly, Do $3 Million Sales

It's official. This community is getting another industry — Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co.

Formed in recent weeks by a quartet of top-flight executives, who have a combined experience of about 75 years in the paper box business, it will employ between 120 and 130.

Of these positions, more than 100 will be brand new jobs for this community.

Tecumseh Corrugated has purchased the old Quaker Oats plant from Tecumseh Products Co. and will start to move in equipment about Jan. 24.

Purchase price of the building was not announced.

Tecumseh Corrugated has been incorporated for $175,000.

Applications for jobs at the new plant will be taken sometime after Jan. 28, explains Fred Attwood, president. Details will appear in coming issues of The Herald.

(Please see background of Mr. Attwood and other firm officials in adjoining story.)

☆

MR. ATTWOOD explains that a nucleus of seven will come here to run the city's newest industry. Local semi-skilled men will fill out the remainder of the work force.

Some women will be hired for the office crew, which will total between 20 and 25, including the executives.

Operations are expected to get underway on a limited basis about Feb. 1. It will take until the end of 1963 to work up to full capacity, states Mr. Attwood.

Tecumseh Corrugated anticipates producing 20,000 tons of finished products annually, with a gross business of more than $3 million.

Sales efforts will reach out in approximately a 100-mile radius from Tecumseh. Products will include shipping containers and corrugated specialties — ranging in size from small canned goods boxes all the way to cardboard mattress containers.

None of the raw materials will be manufactured here.

Boxes will be custom formed, with operations including slitting, taping and stitching. In addition, the firm will imprint the products, using its own two-color press.

☆

THE OLD Quaker Oats layout, with 60,000 square feet, was purchased by Tecumseh Products in 1960, some months after the Quaker macaroni and noodle division left town.

Extensive renovation work was carried out by Tecumseh Products in anticipation of moving some of its operations into the structure.

This planning was eventually scrapped and the building made available for sale. It was through efforts of Tecumseh Products officials that the new industry was induced to settle here.

When Mr. Attwood and his associates inspected the Quaker Oats building, they declared it perfect for the manufacture of paper containers.

"We'll use every inch of it," he said.

He told The Herald the young firm had checked out possible locations from Cleveland to Indianapolis.

Besides offering an ideal building, Tecumseh also held other attractions for the firm. Officers were impressed with the ready labor pool, the good schools, churches and country club, the new executive pointed out.

Executives Have Vast Experience

Officers of the new Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. have long dreamed of forming their own company.

They were all associated with the River Raisin Paper Co., which several years ago was made a subsidiary of Union Bag-Camp Paper Co.

Following are thumbnail sketches of the four:

Chief executive of Monroe operation, 30 years in the field, served with W. C. Ritchie of Chicago as vice-president of manufacturing, S. M. Langston Co. of Camden, N.J. as sales engineer and with Container Corp. of America after finishing college.

A 1931 graduate of Illinois Tech as chemical engineer.

JAMES ROBIDEAU of Washington, Pa., age 35, vice-president in charge of sales, married, three children. Has already rented home at 812 Red Mill Dr.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Class of 1950, is a 12-year veteran in field, all with River Raisin and its purchaser, Union Bag-Camp, was sales manager at Union's Washington, Pa. plant.

☆

CLARENCE HANTHORN of Monroe, age 51, vice-president and plant manager, married, father of one son, who is a Marine lieutenent at Parris Island, S.C.

City Manager Resigns Post

Ed Nelson—the workhorse of city government and Tecumseh's first and only city manager—has resigned.

The resignation, effective Jan. 19, was accepted with regret by Council Monday night.

E. J. NELSON

The city's top official has been in ill health for several months and yielded to his physician's advice to resign the position.

Although he will no longer hold the post and no successor has been appointed, Mr. Nelson will be retained on a consulting or advisory basis.

The city manager was a councilman, during his days as manager here of a wire fence firm. In 1952, he directed the construction of the city's sewage disposal plant while Tecumseh was still a village.

When Tecumseh officially became a city in 1954 and planned a city manager form of local government, Mr. Nelson was selected to lead the community.

Bildwel Denies Plans To Move at This Time

Although rumors have the Bildwel Co. moving to Adrian, a company official says there are no immediate plans to leave Tecumseh.

The firm, located at the north edge of town in the former Joel Building and airplane hanger, employs about 15 people, making custom machine tool parts and other metal devices, including a specially-patented cabinet hinge.

The company was recently investigating the former Faraday plant on W. Beecher St. in Adrian, next to Merillat Woodworking Co., but has taken no action to either rent or buy the building, according to the official.

Dances Are Held for 'Unmarrieds'

Lorena Liston of Saline will furnish information concerning the Double A Dance Club. Her address is %Nielsen Flowers or 210 W. Michigan Ave., Saline.

The club holds dances the first and third Thursdays of each month from 9 until 12, with an orchestra and refreshments for all "unmarrieds" under 25 years of age.

Miss Liston will also arrange transportation.

River Plan Has Support from League

Lenawee Conservation League has endorsed the plan to reclaim the River Raisin and eventually build a chain of lakes.

Meanwhile, the Federal Conservation Department has been asked to make a detailed study on the feasibility of the proposals.

Sixty members of the Lenawee league voted unanimously Monday night to back the project as developed by R. S. Pocklington. Earl Baldwin and Tecumseh Councilman Royal Welch addressed the group, explaining the benefits that would accrue if a series of dams were built across the river.

Water would be conserved as the water table rose, and land now given to scrub trees would be useable, for farming or building.

The club will send letters to the Lenawee Soil Conservation District Committee and to County Drain Commissioner Donald Mitchell.

Calvin Zorn, city engineer, sent a formal request to the soil district office for a study on the proposals. The study could be made prior to a request for federal project funds.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Rumors were flying all over the place the past few weeks.

Was a new industry coming to Tecumseh? Or wasn't it?

In Monday's Monroe Evening News came a story that top brass of a paper box plant there had resigned and were forming their own company.

Monroe's sister paper, Adrian, picked up the tidbit.

The Free Press printed a short piece.

No location for the embryo plant had been given—just somewhere in Michigan.

Everyone started pointing towards Tecumseh, which is always nice.

The early stories brought a rash of telephone calls to Fred Attwood, who is the organizer of the firm.

"How about settling in our town" he was asked. Some said they'd put up a plant for the industry.

Which goes to prove how fortunate Tecumseh is to have this manufacturer in our midst.

The building in which Tecumseh Corrugated is to be located has quite a history.

It was built in 1910 and opened in 1911 by Uncle Sam's Macaroni Co.

Quaker Oats bought out Uncle Sam's in 1917 and set up the firm's paste goods division—macaroni, spaghetti and noodles.

Quaker prospered here for many years, but as marketing concepts changed, the company decided to pull the Tecumseh operation. This was done in June 1960. At the finish there were 22 hourly-rated workers and four salaried, personnel During its heyday "there were 100 employees.

Roy Prichard produced a copy of The Herald, dated Oct. 27, 1911, which tells all about the "new Uncle Sam's building."

Listed were all the ingredients which went into the structure, including, among others:

1,500 cubic yards of gravel for concrete
50 carloads of Britton bricks
10 Carloads of Wolverine cement
10 carloads of lumber
10 carloads of steel

"The initial capacity of this plant will be 10,000 pounds of products per day. A full line of macaroni, spaghetti, vermicelli, egg noodles, short cuts and soup pastes. A complete stock of the better Italian delicacies will also be handled in a properly equipped department."

State high school basketball ratings look good.

Tecumseh ranks No. 8 in Michigan among Class B squads and Britton-Macon holds No. 3 in Class D.

☆

Ed Nelson is a great guy and I'm sorry that his health has required him to step down as our city manager.

Ed has gone through a tremendous amount of pain and illness during the past years.

He always took it with a wry grin and kept right on working.

What I like best about Ed is that he's always honest and cooperative in his dealing with this paper.

When we pulled a rock, he never got shook or held our mistakes against us. Ed certainly has always been a pleasant man to do business with.

Expert Will Call Dance in Tecumseh

The Shawnee Squares of Tecumseh will have Phyllis Pearson Campbell as guest caller Jan. 12.

She will be calling from 8 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. at the Tecumseh Community Center. All western square dance club members are welcome.

She was formerly with the Promenaders at Michigan State University and is now living in Jackson. Before that she was a popular caller in the Clare, Harrison and Mt. Pleasant areas.

Last winter Mr .and Mrs. Jack Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fosbender, Mr .and Mrs. Jim Barton and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown traveled to Burt Lake to earn their Penguin Badge for dancing on the ice to Phyllis' calling.

Council Says 'Rubbish' to Acme

By JIM LINCOLN

Acme, Inc., local garbage and trash collector, was placed on the stand Monday night at Council meeting and judged guilty in providing poor service to Tecumseh residents.

A motion, unanimously approved, revokes Acme's franchise for both private and commercial customers, effective March 31.

Monday night's decision could be the end of one of the city officials' biggest headaches; however, councilmen told Richard Waltz and Ed Kubiski, partners, that they would probably be allowed to complete their contract with the city if they provided satisfactory service before the revocation became effective.

Mayor Harold Easton told the trash collectors that local officials had been flooded with complaints for the past six weeks, and though they had met with Waltz, the complaints have become even more numerous.

He cited 16 complaints received personally Saturday, and remarked that a local physician complained, called Acme's office, and was laughed at.

Councilmen Carl Lamb and Terry Mackin also pointed out basis for complaints.

Mackin told the partners that the poor service was not just over the past two weeks but has been going on for a long time. He said the poor service plus the fact that Acme had sent out their statements a month in advance, in September and December, had irritated a number of people.

☆

LAMB, who reported receiving complaints from residents, said some people apparently have not paid due to the poor service.

Mr. Kubiski, of Ypsilanti and spokesman for the firm, said that he was not aware of the complaints and did not realize so many were being missed.

Although he remarked that Acme was now only one or two days behind, due to the two holidays, he said customers missed were either picked up at the end of the day or first thing the next morning.

SEVERAL councilmen refuted his remarks, saying many at the present had not been picked up for two weeks and some had had no service since before Christmas.

Council set the date to terminate the city's contract with Acme on March 31, the end of the year's first quarter. The present contract does not expire until late next fall.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

Authorized James Beardsley to prepare a resolution to purchase the land now occupied by the old cider mill, on N. Evans St.

Approved a permit to Don Clark for parking a trailer on W. Logan St.

Accepted a letter from J. P. Ammer, commending Council for its distribution of the city's annual report.

Eighth Graders Planning Roast, Skating Party

Plans for an ice skating party and weiner roast were made by officers and the committee of the eighth grade class of the Tecumseh Friends Church Saturday.

The party will be held Jan. 19 at 11:30 a.m., with members meeting at the church, corner of Van Buren and Potfawatamie Sts.

Those attending will bring weiners, rolls and a bottle of pop for themselves.

Transportation will be furnished from the church to the lake and return at 6:45 p.m.

The class taught by Charles Huber has increased from seven to 43 in just four weeks' time.

When asked to what he attributed the increase, Mr. Huber replied, "Prayer, hard work and the cooperation of the class in telephoning and contacting other students at school."

Dale Tuckey Takes Post at Charlotte

Dale Tuckey has accepted a full-time position with Charlotte radio station WCER, covering Grand Ledge, Eaton Rapids and Charlotte.

Dale, a 1961 graduate of Tecumseh High School, covers local news, writing his own reports.

He has been following the Charlotte basket ball team, giving play-by-play broadcasts.

Under the name Friar Tuck, he has two record shows through the daily program, besides hourly newscasts and sports.

According to his mother, Mrs. Maurice Tuckey, Dale enjoys his work especially since he is able to make use of his own ideas.

Con-Con Report

Elect 4, Appoint 4

(Editor's Note — This is another in a series about the proposed new Michigan constitution.)

Four presently elective state administrative offices would become appointive positions if the proposed new Michigan constitution is approved by the voters.

Four other principal state officers would remain elective.

They are: governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and secretary of state.

Those offices which would become appointive are: state treasurer, auditor general, superintendent of public instruction and state highway commissioner.

The treasurer would be named by the governor and the auditor general by the state legislature. The state school chief would be chosen by an enlarged eight-member state board of education.

The highway commissioner's appointment would be the responsibiilty of a new four-man bipartisan state highway commission.

This equal division between appointive and elective state officials was adopted by the Constitutional Convention after lengthy hearings, committee sessions and floor debate.

☆

IT REPRESENTS a compromise between those who favored popular election of only one or two officials — the governor and lieutenant governor — and those who were of the opinion that all state administrative officials should continue to be elective officers.

In their testimony before committees, former governors of Michigan of both political faiths appeared to favor a system which would provide fewer elected state administrative officials.

It was their contention that this would result in a stronger, more effective and better coordinated executive department of state government.

The auditor general would be named by majority vote of the members of the legislature.

The constitution requires that he be a certified public accountant licensed to practice in the state and that he be appointed for a term of eight years. He would be ineligible for appointment or election to any other paid public office in the state while serving as auditor general and for two years thereafter.

In changing the method of selection of the auditor general, the proposed constitution makes him primarily responsible to the legislative rather than to the executive branch of state government.

The convention viewed his principal function as one of seeing to it that legislative appropriations are spent in the manner intended by the legislature.

☆

THE SUPERINTENDENT of public instruction would continue to be the principal executive officer of the state department of education, but would be appointed by and have his term of office fixed by the new state board of education.

The board's eight members would be elected by popular vote for over-lapping eight-year terms.

The new constitution proposes that the state board of education be the unifying and coordinating force for education within the state and receive information from all of the various levels of public education.

Such information would be considered by the board in determining advice to local school boards, governing boards of colleges and universities and the legislature as to the total needs of education in the state.

In recommending the change in the elective status of the state highway commissioner, the Constitutional Convention recognized that Michigan is the only one of the 50 states which elects its highway chief.

The new constitution provides that he be named by a four-member commission appointed by the governor. No more than two members of the commission may belong to the same political party. They are to be chosen for four-year overlapping terms.

The governor's appointments of the state treasurer and members of the state highway commission will be subject to the advice and consent of the state senate, according to the terms of the new constitution.

► Bridges on N. Evans St., N. Maumee and E. Chicago Blvd.; tremendous expansion of the water department, including six new wells, elevated water tank on S. Wyandotte and extension and installation of water mains.

► Miles and miles of curb and gutter, plus promoting a street improvement project with bituminous concrete; off-street parking lots; assisted in growth of several residential subdivisions; fire department.

► Promotion of the city's Community Center; helped in the formative stages of the Evans Creek interceptor sewer; additional city equipment and facilities at the city barns, disposal plant, water department and in Tecumseh's relatively new city hall.

Although in some cases, he was not directly responsible for some of the city's achievements or acquisitions, Mr. Nelson assisted when asked and helped the community realize some of its many benefits.

A BIG tribute to his management lies in the fact that Tecumseh has increased millage by only one mill—and that to instigate street improvements with bituminous concrete about two years ago.

City government has operated on an economical basis under his direction.

A little over a year ago, the community recognized him at a banquet in his honor at the Tecumseh Products Union Hall. Several hundred attended and applauded his accomplishments.

While active as city manager, he was a member of the International City Managers Association, past president of a regional organization of city managers, past president of the Lenawee County Safety Committee, and is a member of other related organizations.

Florida Freeze Brings Letter from Alvin Brazee

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tecumseh has had some cold days lately, but at least folks in this area expect them. Not so in central Florida, which suffered a severe cold snap in December. Alvin Brazee, spending the winter months in St. Cloud, Fla., sends along his report of the effects of the freeze there.)

DEAR FRIENDS:

A recent issue of the paper reminded me that when we return to Tecumseh in the spring, St. Peter's Episcopal Church will not be there to greet us. Somehow I just can't picture that familiar landscape without that friendly but stately church.

My earliest recollections of the church are of the times when as a small boy, I sat on the steps to rest a bit, on my way home from, town. Then I'm reminded of the many weddings and funerals that emanated from this edifice.

When Henry Ford's Brownville school held its first chapel service at St. Peter's, Mrs. Leo Robinson asked Lee if he saw Mr. Ford, he replied something like this, "I saw him outside before the service, but I didn't see him in the church. I think he was up back of that screen pumping the organ."

☆

THE REV. Mr. Phelps was the first rector that I can remember. I can see him now, dressed in his ministerial long-tailed coat, and his stovepipe hat.

And I suppose that historic Adams Park will be the next in line to go.

I'm told that is progress, but sometimes the price of progress comes high.

Since Dec. 19 we've enjoyed a daily high temperature ranging from 72 to 86 degrees. The high today was 74. We've had no heat in the cottage for several days.

But I suppose you want most to hear about the big freeze of Dec. 13 and 14, the coldest weather here since 1889.

☆

I HAD a real nice garden nicely started. I covered it with layers of newspapers, The Orlando Sentinel, The St. Cloud News, The Tecumseh Herald, The Detroit Free Press and the Saline Reporter. Of course I had to weight the papers with bricks and boards and left them on for 48 hours.

We managed to save one tomato plant, 20 string beans, some olives, parsley, beets, radishes, lettuce, nasturtiums and geraniums. A row of sweet peas and a bed of onions not covered, were not hurt.

As the intense cold continued for 48 hours, lowest here 20 degrees, it damaged citrus trees and fruit and vegetables extensively. All artificial means to prevent the freeze failed except in Cypress Gardens.

Newspapers reported little damage there. Some 1,600 fuel burners consumed 48,000 gals of oil.

☆

POINSETTIAS, bougainvilleas, amaryllis—our beautiful flowers and shrubs are no longer things of beauty for this season. But much of it will bloom again another season, and some this season.

The leaves are falling fast from the citrus trees and much of the fruit has fallen. Juice factories are in full swing in an endeavor to utilize as much juice as possible before fermentation sets in.

The fruit raised near the water was not damaged as extensively as in other places. The fruit embargo has been lifted.

We thank you for sending the Herald each week in a protective jacket and we wish all of you a happy New Year.

Sincerely,
Alvin C. Brazee

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Good Luck, Fellows

Good luck, Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co.

We speak for the entire community in offering this wish.

It wasn't many years ago — only 29, in fact — that this city was welcoming another, struggling, young industry.

That one was newly-organized, too. Its ranks included a group of fellows who were willing to work like blazes and happy to put their entire savings and reputations on the line.

They bet on themselves and won.

Today, Tecumseh Products Co. is one of the nation's blue chip industries. It is a success because of the blood, sweat and tears — and faith in God — of its founders and the folks who have since become a part of this great firm.

To a great degree, Tecumseh Corrugated will begin its operations in much the same manner.

Its organizers are leaders in their field. They have vast knowledge of the paper box business, of manufacturing and sales. They know purchasing and financing.

Yet they are still humble men, willing to listen and learn.

It's obvious that they possess an almost unquenchable desire to succeed — and bring home a winner. They're eager to bet on themselves. Their spirit exemplifies the driving force of free enterprise in America.

Officials at Tecumseh Products deserve special plaudits for the part they played in bringing Corrugated here. It shows that they, although enormously successful, are still eager to extend a helping hand to a fellow industry just getting started.

More Hands Can Be Used

Christmas is gone, but the memory lingers, especially to families presented food, clothing and toys by the Tecumseh Service Club.

Once again, the dedicated ladies of the group, plus an assist from the Jaycees and several teen volunteers, did the near impossible.

Like Santa, they made their list, then checked it twice, made sure all the needy were helped.

Getting the necessary items together was a feat of organization the Quartermaster General would have been proud of.

For the Service Club, this Chrismas project doesn't close the books for the year. Providing emergency help is a year-round task as club members get shoes, dresses, pants and other items of clothing and food for area needy.

Their clothing supply point is a room at the fire station, which has quite an inventory, from which they can draw at a moment's notice.

If you have good, usable items to give at any time, the Service Club would be happy to accept them. Just drop off at the fire house.

One final suggestion for a club or organization in need of a project: more hands can be used the few days before Chrismas in preparing baskets. If you'd like to assist, call Mrs. John Thompson, 423-2831, and volunteer.

Salinger Is Guest Speaker

Herald co-publishers Jim Lincoln and Tom Riordan will attend.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

The thought of writing this letter has been pestering me for weeks. However, I have put it off for several reasons, the biggest one being because I am not a literate man and have no high education.

I do have the vision however, and am sure that with the right men behind the River Raisin Project of damming and controlling it from its source of origin to its mouth at Monroe, that it can be one of the greatest and wonderful undertakings that could happen in this area. The untold good it would do in raising the water level and helping agriculture, to bring tourists to our community is almost beyond my conprehension.

Much credit should be given Mr. Pocklington of Britton, and the group of men who have formed a committee in Tecumseh. However it is going to take much more than this I am sure. Committees should be formed in Manchester, Clinton, Tecumseh, Adrian, Blissfield, Deerfield, Petersburg, Dundee, and Monroe. There should be men on these committees who are civic and community leaders, who know about this sort of a project.

If federal money is available, let us secure it. A project like this will take a great deal of money, how much I have no idea, but I am sure of one thing: no matter what it costs, it will be worth it.

When I was a boy, there was fine fishing in the River Raisin, and I have heard my father speak of the perch and pickerel runs in the River Raisin in his younger days. We look at it today with sad eyes and a sick heart, because it is hardly more than an open sewer for the farms, cities, and various villages along it. Not only that, it is slowly drying up and the time is not far off when the villages of Blissfield, Deerfield, and Dundee, which get their water supply from it, will be without water!

What are they going to do then? Not only these villages will suffer but the whole community will suffer from the origin to the mouth of the River Raisin. This terrible catastrophe can be avoided, but we will have to get busy, and soon.

I don't know how many people live in this area, but if we can get them awakened to the great possibilities of this project, I am sure there are plenty of them who will start the ball rolling. There could be dams built along this river, with public fishing and gathing sites—places to have picnics, etc. Also places for skating and skiing in the winter time, besides the wonderful fishing and boating it would create.

Come on you civic leaders, community leaders, conservation leaders, sportsmen and everyone who wants our River Raisin area to stand out and shine in our state and nation. Let's get behind this project and see it through to completion.

TO THE EDITORS:

I am writing this for a group of ladies that belong to a club. We are wondering what has become of the good old soft, warm-hearted, people that used to be?

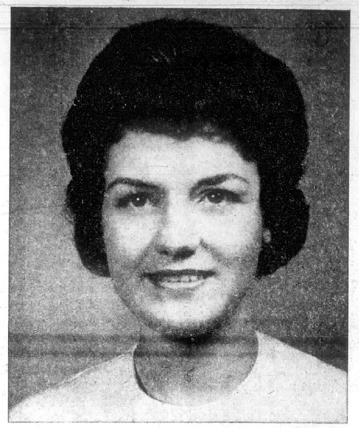

Are all people cold, heartless, and selfish, or too wrapped up in their own interests to care for anything else?

We are referring to people who have pets and want them, yet they put them out on a short leash in a little cold two by four, supposed to be, dog house, which is not big enough to turn nor stand nor move in.

We want to know if we should report these cases to the Humane Society of which we are thinking of doing.

If people would care for their animals and throw out scraps for our birds, don't you feel this would be a happier world and the person would feel good inside?

Signed,
Animal Lovers

Indians Falter, Still Clip Milan Cagers, 61-55

Tecumseh survived a fourth-quarter scare from a weak Milan five last Friday night to record the Indians' fourth Huron League victory, 61-55.

Coach Doug Murdoch's cagers, rolling along with a 20-point lead at half-time, 38-18, slipped a bit in the third period and then practically collapsed in the final stanza.

Milan outscored the Indians 18 to 7 in the fourth period to pull within six points.

Tecumseh travels to Ypsilanti-Lincoln Friday and should register another win, less it repeats a performance comparable to the second half against Milan.

Norm Tucker accounted for a third of the team's points against Milan with eight goals and six foul shots for 22 points. He was the only Indian to break into the double-figure scoring column.

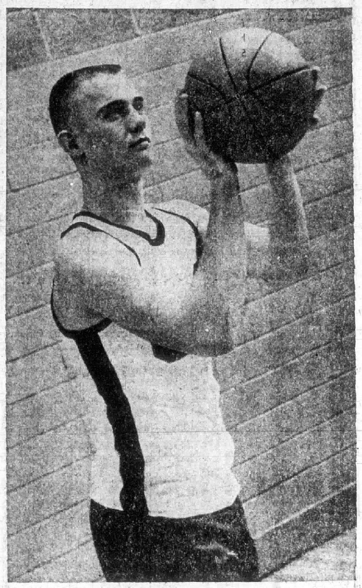

The Indians, tied with Milan from the field with 24 goals each, won from the free throw line, hitting 13 of 19 attempts. The losers capitalized on just seven out of 22 attempts.

Coach Jim Hoffman's reserves were upset, 54-38.

Frosh, JV Squads Lose to Royals

Tecumseh's junior varsity and freshman basketball teams took on Blissfield Monday night.

The JV team lost a squeaker, 58-54, with the lead changing hands several times in the closing minutes. The frosh lost, 40-32.

The scores would have been wider, except for Blissfield's trouble with the free-throw line. Blissfield's JV's missed 17, compared with Tecumseh's eight misses, and the Blissfield frosh missed 15, or 10 more than Tecumseh's freshmen missed.

Angel Tapestry Forms Backdrop

A tapestry of the angel appearing to the shepherds in the field was used as the background for the church school program Sunday, Dec. 16 in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church.

The tapestry was sent to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Packard from Kenya, East Africa by their son, Barry, who is teaching there.

A large globe centered on the stage emphasized the program title, "Christmas Around the World." It was presented by members of the Beginner's, Kindergarten, Primary and Junior Departments.

Mrs. Anna Grigg, church school superintendent, directed and announced the program. The Junior Department served as choir with Marta Puffer, accompanist.

Jeffrey Westgate was the property manager.

Mrs. Grigg expressed sincere appreciation for the efforts of the teachers and parents who assisted with the program.

Treats and gifts were distributed in the various class rooms.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Question: My former employer has closed the plant. I am no longer employed. Although I am only 45, I have been unable to get a job up to this time. Since I have 10 years credit under social security, can I 'Freeze" my record at this time?

Answer: No. The only provision for freezing a social security record is in the case of permanent and total disability. In your letter you did not mention being disabled, therefore, this provision would not apply in your case.

Question: Before my retirement, I worked under social security. My wife and I have been getting social security benefits for a year. My wife never worked under social security. She died last month. My neighbors keep telling me that I should receive a death benefit. Is this correct?

Answer: No. The death benefit is paid only in case of death of the person who worked under social security. Since your wife had never worked under social security, she has no credit of her own, the death benefit would not be payable in her case.

Just Before a Game

(EDITORS NOTE: Kathy Forsyth is one of the Britton High School students thoroughly enthused about the Britton Tories' unbeaten streak on the basketball courts. She puts her thoughts into this poem.)

By KATHY FORSYTH
Senior at Britton-Macon High School

'Twas just before a game, when all through the halls
Not a thing was stirring, not even a ball;
The nets were hung by the rims with care,
In hopes that a Britton victory would soon end there;

The players were in the locker room and nothing was said,
While visions of the game were dancing in each head;
And coach in his blazer and I coming down the street
Were just hoping to see the visitors get beat,

When out on the floor there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from the hall to see what was the matter.
Away to the bleachers I flew like a flash,
Tore open my coat and loosened my sash.

The lights shown on the floor the Tories' foe,
And they gave a smile to the refs standing below;
When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But the Tories, who were greeted with a loud cheer.

With a little old coach with hand on hip,
Who lifted his orange juice and took a sip.
More rapid than eagles out the door they came
And he nodded and called the players by name.

As tense players before the game's started,
They shook hands with their opponents, then parted.
So toward the roof top the ball flew,
The Tories took off—and the ball too!

And then on the Torie backboard I heard a thud.
The first basket was made by Bud.
As I slapped my hands and turned around,
Down the floor came the foes—determined and bound.

They looked determined from head to foot
But the Tories soon loosened their roots,
Their droll little mouths at the corners turned down
As the Tories started going to town.

(The stump of his whistle the Ref held tight in his teeth,
And the cord it encircled his neck like a wreath;
A shirt of stripes he wore on his back,
And he looked like an X-con just out of the sack.

The coach's eyes twinkled; his dimples how cute!
His cheeks were red from heat, and so was his snute;
He had a broad face and a round little belly
That shook when he jumped, like a bowl of jelly.

He was excited and happy—a right jolly old elf;
And I smiled when I saw him, in spite of myself.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head,
Soon told me he'd have a shower before going to bed.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work
And sent in the subs; then turned with a jerk
And making a T beside his nose,
And giving a nod, the cheerleaders rose.

They sprang to their feet and led the fans in a cheer,
And they shouted out VICTORY for all to hear;
But as the coach and his players disappeared from sight,
They heard "Good Game," from all and from all "Good Night."

Can File Two Ways

Farmers, another year has passed and it is just about income tax filing time again.

To find out when your income tax return is due answer the following two questions:

1—Is at least two-thirds of your gross income from farming?

2—Does your taxable year begin on Jan. 1?

If the answer to both these questions is YES, you have two choices:

1—File your return and pay the tax by Feb. 15; or

2—File an estimate of the tax due and pay it by Jan. 15, then you have until April 15, to file the tax return itself.

So, if you file the estimate and pay the tax by Jan. 15, you have an additional three months to file your income tax return. If not, both the tax return and tax are due Feb. 15.

Read about special filing dates in the Farmers Tax Guide which can be obtained free of charge from your County Agricultural Agent or the local Internal Revenue Service Office.

Memoriam

IN MEMORY of Mrs. Nina Arnold who passed away one year ago today, January 10, 1961.
The sun and moon are shining
On a lone and silent grave;
Beneath lies the one we dearly loved,
But whom we could not save
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile;
Little do they know the heartache
That our smiles hide all the while.
Sadly missed by her husband and children. J10,p

Jaycee Christmas Projects Succeed

Members of the Jaycees received some pleasant reports at their January dinner meeting last week at Tecumseh Country Club.

The annual Christmas tree project grossed $1,062 and netted the group $426.69, reported Jim Rundell.

This money will be applied to the debt that the Jaycees are still paying off in the group's financial loss in presenting the "Four Preps" here last year.

The $1,600 red-ink figure has already been whittled back to $450.

In the Jaycees' "Call Santa Claus" undertaking, nearly 200 kiddies spoke to old Saint Nick on the phone, Skip O'Neill told the group.

Skip added, "It was a ball. Kids come up with the darndest things."

☆

JERRY Miller told of work in distribution of food, clothing and toys the day before Christmas to needy families in conjunction with the Service Club.

"The people were truly grateful," he said. "Just seeing their faces at one stop was enough to make you realize the whole program is worthwhile."

He told members that Mrs. John Thompson of the Service Club had said that more volunteers in preparing the gifts would be needed next year.

In recent years only about six women handled the whole operation, assisted by several teenagers.

Frank Sandoff reported on the group's New Year's Eve party and Chuck Kapnick said that more than 20 entries in the annual Outstanding Young Farmers of the Year competition have been processed.

☆

THREE new members were initiated into the Jaycees, including Dick Shaw, Frank Sandhoff and Clifford Bird.

Guest speaker was Tom Riordan, co-publisher of The Herald, who explained the operation of a community newspaper.

He emphasized that 95% of organizations' news to a small paper comes as the direct result of efforts by various publicity chairmen.

"They either call, write or drop into the office with the facts about their meetings and projects," said Mr. Riordan.

TECUMSEH HERALD

District "X" Would Have 4,643 Pupils

By MARJORIE COMFORT

A school district nearly one-third the size of Lenawee County — that would be the result if Tecumseh, Clinton and Britton-Macon districts combined.

District "X" would have 4,643 students, based on current enrollments, and cover 221 square miles with a tax base of $54,241,116.

Tecumseh would furnish two-thirds of the students, three-sevenths of the area and about three-fifths of the tax base.

The primary reason that a merger is being discussed is that all three districts are feeling the pinch of high enrollments and a need for more room.

☆

THE POST-WORLD WAR II baby boom is just now being felt in senior high schools across the nation.

Tecumseh now has 152 seniors, 190 juniors, 235 sophomores and 254 freshmen.

Britton has 31 seniors, 37 juniors, 39 sophomores, 38 freshmen and 55 eighth graders.

Clinton has 47 seniors, 55 juniors and 80 to 90 in each of the lower grades.

Both Britton and Clinton have high schools which are more than 50 years old, but both have made additions within the last 10 years to provide modern study and recreation facilities.

☆

TECUMSEH'S high school is new, but already badly crowded. Built in 1950, with additions made in 1955 and 1959, it was planned for 600 students. It can handle 650 without crowding, but it has 838 now.

Administrators and school board members of the three districts have met informally to discuss the proposal.

None of the districts have surveyed local residents to assess the popularity of a three-way merger.

However, Britton-Macon already has had a citizen group studying mergers with other districts.

One study showed opposition to a merger with Deerfield, so the board turned to investigate the possibilities of a combination with Tecumseh or Dundee.

County To Get Funds for Roads

Lenawee County will receive $70,007 in federal matching funds for construction on state and county secondary roads, according to State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie.

Mr. Mackie said Michigan will receive an increase of $531,000 or 6.8 per cent over last year in federal funds starting July 1.

The state's 83 counties will receive an increase of 11.1 per cent from the federal apportionment.

FORMER CO-WORKERS CHAT — When Joyce Wilbar (right) was home recently, she dropped into Van's Bakery, where she used to work, and visited with Mrs. Cecil Viele. Joyce is getting ready to make her professional stage debut in a Broadway comedy called, "Memo." Rehearsals were slated to begin Jan. 2, but this schedule was changed to Feb. 4. A special story from New York about Miss Wilbar's experiences there will be sent The Herald from a former staff, Gretta Porter, who now works for a public relations firm there. She has already been in contact with the producer to make arrangements.

Service Club Appreciates Help with Christmas Gifts

Christmas is a deadline that just can't be delayed. Members of the Tecumseh Service Club find themselves working just a bit later each evening before Dec. 25 until one member said, "Five nights with only three hours sleep each, nearly had me done in, but this was the most satisfactory year that we have had.

"The cooperation among the individuals and the service clubs was amazing. Aside from more dolls, and the Jaycee Auxiliary is most generous, we didn't need to buy any toys.

"Due to efforts of Stanley Packard, the toys were all newly painted and shiny. We had 12 tricycles and probably more wheelbarrows than Baldwin Hardware. What's more, we were able to tag them with each child's name this year, which means so much more to the child," continued the member.

Sixty-three families were assisted with food baskets, clothing and toys during the holiday season. There are 190 children in the families.

☆

EFFORTS of the Cub Scouts with their wrapped and identified gifts, the Business and Professional Women, the freshman class of the high school, the church circles and the Sunday School Department of the Presbyterian Church make work of the Service Club easier.

Extension Clubs, the Young Mothers Club, the VFW and the American Legion, the Future Nurses and others helped with food and other donations.

The freshman class with Gordon Gutowski, advisor, bought and wrapped gifts and food for one family.

Gifts were purchased for teenagers and trees were distributed where needed a week before Christmas.

Members of the Service Club who have done this work for a number of years were grateful for the assistance of the other organizations and individuals.

It is a project which seems to grow larger each year, to be sure that no Tecumseh family is without a Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Perrin, former Tecumseh residents now of Mt. Pleasant, with their three children, Rozanna, Pamela and Shawn, were in Tecumseh Christmas Day visiting friends.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The spread of television has affected the public's use of books, magazines, radio and movies.

Dozens of studies by sociologists and educators have dramatized the change in public habits. We have seen the end of venerable magazines, the closing of movie houses, and a complete change in radio programs.

However, during the past 15 years newspaper circulation has increased, and no significant change has taken place in the public's use of local newspapers.

As an information and entertainment medium the local newspaper is distinctive:

Seasonal change does not affect the demand for newspapers. Rain or shine, winter or summer, newspaper readership remains constant.

Economic and social classifications cannot be applied to the readers of hometown newspapers.

All ages of adults read the same newspaper. No special local newspaper is needed for "senior citizens" or "young-marrieds."

The news section of the local paper is not slanted to male or female.

People do not stop reading the local newspaper during vacation periods, holiday seasons or when work is at a peak. The newspaper is not put aside for other recreation.

In sum, the newspaper is the universal medium which may reach any type of person under any condition.

It provides a community bulletin board in which news or advertising may attain maximum public coverage.

Sixteen Senior Girl Scouts of Troops 117 and 123 with their leaders, Mrs. Donald Creger and Mrs. Merrill Murphy, were guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Murphy at their farm in Clinton.

NEWCOMERS

Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

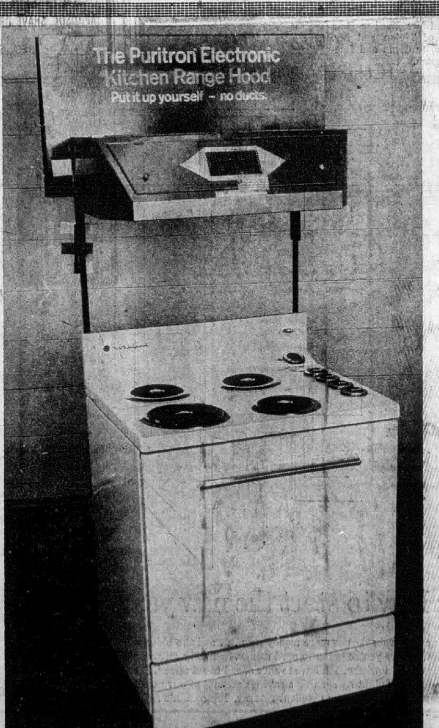

The Paul Henning family of 909 River Acres Dr. are newcomers to the city. They arrived at their home purchased from Leland Fogelsong just before the holidays, about Dec. 17.

Mr. Henning was transferred to Tecumseh by Allied Mills, which sells Wayne Feeds. They came from Vanesville, O.

There are three children in the family, Carol, 15 months; Barbara, 5 years, and David, 8.

Mrs. Henning said that the family all enjoy sports of all kinds. Mr. Henning was a physical education teacher before taking up sales work.

This is the first time the family has lived outside Ohio, and they hope to remain in Tecumseh for some time.

D & B Seeks Financial Standing

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. has asked for statements from 1,070 businesses in Lenawee County.

Figures obtained from a physical count in the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for January, 1963 totaled 17,358 manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers for the entire 19 counties reported by the Toledo district.

Business concerns in all parts of the United States are asked by Dun & Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements during January.

This year requests are being sent to approximately three million business concerns—to the corner grocery store worth a few thousand dollars as well as to businesses worth millions.

When the owner or officer of a business enterprise (or his accountant) fills in and mails his financial statement to Dun & Bradstreet, it becomes part of the credit report on his business and a factor in determining the credit rating of his business.

Back of each listing of a business in the Reference Book is a Dun & Bradstreet credit report.

The report includes the following: a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating) a description of what the business does and how it does it, a financial section which usually includes the latest financial statement and a record of how the businesss pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk of a business before shipping or selling, insurance underwriters also use credit reports to review risks, rates, and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

Consumers Are Expected To Get Break in Prices of Foods During New Year

Consumers are expected to get a break on food prices in 1963, says Jack Davis, vice-president of the Toledo Division of the Kroger Co.

Food prices should be about the same as 1962 and might even average a bit less, he reports.

The picture was even brighter before the big December freeze, Mr. Davis says, but most food products are still in good supply and vegetable crops lost in the freeze are being replanted.

Indications are that any rise in the price of fresh fruits and vegetables will be balanced out by lower prices of some other items, particularly canned fruits and vegetables.

☆

CONSUMERS in 1962 spent about the same portion of their income for food as they did in 1961 — less than 20%.

Each year they are getting more convenience and more service for their food dollar, says Mr. Davis, who predicts that this trend will continue during 1963.

The most significant new product to reach supermarket shelves — as yet on a limited test-market basis — is the new freeze dried food.

Freeze-drying contains some of the elements of both freezing and dehydrating, but uses a special process which removes moisture from products while leaving flavor and texture elements dormant but unchanged.

A half-pound steak after freeze-drying looks somewhat like a cellulose sponge and weighs just about four ounces.

A brief soaking in water and the steak looks as though it came directly from the meat case.

Also required is an electrical permit for any type wiring. This permit can be secured from the City Engineer of Tecumseh.

"Let her go, John . . . I'm sure they're just ignoring the doorbell."

MARDA GENE DUNCAN'S

Thru My Window

He first appeared in December and happily was soon a regular. Mother Nature's Christmas present was greatly appreciated—we love flickers! This, of course, is not the first time we have had one with any degree of regularity. This boy is Johnny-on-the-spot almost each and every morning.

Can you imagine a nicer way to start a busy, often hectic, day—I can't. And really, perhaps it was just the season, but his bright red back-of-the-head spot looked quite in keeping, very festive.

He usually sailed in just as we were finishing our toast and cheese breakfast; until we convinced ourselves that he was becoming a regular, it was quite a surprise to look out and see the big boy.

Soon we started looking for him but I must admit that even today his visits are as thrilling and exciting as was his first.

OH, YES, he is still coming for breakfast—we are hoping he is one of those 'gifts' which continue to give pleasure long after the holidays are over.

I rather think he will too—that is, as long as we provide him with good eating, I believe he will provide us with good looking.

His wants are relatively easy to fulfill so, believe me, we are trying to always have the breakfast table set.

While we are inside enjoying a warm tasty meal, our breakfast companion seems just as happy with his big chunk of suet.

I am not sure he always enjoys the weather outside though, on cold blustery mornings he is all fluffed out and seems to 'huddle together'.

We can almost see him shiver and hear him mutter bu-rrr. A frozen breakfast doesn't seem to bother him a bit however—he rears back, slams his over-sized bill into the hard suet and gobbles down the small pieces which chip off.

An amazing performance to watch and even more so to hear. As he knocks into the suet it sounds for all the world as if someone were rapping at the front door.

☆

JUST LATELY we have been pleased to notice that the big boy is visiting us for more than just breakfast.

He will make four or five trips to the feeder a day—how wonderful!

Not only does he come more often but he stays longer. Always before he has been rather shy and flighty, the least movement inside or another bird approaching the feeder was enough to send him into a hasty retreat.

Now he tolerates a little walking in my room but what is truly fun is to see his reaction to other birds.

He likes to eat alone, to have the whole feeder to himself.

Any intruders are quickly given to understand that they are not welcome; with bill menacingly open he lunges toward the other birds and who can blame them for leaving!

Everything from sparrows to bluejays receives this unfriendly treatment.

We keep referring to our Christmas visitor as 'he' mainly because flickers seem like masculine type birds.

Actually, I believe in this case we are technically correct—he has the black check patches or mustaches which the women folk of the family lack.

So it is that once again Mother Nature did well by us. We will keep suet available and hope the flicker stays on—it's fun having him as a breakfast companion!

$100,000 Allocated for Project

A new federal program which allows the conversion of agricultural lands to recreational uses is drawing the attention of Michigan farmers.

Michigan has been allocated $100,000 for pilot projects under this plan, which allows farmers to set aside some of their less-productive acres to be developed as public recreation areas.

The farmer still retains ownership, reported Fred E. Carroll, state executive director of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

He told an ASC workshop at Michigan State University that the program has terrific potential in providing new recreational areas for our growing population, in reducing crop acres to help cut surpluses and in helping farmers to increase their small incomes.

Full details are available at the ASC office in Adrian.

Air Mail May Be Answer

Few things in life are cheaper in this day and age than they were 45 years ago — but air mail still is Postmaster Jack Metcalf says.

When the air mail rate went up a penny to 8c an ounce this week, this service to the American people was in its 45th year, he noted.

On May 15, 1918, when air mail was first officially introduced in America, 6,600 letters were flown from Washington to New York City about 200 miles at a cost of 24c an ounce, which included a 10c special delivery fee.

Today, Postmaster Metcalf said, more than 1.5 billion letters and post cards are sent by air mail annually within the United States.

At Christmas time, air mail can be particularly important, Mr. Metcalf noted. Late cards can be sent by air mail.

Sending parcels by air weighing more than one pound is often cheaper than using first class postage. Air mail and air parcel post receives top priority on all scheduled airlines, which total more than 10,000 flights daily throughout the nation.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

If you're a race car buff, the name Duane Carter means something to you.

For those who don't recognize the handle, Mr. Carter is one of the top drivers in this country.

He was in town last week and made quite an impression on an audience of Tecumseh High School students, to whom he talked at an assembly on safe driving.

Duane is a distinguished looking chap, in his mid-40's, a natty dresser, with a touch of gray hair at his temples. He speaks as articulately as he drives — and that's plenty talented.

Employed by Champion Spark Plug — they're dependable — he presents highway safety program to thousands of students throughout the year.

But not during May.

That's when things get buzzing around Indianapolis Speedway and Duane slips out of his conservative business suit and into the coveralls of a driver.

Duane has driven in 10 Memorial Day 500's at the old Brickyard, finished in five.

He ran third once, fourth and tenth, out of an annual field of 33. He's a member of the exclusive 100 Mile Per Hour Club and the lone qualification is quite simple: average 100 for one entire 500 Miles Race.

Ninety-eight men have been able to crack the elite circle.

In chatting about the big event, Duane said that the three pit stops the giant racers make during a 500 are the deciding factors these days with vehicles and drivers so closely matched.

If a car's five-man crew can gas up their racer and change the tires in 20 to 25 seconds, the team has a good chance of seeing its entry fanned with the checkered flag. Take a minute or so and you're in trouble.

For some reason, tires on the giant speedsters have always been a fascination for me. Does Firestone give all the cars the rubber? Are there many blowouts? When does the crew determine it's time for a change.

Duane gave me the answers.

Firestone is the only manufacturer of tires for this big racing and they each sell for about $60. That's why only Firestones are run and each year the firm can offer those nice double-page ads showing the lineup of winners and noting they all came home on Firestones.

Only one blowout has marred a 500 since World War II, Duane noted.

The driver himself is responsible for checking the tires, Duane pointed out. He can see all four wheels and after about 38 laps he starts to glance nervously at them.

When they start getting shiney, he knows they are nearing the end of their wear. They next turn dull, fuzzy black and finally a narrow ribbon of white shows. This is fabric.

As the strip widens, he knows he must make a pit stop within three laps.

If a driver is too engrossed

Bank Stock Earns $10.08 Per Share

Shareholders of United Savings Bank stock reviewed the past year Tuesday afternoon at the institution's annual meeting.

These are some of the things they noted:

► Net earnings after taxes reached $250,833, a jump of $43,667 over 1960.

► A $10.03 net earning on each share of stock, as compared to last year's $8.64.

► Surplus was increased by $125,000 in 1962, as compared to $75,000 in 1961 and $50,000 in 1960.

► $228,826 interest paid on savings accounts and certificates of deposit, a jump of $42,000 over 1961, partially reflected in a 3½% rate of interest over the past 3%.

☆

DIVIDENDS — declared over the past 10 years were listed:

Year	Dividends
1953	$18,000
1954	$19,000
1955	$20,500
1956	$32,000
1957	$35,750
1958	$39,500
1959	$39,500
1960	$39,500
1961	$76,000
1962	$100,000

Last year's dividend payment was $4 per share, totaling 40% of the bank's earnings during the 12-month period. The balance went into surplus.

Resources of the local bank now total $20 million. Director Robert Moore expressed confidence in the future and said he felt this figure could go to $25 million.

☆

SHAREHOLDERS paid tribute to John R. Thompson, who resigned as board chairman and director. They adopted a resolution that Mr. Thompson "be commended for his 30 years loyal service to our bank and that the record shows the heartfelt gratitude of the shareholders to him for his conservative and intelligent management, which has resulted in the building of such a highly-solvent and substantial institution."

Mr. Thompson's banking career has covered a 55-year period, beginning in Fremont, continuing at Reed City and Coldwater before his arrival in Tecumseh in 1933.

President Pat Meadows complimented Mr. Thompson for "the fine job he has done in creating a strong and liquid bank over the years."

☆

PRESIDENT Pat Meadows said he was "extremely optimistic about the future." With Faraday and Tecumseh Corrugated going into operation here the local economy should move forward at a rapid rate, he said. "1963 should be a banner year for your bank," he told the nearly 75 shareholders attending the gathering.

A resolution was proposed that "no bank officer shall continue with the bank after age 65, other than as a director." The motion was approved without a decenting vote.

Robert H. Moore was elected chairman of the board by its members following the election of directors by shareholders.

The full slate of boardmen, with the exception of the resigned Mr. Thompson, were reelected.

The board named Mrs. Curtis Wright assistant cashier.

John R. Thompson Gives His Reasons

Following 30 years of service — from cashier to chairman of the board — John R. Thompson has resigned as an officer of the United Savings Bank.

Mr. Thompson gave the following statement to The Herald, outlining in full the reasons for his action.

At the last regular meeting of the board of directors of your bank held January 9, 1963, I submitted my resignation as chairman of the board and as a director. This resignation was accepted.

Certain members of the board insisted that my reasons for so doing should be given to you.

First let me say that I have loved Tecumseh, its people and the bank. I am proud of the record. When I came to Tecumseh in April, 1933, the village was flat on its back.

The long depression had broken many people including myself. It was a privilege and a pleasure to work earnestly to make something out of a mess. We had a good board of directors, honest and capable with clear vision.

For five years they worked without compensation. During those years, all earnings were given to the former depositors.

People generally were bitter toward banks and bankers. Few wanted bank stock in Tecumseh or any other place. Nevertheless they were wonderful and cooperative.

☆

WE DETERMINED to build here a sound, conservative, prosperous institution which would merit the confidence of its depositors. We were more successful than we had dared to hope.

We had demonstrated that it was possible to operate a sound, helpful, careful institution with exceptionally good earning power.

The events that have led to my determination to totally sever my association with the bank have been several, most of which I will omit.

I have been liberally criticis-

$64,261 Donated to Drive

Final tabulation of the annual Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation drive shows total contributions of $64,261.42—more than $14,000 over the $50,000 goal set last fall.

Ken Conway, manager of the Tecumseh office of General Telephone Co. and drive chairman, reports that charity obligation topping $32,000, are being met.

Among the payroll-deduction industrial pledges are $7,222.05 earmarked for drives in other communities. This will go to towns and cities where the Tecumseh-employed people reside.

BREAKDOWN of the contributions:

Industry—$42,327.30
Residential—$3,257.62
Municipal—$437.50
Commercial—$2,983.50
Special Donations—$14,000

The local community has always topped its goal and usually by a wide margin.

Mr. Conway, this year, gives credit for its success to the division drive chairmen, their workers and Mrs. Paul Craft, his secretary at General Telephone, who helped organize and coordinate the campaigns.

Allan Seager Named to Foundation Board

Allan Seager was elected to the board of the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation at its January meeting.

The board appointed Douglas Dunn to replace John R. Thompson, who resigned.

Mrs. Barnard Fero and Robert French were both re-elected for three-year terms.

In the election of officers, Vern Manwaring was again named president.

Others re-elected:
Vice-president—Mr. French
Secretary—Mrs. Fero
Treasurer—Merlin Downing.

The annual financial statement of the Foundation showed that $162,363 had been already paid on the $212,363 library project, with another $25,000 earmarked for reduction of the $50,000 mortgage on the property to be paid this year.

This will leave approximately $25,000 owed on the building.

Square Dancing Party Planned

The Shawnee Squares will have a family night Jan. 26 to introduce their children and friends to western style square dancing.

A special invitation is going to members of a beginning square dancing class currently meeting.

The family night will begin at 8 in the Community Center.

Tickets Sold for Circus

Tecumseh service clubs and fraternal organizations are beginning to sell tickets for the May 9 presentation here of the Mills Bros. Circus.

Profits will be used to set up a kitchen in the Community Center.

Since the local sponsors will receive up to 50% of the proceeds from advance ticket sales, the groups are urging early purchase.

Also, advance tickets are lower priced than those sold at the door.

You Told Us

"What, not yours!"

Margaret Bolden was surprised when she arrived home from an afternoon of skating at Globe Pond with shoes that she was certain must be her brothers since he frequently "leaves 'em some place."

What to do about the shoes? Why, what else? Mrs. John Bolden looked in The Herald classified ads.

Sure enough there it was. "Lost—boy's high top shoes." Thus it is, that Bernard Riordan has his shoes again.

It's so easy when you are 10-years-old and shivering cold to just climb skates and all into a neighbor's warm car and ride home, never giving shoes a thought. Dad placed them carefully on a stump.

Happily the story ends with one family grateful for the honesty and kindness of another and—and positive proof that the classified page does a remarkable service for the community in many respects.

"No school district of the state will be apportioned any school money until the month of July. This apportionment was supposed to have been in November. This means that the district will be obliged to borrow money to meet expenses until that time?"

Sound familiar? This is the sad tale being told these days in every school district in Michigan. But the above comes from an issue of The Tecumseh Herald published Oct. 27, 1911.

In case you have difficulty in telling what those zooty deals in Underwood Chevrolet-Pontiac ad are, let us explain. ed for taking the "cream" of the loans, for maintaining too liquid an institution and for not taking high real estate loans.

Not withstanding all these criticisms, we have spent much time with young as well as with older people in trying to help them with their tangled affairs with little or no charge. Yet we feel we have been well rewarded for these services. You would have little difficulty in locating many who have been so helped.

☆

A MAJOR contributing factor for my decision was the much-publicized Tecumseh Area Development Association's application for the bank to participate in a proposed $450,000 loan with the Small Business Administration for the erection of a building to be leased to Faraday, Inc.

This application was submitted twice to our discount committee and once at a special meeting at which several of our directors were present.

At none of these meetings was the application approved.

The attack on the bank for its "ultra conservative" policies by our local newspaper and the simultaneous solicitation of proxies in order to elect certain shareholders to board membership was started just before the Jan. 1962 annual stockholders' meeting.

In this campaign it was alleged or inferred that John Thompson would be responsible if the Faraday plant was lost to Tecumseh.

☆

PRESSURES were brought to bear, which, although we had sufficient votes to control the shareholders' meeting, caused us to yield in order to avoid what we considered might do irreparable injury to the bank.

The new board convened immediately and approved a participation in the Small Business Administration loan with certain reservations.

We attempted to carry out the instructions of the board, but when the application was finally presented for our signature it did not conform to the authority granted and upon the advice of legal counsel we refused to participate.

At the October meeting of the board heavy pressure was again applied so that we were constrained to sell the major portion of our stock at a price which we considered below its true value. The actions at this meeting crystalized my decision.

While this has been my last day (Jan. 15) at the bank, it is my intention to continue in some form of business. That has been my life.

To those of you who have shown me many acts of kindness and consideration, I am deeply grateful and shall always remember you as my friends. Please do not think of me as retired because I am not.

Yours truly,
John R. Thompson

When the vehicle comes in low on the north turn, the crew knows their man is coming in for a stop and they have 12 seconds before he arrives.

As the sleek racer whooshes in, all hell breaks loose. The five crewmen leap the retaining wall.

Hydraulic lines are attached to the car. These activate jacks built right in the car, which lift it off the track.

A large gas nozzle is jammed into the fuel tank. It opperates under pressure and forces gasoline into the tank at the rate of about two and one-half gallons a second.

Judith Kempf Becomes Bride

MRS. DEAN RONALD PILBEAM

Judith Ann Kempf became the bride of Dean Ronald Pilbeam Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. Julian Gresham in the First Presbyterian Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kempf of 500 W. Kilbuck St. and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Pilbeam of 10333 Pennington Rd.

The glow of many candles from cathedral candelabra interspersed with natural palms softened the setting.

Altar vases held arrangements of white blossoms with emerald foliage, and chrysanthemums and pompons faced seven-branch candelabra on either side of the prie dieu.

Mrs. Fred Oberlin presented nuptial music at the organ and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwartz, soloists.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reed were hosts for 350 guests seated by Dick Kahle, Don Maves and Larry Kanous.

☆

THE BRIDE approached the altar in a white floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. It was styled with fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a scalloped neckline re-embroidered with iridescent sequins.

The bouffant skirt featured a peplum of lace extending to points at the side. Tulle ruffles were accented with appliques of lace sequins on the front and rows of lace extended to the floor at the back of the skirt.

The bride wore a pearl necklace, gift from the groom, and her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a cluster of pearl flowers.

Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Snow Song roses and ivy.

☆

MRS. THOMAS Hamilton was matron of honor, wearing a gown of royal blue brocade taffeta designed with fitted bodice, rounded neckline and cap sleeves. The bouffant skirt featured two pert bows at the waist.

A circular veil of illusion was attached to a matching royal blue poinsettia. She carried yellow carnations centered with yellow roses and edged with dracena foliage.

Bonnie Kempf was her sister's bridesmaid in a gown identical to that worn by Mrs Hamilton. She carried a similar arrangement of carnations centered with golden Tropicana roses.

Both wore pearl necklaces which were gifts from the bride.

Thomas Hamilton served as best man.

☆

YELLOW taffeta over-flounced with white net covered the cake table for the reception held at the Products Workers Union Hall.

Crystal canlelabra with white candles and tied with yellow ribbons centered the serving tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Osterhout, Mr. and Mrs. William Marker and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Monagin were the hosts.

Others assisting were Mrs. Elwood Baugh, Mrs. Herman Steuwe Jr., Mrs. Margaret Maschino, Mrs. Donald Benham, Mrs. Kenenth Bortel, Mrs. Arlis Spivey, Mrs. Kay Michaels, Vicki Johnston and Mrs. Harold Rhora.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

No Easy Task

A lady went to confession, so the story goes, to tell the priest she had started a false rumor about her neighbor.

She said she was truly sorry and would do everything in her power to erase the wrong she had done.

The priest told her to take a pillow and walk to the top of a nearby hill, slit the seam and let the feathers out, then in one hour gather them up.

She protested that this would be an impossible task.

"Stamping out the rumor is about as easy," the padre wryly replied.

So it goes with the ugly rumor, passed from person to person, enlarged, twisted, distorted. Human nature is at its worst when a rumor bounds about.

A few such stories have been making the rounds in Tecumseh the past few days—all unfounded. Walk into a store and someone grabs you with "Have you heard?"

The buzz goes over the telephone wires, at the coffee table.

The moral: think as you listen, think a longtime before you repeat what well could be a completely unfounded tidbit. If you feel up to it, ask the teller exactly who his source is? How can he authenticate it? Maybe it would be nice to forget the whole thing?

No. 1 — Plans To Dump Romney

Politics and boxing are similar in a lot of ways.

Planning, preparing, psyching before the battles are almost identical in both fields.

An interesting situation—politically—is shaping up in Michigan. It all comes about as the result of George Romney's recent win in the governor's race.

The Democratic party seems to be concerning itself with Mr. Romney, both on the state and national level. Already, preliminary items are going into the mill to rack up Mr. Romney, both as being reelected governor and as a possible presidential candidate.

Soapy Williams is making noises like he might come home and run for governor in '64. If he could win this race—and you've got to admit he has plenty of pulling power—this would serve his party well in two respects.

1. Return a Democrat to chief executive of this state.

2. Stamp out George Romney as GOP timber in the '68 presidential race.

The whole idea is intriguing. By winning, Soapy could project himself back into the public eye (favorably), and keep his record intact as an unbeatable candidate.

But, danger lurks, too.

If Mr. Williams lost to Mr. Romney, it would spring the present Michigan governor into real contention for a presidential bid and wipe Soapy off the face of the political map.

Like the prize-fight manager, the political big-wig must carefully select opponents for his "boy." By over-matching him, the candidate's career could come shattering down.

It will be interesting to watch this situation develop.

No. 2 — And More Plans

Following the line of thought brought out in the above editorial, we have another aspect. This is in the coming vote to consider a new constitution for Michigan.

It's not the sole issue at stake.

Running through the background is this thought: George Romney wants the new constitution, in fact he helped write it.

If voters favor its adoption, Mr. Romney will have a bright, new feather to slip into his hat. The Democrats, who oppose the plan, will earn a black eye.

Thus, the lines of battle are drawn—Republicans for and Democrats against.

This vote will also have its effect on George Romney's rating as a national political figure. So again we have an important issue, with more at stake than just a constitution.

In future weeks we'll discuss the merits of the document.

For the present, the tack of its opponents seem clear to us, after having heard a leader of the "con" group speak in Detroit last week.

This fellow said the proposed constitution has more than 400 errors, many which won't pan out legally.

He doesn't like the way the number of state agencies would be cut from more than 100 to just 20, that judges would be elected instead of appointed, that the legislature was not apportioned on a straight population basis.

But it seemed to us, in the main, he was climbing on a hand-full of commas, semi-colons and dashes.

He never did mention that there could be a possible savings of millions with a new constitution.

Interest Raising in Raisin

Few Tecumsehites are more enthusiastic about "Raising the Raisin" than Earl Baldwin and Councilman Royal Welch.

Their enthusiasm is contagious. They are speaking to area service clubs, civic and social groups. The audience response has been tremendous.

Talks in recent weeks to the Lenawee Conservation League and the Sportsmen's Club of Blissfield brought a raft of letters from these clubs to various county, state and local government officials.

The letters all urge support of a survey to implement planning for a series of dams across the River Raisin, forming a chain of lakes along its route in Lenawee and Monroe Counties.

This would lead to development of recreational, residential and agricultural lands. It also would assure plentiful water supplies for communities and industry.

A target date of 1965 has been set for clearing and flooding 1,000 acres of land lying between M-50 and Sutton Rd. The four miles of lake frontage envisioned would cost about $750,000 to complete.

If it qualified for a government grant, federal funds could pay a large share of the cost.

The original plan was developed by Ronald Pocklington. If the support developed by Earl Baldwin and Royal is followed through the Tecumseh area may find itself the center of a brand-new growth.

Keep up the good work.

Over the Top — Again

Once again the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation drive has gone over the top. This time, by more than $14,000.

Credit goes to many people, starting with the drive chairman Ken Conway and his assistant, Mrs. Paul Craft, along with the many volunteer workers.

But most of all, plaudits go to the folks who dug down and make contributions to the campaign—whether $1 or $500. Every gift counted and always will.

Tecumseh can be extremely proud of its Foundation and the enormous contributions the unique organization has made to this community.

Dimes March Plans Made for Jan. 30

This is the anniversary of Franklin Roosevelt's birthdate.

Marchers will meet at 6:30 p.m., and the march will be from 7 to 8.

Taking part will be the VFW Post and Auxiliary, American Legion Post and Auxiliary, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Jayettes, and Kiwanis Club.

Last year's march, undertaken in icy weather, ended with several broken jars and cuts from falls.

Mrs. Warren E. Benham broke her left arm between the shoulder and elbow while ice skating at Evans Lake last Sunday.

Joyce Brown, Richard Moore Speak Vows

Joyce Marie Brown became the bride of Airman Richard Elwin Moore Jan. 12 in candlelight services performed by the Rev. Walter Damberg in the Macon Methodist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ford Brown of Shaw Hwy., Britton, and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton F. Moore Jr. of Ridge Hwy.

Palms and candelabra were used to enhance the church for the occasion.

Mrs. Carl Thomas presided at the organ and accompanied Charles Bigelow, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a floor-length dress of white Chantilly lace and tulle fashioned with fitted bodice, tapering sleeves and a Sabrina neckline trimmed with sequins.

The bouffant skirt featured a lace peplum with tulle ruffles edged in lace.

☆

HER FINGERTIP veil of silk illusion was secured to a crown of net, pearls and sequins.

She wore pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the groom.

White carnations centered with white rosebuds topped a white Bible which was the gift of Gary Brown, the bride's brother, who is stationed with the army in Germany.

Livestock Sessions Scheduled During State Farmers' Week

New feeding, marketing and management ideas for producing the quality of meat demanded by the consumer will be emphasized in this year's Farmers' Week livestock programs, Jan. 28-Feb. 1.

Animal husbandry specialists at Michigan State University have planned programs to aid livestock farmers in producing both higher quality and cheaper meat for the family table. Livestock producers tend to succeed or fail in direct proportion to their ability of applying scientific facts and business principles to their operations, according to Graydon Blank, MSU animal husbandry specialist.

Michigan livestock production adds up to 19 per cent of agricultural cash receipts, anually putting more than $250 million in the pockets of the state's livestock producers. More than 350,000 hogs, 674,000 cattle and 102,000 lambs go to market from Michigan farms each year.

Disease prevention will hold the center of attention for sheep producers. Michigan's sheep scab eradication program will be explained by Dr. W. S. Britton of the Michigan Department of Agriculture at a Tuesday afternoon meeting. USDA officials recently proposed adding 49 southern Michigan counties to the list of areas already taking part in campaigns to eradicate the costly sheep disease.

Sheep producers will also hear about the prevention and treatment of foot rot, using improved pastures and ways of reducing labor requirements on the modern sheep farm.

Hog producers will listen to recent advances in artificial insemination of swine at their Tuesday afternoon program.

Swine and beef cattle breed associations will hold their annual meetings Tuesday morning. Beef cattle enrolled in the MSU feeding project will be judged Tuesday afternoon. Richard C. Wahlstrom of South Dakota State College will judge the beef cattle and will also place the market hog classes Wednesday morning.

Tuesday programs will close with the annual livestock banquet. Dr. Larry Witt of MSU's agricultural economics department will discuss, "The Significance of the European Common Market on Livestock Producers."

Members of the Michigan Cattle Feeder's Assn. will take a close look at the feeder calf in their Wednesday sessions. The value of progeny and performance testing to the breeder or the feeder will be explained by W. T. Magee, MSU cattle researcher. Selection of superior feeder cattle, changing patterns in the feeder calf business and cattle supply and demand will also be discussed.

Michigan Lamb Feeders will hold their annual meeting Thursday afternoon. L. H. Blakeslee, MSU sheep researcher, will analyze lamb feeding research. Lamb marketing prospects and control of overeating disease in lambs will also be reported.

The auction sale of market animals enrolled in the beef and swine feeding projects is set for 3 p.m. Thursday. Michigan Sheep Breeder's will hold their 28th annual bred ewe sale Friday noon.

Various ideas and equipment used by Michigan cattle feeders will be on display at the Stadium throughout the week.

Hospital Auxiliary Plans Party Night

With a long-awaited landscaping project and other improvements on the agenda, Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary has planned its annual evening of benefit parties for Jan. 30.

Many persons throughout this part of the county will open their homes that night for individual events which will contribute to this money-raising project of the auxiliary.

Dentists, lawyers, veterinarians, optometrists, physicians and other professional men in the area will contribute prizes for the evening. The prizes will be on display next week in the window of Larry's Grill.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the area chairmen or co-chairmen for one dollar. Tickets for card parties will be $1.25, with 25 cents to be used at the parties for table prizes.

Prizes will be awarded at 9 p.m. Jan. 30, and winners notified immediately. Prizes will be delivered as soon as possible.

► Use 25 cents of each ticket for table prizes or high and low prizes.

► Return $1 of each ticket sold after party to area chairman.

► Limit refreshments to cake and coffee.

► Have parties afternoon or evening. Keep a record of all names and numbers of ticket holders from parties before Wed. Jan. 30.

Jaycees Report: Constitution

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce will prepare a series of articles for publication in The Herald to acquaint readers with provisions of the proposed Michigan Constitution. This is the first of the series.

In September, 1962 the Tecumseh Jaycees took the stand on the proposed constitution that "even though we feel this is not a perfect document, it is a much-needed improvement over our present constitution."

During the next 12 weeks we will try to bring you the main points of the proposed constitution to help you better understand what you will be voting for April 1.

These are the main provisions of legislative organization in the new constitution.

► The plan assures fair representation for the diverse citizen interests which make up our state-shifting with the times, and yet not condemning any major group or section of our state to political imprisonment.

► The plan strikes a balance between the insistence on the part of some that representation be based exclusively on population, and the view that diverse geographic and economic interests must also receive consideration in the apportionment of one house of the legislature.

☆

THE APPORTIONMENT sections of the new constitution are valid, fair and workable and will continue to be so for the indefinite future. Built-in provision for redistricting after each decennial census if population shifts merit it, is a great improvement over a system dependent upon legislative action.

The house will be about as close to districting on a straight population basis as can be attained adhering to county lines. No legislative body in any of the 50 states will be nearer to districting on a straight population basis.

The senate will be based on a formula giving 80% to population and 20% to land area. This will assure reasonable representation to the sparsely settled northern sections of the state.

An answer to those who insist that the senate, too, should be apportioned on a straight population basis, it should be pointed out that even with the built-in 20% emphasis on land area, the Michigan Senate would be in the top one-fourth of all of the state senates if the only measure were a comparison of representation on a population basis.

☆

THE MAJORITY of the members of the committee on legislative organization, after months of study and careful work, were proud to recommend to the convention the sections which were overwhelmingly approved, and are included in the new constitution.

They recommend without reservation that the voters of Michigan approve what they consider to be excellent provisions for legislative apportionment: fair, valid and equitable to all citizens in all areas of the state.

If you have not voted in the last four years, you must register prior to March 4.

If you have been a resident of Michigan for six months and a resident of Tecumseh for 30 days, you may register at the City Hall prior to that date.

Chamber Election Delayed

Inability to obtain membership dues check has delayed election of a new Chamber of Commerce board and proposed projects for 1963.

At a meeting Tuesday night, the Chamber decided to draw up a slate of candidates from a membership as of Feb. 1, and then hold the election in February.

Many prospective members have not been contacted. Whether contacts have been made or not, those interested are asked to mail in their dues of $15, % of the Chamber of Commerce.

Directors no longer on the board and to be replaced are Bill Powell, Roy Welch and Jim Lincoln.

School Board Looks Over Salaries

By JIM LINCOLN

A review of salaries—teachers, administrators, secretaries, maintenance, custodial and bus drivers—was held Monday night by the Tecumseh School Board.

No action was taken.

Indications were that an informal meeting would be held soon if any action is to be taken. Contracts are usually sent out to teachers in February.

Last change in salaries occurred in 1958 when the schools added two weeks to the school year and teachers were given $300 each for working the longer term.

Each year now, teachers receive a $120 increment.

☆

IN OTHER action, Supt. James McDowell conducted a pre-budget discussion, including cost of education per pupil, deletions of school services, possible use of the old library for administration, busses and transportation of students.

It was indicated, although no action taken, to put on the June ballot a request to eliminate bussing of students within the city limits.

A request from residents living in the DeLeon Dr. and Pocklington Rd. area for better bus service, involving three or four or more bus stops, was turned down.

Board members told the group that the school adopted a money-saving policy last year to have group pick-ups.

The group also was told that the state would deduct money from its aid to the local schools if a bus picked up pupils along DeLeon Dr. and then backtracked to Pocklington Rd.

Reason given was that the distance one-way was less than one-half mile.

☆

THE BOARD also:

► Agreed to make improvements to the driveway and installation of a new sidewalk at the Ridgeway School.

► Offered to the city, an easement amounting to 10 feet along the north property, next to Evans Creek, for the city's proposed interceptor sewer.

► Reviewed high cost of heating and lighting the new library and approved action to keep these costs at a minimum.

New Firm Adds 2 More Key People

The appointment of two additional key men in the new Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. was announced Monday by Fred Attwood, president and general manager.

Both men are substantial stockholders in the original incorporation and complete the management group.

Theodore P. Pilat, 36, was appointed superintendent. He has been employed in the manufacturing department of the Monroe plant of Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. for 16 years and resigned from the position of superintendent to join the group. He is married and the father of five boys.

Al A. Krol, 40, will be the new office manager. For 16 years he has been in sales and customer service work for Union Bag Camp and its predecessor company, River Raisin Paper Co., and for the past five years he was manager of customer service at the Monroe plant. Mr. Krol is married and also has five boys.

The new Tecumseh industry will be in production on a limited basis within weeks, expanding gradually until full capacity is reached toward the end of this year.

Products will include shipping containers and corrugated specialties.

Although the containers will be formed and imprinted here, none of the raw materials will be manufactured at Tecumseh.

The plant will be located in the former Quaker Oats factory on S. Evans St.

The owners and top management officials, including the president, all are former top men with the Union Bag-Camp Paper Co. Monroe plant.

Father of Two Seriously Hurt in Sliding Mishap

A second serious area toboggan accident in three weeks occurred Sunday at Tecumseh Country Club.

Richard Rudd, 23, of Tipton suffered a compression fracture of the back and is in Herrick Memorial Hospital.

His condition is fair.

He will be placed in a body cast sometime this week and will remain in it for six to eight months.

An employee of the Tecumseh Kroger Store, he is married and the father of two children.

☆

THE MISHAP took place on the sharp slope of the club's seventh fairway when Mr. Rudd was tobogganing with one brother, Don, 16 and Bob Brown, 14.

Another brother, Tom, 25, was skiing nearby.

The toboggan was demolished when it crashed into the ground off a steep drop and all three occupants were knocked unconscious.

Don and Bob quickly revived, but the seriously injured Dick was given artificial respiration by Tom.

Dick's mother, Mrs. Paul Rudd, said that Dick was able to move his arms and feet Tuesday and was under sedation.

Three weeks ago another youth, 16-year-old Charles Saling fractured his left thigh bone in a similar mishap.

61 Witness Technique

Sixty-one physicians and nurses of Lenawee County attended a dramatic demonstration of closed-chest cardiac resuscitation at Herrick Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening.

The dog's heart beat was restored and breathing renewed.

The program is designed to prepare hospital personnel to care for patients when they are brought to the emergency room after having been revived by mouth-to-mouth or the closed chest resuscitation methods.

Bertha LaPointe gave a talk entitled, "Children's Books and The Love of Learning." A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Al Merz and Mrs. James Quigley furnished marshmallow snowmen favors.

A family night with potluck supper will be held Feb. 11 at the Presbyterian Church.

GAA Has Easy Wins

Tecumseh's Girls Athletic Assn. had an easy warmup Monday for their toughest opponent of the year, Hudson.

Easy wins over Dundee in the first games of the season worked out Tecumseh team plays for the Hudson meetings Thursday, Jan. 24.

Lambs, Pony Die as Fire Guts Barn

A Shetland pony, 38 new-born lambs and an undetermined number of ewes died in a fire Monday afternoon on the Harlan Johnston farm, on Robbins Rd. north and west of Tecumseh.

A barn and granary were destroyed as well as an undetermined amount of grain and a feed grinder.

The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Ray Jackson of Tipton, a Tecumseh school bus driver, saw the smoke at 3:25 p.m. and notified Mrs. Johnston.

The Tecumseh Fire Department responded and called Adrian for assistance, but the fire had too much headway.

Mr. Jackson and Mrs. Johnston were able to save several ewes and some steers before the flames became too intense.

The fire may have started from three heat lamps placed in the area where the lambs were located.

According to Sheriff's officers this was where the fire started.

The Gerald Miller barn on Smith Hwy. was damaged slightly as the roof caught fire

Tecumseh firemen answered the call Tuesday at 10:12 a.m. A small hole was burned in the roof over a workshop.

It is believed that the fire started from an overheated furnace pipe.

The farm is owned by Kitty Kurtis Inc.

A combination of icy snow and an attempt to stop a downhill run ended in a fall which broke the small bone in Mrs. Cook's leg near the ankle.

"If I had to break one, I guess this was the one to break," she commented. "It heals quickly." She will be wearing the cast about six weeks.

She is able to get around on a walking cast to care for her six children, but is under doctor's orders to back off from her customary busy schedule.

The doctor who gave the orders? Dr. Carlton Cook.

Indians Hold Top Spot on League Totem Pole

Two upsets and a Tecumseh victory Friday night combined to give the Indians sole possession of first place in the Huron League.

Coach Doug Murdoch's five easily trimmed Ypsilanti-Lincoln, 68-52, while Blissfield was upsetting Dundee, 75-59, and Grosse Ile upset Flat Rock, 78-77.

Until Friday night's games were played, the Indians shared the loop's leadership with Flat Rock and Dundee.

Tecumseh, on the road for the past few weeks, tangles with Grossee Ile here Friday night. The visitors are 5-2 for the season and 4-2 in the league.

The local five practically ran the Railsplitters off the floor in the first half, running up a 39-22 lead, before coasting in the final two quarters.

Norm Tucker and Jerry Hebb each scored 17 points, while Jack Dick netted 15. Tim Sisson tallied 12 points as four Indians scored in the double-figure column.

In practically every game this season, the Indians have looked like championship timber only to slip, sometimes badly, in the second half. Ypsi managed to close up the scoring by only one point. in the final two quarters.

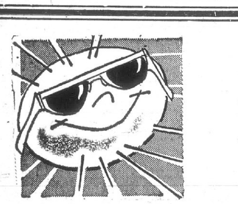

Coach Jim Hoffman's reserves also won handily, defeating the Ypsi Jayvees, 60-48.

First Half of Season Perfect for Britton

The Britton Tories ended the first half of the season with a tough win over a strong Sand Creek five, 66-48 at Sand Creek.

The Tories have now won 35 of their last 38 games, going back to the last half of the 60-61 season.

The Aggies' hot shooting and press defense kept them in the game for the first half. The teams left the floor at half-time with the Tories 6 points out front, 31-25.

The Tories rolled the second half, with Phil Benedict getting 21 of his 35 points in the final quarters. Ken Southwell scored 14 points and Tom Komon and Ron Mastie did a good job on defense to hold down the big Aggies' scorers.

This gives the Tories their 7th league game win and 8th win overall this season.

Britton will play two games this weekend. Friday the Tories travel to Boysville, and they are at home Saturday with Clinton for Mom's Night.

He had been ill for three years.

He was born in Britton Oct. 4, 1888, the son of Edgar and Hannah Bachman Daykin. He never married.

In Deerfield he was a member of Tracy Lodge No. 167 of the F. & A. M. and Chapter No. 249 of the O.E.S.

One brother, Leonard, preceded him in death in December 1960.

Masonic services were conducted at the funeral home Sunday evening by the Tracy Lodge of Deerfield.

The Rev. Gustav Hannevik officiated at the service Monday with burial in the Ridgeway Cemetery.

JOHN A. JORDAN

John A. Jordan, 69, formerly of 121 S. Ottawa St., died Monday in Foote Hospital, Jackson. He had been ill several years.

Services were planned at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Macomb Funeral Home and burial in Woodland Cemetery, both in Jackson.

Born March 11, 1893, Mr. Jordan lived in Tecumseh about 12 years, leaving here 10 months ago.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Robert Griffin of Tecumseh and another daughter in Jackson, two sons, a brother and seven grandchildren.

LaVERE J. DIBBLE

Services were held Jan. 16 at Proctor Funeral Home in Clinton for LaVere Dibble, 58, who died Monday at his home.

He had been in failing health for two years.

Mr. Dibble was born in Milan township Aug. 22, 1904, the son of John and Nora Zeluff Dibble.

Lulu Gilmore who is recovering from a broken limb at Herrick Hospital is now able to sit up for a while in a chair.

Library Board Accepts Check, Talks of Financial Problems

Tecumseh Library Board welcomed a new member and a check last Wednesday.

The new member, Ted Pihl, was appointed to replace Joseph Galazzi, who submitted his resignation because business trips required his absence from the city.

A check for $900.04, was gratefully accepted from the Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc. The money, from the unsuccessful drive to save the old St. Peter's Episcopal Church, was given to the foundation with the request that it be used for library books of lasting value.

The meeting featured a long and sometimes heated discusison with Architect Carl Marr over the cost of operating the new library. Preliminary estimates of the electrical costs were far below the actual costs, and the library board is feeling the pinch.

Already working on a pared budget, because income fell 10 percent this year, several board members were upset that the new building should be costing about $200 a month for electricity.

☆

MR. MARR explained that about half the electrical bill goes for two large circulating fans in the heating system. A manual control which would allow lowering temperatures substantially when the building isn't in use might save $10 or more a month, he suggested.

However, the control would cost $189, and this money is not available in the budget.

Jack Curtiss commented that the lowering of nighttime temperatures also would save on fuel bills, despite having to bring the temperature back up for daytime use. Mr. Curtiss was asked to attend the meeting as a member of the original library planning committee.

Robert French represented the foundation board.

☆

LIBRARY Board Chairman William Wright commented wryly, 'We're a library board, and we should be concentrating on books. Instead, we have to worry about utilities."

Superintendent of Schools James McDowell agreed, "We'd rather concentrate on the children's education, instead of having to spend so much time on bills, too."

Supt. McDowell and Norval Bovee, school business manager, were invited to the meeting to join in the discussion on finances.

Because the library district is an offshoot of the school system, the school administration takes care of billing and other bookkeeping procedures for the library board. The school officials also draw up a suggested budget for the library, setting it up by past experiences and estimated income.

After the budget already had been set up for this fiscal year, officials learned that state penal fines, which accounted for about half the library income, were to be cut by more than $2,000.

The book fund already has been exhausted, with more than five months remaining of the fiscal year. The library board announced last month that no more books would be purchased until July.

The Kiwanis Club filled part of this gap, in a city-wide collection of used books.

The St. Peter's check was meant for books of reference, with historical and/or religious significance.

Some books of this nature have been sought for many years by the Tecumseh library officials, but were not purchased because of their expense. Some religious works cost over $100.

Church of Nazarene Has Outstanding Year

The Church of the Nazarene, a relatively small denomination that stands for holiness in the Wesleyan tradition, had one of the most outstanding years in its 54-year history in 1962.

The denomination's growing world mission program opened work in Chile and Bermuda, and the first Nazarene church in the Republic of Panama was organized. The Nazarenes now work in 43 countries.

The Rev. Herbert Nation of Ann Arbor has assumed the pastorate of the Tecumseh Nazarene Church.

He and his wife, Imogene, have two sons, Loyal, 16, and Mark, 6.

☆

IN SPEAKING of the local church in connection with the world missionary program of the denomination, the Rev. Nation mentioned the meeting of the Missionary Society every second Wednesday evening of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the church at 807 Sunset Dr.

He said that special offerings were taken at Easter and Thanksgiving time for missions.

Just before Christmas the Junior Missionary Society gave a large basket of cake mixes, gelatin and cookie mixes to the school for retarded children.

☆

CLOTHING and cash were sent to the Rev. and Mrs. Wallace R. Helm of Richmond, Col. bandages to Africa, new quilts to the Missionary cottage at the district center near Howell and used clothing to the Cuban refugees in Florida.

Abroad the Nazarenes organized a new church district in West Germany with five congregations, and dedicated a $100,000 sanctuary at Frankfurt and a church in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Also opened was a $100,000 church at Nazareth, Israel, the first Protestant church to be built in Israel since the nation was re-established in 1948, and a new church at Brasilia, the first Protestant church to be dedicated in the new inland capital of Brazil.

Meanwhile, making these accomplishments possible, the Nazarenes set a denominational record in per capita giving of $147.78. This was an increase of $3.62 a member over 1961, when the denomination ranked first in the nation in per capita giving among all Protestant churches with 100,000 members or more.

Troop 73 Holds Court of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 73 held a court of honor and annual roll call and inspection in the glass room of the Community Center Wednesday, Jan. 16.

The annual winter camp, pioneer style, at Camp Kanesatake will be held the weekend of Jan. 19 and 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haviland of 410 Center, Dr. announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Joan, to Gary F. Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weber of Toledo. Miss Haviland is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and Stautzenberger Business College of Toledo. Her fiance is a graduate of Roger High School at Toledo and Stautzenberger. A May 18 wedding is planned.

EMU Honor Society Names Miss Scott

BRITTON — Caroline Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe O'Neil, has been accepted into The Stoic Society, the oldest honor society at Eastern Michigan University.

Miss Scott is a junior. She is majoring in mathematics and general science and plans to teach high school when she graduates.

Con - Con Report

Council Prepares Digest

An effective tool for study of the proposed new Michigan constitution has been issued by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan and is now available without charge to interested individuals and study groups.

The 40-page publication is titled, "A Digest of the Proposed Constitution," and may be procured by addressing a request to the Citizens Research Council in Detroit (1526 David Stott Building) or Lansing (204 Bauch Building).

The council is a private, nonprofit organization which conducts continuing, factual research into public affairs and governmental problems at the state and local level.

The group never takes stands on ballot issues and never attempts to tell people how to vote. It finds and publicizes unbiased and non-political facts on the basis of which citizens can then make their own decisions on the course of public affairs.

☆

MICHIGAN voters are being asked to accept or reject an entire new state constitution at the April 1 election. The CRC publication answers possible objections to this "package" approach by pointing out that voting on the new constitution as a unit avoids "the likelihood of introducing conflicting or inconsistent provisions through the merger of new and old language."

It points out further that, "Like the present constitution, the provisions of the proposed document can be altered, amended or revised as time goes by."

In addition to discussion of changes proposed in the new constitution, the council publication devotes space to a review of those provisions of the document which retain traditional Michigan practices.

Among such fiscal provisions continued are listed: the 15-mill limit, earmarking of gasoline and weight taxes for highway purposes, the present four-cent limit on sales tax, earmarking of sales tax for schools and local units, state loans to school districts, and restriction of voting on bond issues to property owners and their spouses.

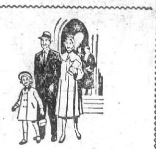

☆

PRESENT political provisions retained without basic change include the initiative, referendum and recall; home rule for cities and villages; traditional forms of local government; and the state's duties and responsibilities in the field of education.

Also continued, says the publication, is "the Michigan principle of a separate, strong, self-financed ,constitutional control of the civil service and merit system for state employees."

The concluding pages of the Digest contain a 100-question quiz which has been prepared as a basis for an intensive study of the contents of the booklet. The council has published 75,000 copies of the digest and reports an unprecedented number of in quiries from citizens throughout the state.

Income Tax Office Wants Your Number

Do you own securities or have a savings account?

If so, you are going to be requested by the organizations paying you dividends or interest to furnish them your federal tax account number, R. I. Nixon, Director of Internal Revenue for Detroit, said today.

For an individual, this is his social security number, or a similar number assigned for tax purposes.

Some corporations and savings institutions already have asked their shareholders or depositors for their numbers, Mr. Nixon said. Others will make such requests in the next few months in order to comply with a new law requiring use of the account numbers of income recipients on information reports to Internal Revenue.

Mr. Nixon emphasized that the law requires the payee to supply his number to the payer when asked for it.

Requests for account numbers should be honored promptly, Mr. Nixon said, in order to facilitate bookkeeping changes by the paying organizations.

Any shareholder or depositor who does not have a social security number should follow the instructions for obtaining an account number included with the request form, Director Nixon said.

The account number also must be shown on income tax returns filed for 1962 and subsequent years.

Chairman Mills Swick of the nominating committee presented a slate of candidates to serve for a three-year period on the Board of Trustees.

The board voted for Mrs. Lee Spohr, Delmar Dunham and Rev. Hannevik.

The next quarterly meeting will be held at the Township Hall Tuesday, April 9 at 8 p.m.

Seniors Plan Tour

BRITTON — Monday and Tuesday representatives from Seniorama Tours and Teen Tours presented their programs for the senior class trip.

The class chose the Seniorama Tour to Washington, D.C. via bus. They will also tour the battlefields of Gettysburg.

The class advisors, Mrs. Dorothy Long and Robert Miller, and the school principal, William Hetrick, will accompany the group to Washington.

The class will decide at a later date when they will be going and what night activities they will be enjoying while in the nation's capital.

LOCAL BUSINESS

As after many a Christmas past, 1962 left many a parent feeling like an unwilling version of Scrooge.

The intentions of such parents were good enough. The disappointments were the result of faulty judgment and the glitter of promises made from far away—the "money saving" bargains which seem to abound in imported advertisements.

Shopping sprees to distant metropolis and via mail order bulletins, every year, leave some Christmas stockings half-filled. And the really critical items are the gifts most likely to be late when a gamble is made on distant shopping.

Even chidren who do not believe in Santa Claus do not like to receive notes which assure them that a longed for present will arrive in the future. Christmas gifts are things to be shown to the neighbors on Christmas morning.

☆

NO REALISTIC MERCHANT blames a buyer for seeking a bargain wherever he can find it. However, it is hard to understand the shopper who leaves town to buy when the trip means added inconvenience, expense and delay.

And nine times out of 10, that is exactly what long-distant shopping means. In these days of standardized prices and full scale distribution of goods in all price ranges, the reaons for leaving the hometown for Christmas shopping are negative.

In some communities, the roving shoppers do have one advantage. The metropolitan stores and mail order companies, through regional publications and catalogs, may do a better job of peddling their wares.

When this happens the local retailer may well blame himself for not making full use of local newspaper space.

Marine Private Daye F. Blouch, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Blouch of 715 River Acres Dr., completed four weeks of individual combat training, Dec. 28, with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at Camp Pendleton, Calif. The training provides newly enlisted marines with a background of experience in the field under combat conditions.

Bad Checks Increasing in Michigan

With no apparent slacking off in Michigan's estimated million dollars a month fraudulent check activity, the State Police in 1962 examined a record high number of the check specimens.

Det. Sgt. Fred C. Kelly, head of the department's check fraud section at East Lansing headquarters says the average amount of the checks was $70.45, compared with $56.69 in 1961.

The State Police receive for examination less than one per cent of the bad checks passed in Michigan each year. Nationwide, the estimated annual loss is about $1 billion.

The State Police check fraud section, set up in 1948, has a name card file of more than 47,000 bad check passers and this is added to at the rate of about 100 a week. It provides direct reference for information needed by the state police and other law enforcement agencies in combatting the problem.

Noting that bad check activity appears to increase with a rising economy, Sgt. Kelly said this is due to carelessness in not knowing the endorser or failing to get proper identification. Because stolen checks play a big part in the fraud problem, he urges that all checking materials and information be kept securely locked up when not in use.

Feight Gets Trade Name for Cattle

The names of all registered Holstein cattle bred by Fred J. Feight of Tecumseh will begin with "Taspat" from now on.

Exclusive use of this prefix name has been granted by the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America. It will become a permanent part of official breed records at the organization's national headquarters in Brattleboro, Vt.

More than 30,000 Holstein dairymen are currently using similarly distinctive prefixes in naming their home-bred cattle.

Since the average Holstein breeder derives 15% of his income from sales of registered breeding stock, the plan, which literally "trademarks" each animal throughout its lifetime, has unique advertising value.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THOSE CRAFTY BLUEJAYS

This isn't the time of year for it, but just lately we have had a regular three-ring circus going on outside our window. Bluejays and squirrels are the main performers, and a feeder well stocked with acorns triggers the action.

When a squirrel discovers such a treasure of delectable eating I wonder how he decides what to do. There must be some inner battle between conscience and appetite. Should he bury and store against a rainy day, or should he live it up today and let tomorrow take care of itself? Well, our squirrels haven't solved the problem very well. They try to do both. The results are often fun to see.

Mother squirrels must teach their children to chew food well, but they certainly forget the chewing-slowly part. At least when one yields to the temptation of eating, those little jaws work unbelieveably fast.

Using his two front feet to hold a nut to his mouth, he twirls and twists it around while biting and tearing off the hard outer shell. When down to the meat he bites pieces off and chews, chews, chews. The back teeth work with a grinding motion. The movement is much too fast to count, but for a few seconds he chews or grinds clockwise, then abruptly stops and starts in the opposite direction.

When they choose to put on this act, while looking right in the window at us, who can help but laugh?

☆

BUT SELDOM does a squirrel wade into a pile of acorns without pausing a minute, once in a while, to bury a few. Perhaps instead of being saving, they are merely resting their jaws.

When they do start burying, it is quite a show. The acorns are small enough so that the squirrel, by making several attempts, stuffs the whole nut into his mouth—what a mouthful! He can't close his mouth, of course, and my, but he does look silly.

When Mother Nature's snowy white blanket covers everything, the squirrels are only half-heartedly frugal or saving. Instead of carrying the acorns all over the neighborhood, they work in the immediate area of the feeder. Nosing a small hole, they drop the nut in and scrape a little of the white, fluffy stuff over the top. A rather slip-shod job, but when the squirrel comes back to the feeder, he is cute—he has a face full of snow.

☆

BLUEJAYS love the acorns, too. One at a time, a big blue will carry them away from the feeder whenever he gets the chance. When a squirrel takes possession first, however, Mr. Jay has trouble getting to the feeder.

When there is snow on the ground he very cleverly gets all the acorns he wants. He sits in the wren-tree, waits for the squirrel to hide an acorn in the snow and then, when the squirrel goes back to the feeder for another, the bluejay drops down and brags the just-buried nut. The squirrel never seems to catch on —he keeps right on burying and the bluejays keeps right on stealing.

So it is that a feederful of acorns can be a real circus when it is patronized by hungry squirrels and those crafty bluejays.

Days Are Longer, Cold Stronger During January

You may have noticed the longer hours of sunshine lately, but don't expect warmer weather yet, advises University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh. The old saying, "As the days lengthen, the cold strengthens," is appropriate during this month. The rate of earth's heating has not yet overtaken its rate of cooling. It will in early February.

Since the winter solstice (Dec. 22, 1962) the days are growing longer until, by the end of January, there will have been about 50 minutes increase over the short days of December, explains the Michigan atronomer.

Two planets are on prominent display during January, Professor osh points out. Mars, reddish and very bright, rises at around 8 p.m. in the eastern sky to shine the whole night through.

Venus may be seen in the morning sky, shining high in the southeastern sky around 7 a.m. and later in the morning.

Bureau Sets Conference on Freedom

Citizenship, Communism and Cuba will be on the agenda when the Michigan Farm Bureau holds its fifth annual Freedom Conference at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, Feb. 7-8.

Speakers at the conference will be Glenn Martz, editor of Washington News Beat, who will sharpen and put into focus, the political issues of 1963, and John McGoof, president of Mid State Broadcasting Co.

Mr. McGoof will ask—and answer—the question, "Have we got what it takes to preserve our freedom?"

Tentatively scheduled for the Freedom Conference Banquet to be held on the evening of Feb. 7 Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain. Congressman Chamberlain is a member of the Armed Services and House Administration Committee.

Rounding out the two-day program will be Cuban businessmen, Manuel Lasada and Antonio Lopez, and their discussion of the events and conditions that led up to the Castro dictatorship.

Members Buy Country Club

By JIM LINCOLN

One of the area's finest assets changed hands last Thursday noon when ownership of the Tecumseh Country Club was acquired by the membership.

Closing of negotiations with Mrs. Edith Smith Keith, owner, climaxed months of arduous work by club officers.

Approval to purchase was given just last month by the membership, at which time officers related details of the purchase agreement and of a generous loan from R. W. Herrick and the Tecumseh Products.

Now that the membership has complete control of the facilities, officials anticipate an increase in the membership and greater use of the facilities. Also, a member will have an actual equity in the club property.

The local club house and golf course are situated in one of the most beautiful settings in southeastern Michigan.

Built in 1949 by the membership and the Products on 160 acres of gentle, rolling land at the northeast edge of Tecumseh, there have been few changes in its appearance.

In 1954, the Products and Tresco became sole owners. In 1956, the late Frank Smith bought the club and expanded facilities.

A large new lounge was added and renovations were made in the kitchen. Both adapted the club house for large dinners, dances and other social events.

☆

SINCE 1957, the membership had leased the club from Mrs. Keith.

Although the present membership is about 250, club officers have instigated a drive in hopes of increasing total membership to 300.

The club — beautiful, brick colonial club house and a sporty nine-hole golf course — has much to offer area residents. Visitors often marvel that Tecumseh boasts such an asset.

Officers and officials present for the closing were Club President Frank Rice, Robert H. Moore, Ed Boss, Paul Hohenstein, Pat Meadows, James Hendley, Bill Hanna and John Gelder, Detroit attorney.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

While most basketball teams have a first five, Sam Hamilton's Britton-Macon squad has a "first six."

Sam's sextet includes seniors Ken Southwell, Fred McCrate and Tom Koman, juniors Ron Mastie, Phil Benedict and Pepper Griewahn.

The group averages about 6'-4", with Big Phil topping the lot at 6'7"—and still growing.

Sam grins when you ask him, "Will you go all the way?" meaning a Class D state championship.

Gray-thatched Sam, a whale of a wonderful guy, has been close before. Last winter, his club just missed the semi-finals by inches. He has practically the same cast back this season—all with an added year's experience.

Sam uses his "first six" interchangably and the system has proved a great boon to notching 10 straight wins so far this season.

This performance to date has projected Britton into the No. 3 state ratings, compiled by Hal Schram of The Free Press.

Friday the Tories entertain Summerfield in Britton in what Sam feels will be a tough game, despite the fact his crew nipped the same club earlier, 65-45.

"But they're much improved," Sam cautions.

The ding-dong clash with Adrian Catholic Central comes Feb. 2 and will be held on the Adrian High School court—the better to pack in many more fans.

This clash should be a lulu—if Britton takes Summerfield and remains undefeated.

"Everybody guns for us this year," Sam muses, knowing full well that the field points for the champion.

Sam has a lot of folks pulling for him to bring home that trophy from East Lansing.

A formal "Opening of the Church" service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday in St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The Rt. Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, suffragan bishop of Michigan, will officiate at this dedication of the new $210,000 building, baptistry, altar and other furnishings. A reception for the bishop will follow the service, and an open house is planned from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. All Sunday's activities are open to the public. The building was designed by Carl B. Marr of Detroit. The altar was designed by the Rev. Dom Francis Bacon of the Episcopal Benedictine Priory at Three Rivers, who is noted for his giant Crucifix at the priory. The dominant feature of the sanctuary is a Last Supper carving by Leo Jungblut of Holland, Mich. An exterior picture of the new church appears on the next page.

School Restores Services

Schedule Back to 9½ Months

The Tecumseh school board Monday night re-activated several school services—amounting to $25,450—and shaved off two weeks of the 10-month school year for 1963-'64.

Although the special board meeting lasted just 15 minutes, a marathon discussion period of over four hours preceded official action.

The services, eliminated about a year ago because of financial difficulties, and now reinstated:

► Return junior high to a full day—$11,000.

► Vocal music instruction in the grades—$11,000.

► Pay salaries for freshmen football and basketball coaches—$750.

► Pay salaries for oration and debate—$400.

☆

A NEW fringe benefit for the teachers, expected to cost $2,300, is one day's absence per school year for personal business.

The day's absence will be subtracted from the teacher's accumulated sick leave.

Officials says restoring the services will enable the board to pay off the approximate $150,000 debt and still leave a balance in a reserve fund for operating expenses.

The shorter school term will be about same as two years ago, when the board first approved a longer school year.

Rubbish Command to Dillon

Herb Dillon, former operator of Tecumseh's trash and garbage collection services, took over management of Acme, Inc., last week.

At Council meeting Monday night, he asked the city to give him time to straighten out the pick-up services, saying the present situation is nearly impossible.

Last week at a special Council meeting, Mr. Dillon requested the city lift its revocation of March 31.

Councilmen told him if satisfactory service were provided between now and then, the suspension would be removed.

Mr. Dillon told officials Monday that all new help had been employed and that collections in the residential area were even made Sunday in efforts to catch up.

He asked, and was granted, permission to make once-a-week pick-ups in the residential area in order to establish service to all residential patrons.

Council placed a time limit for limited service til Feb. 18.

Councilmen praised Mr. Dillon for his efforts and reported that complaints had nearly ceased.

Acme, until Mr. Dillon took over, had been widely criticized for lack of service.

Faraday Reaches Goals

Faraday, Inc., in a preliminary summary on its operations for 1962, credits its move into the new Tecumseh plant as an important factor in assuring attainment of its major goals for the year.

In a progress report to Faraday's nation-wide sales organization, Fred J. Worden, vice president and general manager, assessed the company's results for the year.

He said this was "an especially significant achievement in the face of the abnormal operating situation imposed upon Faraday by the Chapter X reorganization proceedings initiated in behalf of its parent company, Tele-Tronics, on July 27, 1962."

Mr. Worden continued, "Thus, although Faraday is now well into the sixth month of operation under the reorganization, the company reports substantial progress during this period in several major respects."

1. The plant move.

Although the reorganization was initiated on the eve of the move, Faraday proceeded according to plan to move into its brand new building in Tecumseh during the two weeks of the annual shut-down for plant employee vacation.

The company was in full operation here, even including newly-installed plating and painting facilities, by the end of April.

2. Peak volume month.

Faraday shipments during October set a new record for the past several years for volume of business done in a single month on total signals, systems and products for other manufacturers and the government.

. . 3. Expanded product capabilit

3. Expanded product capability.

Also during the reorganization period, Faraday completed contracts for government requirements not previously handled by the company, such as special control mechanisms for the Air Force and the French government and control consoles for a missile installation.

In addition, Faraday is making deliveries of special aural warning devices (including a Faraday-developed, solid-state interruptor) for a major jet aircraft manufacturer.

UNDER THE reorganization of its parent company, Faraday operations have been subject to review by court-appointed trustees and have been directed by five men.

CAL ZORN

Cal Zorn Is Acting Manager

Cal Zorn, city engineer and assessor, assumed the top position of Tecumseh city government Monday night when Council appointed him as acting city manager.

He succeeds Ed Nelson, who resigned as city manager, effective Jan. 19, due to ill health.

Whether Zorn becomes the city manager at a later date or Council advertises for applicants, was not discussed.

At the time Council acted on Mr. Zorn, Mr. Nelson was retained as city consultant until June 31.

He will continue at his present salary and his services will be continuous to meet the requirements of the city's retirement pension plan.

Mr. Zorn has been employed by the city since 1956 and in his position assisted the city manager in most of the city's projects.

License Bureau Must Be Moved

City Council authorized Police Chief Murrel Clark Monday night to notify Mrs. Ethel Hammack that she would be in violation of a zoning ordinance if she moved the Secretary of State office back to her home at 805 W. Chicago Blvd.

Mrs. Hammack, who handles the sales and transfers of license plates, moved her office into the bank building this month. It was considered a temporary move.

Mrs. Melvin Wegner told councilmen that the traffic congestion at 805 W. Chicago prevented patrons for Wegner's Market from parking and hindered truck deliveries of groceries.

She did not sign a complaint, but asked Council to help solve her problem.

Last year at the rush time for new license plates, police and city officials received numerous complaints about parking in the market's parking lot and along the highway.

Police reported that it was a dangerous situation and should be eliminated.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

► Authorized purchase of a certificate of deposit of $3,000 from the parking fund, since there would still be money available after making the $3,500 payment in June to the bonding company.

► Decided against spraying for elm disease this year.

► Authorized acting City Manager Cal Zorn to advertise for a highway supervisor to replace Frank Hoeskstra, who retired at the start of 1963.

► Approved purchase of the "cider mill" lot, on N. Evans St., next to Evans Creek and adjoining Clark's Market.

► Approved resolution for financing the Evans Creek interceptor sewer project, $80,000 from the government and $80,000 to be financed from the sewage disposal plant fund.

Tecumseh Homemaker Announced

Judy Ruttkofsky is Homemaker of Tomorrow for Tecumseh High School in the 1963 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Having achieved the highest score in a knowledge and attitude test given senior girls Dec. 4, she now is eligible, along with winners in other state high schools, for the title of Michigan Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The state winner is awarded a $1,500 scholarship by General Mills, sponsor of the program. The runner-up receives a $500 scholarship. The school of each is awarded a complete set of state Homemaker of Tomorrow Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Basis for selection of local and state winners is a test prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago. Personal observation and interviews are added factors in determining national winners.

The 1963 cotest reached another all-time high in enrollment, with 410,466 girls in 12,964 schools participating.

► Roy B. Olson, treasurer and controller

► Dudley Luce, secretary, who is also president of J. G. White & Co., Inc. (investment brokers) of New York.

► John W. Winn, assistant secretary.

According to Mr. Worden, substantial progress has been made by the trustees in the reorganization proceedings of the parent company, Tele-Tronics.

"This should result in restoring Faraday to a normal operating status, probably during the second quarter of 1963," the general manager concluded.

Stage Is on the Floor

When theatre goers attend the coming Tecumseh Players' production of "Girl Crazy," they'll find themselves in an all-new seating arrangement.

The Players' second effort in the Community Center, the fast-paced musical comedy has brought several problems before the local amateur theatre group.

Of prime concern was the need for a much larger stage area than was needed for last fall's "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

For that one, the stage was arranged at the west end of the Glass Room—with the audience placed out front in the conventional manner.

With "Girl Crazy" there is a cast of 25, often most of them on stage at one time, dancing and singing.

☆

THE SHOW'S director, Bob Tolan, who teaches drama at Adrian College, suggested that instead of a stage, the floor be used and seats arranged on risers in amphitheatre fashion.

A section along the north wall was chosen for the back of the "stage". It runs nearly 28 feet, is almost half the room's length. The area juts out almost 20 feet, giving a total working area twice as large as was used for the last show.

Seating for 204 spectators was arranged on three sides. The top row is a scant 15 feet from the edge of the acting area.

The first two rows of chairs are on the floor, from this point the levels go upward—11 inches off the floor, 16½, 22 and finally 27½ inches.

As in the first Community Center production, all the seats are good to excellent—with emphasis on the latter catagory. The middle segment of seats are padded.

Tickets are being printed this week and will be ready for sale by the weekend, according to Allen Russell, who is chairman of this phase.

For 'Girl Crazy" all seats at each of the six performances will be reserved.

Mr. Russell explained that the 60 season ticket holders had first priority on choice of nights and seats. Each received notification 10 days ago for this purpose.

As in the previous show, 'Girl Crazy" will be presented six times, on two consecutive weekends.

Opening night is Thursday, Feb. 14. It will continue Feb. 15, 16, 21, 22, and 23 with curtain time at 8 o'clock.

Reservations can be made by calling The Herald, 423-2174 between 1 and 5 p.m. daily and the home of Mr. Russell in the evenings, 423-4331, between 6 and 9.

Assisting Mr. Tolan are Mrs. Russell, associate director; Miles Cowdrey, musical director; and Mrs. Ted Pihl, choreographer.

Freeman Gets Letter

(Editor's note: This is a letter dispatched Tuesday to Orville L. Freeman, United States Secretary of Agriculture, regarding the proposed River Raisin reclamation project, initiated by Ron Pocklington of Britton and a group of Tecumseh people.)

Dear Sir:

The City of Tecumseh and Raisin Township are trying to develope a water conservation and recreation project.

The enclosed clipping outlines the project which has been endorsed by the Tecumseh City Council and Raisin Township Board.

According to a newspaper release dated January 19, 1963 carrying your name, this project seems to qualify 100%.

However we have not been able to obtain an application from local USDA officials.

A phone call yesterday to the Adrian Soil Conservation Service suggested that your news release was "misleading".

Please advise as to correct details and procedure for application.

Yours truly,
Royal Welch
Councilman
City of Tecumseh

Death Fund Benefits 22 Families

A total of 22 families received money from the $1 Death Benefit Plan sponsored by the United Products Workers Union during 1962.

An average benefit was about $3,000, with a cost of $22 per member for the year.

The plan was made effective about ten years ago with the Tecumseh Products Co. acting as collection agency.

Each member has indicated his choice of beneficiary on his application card and any changes in the past year which make necessary a different name as beneficiary may be reported to the employment office.

LETTERS

TO THE EDITORS:

Please renew our subscription for The Herald for another year.

I do enjoy so much keeping in touch with "home." We have undertaken several moves these past few years and it has always been good to receive The Herald again.

We expect to stay put now at least 2½ years while Bob completes his obstetrics-gynecology residency here at Fitzsimmons Hospital. Then we move again, we know not where.

Thank you for following us around the country.

Republicans Seek County Chairman

Lenawee County Republican committeemen are searching for a new chairman.

Richard Hoben, 45-year, cream plant executive, was elected to the post last October for a two year term.

He resigned last week due to the press of personal business.

Mr. Hoben explained his political duties just required too much time. He said that during last fall's election, he had to handle as many as 60 phone calls in one day.

Another county official, Don Mitchell, also submitted his resignation as finance office, an appointed post.

He too cited the press of work. Mr. Mitchell is county drain commissioner.

☆

THE 100-MEMBER county committee is awaiting word from its 11-member executive group, which was instructed to locate one or more qualified candidates.

The chairman must be named prior to the annual county convention, which will be Wednesday, Jan. 30.

Several potential chairmen were discussed at a Saturday meeting of the executive committee.

At the Jan. 30 convention, 18 delegates to the state convention must be selected. The Michigan GOP session is set for Feb. 15 and 16 in Grand Rapids.

The spring primary comes Feb. 18, followed April 1 by the election in which the proposed constitution will be voted upon.

Until a new chairman is selected, Mrs. Robert Murray of rural Tecumseh will handle the gavel. She is vice-chairman.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Was it worth it? This question has been heckling me for some time.

Watching Charles Saling live through several days of torment following his crash on the toboggan, then hearing of the mishaps that resulted in casts for a number of other Tecumsehites, I have wondered.

A visit with Bruce and Greg King Sunday finally settled the question for me. Hurt and concern for their mother, mingled with pure delight in the eyes of those boys, as Greg said, 'Oh, but Mrs. Grigg, we had such fun while we were at it."

Oh well, what's a few weeks with your right arm in a cast, Ella Mary, compared with fun the family has had in the snow. The skis will be waiting next year anyway.

Mrs. Rose Service accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dick, Sr. to graduation ceremonies at Eastern Michigan University Sunday. Herman F. Dick, Jr. was among the seniors to receive degrees. (Story on another page of The Herald).

The Christmas letter of Les and Lee Bennett was brought to The Herald office last week. It tells of the new baby, Jeff, seven-months-old, and his sisters, Leslie Ann, now in kindergarten and Laura Lee, a second grade student.

Les is now tenor soloist at an Episcopal Church in Royal Oak though the rest of the family attend Grosse Pointe Methodist. He will receive his MA degree from Wayne State University this summer.

He teaches full time at Chippewa Junior High School in St. Clair Shores and has a boys glee club of 43 voices.

Lee is as exuberant as always over her families joys and sends a special "hello" to Tecumseh friends.

✓

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lips and children attended the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lakatos Sr., near Morenci Sunday.

It is presumed that teenagers drive almost any distance under any weather conditions for pizza these days, but when grandparents do, well, you wonder about 'em.

The Rev. and Mrs. B. O. Bashore were in Ypsilanti Sunday evening for pizza with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Kroske. Could be that little David was mostly the reason his grand folk braved the cold, wind and snow?

✓

The population at the Jack Puffer residence on N. Union St. increased considerably over the weekend. Gilbert and Essie had babies, 12 of 'em all hamsters.

When the Puffer children, Billy and Mary Pat, got the two little creatures just before Chrismas they were told that hamsters reproduce in about 31 days, so they weren't disappointed.

Mrs. Puffer said the family has found the hamsters to be quite educational. Cynthia, youngest of the Puffer children, also likes to watch the little animals, about as big as a cigarette, grow. Full-grown ones are about seven inches long all stretched out.

✓

Mrs. Perry Hayden and son, John, entertained Thursday evening at a family dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Langley and family of Cadmus. Mrs. Langley is a niece of Mrs. Hayden. Rev. Langley has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Cadmus for the past five years. The family is moving to Wichita, Kan., where the Rev. Langley has accepted a position on the faculty at Friends University.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Comfort and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Comfort and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Comfort.

✓

Ray Williams has been transferred from Herrick Memorial Hospital to St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he is awaiting surgery for a pinched disk in the spine.

✓

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Poley were hosts for a family gathering Jan. 13 at the Tecumseh Community Center honoring their son, James Poley. Jim is home on leave after 19 months in Asmara, Ethiopia. He will return to Norfolk, Va.

✓

Seaman Ray Sharp is home for a 30-day leave.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

A Fine, New Facility

We'd like to extend our sincere congratulations to the members of St. Peter's Episcopal parish on their beautiful new church.

Dedication ceremonies are going to be held Sunday with an open house during the afternoon so that everyone can examine the lovely edifice.

From front door, through the church proper, to the north wall of the completely-remodeled Parish Hall, the folks who belong to St. Peter's have a tremendous facility.

The future is well provided for with the expanded St. Peter's.

Since The Herald had earlier helped spearhead a drive to save the old St. Peter's, there may be the unfounded speculation that we think of the new as sour grapes. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

A church building must be functional, it must serve the members of the congregation.

Our interest in the old St. Peter's was simply as an historic building. We felt badly that the drive to preserve her failed, but it in no way dampens our ardor for the new structure.

Whether you are an Episcopal or not, we suggest that a trip through the new church during the open house Sunday afternoon would be extremely interesting.

Tecumseh has another fine, new faculty. We can all take great pride in it.

Kiwanis Hears Narcotics Talks

Detective Sgt. Wayne Sokol of the Racket Squad of the Mich. State Police spoke recently to 38 Kiwanians and guests.

He told of the narcotics traffic into and through Michigan and the problems law enforcement officers have in controlling unlawful use of narcotics.

The real problem seems to center around metropolitan areas, he said. Rural areas and small towns sometimes have problems with medical addicts, but very seldom illegal sale and use of the drugs.

All-Michigan Dinner Is Conference Highlight

The 22nd annual All-Michigan Dinner, a gourmet's delight that utilizes foods produced in the state entirely, will climax on Jan. 26 the two-day winter meeting of the Michigan Press Association.

Expected to attend from Tecumseh are Mr. and Mrs. James Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Riordan.

None of the other 49 states have an event exactly like the All-Michigan Dinner which places in the national limelight the great variety and large volume of the state's food products.

The meal is sponsored for the press by the Michigan Department of Agriculture in co-operation with food producers and processors.

For the past 21 years this gala affair has been a highlight of the MPA winter session. Nearly a score of food favors, all products of Michigan, will be found at each of the 650 dinner places set for the occasion.

The theme will be the importance of agricultural income to communities in the state. Last year Michigan farmers received $3¾ billion for the products they sold, which amounts to more than $2 billion at retail prices.

The entree at this year's All Michigan Dinner will be prime ribs of Michigan beef.

A salad utilizing fresh Michigan tomatoes, lettuce and other vegetables will focus attention on the state's hothouse industry, the second largest in the nation.

A new type of baking potato, propagated in Michigan for Michigan conditions, also is listed.

Besides other dairy products at the meal, milk will be a beverage, emphasizing the $200 million in milk checks the state's dairymen receive each year.

Michigan is the No. 1 producer of apple juice and this will be served. Fruit also will be represented by another item, cherry pie, symbolic of the fact the state for more than a decade has produced each year more than half the nation's entire red tart cherry crop.

Con-Con Report

Road Chief's Attacks Assailed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of articles on the proposed Michigan Constitution, prepared by the information department of the Constitutional Convention.)

Road contractors and present and former state highway officials who have banded together in an effort to oppose adoption of the proposed new Michigan constitution at the April 1 election have been criticized in recent weeks by editorial writers in several Michigan daily and weekly newspapers.

Noting that members of the committee "come from the highway construction business and the ripe field of politics," the Detroit Free Press said in its issue of Dec. 5.

"Every proposal in the new Constitution is as good or better than the present Constitution. The executive, legislative and judical processes are all improved by the new document . . . This opposition is based strictly on what Harry Truman likes to call 'selfish interests.' They've got a good thing going and want to keep it that way."

The Saginaw News, in its issue of Dec. 11, takes the State Highway Department to task for sending out a lengthy handout to newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations. The handout, says the News, indicates that the bipartisan highway commission proposed by the new Constitution would "insulate" the commission from the people.

The editorial continues: "We haven't noticed that the Conservation Commission, the Mental Health Commission, or any other governor-appointed commissions, or any of the department directors they have named, are doing anything but what they consider 'best for the people' . . Neither have we noted that they are employed anything near the publicity staff maintained by the Highway Department."

IN ITS ISSUE of Dec. 13, the Gratiot County Herald at Ithaca suggests that it is only normal that Highway Commissioner Mackie would fight the change from an elected commissioner to a four-man bipartisan commission. The Gratiot editor goes on to say:

"But to seek defeat of the entire constitution because of one section can hardly be regarded as an unselfish attitude, or one based upon public weal. If the constitution is adopted by Michigan voters in April, it will not be because a majority of people agree with its every provision, but because they believe that as a whole, it is a vast improvement over the present constitution."

The Save Michigan Roads Committee "is phony from beginning to end," says The Detroit News in its issue of Dec. 6, "The purpose is not to 'save our roads' since the roads will be built whether the Constitution is adopted or rejected. The real name should be 'Save Mackie's Job Committee' or 'Beat the Constitution Committee.'"

Continuing, The News editorial says: "It may be that the contractors feel that they have no alternative to membership and contribution because of the economic pressure that can be exerted upon them. There is an alternative and we trust that some of the wiser heads in the (road - building) industry will take it. They should tell the commissioner politely that they are in the business of building highways financed by taxes and, therefore, not in proper nor ethical position to support the sabotaging of a public document."

☆

THE CLINTON County News at St. Johns says in its issue of Dec. 13: "Certain road contractors and highway lobbyists are determined to scuttle Michigan proposed new Constitution for purely selfish reasons. Because they are displeased with a couple of items in the new document they are prepared to spend thousands of dollars in a scare campaign to influence the voters at the coming Spring election."

The St. Johns editor continues: "We point out that a majority of the delegates to the recent Constitutional Convention favored these proposals after 7½ months of study and debate. These delegates were elected by the people of Michigan as their representative, charged with the responsibility for giving full consideration to revision of the state's basic law.

"It seems presumptuous to us that a bunch of contractors, who do business with the state and represent no one but themselves, should band together to influence our citizens and interfere with the free will of the people to decide their own affairs."

Indians Romp to Easy 81-44 Win

By JIM LINCOLN

One of the finest exhibitions of offensive basketball seen here in several years was turned in by Tecumseh as it swamped a visiting Grosse Ile five last Friday night, 81-44.

Tecumseh's win virtually knocked the Red Devils out of the Huron League race, now paced by the Indians with a 6-1 mark.

Whether the Indians are able to hold the top spot will depend on their clash with Dundee here this Friday evening.

Although Tecumseh had an easy victory over the Vikings at Dundee earlier in the season, Dundee has come back strong and is tied for second place.

Paced by sophomore Gregg Allen in the first half and Norm Tucker in the final two periods, Tecumseh completely dominated its game with GI.

The 6'4" Allen netted 10 points in the first half and finished with 14. Tucker pitched in 12 points in the second half to pace all scorers with 19.

Dominating both boards and hitting well from the floor, Coach Doug Murdoch's cagers rolled up nine straight points in the initial period, indicating the rout to come.

Leading 22-10 at the eight-minute mark, Tecumseh continued rolling and opened a 25-point margin at half-time.

For the first season in quite a few years, the Indians have been able to floor a team equal, if not taller, than their opponents.

Allen, paired with 6'3" Jerry Hebb under the buckets, frequently gave the Indians a second or third shot. Hebb, who collected nine points, more than gathered in his share of rebounds.

Every Tecumseh player participated in the GI rout and only Clark Nichols failed to tally.

Even Mike 'Chico" Osburn scored and bowled over a few players in a brief skirmish to the delight of hundreds of his high school followers.

The pile-up, a conglomeration of players spilled by 'Chico" failed to bring a whistle, but delighted the fans.

Coach Jim Hoffman's Jayvees had an equally easy time in beating their opponents.

PROOF OF ROUT—Here's ample proof how Tecumseh swamped Grosse Ile, 81-44. Gregg Allen (4) and Jerry Hebb (44), both 6'4" and 6'3" respectively, and 5'11' Brad McCombs (40) clear the boards against a lone GI rebounder. The Indians performance was their best this year, and their easiest victory.

Frosh Win Fifth Game

By DAVID RADANT

Tecumseh's freshman basketball team won its fifth game of the season Thursday, dumping Airport 61-51.

It was a high-fouling game, with 32 in the first half and 37 in the second. Airport took better advantage of these fouls, outscoring Tecumseh's frosh 28-13 from the free-shot line.

But the Tecumsehites more than made up the difference in field goals, scoring 24 of the two-pointers, double those of their opponents.

HELP PAY FOR ANNUAL TRIP

Senior Subscription Drive Starts

News of Britton

BRITTON — Seniors at Britton-Macon High School begin a 23-day campaign this week selling subscriptions to The Tecumseh Herald.

Each new subscriber they sign up means a commission of $1.25 for the class treasury, with renewals bringing 50c The class hopes to earn about $300 in the project.

The money will be used to help finance the annual senior trip to Washington.

Named co-chairman Monday at an organizational session for the drive were Susan Rowlands and Sandy Beal. All of the 29 seniors are expected to work

The Britton-Macon School district will be divided into about a dozen sections, with teams of seniors working from door-to-door in each.

Besides the straight commission, The Herald also is offering several bonus plans. With each 25 new subscriptions turned in, the class will earn an additional $5.

For individual "star" salesmen, there will be a $5 award each week of the drive – the bonus going to the class member selling the most new subscriptions during the preceding seven days.

In the last such campaign, the Class of 1961, while juniors, staged a drive, earning $320. That time, the young people sold 284 new subscriptions and picked up 100 renewals.

To help kick-off the drive, The Herald is distributing copies of this issue to all 695 patrons of the Britton post office. Of this number, 193 are now Herald subscribers.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

Question: Why has the contribution rate of social security taxes been scheduled to increase periodically?

Answer: The number of older people in the country is increasing; therefore year by year costs are expected to grow for many years. Income from the gradually increasing schedule of taxes in the law will meet this expected future rise in costs without disrupting the economy by imposing the whole tax needed to support the program all at once.

Question: I am over 65 and still working full-time. My earnings run over five thousand a year. Should I apply for my social security benefits even though I'm still working?

Answer: Yes, although you may not be able to collect payments at this time, it would help to have your benefits approved before you retire. One advantage is that there would be no delay in starting your benefits when you do retire. Also, in an emergency, such as sickness, you could inform us that you are not working, and your monthly benefit would become payable right away.

Question: I am moving next month. What can I do to make sure I get my social security check on time?

Answer: Report your new address to the Social Security Administration as far ahead of your move as you can. If the notice is received by the middle of the month, there will be time to change the address on your next check. You should also notify your post office.

LOCAL BUSINESS

What is the worth of a woman's hat?

Asking such a question is like asking about the value of a painting by Picasso. A woman's hat, like a work of art or a loaf of bread, is worth what someone is willing to pay for it.

In good times a woman's hat is worth considerably more than in times of depression. The purchase of a new hat can be foregone. Hence, the millinery business is a good thermometer of business conditions.

Also the sales of semi-decorative products such as women's hats may answer one question regarding the effect of advertising on trade.

Those who were pessimistic about business in 1962 may be surprised to learn that ladies millinery sales increased more than 3% during the year. The increase in sales was accompanied by an almost identical increase in newspaper advertising by millinery shops.

Optimistic merchants who were bold enough to vie for buying power which was obviously available were rewarded with plus-business. A Chicago store, for instance, during 1962 increased ladies millinery advertising by approximately $30,000. The resultant increase in millinery sales totaled close to a million dollars.

The usual gauge of business conditions, automotive sales, showed a sharp rise during 1962. However, this rise has been attributed in part to the "Cuban crisis."

But the sales of ladies millinery is something else. The increase is logically attributed to increase of "optional" buying power of consumers plus newspaper advertising which guided buying to millinery shops.

Dens Illustrate Freedom

Jerry Bidle, Phillip Milosh, Steven Kampmueller and Scott Dulton presented the flags for the Cub Scout Pack meeting Jan. 15 at the Presbyterian Church.

Attention was called to special displays by the dens about the monthly theme, "Freedom Festival."

Den 8 presented a pantomine skit of "Washington Crossing the Delaware." They also won Cubby for having the largest percentage of attendance.

Cubmaster Tom Kampmueller concluded the meeting by reading an article about "how lucky our cubs are to be born in America." A flag ceremony closed the session.

All awards will be presented at the Blue and Gold Pack meeting Feb. 19.

Michigan Ranks High in Public College Rolls

Eighty per cent of all college students in Michigan are in public institutions, according to Merrit Chambers, University of Michigan visiting professor of higher education.

"In Wisconsin, about 70 per cent; in Indiana, about 60 per cent; in Illinois, about 50 per cent; and in Ohio, about 48 per cent are in public schools, he adds.

"The nationwide panorama shows that of some 2,000 universities, colleges and junior colleges, about 800 are public and about 1,200 are private," says Prof. Chambers.

His remarks are from his new book, "Chance and Choice in Higher Education."

"The balance between public and private varies greatly among the 50 states, generally being heavy on the private side in the Northeastern states, and heavy on the public side in the Western states," he notes.

"But there are substantial variations among the five states of the East North Central region. Observe the wide difference between Michigan and Ohio."

Prof. Chambers observes that "in Michigan, where eight students out of ten are in tax-supported institutions, the tax cost per citizen is necessarily higher than it is in another state where only four out of ten students are in public institutions.

They told of the cooperation of the 13 service clubs and fraternal organizations bringing the Mills Bros. Circus to Tecumseh May 9 with proceeds to be used for the installation of a kitchen in the Community Center.

A report on Exchange's midwinter conference at Jackson Jan. 12 was given by Bob Hart, Forest Abner and James Barton.

The State Exchange Club sponsored the work session to aid the clubs in furthering their civic efforts and in building stronger clubs.

Marda Gene Duncan's THROUGH MY WINDOW

INTERESTING PATTERNS OF FLIGHT

Months ago the green finery, which is the trees' summertime crowning glory, shriveled and was shed; now the trees are bare, patiently waiting the magic of warm, sunny springtime.

Aren't we all—I am just not so patient though. But that is beside the point; let's get back to the subject.

As pretty as the leafed out trees are and as anxious as we are to see them, there are advantages to having the landscape as it is. It is so easy to see what's going on—lately for example, we have been noticing how birds fly.

Oh, don't worry—I am not about to launch into a technical disertation about the aerodynamics of flight. I wouldn't even know where to begin, to say nothing of where to go from there.

But there are different types of flying—most of them are readily seen in my window pictures. Allan and Helen Cruickshank in their '1001' book have listed the patterns of flight as "the most common type is ordinary flapping, the second gliding, the third soaring, the fourth fluttering, and the fifth hovering."

Most birds don't confine themselves to just one type of course, they combine two or more styles.

Were we to list according to commonest, soaring would probably be in fifth place, not third; the Cruickshanks however, refer to all bird-dom while we naturally are quite restricted.

There is no question at all about flapping being the favorite type of flying. Just think of all the birds who beat their wings up and down in unison.

Practically all of our window watched birds do. Gliding is an easy second, especially when used in conjuction with flapping. But we will discuss this combination later.

☆

FLUTTERING, we don't see much of this time of year. Defined as "stationary flight over one spot without the aid of a headwind," the most obvious example is, of course, the pretty little hummingbird and his helicopter-like actions. The chick-a-dees, who are with us now, flutter a bit I think, but they also hover.

Hovering resembles fluttering but is done with the help of a brisk headwind. With our bird feeder situated where it is, the prevailing northwest winds have full sweep across it and we have a wonderful chance to watch birds hover.

The chick-a-dees and sparrows are experts. They fan out their tails, stand up (put their body in an upright position might be a clearer description) and regulate the speed and angle of the wing beats to equalize the speed of the wind.

Sometimes they under-estimate the speed of the wind or over-estimate their strength; then instead of hovering, they are pushed backwards.

The chick-a-dees, making games of everything, seem to enjoy doing battle with old north wind even though they are often the losers.

☆

SOARING need not keep us long—not many vultures, buzzards or gulls come our way but occasionally, a hawk does sail overhead.

As mentioned before, most of the birds we see combine flapping and gliding. This explains the undulating or scalloping flight we have noticed so often when the titmice, nuthatches etc. come bounding from Marshes trees to the feeder.

Instead of the high spirits it looks like, they are actually conserving energy; the wing beats send them forward and upward, then the glide, or rest, continues the forward motion but it is downward too.

So it is that this is the time of year to not only enjoy the birds but to also study some interesting patterns of flight.

People Need Bird Feeders More than Feathered Ones

Feeding birds in winter can be an interesting pastime on a snowy Michigan landscape. Wildlife specialists at Michigan State University point out that most birds really don't need the feed, since they can take care of themselves.

"Attracting birds to your home is really the only reason for feeding," says Charles Shick of MSU's fisheries and wildlife department. Shick notes that winter birds of the state fit into three general categories; insect eaters, seed eaters and ground feeders.

The insect eaters include the chickadee, woodpecker and nuthatch. They are attracted by suet and table scraps. A heavy, mesh-type onion bag or small wire basket tied to a tree trunk or post makes a good container.

The goldfinch, tree sparrow, junco and grosbeak prefer seeds for their snacks. They like weed seeds, grains such as oats or wheat, sunflower seeds, bread crumbs and several kinds of berries. Feed can usually be placed in a hopper-type feeder.

The pheasant and quail are the major ground feeders. Corn is their main staple and they like to follow up harvested fields. When there is snow cover and grain is scarce, they will eat many kinds of seeds, grain or berries. Feed for such birds should be placed on the ground, under brush or cover swept clear of snow.

For the serious bird watcher, a booklet, "Attracting Birds," has a number of suggestions on bird feeding. It's available for 15 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C.

Retarded Study Set

As part of its constant study into the causes of mental retardation, the Michigan Department of Health is sponsoring an investigation to determine the number of children in public school special education classes and in private training centers whose mental retardation may be the result of phenylketonuria.

Phenylketonuria, known as PKU, is a hereditary metabolic disease which affects the development of the brain. When discovered during early infancy, mental retardation may be prevented or modified by means of a special diet.

The disease cannot be cured once it has affected the mental development of a child.

Since the disease is hereditary, parents of children previously undiagnosed as PKU will learn about the disease and its implications for children yet to be born, as well as siblings in the home.

With the family and their physician aware of the presence of the PKU factor, testing can be performed soon after birth on any subsequent babies and the therapeutic diet started promptly if necessary.

A movie on PKU will be shown by Dr. Eleanor Skufis, Lenawee County health director, at Michener School at 2 p.m. Jan. 29, for the teachers and parents of those mentally retarded children. Testing of the children will be done a few days later. Dr. Skufis will inform the family and the family doctor of any positive results.

Children so retarded that they cannot attend any school will be tested at home by the Lenawee County Nurses.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

By RICHARD McMILLAN

Thanks to the generosity of the Annual Michigan Vacation and Boat Show sponsors, 87 of Boysville's lower classmen were able to see this show at Cobo Hall Jan. 20.

Quarter exams will be issued this Thursday and Friday. After the exams the boys will leave for a three-day stay at home. Departure time is at 3 p.m. Friday, and all boys must be back on campus at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Boysville saw its worst defeat Friday night when it met the Britton Tories and suffered a 101-29 drubbing.

The Junior Knights are now 3-3 for the season as the result of their victory over the Britton JV's Friday. The spirited Knights led the entire game, winning 42-22.

Job changes for the third quarter were made this past weekend. Every boy at Boysville has a job to do during the day, from cleaning the dining hall to performing the duties of a sanitary engineer. These jobs are changed four times during the course of the school year.

Boysville's Freshmen team is still having trouble getting started. After two encounters last week the Frosh found themselves with a 2-6 record. Jan. 14, they invaded the Dexter gymnasium only to suffer defeat at the hands of the host team 47-39. Another attempt at victory was made Thursday evening when they battled Ida. When the final buzzer blew, however, two points separated them from their hopes of victory.

Former Tecumseh Family Burned Out

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Richardson and their seven children, a former Tecumseh family, came home to smoldering ruins Jan. 15.

Their home on US-223 was burned out with all of their household belongings and most of their personal possessions. It was described a complete loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were in Tecumseh visiting a married daughter, Mrs. Clarence Nicholas. One child was with them, while the rest were in school.

The fire was discovered about 1:50 p.m. Firemen from Addison and those with a tanker from the Brooklyn Fire Department were unable to quell the flames, believed to have started from a faulty coal stove in the kitchen.

☆

THE FAMILY moved to the home, owned by Mrs. Hazel Briggs of Cement City, about six months ago. They had previously lived on Rogers Hwy. and were residents of the area for about 13 years before moving to the Briggs house.

Mrs. Robert Grigg of 519 E. Chicago Blvd. is accepting donations for the family.

So far a refrigerator, a sewing machine, three beds, several odd chairs and a table and some clothing have been located for their use.

Some food from the Richardson's freezer and a few of the hundreds of jars of canned vegetables and preserves were saved.

Mrs. Richardson had filled her food shelves with canned goods from a large garden last summer.

The house was insured, but not the contents.

Furniture, dishes, clothing and food are much needed by the family.

☆

THE RICHARDSONS rented a farm home Saturday. It's near the junction of Rts. 223 and 127 and will permit the seven children to continue classes at Cement City schools.

Mr. Richardson is a 13-year employed at Tecumseh Products Co., running a set of head drills on 4000A.

He had been back to work just two weeks at the time of the fire, following a sick leave which lasted two and one-half months.

The Richardsons have two sets of twins among the youngsters still at home. Mrs. Nicholas, 615 W. Cummins St. was a twin too. Her twin sister died previously.

The Richardson youngsters include:

Harold and Hugh, 17-year-old twins. Harold is 5'8" and weighs 145 lbs., Hugh is 5'6" and weighs 155 lbs.

Darryle and Doris, 15-year-old twins. He is 5'6" and 136 lbs., she wears a lady's dress size seven.

Paul 13 is 5' and 102 lbs.

Brenda 11, wears girl's dress size 10.

Wrist Fracture Doesn't Disuade Ski Enthusiast

Mrs. Robert King of 411 S. Adrian St. fractured two bones in her right wrist Tuesday evening while the family were skiing following their weekly lesson at the Irish Hills Sports Park.

Mr. and Mrs. King and their children, Greg, Bruce, Kathy Jo and Jeff, are most enthusiastic about the sport, and all participate.

Hospitalized but none the less enthusiastic, Mrs. King promised her family she would be back with them as a spectator next week, and would catch up with the lessons next year.

Family Health Record Is Important

How many times have you needed basic health facts about members of your family — for school records, for insurance forms, for a doctor's medical history?

A family health record is your compilation of these facts. Like vital statistics in the family Bible, notations on family health, kept accurately and up-to-date, can be permanent value.

The family health record should contain an accurate report of dates and findings of physical examinations, illnesses or injuries that required a doctor's attention, dates of all vaccinations, dates and reasons therefor of all stays in the hospital.

The record should include a checklist of diseases contracted by each family member, particularly the more common infections such as chicken pox, measles, mumps, whooping cough, scarlet fever. Frequently a light case of one of these diseases confers immunity thereafter, and it could be important to know positively whether you have had measles or mumps should you be exposed again.

Full records of any known allergies or drug sensitivities also are important. Some people, for instance, react violently to penicillin, but can safely be given other forms of antibiotics.

A careful study of your family's health insurance coverage also is a part of the health record. Many have never bothered to read the fine print in the health insurance policies, and thus aren't certain whether they are covered in all situations or not. It also helps to make a note of all payments received from claims against health insurance policies.

A record of vaccinations will serve as a reminder to get booster shots at proper intervals. The smallpox shot should be taken every five years, and, if leaving the United States, every three years. Boosters are also recommended for some of the other widely used immunizations. Check with your doctor to see whether your family is fully protected against those contagious diseases for which vaccines are available.

The record may be kept in an old ledger, a small notebook or any other form, so long as it will stand wear and tear of time and usage. It also is advisable to carry an abbreviated version of the health record in purse or wallet. Should a medical emergency arise in your family, the health record may even help to save a life or forestall serious illness.

VFW Auxiliary Supports Drive

Sixteen members of the VFW Auxiliary made plans for a "bakeless bake sale" for polio when they met Jan. 16.

Donations may be made to Mrs. Harold Meade, chairman.

The group will be hostesses for the annual Mother's March for Polio Jan. 30 at 6:30 p.m.

They also decided to purchase four American flags for cub scout dens.

Plans were completed for the past commanders-past presidents dinner Feb. 23 and also for the Credit Union dinner Jan. 26.

Refreshments were served by Romona Plummer and Ruth Horkey.

$200,000 Nursing Home Going Up Next to Hospital

A 25-bed, $200,000 nursing home for the City of Tecumseh will be built this year near the southeast corner of Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Gift of the money to the community and approval of the home was announced this week. Carl Marr is the architect and Krieghoff-Lenawee Co., the general contractor.

Construction of the building, T-shaped and running 184 feet long and 104 feet deep, will start about April 1.

The home for the retired and convalescing will include private and semi-private rooms, a hobby room, chapel, patio and porch, kitchen and dining facilities.

The one-floor building of limestone and redwood is designed for future expansion and will be completely air conditioned.

Officials planning the home consulted state authorities to assure proper arrangements and facilities, meeting recommendations as set down by various state departments.

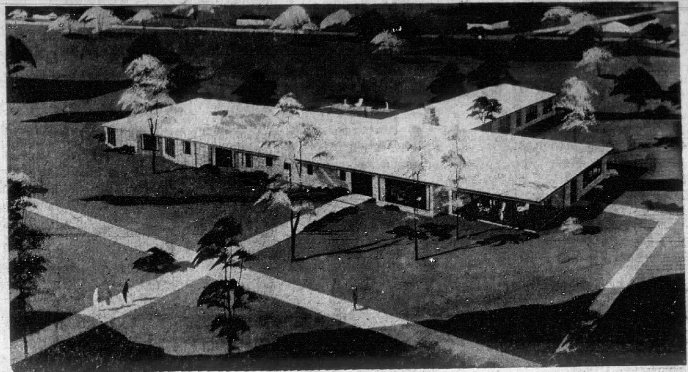

A covered walk, approximately 120 feet long, will connect the home with the hospital. This will provide easy access to hospital facilities.

☆

KENNETH HERRICK, chairman of the Hospital Board of Trustees, says the home will be self-supporting and charges will be comparable to other nursing homes.

The Board will govern the new facility with Orrie Gilbert, present hospital administrator, also administrating the home, which will probably employ about eight or 10 people next fall.

Although Tecumseh has a nursing home, and had others in the past, there has been a shortage of beds and facilities in the area. Doctors and other professional people have talked for years for the need of a community nursing home, especially in the hospital area.

Hiring Starts at Corrugated Next Tuesday

Hiring at Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. will begin Tuesday, Feb. 5 at 10 a.m., states President Fred Attwood.

Being sought are semi-skilled men. Persons with experience in the box manufacturing business will be preferred, Mr. Attwood says.

Applicants must appear in person and will be interviewed briefly and given forms to fill out.

In the first phase of hiring this week, 20 men will be put on the payroll, explains Mr. Attwood.

More will be employed through the next six to eight months as additional machinery is purchased until the number of employees hits about 130 by next fall.

Corrugated officials had anticipated hiring this week, but were delayed. This didn't halt a steady flow of interested persons appearing at the plant Monday and Tuesday.

Executives expect to be on hand Thursday to move in furniture and began preparations for next week's interviewing.

Machinery is coming that day and Friday. There will be about a dozen pieces with the largest a 12,000-pound printer-slotter. This is a precision machine which prints cartons in two colors, slots and creases.

The printer-slotter was acquired from a firm in Canada and is four years old. It was wired for 550 volts there and the motor must be rewound for local 440 circuits. This will take a week.

Mr. Attwood states that production will begin the week of Feb. 11. A second printer-slotter is being sought and when this arrives, another 20 men will be added to the work force.

For the present, the new firm will buy corrugated blanks, which it will shape into containers. A new corrugator has been ordered, but will take about 10 months for delivery. When it comes, the plant here will start to corrugate the materials.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

New York's newspaper strike has been particularly painful to Al Capp, the chap who does Li'l Abner.

Not because his work is being missed by millions around the Isle of Manhatten, either.

Al told folks at the annual Michigan Press Association convention last weekend, he was upset by yet another factor.

Seems now that the popular columnists can't be in print, they are going on television shows. This has had a drastic effect on Mr. Capp, who is one of the funniest speakers going.

"These columnists who you follow every day, trusting them, believing each thing they say, come on TV. They look so shifty and dishonest, you loose all faith in them," he grinned.

"There was one gal I really read. The reason I did was that her column carried the loveliest picture of her.

"She came on TV and looked like Albert Schweitzer."

The folks loved Al, who is twice as funny as his comic strip. He was one of the two-day session's most appreciated guests.

George Romney was another as he gave a firey talk on the importance of passing the new Constitution.

The governor claimed that opponents of the change are tossing half-truths and inuendoes around like confetti. They're easy to spew out, but so envolved answering.

Gov. Romney advised voters to get the true facts. He lambasted the slogan, "If you don't know, vote no."

Pure rot, he pointed out. Rather it should be, "If you don't know, don't vote."

The proposed document shows improvements in many areas over the 1908 version. Obstructionists hold their heads high and advocate the impossible while blocking the possible, he said.

"Yes" is the way I am going to vote on the issue and I sincerely hope you will too. The state needs up-dating of its basic organizational document.

Tipton To Have Toll-Free Lines to Two Areas

TIPTON — General Telephone Co. announced Monday that Tipton will have toll-free service to Tecumseh and Adrian as part of the company's 1963 expansion program.

Starting Dec. 1, routing from Adrian to Tipton and Tecumseh to Tipton will be placed in "extended area service," with no toll charge.

In 1964, the Tecumseh district of General Telephone is scheduled for extra efforts to establish private lines and four-party lines.

Kenneth Conway, district manager, explains that although the company has a continuing program of improving party service, a priority system has been established. Major efforts go first to areas where party lines already are full.

Tecumseh was set up for lo-party lines, and there still is room to add new phones, he said. Outlying areas have more crowding on the lines, and will be improved first.

LULU OF A WINTER—Everywhere folks look these days there is snow and more snow. Like the great banks here, along Newburg Rd., built up from the constant plowing. Mail boxes are buried regularly and the patrons are forced to dig them out after the plow passes. Early morning greeting is seldom, "How are you? but "How many degrees below zero today?" Owners of outdoor thermometers find themselves with real status symbols as they blithly report antics of the mercury.

Ag Secretary Offers Cash

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says the U.S. Department of Agriculture is "ready to go ahead" with public recreational development in watershed projects as authorized by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962.

USDA was authorized to help create, enlarge, or improve bodies of water within watershed projects to provide for a full range of water-based sports, and to assist in developing recreational areas bordering the water.

"Those developments will help meet the growing demand for new outdoor recreational facilities, and at the same time broaden the scope and local benefits of watershed projects," Secretary Freeman said.

The recreational facilities would lure outsiders to the area, and would provide the type of recreation that industrialists seek for their employees in searching for new plant sites, Soil Conservation Service officials explained.

On nearby land, private landowners could develop supporting recreational facilities, such as weekend or summer guest cottages, hunting preserves and ski slopes.

THE DEVELOPMENT would bring town and country interests closer together, and thereby promote soil and water conservation activities which protect and improve farm and ranch lands, according to SCS. This, in turn, would contribute to an improved agricultural economy.

"The department is ready to help local watershed sponsors develop these recreational areas," Secretary Freeman pointed out.

Funds are available under USDA's regular $60.6 million watershed appropriation for fiscal year 1963. Construction could begin on the first of these projects early in 1963.

USDA was authorized to bear up to 50% of the cost of (1) land, easements and rights-of-way, (2) construction, and (3) minimum basic facilities needed for public access to and use of the recreational area. This cost-sharing and technical help would be provided through the Soil Conservation Service, which has leadership for USDA's watershed program.

☆

LAND BORDERING the water could be developed for picnicking, camping, hunting or other outdoor uses. SCS would provide local sponsors with funds to cover up to half the land costs, and also would help local sponsors pay for the land inundated for recreational purposes.

Minimum basic facilities which could be cost-shared include:

- Boat docks and ramps
- Beach development
- Picnic tables and fireplaces
- Parking lots
- Public water supply
- Sanitary facilities, including toilets and garbage disposal
- Power facilities
- Plantings and other shoreline or area improvements
- Roads and trails
- Other similar or related facilities needed for public health, safety, access to, and use of the recreational area.

☆

LOCAL SPONSORS could charge an admission fee to meet their annual operating and maintenance costs. Watershed residents also would derive other benefits from the development.

"There has been a dramatic increase in the nation's need for additional recreation areas during the past decade," Secretary Freeman said. "City dwellers and suburbanites are seeking the outdoors as never before.

"At present, some 62 million acres of privately-owned land are being used for recreation. Estimates are that by 1980 we will need 85 million acres for this purpose. Watershed projects can go a long way in helping fulfill this need."

Visitors Tour New St. Peter's at Open House

St. Peter's Episcopal Church opened its doors Sunday to some 500 parishoners and friends.

This was the formal "Opening of the Church." The Rt. Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, suffragan bishop of Michigan, officiated. The new $210,000 building, baptistry, altar and other furnishings were blessed and dedicated.

The actual consecration of the church cannot come until the remainder of the building debt is paid. Donations of $180,000 were made before the building program began.

Those visiting the new church for the first time found a spacious edifice that will serve 300 for church services. Furnishings were simplified, stressing the textures and color of the natural wood interior and vaulted beams.

☆

AN OUTSTANDING feature is the Last Supper carving by Leo Jungblut, noted Michigan sculptor from Holland. It hangs in the sanctuary behind an altar designed by the Rev. Dom Francis Bacon of the Episcopal Benedictine Priory at Three Rivers, who is noted for his carving of the Crucifiction at Three Rivers.

After the formal rite, the bishop was welcomed at a reception in his honor. This event continued until an open house from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Visitors were shown the new dining facilities, which will serve 200 for dinners. The complete kitchen was donated as a separate gift to the church.

☆

MRS. CHARLES MENSING was general chairman of the reception and open house, assisted by Mrs. Orville W. Farver and Mrs. Allen Russell.

Still to be installed in the new church are stained glass windows, being made in Philadelphia, and a pipe organ being designed and constructed by Rudolf vonBeckerath in Hamburg, Germany.

Cold Snap Clobbers This Area

Along with most of the nation, Tecumseh went into a deep freeze last week, and hasn't fully recovered yet.

Continuing below-zero temperatures have kept plumbing, heating and automobile lines frozen.

The worst trouble came last Thursday, after the overnight temperature dipped to a modern record low. Readings in the—15 to —20 range were common.

☆

SERVICE stations worked far into the afternoon trying to get autos and trucks started. Many needed a general warm-up in garages before battery chargers took effect.

Also swamped with work were plumbing and heating repair shops.

Frozen fuel lines were common. Several business places were late opening offices, and Haeussler Construction Co. had to send its men home when the furnace was off, and temperatures in the building were well below freezing.

☆

THE INTENSE cold snapped several power lines, including one on Green Hwy., which also brought down telephone wires. The current surging through the broken lines also damaged some phone installations.

No power meant no heat for many homes, since the furnace switches operate electrically.

This Saturday is Groundhog Day, and Tecumsehites are hoping for a forecast of an early spring.

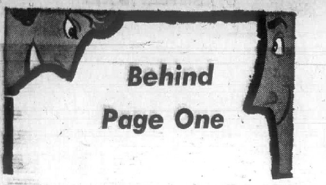

Water Line Thaws, Floods Local Center

A frozen water line in the upstairs sprinkling system at the Community Center thawed about noon Tuesday, flooding water over a large area in the middle of the building.

Although the water eventually dripped through the floor of teenage room, onto the main floor, and eventually to the basement, little damage was done.

The accident happened during the noon hour when the building was vacant. It was discovered about 15 minutes later by John Henderson, director of the center.

Yep, it sure was cold last week. Buck Maynard let out his cat, "Spooky", about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday as the mercury hovered about 10 below zero. Fifteen minutes later, Buck called the feline, but Spooky just stood on the back porch howling. He was frozen to the concrete. Buck had to pour warm water around the cat's paws before it could be freed.

The Herald is printing two newspapers a week. A neighbor paper, the Dundee Reporter, suffered a fatal press breakdown three weeks ago. The press started clanking just before the paper was to be printed. The ailment was diagnosed as incurable. It keeps the pressmen at The Herald hopping to set up the presses for two papers a week, especially since they are both printed on the same day.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, the total weight tax money collected in Lenawee County was $717,426.91.

"Collection of weight taxes in Michigan last year increased $1,640,525.96, from $66,875,012.57 in 1961 to $68,515,538.53 in 1962," Hare said. "The total number of vehicles of all kinds registered rose only 111,228, from 3,758,010 in 1961 to 3,869,238 last year."

7 Vie for 'Young Farmer'

Winner of the Outstanding Young Farmer award will be announced at a banquet Tuesday, Feb. 5, at the Tecumseh Country Club.

Stewart Titze, manager of the Southeast Michigan Production Credit Association, will be the speaker of the evening.

Supper at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by a program arranged by Mr. Kapnick, assisted by Clifford Bird.

Others working on the project are Gerald Miller, James Rundell, Ray Moll, John Day, Earl Nesbitt and J. J. Walper.

Reservations may be made at Helms Furniture Store or at The Tecumseh Herald office.

► Charles Bishop and his wife, Nancy, have four children and live on Centennial Rd. They operate a general farming enterprise with beef cattle, hogs and a complete crop rotation program. Charles, 28, also assists his father, on his farm.

The Bishop family are active members of the Ridgeway Methodist Church.

► Richard Bruce and his wife, Donna, and three children live on Palmer Highway operating a cash crop farm of 235 acres. They also have a few hogs.

The Bruce family is active in Farm Bureau, the Agricultural Soil Conservation County Commission and the Britton Young Farmer Group.

► Richard Cox and his wife and daughter live on a 240-acre farm, which is strictly a cash grain project due to a limited supply of water.

The farm is located on Sutton road south of Britton.

The family is active in the Farm Bureau, ASC Co. Commission and 4-H.

► Kenneth Bortel and his wife, Sandra, and two children live on a 288 acre farm on Shaw Rd., Britton. They have two major projects, a flock of Corriedale sheep, and a sound grain enterprise.

The family is active in Grange work, the American Corriedale Association, 4-H and the Britton Area Young Farmers group.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

'Keep Loose'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Herald reprints this editorial from the Blissfield Advance, with a cheer for Advance Editor Duane DeLoach.)

Zero was the temperature. Biting winds at 30 miles an hour swept the powdery snow across the ski slope of the Irish Hills Sports Park. Yet there were perhaps a thousand people out there and in the clubhouse, having the time of their life.

A possible exception were some beginners, who just couldn't seem to get the hang of standing up on a pair of skis. They kept falling down.

One of them puffed up to Gene Sell, owner of the park, and puffed: "It looks easy, but . . . "The gist of Gene's encouragement to him was this: "You're trying too hard; loosen up."

What is true in sports is also true of business and personal relations with others. Just be yourself, relax, and you will succeed.

You might hear Gene saying this same sort of thing to a novice golfer in this same sports park next summer. The beginner slices the ball because he is too tense and determined to do everything exactly right.

This is a basic psychological fact — when we try too hard to do something, we cannot succeed.

Mental attitudes influence our reactions more than we know.

A salesman often will lose a prospect because he is so intent on making a sale that he doesn't know when to stop making a pitch.

Isn't it also true that a person who tries too hard to make a good impression often makes the worst impression, for then he loses whatever charm and spontaneity he possesses. Excess effort brings failure.

It is difficult sometimes to be casual and relaxed about something we deeply desire, but in the end it is the only productive attitude.

A sharp man tries to get what he wants, but a wise man wants to enjoy the fruits of his achievement.

Barns Should Be Moved

Realization of a new community retirement home, adjacent to Herrick Memorial Hospital, will occur this summer or late fall.

The [illegible] $200,000 home will greatly enhance what is rapidly becoming the center of Tecumseh's medical facilities. The hospital alone, is undoubtedly the greatest community asset we have.

With this in mind, we hope that Council will soon instigate action to remove the old, dilapidated city barns, which are visible from the hospital, and plan to relocate the city dump.

Elimination of the barns and dump could eventually lead to a park of considerable size in the area. It would afford a setting desireable for both the hospital and retirement home.

Blessed with these fine facilities, it seems irrevocable that proper environment also could not be attained.

The city is the largest property owner in the community. A site should be found without any trouble, for new city barns.

As far as eliminating the present dump, purchase of a new area in an isolated rural section, convenient for users and still not a detraction to the immediate area, should be investigated.

Long and Short

Judging Mr. Romney by his campaign for election and now his efforts to see the Constitution approved, it seems as though Michigan at last has a real positive thinker and doer in the governor's seat.

Two other newspapermen stole a lot of attention — Charlie Haun, picture editor of the Detroit Free Press and Edmund Arnold, editor of Linotype News and a journalism professor at Syracuse University.

Charlie is the old-school type, tough looking, tough speaking — and dedicated through and through to the profession.

He was Free Press city editor for a dozen years and much of the time complained the way pictures were being handled. Finally, the management figured they had a way to satisfy Charlie — they made him picture editor back about 1950.

He's one of the best. Charlie says he is not a photographer and doesn't wish to be one. He wants to look at a picture just as the reader does. If it's impressive to him, it should impress a million or so Michigan folks who read the paper each day. While some editors forever trim down the size of pictures, Charlie plays 'em big.

The formula works. The Free Press is widely regarded as one of the best papers for pictures in the mid-west. His attitude reflects on the paper's lensmen, who daily bust a gut to do better than yesterday.

Ed Arnold is a genius in the field of typography — the layout of a page, the preparation of ads. My efforts along these lines follow his advice, which comes in books, trade magazines and in personal appearences, such as last week.

Like Charlie, Ed has a simple formula — make it easy on the reader. Eliminate typographical gimmicks, boxes, circles, type on its side, at an angle, words running down hill.

Each of these items is a minor irritant to the eye and as they build up, the reader rebells and goes to something else.

He said ads should be clean and light, easy to read. Items should be surrounded by white space, not jammed together like sardines.

The formal conferences were wonderful, regenerating. But probably just as much fun were the bull sessions with newspaper folks from all over the state, some lasting until almost dawn.

Maybe that's why MPA convenes for such affairs only once a year.

Group Enjoys Day at Lake

A day of fun on lake property owned by Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wilson was enjoyed by 27 members of the eighth grade Sunday school class and 20 guests of the Tecumseh Friends Church Jan. 19.

Mrs. Paul Brantingham accompanied the group in a singspiration led by teacher, Chuck Huber, at the church.

The Rev. James Brantingham of the Raisin Center Friends Church presented a message on "Christanity or Communism" and also told of Samson's downfall.

President Steve Van Valkenburg along with other new officers, Carl Collingsworth, Gail Lister, Fred Staup and Jerry MacGeorge, had charge of the meeting. Another tobogganing party will be held in February.

Committee to plan the event will be Steve Sowers, Danny Hare, Gloria Randolph and Nancy Brady.

A closing prayer for the meeting was given by the Rev. Donald Porteous of the Methodist Church.

MR. WILSON and his son, Arnold, shoveled the lake clear for skating and provided wood for two bonfires used throughout the day for warmth and roasting weiners.

Games and races were won by Leslie Pence, Ken Hooten, Larry Meade, Doug Haines, Arnold Shultz and Debbie Black.

The fires replenished frequently by Carl Collingsworth were a cheering influence, especially when the snow came down later in the afternoon.

Mr. Huber said the group had so much fun that the day wasn't long enough.

Sherry Harper, injured her chin, went to the hospital, where five stitches closed the wound. She later returned to the party.

CHURCHES represented at the snow party were Tipton Grace Bible, Tecumseh Methodist, Ridgeway Church of the Nazarene, St. Peter's, Tecumseh Church of Christ, Tipton Community, Gloria Dei Lutheran, Grace English Lutheran, Macon Methodist, Tecumseh Reform, Tecumseh First Baptist, Tecumseh Friends and the Raisin Center Friends.

The class and their guests expressed apreciation for the preparation for the party by the Rev. Paul Brantingham, the Rev. James Brantingham, the Rev. Donald Porteous, Mrs. Brantingham, Amos and Arnold Wilson, Floyd Shirley and Robert Hart Sr. and the Tecumseh Friends Church bus committee.

Also they expressed thanks to James Meade, who spent the day supervising games and assisting in other ways.

County To Test School Children for Exposure to Tuberculosis

In the very near future, all school children, kindergarten thru 12th grade, in Lenawee Schools will take home a card requesting parental permission for the tuberculin skin test.

This test will be done at school by Dr. Eleanor Skufis and her staff of nurses, as soon as all the cards are returned. The test simply requires the injection of a very small drop of test solution in the forearm of each child. This test will be read by the doctor and her nurses 48 hours later.

In most cases the result of the test will be negative. Should the test be positive, it does not mean that the child has active disease. But it indicates the child was exposed to a person who has or has had tuberculosis. A chest film will be necessary to determine whether or not the child has active tuberculosis and requires treatment.

Chest x-rays will be provided without charge at the Lenawee County Health Department for children with positive reactions.

If the parent knows his child has a positive skin test, the date of the test and place the test was given should be recorded on the card and returned to school.

If the parent has the test performed by the family doctor, he should record the date and result of the test and then the child return the card to school.

The success of this program in finding tuberculosis in school children, their teachers, school bus drivers and then their family, depends on 100% participation in the skin testing program in each school, Dr. Skufis emphasized.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

By RICHARD McMILLAN

Last week Boysville's juniors and seniors started a voluntary course in leadership. The Gabriel Richards Institue, or as they are better known, The Christophers, are conducting the course. The motto of the Institute is: "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

The purpose of the course is to enable the participants to better express themselves, to help them overcome nervousness when speaking to a group, to influence people, and as the name denotes, to help them become leaders.

There is no charge for the course, since the Christophers believe that God will provide the donors while they keep stiring up the "doers". Donations are the only means that they have for providing funds for the course.

SINCE THE boys are home for the weekend, very little activity has been taking place on campus. In place of the regular news we thought the readers might be interested in the job program in use on campus.

Since 1948 Boysville has been supplying each student with a new job at each quarter of the school year. Half-hour work periods every morning and two-hour periods on Saturday keep the students in contact with the reality of work.

Sweeping, polishing, waxing, washing, mopping, shoveling and dusting are a few of the general headings under which the Boysville work may be classified.

Students enrollment usually runs around 170, while the jobs are over 200.

The Brothers of Holy Cross organize the work periods. Brawn is produced by the students as well as the Brothers in terminating the work as quickly and satisfactorily as possible. The result is team effort for a worthwhile cause.

BOYSVILLE'S work program has a two-fold objective — responsibility and good student relations.

Because Boysville thrives on individual co-operation, it is important to stimulate a close unity among the students. To do this the upper classmen are integrated with the lower classmen in their various jobs.

It is due to these two motives, injected into the students by the Brothers, that Boysville obtain its motto: "It is better to build a boy than to mend a man."

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Watts, 856 Maplewood Ave., Willard, O. announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Susanne Lorene, to Airman 1/c Randall S. Beck of Tipton. Miss Watts is a 1958 graduate of Willard High School and is presently employed by IBM at Pioneer Rubber Co. in Willard. Airman Beck attended Tecumseh High School and is presently stationed at Mac Dill AFB Tampa, Fla. He recently enlisted for a second four-year period, after completing a tour on Okinawa. A May 4 wedding is being planned.

Skits Entertain at Tipton PTA

TIPTON — A mock wedding, a mock trial and several other acts entertained Saturday night for the Tipton Parent-Teacher Assn. meeting. The all-male cast in the farcical wedding featured Mike Anderson as Minerva Midletwist bride of Tucker Truck, portrayed by Ken Munger.

The bride was dressed in a long white gown made by the brides wife, Mae Anderson, who was also the director of the mock wedding.

Best Man was Willie (Willis) Davenport and the minister was Parson (Dean) Cook.

Alberta (Albert) Tonneberger was the soloist, accompanied at the piano by Rene (Ray) Stockinger.

Donelda (Don) Daniels was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Ramona (Ray) Jackson and Wilma (Wally) Wilkins.

The flower girls, who came down the aisle throwing stage money instead of flowers, were Wilhelmitta (William) Murphy and Jacqueline (Jack) Allen, followed by "Little Georgia Allen" as ring bearer. Then came the bride on the arm of her father, Linty (Linwood) Wimple. Ray Buell and Latham Dewey were the ushers.

☆

BETWEEN acts Rev. Frederick sang, accompanied by Esther Blaska at the piano.

The second act was a skit, "They're In Again," with Doris Crosby portraying a character named Mrs. Cantalope and Irene Allen doing the part of Mrs. Featheredge.

Next was a mock trial, "Oswald Oozelpopper, Hoss Thief," with the following cast of players:

Judge Bungle, presiding — Esther Blaska

Clerk of the Court—Esther Cook

Oswald Oozelpopper, defendant—Juanita Davenport

Felix Ficklenoodle, complainant—Gerry Buell

Lawyer Limberjaw, for the complaintant—Lois Shaw

Lawyer Threadbare, for the defendant—Pat Wimple

Alonzo Accident, defendant's witness—Lillian Dewey

Rufus Rootabaga, complaintant's witness—Gertrude Munger

Sheriff Flatbottom—Jean Turlukowski.

The last act on the program was another skit, "Over the Back Fence," with Gwen Linger as Petunia Pepper and Alice Platt as Magnolia Mooney.

☆

MRS. YOUNG of the hospitality committee with her two aides, Connie Jackson and Jean LaFerriere, made epitaphs of local people and put them around the gym.

Refreshments were served after the program by Peggy Wilkin, Anna Spycher, Frank and Jean Turlukowski and Esther Cook.

A regular business meeting is scheduled for February, with a St. Patrick's Day dance scheduled for March.

APPLY LIME SOON. Take soil tests and get lime down while trucks can still get over the ground. Your crop yields may suffer from soil acidity unless limestone is applied. To get best results from fertilizer, soil pH should be in the range of 6.5 to 7.0 To get as much benefit from the lime this season as possible make sure the limestone isn't too coarse. At least 50% should pass through a 60 mesh screen.

KEEP POULTRY HOUSE LITTER DRY. The improper management of poultry litter can result in poor flock performance. Litter is constantly taking on and giving off water. It may come from bird excretions, spillage from fountains, or from ocndensation from walls and roof. Moisture can be removed from litter by proper ventilation and movement of air through the house. Litter should be deep enough to properly serve as a regulator of the moisture on the floor of the house. For best results it should be about 8 inches deep.

BASE GRAIN RATION for dairy cows on the quality of hay in the mow. There's a big difference in the feed value of hay based on its quality. Feeding tests indicate that it takes more than twice the normal amount of grain when feeding poor quality hay to prevent severe drops in milk flow. If you're running low on hay it will pay you to buy good quality. Generally you can afford to pay up to ⅔ as much for a ton of high quality hay as you pay for a ton of grain

SOCIAL SECURIAY TAXES ARE UP AGAIN. This year you must withhold 3-5/8 percent of an employee's wages. This amount must be matched by the employer and deposited after a total of $100 has been collected. Multiply .03625 times the employee's wage to get the correct amount to withhold.

Flat Rock Game Crucial

A crucial game for the Tecumseh Indians rolls around this Friday night when Coach Doug Murdoch's red hot cagers seek revenge at Flat Rock.

Upset in the second game of the season by the Rams, a victory for Tecumseh would nearly wrap-up the Huron League championship—and also boost the Indians up the ladder in the state rankings.

Tecumseh completely shattered any Dundee hopes of winning a share of the loop's crown with a 20-point rout here last Friday night, 74-54.

Senior guard Tim Sisson, having his greatest year in athletics, turned in his top basketball game with a 22-point outburst that helped to smother a good Dundee five.

The 5'9" guard netted nine field goals and four fouls to pace all scorers.

Center Jerry Hebb collected 20 points and controlled the boards as the Indians romped to their seventh league win and eighth of the season.

As in previous games, Tecumseh overwhelmed its opponents in the early stages. A 21-point initial period was combined with 19 points in the second for a 40-23 half time lead.

After a slow third quarter, Tecumseh bagged 23 points in the final stanza, a good point total for eight minutes of play but six points less than their best record of 29.

Jack Dick and Norm Tucker also tallied in the two-figure column, each scoring 10 points, far less than what Tucker has been averaging for the season.

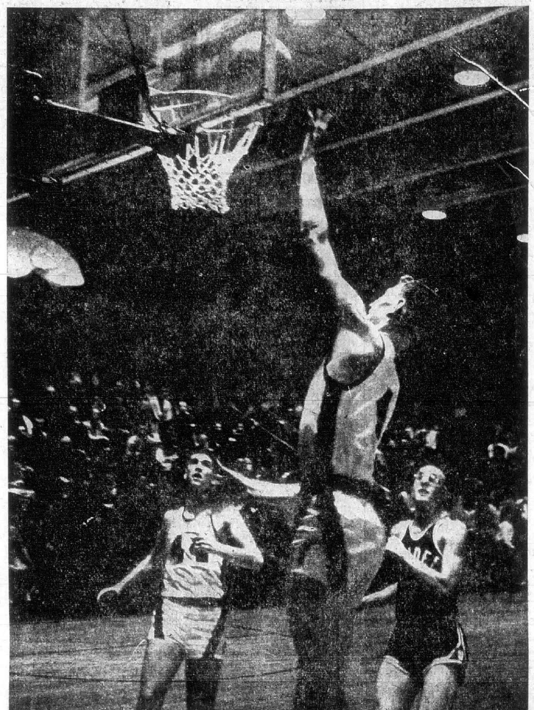

Dick Heiden, top Viking scorer, led his teammates with 13 points.

ALLEN NETS TWO-POINTER — Sophomore Greg Allen, 6'4" forward, flips in an easy field goal for two points in Tecumseh's rout of Dundee, 74-54. Junior center Jerry Hebb closes in to make sure of the Indian score. Hebb, 6'3", tallied 20 points in the Tecumseh victory, but yielded scoring honors to Tim Sisson, who collected 22.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The people who best appreciate a hometown newspaper are the retailers in a community which does not have a newspaper.

New suburban shopping centers illustrate the point. The shopping centers can not economically advertise in metropolitan media. It would be a case of paying to reach several hundred thousand consumers, when actually, the trade area of the center may include only 20,000.

An advertiser, like anyone else, wastes money when he buys a commodity he does not use. Thus, in some new shopping centers the retailers themselves organize community newspapers.

Such newspapers are often "make-do" publications which are devoted only to circulation of shopping information. They can not have the value of bonafide community newspapers which the public pays to get.

Yet, the magazine SHOPPING CENTER AGE has written in an editorial that 2½% of gross sales of a shopping center should be devoted to advertising. It also states:

"Newspapers should get the bulk of this advertising money because steady advertising in newspapers is the most effective business producer a shopping center merchant can have."

Thee comments certainly should apply to the retailer who has access to an established hometown newspaper — the city type of publication with no waste circulation and many intangible values.

Accordingly, a community with gross sales of 20 million dollars should be spending about $500,000 on advertising — most of it in the local newspaper.

If the figure is lower, perhap that is one reason why local consumers look to outside markets to satisfy their needs.

Wheat Surplus Grows

by RUSSELL F. McDONALD
District Marketing Agent

It appears that at the close of the 1963 wheat year (which is June 30, 1963) that the perennial problem of huge carryover stocks of certain classes of wheat will still plague the wheat producer .

Although the wheat market does not recognize the different classes of wheat produced in this country, the true insight to the wheat dilemma is not appreciated until some facts are known on classes of wheat produced.

To illustrate, the carryover stocks of the various classes of wheat on July 1, 1963 (as a percentage of the 1957-61 average disappearance rate including both domestic use and exports) are:

Hard red winter—154%.
Durum—145%.
Hard red spring—108%.
White—15%
Soft red winter—6%.

Generally the hard red winter and spring and durum wheat are considered to be produced in the plains states, with both white and soft red winter wheats produced in corn belt states, eastern U.S. and west of the Rockies.

☆

CONSIDERING hard red winter wheat alone, over a year and one-half supply will be on hand next July 1 without producing one additional kernel. Comparatively the amount of soft red winter and white wheats carryover totals are very small.

Although during the previous two years wheat carryover has been reduced via federal programs, it only amounts to about 3% less than the previous five-year average.

Therefore the price outlook for wheat in 1963 is confined very closely to federal programs —the way they are administered and the way the federally held excess wheat disposition practices are handled on the open and export markets.

Assuming a yield of 25.5 bushels per harvested acre on an estimated 52.5 million harvested acres planted in 1963, a crop of 1,340 million bushels may be produced in 1963.

With domestic disappearance estimated at 595 million bushels and exports placed at 625 million, the carryover into the 1963-64 marketing year may be increased by around 125 million bushels.

'GIRL CRAZY' CAST WORKS HARD

Toes Are Tapping

Toes are tapping and notes echoing through Tecumseh Community Center every night, while the Tecumseh Players prepare for their most ambitious undertaking, "Girl Crazy."

George Gershwin wrote the music, some of the most demanding on the popular stage.

Intermingled with such well-known favorites as 'Strike Up the Band," "Embraceable You" and "I'm Biding My Time" are specialty chorus and solo numbers which demand a high caliber of vocal and dramatic talent.

The Players have assembled their largest cast for this production—25 members. All the chorus members do double or triple duty, speaking lines and dancing as well as singing their parts.

Miles Cowdrey, Tecumseh Public Schools music teacher, is musical director for the production, and the choreography is by Mrs. Ted Pihl.

The cast was drawn from all parts of area life, from housewives and students to farmers and engineers. The medical and business worlds are represented too.

The audience should have no trouble hearing or seeing the action. Because of the large cast, and the dancing, a larger-than-normal stage was needed.

Only 207 seats will be available for the audience in each performance and they will be arranged only six rows deep. All seats are reserved.

Four rows will be on ascending risers, and the stage will be at floor level.

The production is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 14, 15 and 16, and Feb. 21, 22 and 23.

QUARTET—First male quartet for the Tecumseh Players production of "Girl Crazy" includes from left, Gordon Comfort, first tenor; John Hartley, second or lead tenor; Dr. Carlton Cook, baritone, and L. E. "Gene" Earling, bass. The quartet has barbershop and specialty number and also joins in the chorus work.

The Tecumseh installation team consisting of past noble grands was in Milan recently to install officers there.

After the business session pictures of a recent installation ceremony were shown by Gilbert Nighswander.

Those with birthday anniversaries in January will be the committee for the February meeting.

MSU Farmers' Week Spotlights Science

The welcome mat is out for the state's farmers at Michigan State University this week. MSU's 48th annual Farmers' Week opened Jan. 28. The event, which attracts thousands of visitors each year, remains as one of the largest of its kind in the nation.

Chairman Byron Good reports that more than 200 speakers will participate in nearly 100 sessions during the program which runs through Feb. 1.

"Science serves Michigan Agriculture" is the theme for the event which features displays ranging from electronic data processing machines to space capsules.

While the spectacular exhibits of an atomic age will draw keen interest, the application of science to modern agriculture gets top priority. Dean T. K. Cowden of MSU's College of Agriculture stresses that the week is planned primarily as an educational event for Michigan farmers. "While everyone is invited to attend," Dean Cowden explains, "this is the one time of year that the University holds 'open house' for farmers, a vital force in the state's economy."

One of the week's highlights will be the presentation of the Distinguished Service to Agriculture awards.

☆

LUNCHEONS and banquets are among program highlights. Monday's dairy banquet recognized herd owners in the "500 Club," dairymen whose herds have averaged over 500 pounds of butterfat during the past five years.

Tuesday's banquets included agricultural engineering, livestock producers, Michigan Christmas Tree Growers and the Allied Poultry Industries Inc.

☆

ALUMNI of MSU's Short Course held their banquet Wednesday. Luncheons included an "Old Timers' Program" for veteran Farmers' Week attenders, the Michigan Grain and Feed Dealers Assn. and youth leaders. The farm crops and soil science departments heard "Contrasts in European Agriculture," from staff members M.M. Mortland and N. R. Thompson.

The centennial farm luncheon was a Thursday feature along with the mid-winter meeting of the Michigan Flying Farmers. Sen. Phillip A. Hart eddressed a joint meeting sponsored by the resource development and soil science departments. His topic was "Opportunities for Recreation in Michigan."

Michigan Muck Farmers also held their winter luncheon. Climax of the day was the farm management banquet which annually honors some of the state's outstanding farm operators.

Friday will drop the curtain on a busy week. Michigan dairy princess Gail Priddy of West Branch will greet guests attending the American Dairy Assn. meeting.

Michigan onion growers will crown their onion king at a luncheon meeting.

During the week many of MSU's departments will have exhibits in the stadium concourse along with displays from dozens of farm equipment firms. All departments will also hold "open house" of teaching and research facilities. Visitors will see hundreds of applicators of science and demonstrations of research which has made countless contributions to better farm living.

Weather Stalls Drive

BRITTON—Frigid weather proved a problem as the Britton-Macon High School senior class attempted to get its Tecumseh Herald subscription campaign off the ground last week.

The class opened the effort following the end of semester exams, but Mr. Weather Man hasn't been cooperating.

In the first weekend, the young people signed up 28 subscriptions, of which 12 were brand new. However, not a great deal of selling could take place due to the weather.

The campaign runs until Feb. 16 with the 29 seniors working towards a goal of commissions topping $300, which will be used to help finance their annual Washington trip.

On each $4 subscription, which is new, the senior class treasury earns $1.25. With a renewal, the commission is 50c. Special bonus awards of $5 for each 25 new subscriptions will increase the seniors' take.

Co-chairman of the effort are Susan Rowlands and Sandy Beal.

If readers have "tips" for the class, they are asked to call the chairman or any Tory senior.

Tories Have Fight To Win Close One

It took the Britton Tories three and a half quarters to muzzle and tie the fighting Bulldogs last Friday with a hard-fought 57 to 50 win.

It was a real team effort for the Tories to keep their winning streak intact.

Fred Mc Crate, Tom Koman and Pepper Griewahn kept the Tories in front by three points at half time, with their shots out front as the Bulldogs lay their defense back on the Britton big boys.

Ken Southwell and Phil Benedict took over the second half with 10 point apiece, along with the ball stealing by the Tories' little guard, Ron Mastie.

The Tories were able to outscore the Summerfield Bulldogs 30 to 26 in the second half.

At half time the J.V. and the varsity games, the little Tories (5th and 6th grades) played two games. Both ended in 4-4 ties. The team will play again at half time of the Ida and Whiteford games.

The Tories travel to Adrian High School gym Saturday, Feb. 2, to play the Adrian Catholic Central team.

Parents 'Too Rough' on Kids

Parents in the middle class have a tendency to make their children feel like failures when they are actually pretty good kids, says Richard L. Cutler, University of Michigan associate professor of psychology.

"Parents should let their children do what they can, not set impossible standards, and should set good examples for excellence in their own work," Cutler urges

The U-M educator notes that "there is an increased national concern today as to whether a child's academic achievement is a true measure of his capacity.

"This concern for academic achievement is motivated by four factors," he says. "First our society is a system based on competition and achievement, and second, World War II adults have achieved a phenomenal level of material success which has produced a materialistic society."

The third point Prof. Cutler calls a "beat the Russians" attitude. "This has fostered accelerated and enriched programs to maintain our number one position. Last, the accelerated pace of modern life and the pressure to hurry have an impact on the child."

Prof. Cutler states there is no evidence to suggest concern at the elementary level. "The demand for excellence is good in that it teaches the child to use his gifts to capacity and gives him the satisfaction of attaining a goal," he says.

It is bad for the group of children whom Prof. Cutler calls "losers" because "they do not have the ability to achieve these high standards. Also, since parents and school tend to judge only on performance, they lose track of the human part of the child," he says.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

WE ARE INVADED!

Sound the alarm! Man the observation posts! The invasion is on! This is the hue and cry we have been raising lately. Fortunately, the invader is not a bit undesirable. In fact, we are glad to have them around. Mourning doves are nice, peaceful birds but really, a flock of 17 does constitute an invasion, don't you think?

We always have a few doves in the neighborhood, but it was quite a surprise to see such a big flock and realize that, without a doubt, there were more nearby but just out of sight. I wonder if this is a particularly good mourning dove year — several times the folks, when coming from Ann Arbor, have seen huge flocks.

Mourning doves are quite fun to have around, very undemanding. Their wants are few and easily supplied. The squirrels co-operate in this. These two free-loaders, squirrels and mourning-doves, have a wonderful bit going for them.

Our four-footed bush-tailed friends love corn. When they start eating, one kernel at a time is picked from an ear but just the heart or germ, is nibbled out. The rest is dropped and by the time a whole ear has been stripped, the pile of discards is quite large. This is where the mourning doves come in; they too love corn. They will eat, eat, eat what the squirrels leave, a regular pick-up squad.

☆

NO DISCUSSION of mourning doves can long avoid the question, "Are they or aren't they dumb?" Well, may I duck and just say that we have found them no "great balls of fire". Once in a while, however, there is one who shows a lot of personality.

Symbolically, doves are birds of peace — so guess who this character decides to stand up to? Think of the least likely and you will be right — a blue jay.

The battles are not bloody. There is no actual combat, but the bluffing is fierce. The action starts when the blue jay decides to have lunch at the same time the mourning dove has similar thoughts. Both birds arrive at the feeder and the battle is on.

The blue jay, of course, is accustomed to having everyone leave when he appears and must be quite surprised when the dove stays put. He glares at the dove and the dove glares right back.

Then the most amazing thing happens: the dove starts blowing up. Feathers are fluffed and ruffled until the bird looks about twice its normal size. The blue jay usually retreats.

BUT GETTING back to our flock of 17, they make things quite exciting just by their number. They are sitting in the trees, on the fence rails and on the snow-covered ground. They are gobbling corn from beneath the corn tree and eating scratch feed and corn from the feeder.

Most of all, however, they are flying. Doves aren't the most active birds in the world. They will hunch up on a limb for incredibly long stays. But, with so many around someone is on the move all the time. They do keep things interesting.

With his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. David Holly, 1211 Shady Lane, Jerry was in Reading Center, N. Y. recently visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Holly.

The youth spied a copy of "The Origin of the North American Indians" by John McIntosh.

Thumbing through the volume, which was published in 1850, Jerry came upon a speech by Tecumseh made Aug. 12, 1810 in council at Vincennes with Governor Harrison.

Jerry enjoyed what he read and then completely transcribed the talk, bringing it to the school upon his return.

His teacher, Mrs. Wallace Whiting, read the effort to Jerry's fellow students.

The Herald is pleased to reprint here the speech by Tecumseh, which Jerry copied:

☆

IT IS true, I am a Shawnee. My forefathers were warriors. Their son is a warrior. From them I only take my existence; from my tribe I take nothing.

I am the maker of my own fortune; and that I could make that of my red people, and of my country, as great as the conceptions of my mind, when I think of the Spirit that rules the universe. I would not then come to Governor Harrison, to ask him to tear the treaty, and to obliterate the landmark but I would say to him, sir, you have liberty to return to your own country.

The being within, communing with past ages, tells me that once, nor until lately, there was no white man on this continent. That it then belonged all to red men, children of the same parents, placed on it by the Great Spirit that made them, to keep it to traverse it, to enjoy its productions, and to fill it with the same race. Once a happy race; since made miserable by the white people, who are never contented, but always encroaching.

The way, and the only way, to check and stop this evil is for all the red men to unite in claiming a common and equal right in the land, as it was at first, and should be yet: for it never was divided, but belongs to all, for the use of each.

☆

NO PART has a right to sell, even to each other, much less to strangers, those who want all, and will not do with less.

The white people have no right to take the land from the first—it is theirs. They may sell, but all must join. Any sale not made by all is not valid.

The late sale is bad, it was made by a part only. Part do not know how to sell. It requires all to make a bargain for all. All red men have equal rights to the unoccupied land.

The right of occupancy is as good in one place as in another. There cannot be two occupations in the same place. The first excludes all others.

It is not so in hunting or travelling, for there the same ground will serve many, as they may follow each other all day. But the camp is stationary, and that is occupancy. It belongs to the first who sits down on his blanket or skins, which he has thrown on the ground, and until he leaves it no other has a right.

☆

THE BOOK went on to relate: (The following characteristic circumstance occurred at one of the meetings at Vincennes. After Tecumseh had made a speech to Governor Harrison, and was about to seat himself in a chair, he observed that none had been placed for him. One was immediately ordered by the governor, and as the interpreter handed it to him, he said, "Your father requests you to take a chair."

("My father!" said Tecumseh, with great indignity of expression. "The sun is my father, and the earth is my mother; and on her bosom I will repose." He immediately seated himself, in the Indian manner, upon the ground.)

54 Years Outdate State Constitution

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce about the proposed Michigan Constitution.)

YOUR CONSTITUTION, written in 1908, is now 54 years old. At the time this document was written it was sufficient and efficient enough for the time and period. As time has passed, many changes have been effected within the actions of the people and the State of Michigan.

This one fact alone is enough to point out the obsolence of the old document. After 54 years, with the progress that Michigan has made, this old constitution is obsolete in many places.

Any document of such importance to so many people, involved many changes and amendments during the time of its use. These changes and amendments were made for the betterment of the state and its people, but after so many changes are made, the document needs revision and changes for lacking parts and conciseness.

☆

FROM OCTOBER 1961 until May 1962, 144 dedicated people converged in Lansing. Their aim was to compose a Constitution that would fill the gaps and frailities of the old document. They worked many long hours on a task that would be a benefit to the people of Michigan. These delegates were qualified and represented a clear cross-section of our state, regardless of party ties or area. This gives your Constitution a definite feeling of the state's people, from all areas and occupations.

Your Constitution is the strength of your government. From its strength hangs the basis for the smooth working of the legislative, executive and judicial branches.

This document guarantees your rights as an individual, and it confers powers on the various branches of government. It directly concerns you as a citizen. It is your obligation to all the other citizenry of Michigan to vote on this issue. This issue is important to your neighbors as well as you; talk about it, learn about it, pro or con, REGISTER AND VOTE ON IT.

Hemophilia Foundation Has Drive

The Michigan Chapter of the National Hemophiliac Foundation has started a drive to raise funds for research.

For the last two years, the Michigan Chapter has given $2,000 to the University of Michigan and $600 to Wayne State for research.

Several Lenawee County residents are hemophiliacs. Two Tecumseh boys, Guy and Merton F. Boss, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Merton D. Boss, have been giving blood for study and research. Guy spent two weeks in the research ward of the University Medical Center at Ann Arbor.

The discovery of a substance in the blood of hemophiliacs which prevents normal clotting has been found by a Wayne State University medical college scientist.

This is a step toward finding treatment for the disease, which is a tendancy to profuse bleeding even from slight wounds.

Anyone interested in the work of the Hemophiliac Foundation may receive further information from Mrs. Boss, phone 423-3422.

Helpful Health Hints

Beware Of Frostbite

By Bill Holmes

If you are planning on doing some skiing, ice fishing or tobogganing on these very cold days — beware of frostbite.

The extremities — feet, hands, ears, etc. — should be protected with light but well-fitting woolen clothes. Tight garments are to be avoided as are long periods of sitting or standing, especially when the clothing is wet or when the air is moist.

People with vascular diseases, the very young and more especially the old, are the most vulnerable to frostbite.

Frostbite is the destruction of tissue by freezing. In moderate or severe cases, thrombosis (a clotting of blood) in the small surface blood vessels occurs and blisters and superfisial or deep gangrene eventually result.

If frostbite occurs, see your doctor as soon as possible. Keep uninvolved parts of the body warm.

This can be done by the use of one ounce of whisky plus two aspirin tablets. DO NOT SMOKE as this will adversely affect the condition. DO NOT RUB SNOW OR APPLY COLD IN INJURED AREA.

After living in Washington State they returned to Tecumseh in November of 1945.

The couple have four sons, Charles, a freshman at Ferris Institute; Jeff, 16, a sophomore at Tecumseh High School; Mark, 12, in the sixth grade at Tecumseh Acres, and Kevin, 7, in the first grade at Tecumseh Acres.

Six years ago, Mrs. Osburn decided to attend evening classes and summer school at Adrian College and Eastern Michigan University to complete work on her degree.

She has accepted a position teaching fourth grade at the Ridgeway School this next semester.

Farm Bureau Board Opposes Wheat Plan

The Michigan Farm Bureau Board of Directors refers to the coming wheat referendum as 'the best place for Michigan farmers to stop complete government control of agriculture."

"The coming referendum provides a multiple-price idea for wheat," the board said, "tied to the tightest, most binding government controls ever seriously considered for any commodity. These controls include strict 'bushel' allotments, — a new, tougher type of marketing quota."

Vast new powers would be given to the secretary of agriculture to manipulate acres, dollars and government-stored grains, the group pointed out, putting him in the position of being able to make or break the market.

"If farmers accept the control scheme, they will have paved the way for full-scale supply-management control of their operations, including cross-compliance and if carried to its logical conclusion,—controls on livestock.

"Farmers rejection of the referendum wheat control scheme will once again emphasize that farm freedom is the real issue," the Board said, "and will have opened the way to the adoption of a realistic program that can help rather than hinder farmers in making needed adjustments."

TECUMSEH HERALD

LENAWEE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING TECUMSEH, BRITTON, RIDGEWAY, MACON AND TIPTON

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 18 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1963 | 16 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Every paper worth its salt has a New York correspondent.

Naturally, The Herald does.

If you don't believe us, just look at the yarn from Gotham on the next page.

Our Manhatten representative, Gretta Porter, does a piece this week about Julie Parish (nee Joyce Wilbar) for your reading pleasure.

If the Detroit News and The Blade of Toledo can flaunt around exotic datelines, so can this sheet.

Of course, we pay fabulous wages to our representative. Well, not actually. We tell Gretta the prestige she receives for her stories in The Herald will be invaluable. In fact, of no value.

So as she awaits a stipend (that will never come), Miss Porter spends her spare time toiling for some public relations outfit in Gotham.

Actually, the job is just a front as she prowls New York in search of copy for us.

Gretta is a former Tecumseh girl, but had never met Joyce here, having deserted our village about 10 years ago for fame and fortune in the big city newspaper field.

In a covering letter with her story for this week, Gretta states simply, "This Julie Parrish is quite a gal! Real credit to Tecumseh. She is completely unaffected, charming and bright.

"She came over to the apartment for dinner Saturday and we had the most delightful evening. My roommate, Carol, was quaking before Julie arrived—a real live actress at our house for dinner!—but was soon put at ease when Julie started chatting.

"She's going to go places—Tecumseh can be very proud of its latest fledgling testing her wings," our New York correspondent predicts.

Gretta feels Julie "will soon (be) offered other work here in New York" (when her stint in the stage comedy, "Memo" is completed.)

Gretta promises other stories about Miss Parrish as her show goes on Broadway.

Gloria Dei OKs New Church

The congregation of Gloria Dei Evangelical Lutheran Church, in a special meeting Sunday, voted unanimously to support the building of a new church.

Ground breaking ceremonies will be in late March or early April, depending on the weather, and the congregation hopes to have dedication rites in the new church Reformation Sunday, Oct. 27, 1963.

Site is the corner of N. Evans and W. Brown Sts.

The proposal for the new church was presented to the congregation by a committee headed by Dean Hamilton and including James Bliesner, Edwin Bunge, Charles Gross, Floyd Lane, Wallace MacGeorge, Stanley Rentschler, Melvin Ruettinger, Earl Ruttofsky and Burton Wright.

☆

FIRST UNIT of the structure will be a $70,000 church with a seating capacity of 215 for services. The entryway would include a large hall with facilities for a cloakroom. Necessary funds will be raised through pledges and gifts.

Future plans are for an extension of this hallway to the old church building. Church offices and library would open off the hallway.

The old church building would become an educational center and parish hall, after remodeling. The old parish hall would become the parsonage, according to the Rev. Laszlo Gero, pastor.

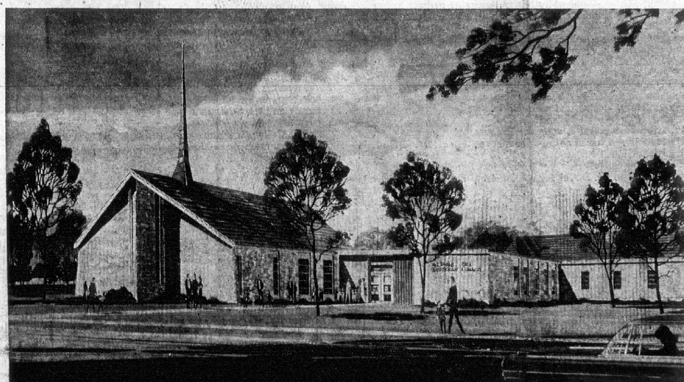

The building was designed by Carl B. Marr, architect, and construction will be by the Krieghoff-Lenawee Co. The walls will be of limestone, and a slender spire will top the structure.

THE BUILDING will face N. Evans St., with the altar at the east end of the structure. Stained glass panels at either side of the altar will catch the morning sun light and illuminate the sanctuary.

☆

When Gloria Dei organized here in 1958 as a mission church, it had 95 members. The present congregation totals 276.

The church is affiliated with the Lutheran Church in America an organization formed recently of four Lutheran bodies.

A NEW GLORIA DEI LUTHERAN CHURCH WILL BE BUILT HERE THIS YEAR, WITH GROUND BREAKING SET FOR MARCH OR APRIL

More than 100 officals attended the regional meeting. They were from Lenawee, Hillsdale, Ingham, Jackson, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw Counties.

Pros, Cons Are Sought

Tecumseh city officials have invited citizens interested in the proposed River Raisin reclamation project to a session Feb. 26.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

City officials are seeking arguments for and against the project.

Red Cross Chapter Names Directors

Vienna's Prettiest Baby

THEN and NOW

In the spring of 1931, this charming, curly-headed youngster was named the prettiest Baby of Vienna, Austria. He grew up to become an engineer and in 1948 moved to the United States. Now with Tecumseh Products Co., this fellow has developed into an eager amateur thespian. He's Fred Pokorny, 9299 Tonneberger Rd., and appears at right as he will look in the coming production of "Girl Crazy," being presented by the Tecumseh Players and opening at the Community Center Feb. 14. Fred plays the role of a piano player. Beneath the tam he wears is a shiney pate, the curly locks long since gone. A story about the musical comedy appears on page three and two more pictures run on the first page of the second section.

500 Seek Jobs

Applicants Line Up Before Dawn

More than 500 applied for jobs at Tecumseh Corrugated Tuesday.

A long line of persons started to form about 4 a.m. Cars were parked all the way to Russell Rd. by day-break.

Approximately 20 will be on the payroll by Monday, explained President Fred Attwood.

Others will be added as more machinery arrives until a peak employment of about 130 is reached in approximately eight months.

The firm's first key machine, a giant printer-slotter weighing 60,000 pounds, was installed Friday.

It was too wide for existing doorways in the plant and large chunks of walls had to be knocked out to enlarge the openings so the machine could be moved through.

The printer-slotter will handle cardboard blanks up to 68x122 inches, print them in two colors and then form into boxes. Another printer-slotter will be purchased later this year.

Corrugated officials express delight at the rousing start the company is making.

☆

MR. ATTWOOD states the building, which at one time housed a Quaker Oats Co. division, is in exceptional condition. Tecumseh Products, which purchased the structure, had it completely remodeled, installing new concrete floors, flourescent lighting, thermostatically-controlled gas unit heaers.

The Products also added a fire sprinkling system and an overhead power distribution system, which permits convenient electric outlets for machinery.

As prospective workers filled out application forms in a temporary employment office in the plant, the management team was busy gearing up for next week's start of production.

In the office sales manager James Robideau and Al Krol poured over blue-print specifications of the firm's first order.

Out back, plant manager Clarence Hanthorn and his assistant, Ted Pilat, made final adustments in the installation of the printer-slotter.

Mr. Attwood and the firm's treasurer, Gerald Schuster, were hustling about wrapping up other items of business.

Nelson Critical

The condition, as of Wednesday noon, of Ed Nelson was reported as extremely grave.

Tecumseh's first, and only, city manager entered Herrick Hospital last Thursday and has been on the critical list since.

His son, Robert, was called from his home at Trenton, N.S.

Construction of Post Office Set for Spring

By JIM LINCOLN

Unless there are unforseen obstacles, construction of Tecumseh's new post office will begin this spring.

Plans for the new building were approved by Council Monday night, then returned to government authorities Tuesday.

By letter, postal officials asked Councilmen for their approval in order to proceed with the advertising of bids.

The new building will have 5,982 square feet and face E. Chicago Blvd. with an entrance to a 10-car parking lot off S. Maumee St.

Face of the building will consist of dark reddish, field stone, capped with concrete panels. Large glass windows will be located at the extreme right section with the entry at the extreme left.

The rest of the building will be face brick, buff color, with an abundance of glass and aluminum.

About half of the trees on the Adams Park site, will be removed to make way for the building, parking area and the loading and unloading zone behind the structure. Total paved area amounts to 17,560 square feet.

Family Burned Out

BRITTON — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wooten, 12853 Pennington Rd., was completely destroyed by fire Jan. 29.

Discovered about 11 p.m., the attic fire drove Mrs. Wooten and her children from the home with nothing but a little personal clothing.

Mr. Wooten, employed at the Ford Rouge Plant as a crane operator, was working at the time of the blaze.

The family, with Tom, 10; Laura, 8; Buddy, 3, and Jimmy, 19 months, has lived at Britton only a few weeks, moving from Tecumseh.

☆

STAYING temporarily at 10656 N. County Line Rd., the family plans to move to a tenant house owned by Leon Squires on Welch Rd.

The home furnishings were lost along with personal papers, some cash and all the clothing except what could be carried. Praticularly in need were the two youngest children.

Jimmy is scheduled to enter University Medical Center in Ann Arbor April 17 for open heart surgery.

Mrs. Wooten was watching television when she noticed the smoke, apparently the result of a defective chimney in an old wood stove used to heat the back portion of the house.

She wakened the children and helped them from the burning

Reading of the death of Dr. Jean Piccard, pioneer space explorer, brought back a pleasant remembrance to this columnist, as it no doubt did to others in the community who were students in the Henry Ford schools of the area.

It was the privilege of these students to go to Dearborn where Dr. Piccard and his wife, Jeannette, were making ready for their renowned flight into the stratosphere on Tuesday, Oct. 3, 1934 at 2 a.m.

Dr. Piccard enthusiastically explained the workings of the gondola and the purpose of his balloon flights to advance scientific knowledge of the stratosphere.

It was intensely interesting to clamber inside and out of the spherical space ship and ponder what the trip into the wild blue yonder might be like.

Now the Swiss gentlemen is dead at the age of 79, after a life of giving freely of his scientific knowledge to the world.

TED PILAT AND CLARENCE HANTHORN MADE FINAL CHECK IN INSTALLATION OF PRINTER-SLOTTER AT CORRUGATED

Long and Short

Nearly 500 persons, almost all unemployed, showed up looking for work.

They were shown every courtesy and each one was offered an opportunity to fill out an application form.

Of the 500, only a scant fraction will be employed at this time. The rest will continue their search for steady work.

It's heart-rending to see folks in these straits and the only thing a person can do is wish them well—and then thank the good Lord for his own fortunes.

No matter how put-upon a person feels in his work, he should remember how fortunate he really is to have an opportunity to toil.

☆

Over coffee the other day, a group of men were talking about the art of the confidence man.

One told of a chap in Jackson who is a real charmer over the telephone.

He sells ads for programs or benefits — some non-existent. His fee usually starts around $5,000 and if a prospect can whittle him down to $1,000 or $5, he is fortunate.

This lad lives high — as do most con men. But the cash is soon squandered and often he'll sit out a season or two as a guest of the local sheriff.

But the stopper, in the conversation came, when a local businessman admitted to his companion that he has an uncle who is a genuine con expert.

He lives in a large Canadian city and sells stock by phone, everything from oil to uranium to gold.

"A while back I ran into him in Detroit. He was driving a great big Cadillac, his wife was dolled up in furs and jewels," the local man said.

"They were on their way to the southwest for an extended vacation. My uncle carried a roll of bills this big." (His hands formed a circle the size of a softball.)

"Well, a couple of months later, they stopped in Tecumseh. He was cold broke and wanted to borrow $5 to get back to his home in Canada. I finally gave him $25 to get him out of here."

The fellow told of how this uncle can spell bind his "clients." Once he narrowly missed getting the Tecumseh man's parents to dispose of some fine blue chip stocks to invest in some fly-by-night venture.

When the citizen here heard of this he blew his top and upon collaring the uncle warned him never to ply his trade with mom and dad.

When things are going for Uncle, he and his wife live in the finest neighborhood of the city.

In the periods of being broke, they'll move into a chinzy apartment and he'll start all over.

"It never bothers him," the Tecumseh man told his friends, "He seems to be as carefree as ever."

'Boy, if he went ligitimate, he'd be a tremendous success."

He's Known as 'Mr. Fern'

Dr. Charles DeVol, speaker for Sunday's Union Community service, is known among educators as "Mr. Fern."

Some of his fern collection is in the Botany Department of the University of Michigan.

The service starts at 8 p.m. in St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

While his first love has been missionary work, during extensive travels over the world and particularly in the East and near East he has gathered an unusual fern collection.

However, the collection is not an end in itself to Dr. DeVol for through this research he has been drawn to respect and worship more devotedly the Creator.

His intensive study in the field of natural science has enhanced his appreciation of spiritual values, consequently, he is well qualified to speak relative to science and the Bible.

Because of the many years spent in China, Dr. DeVol is said to speak the Chinese language just like the Chinese.

In fact, some of his friends say he speaks the language even better than some of the Chinese.

The service Sunday evening will be followed by a fellowship period in the Fellowship Hall to enable interested persons to have the opportunity to meet Dr. DeVol.

Arrangements for this time are being made by Mrs. Frank Hawthorne and the other minister's wives.

The Rev. Julian Gresham, president of Tecumseh Area Ministerial Association, and the Rev. Frank Hawthorne are arranging for the service.

Getting 40c Receipt from Gotham Cabbie Is Initial Problem

By GRETTA PORTER
Special to The Herald

NEW YORK — "Have you ever tried to get a receipt from a New York cab driver for 40 cents for income tax purposes?" Joyce Wilbar asked this reporter by way of greeting.

This was the first problem which confronted the vivacious young actress from Tecumseh, whose stage name in Julie Parrish, when she arrived in New York Thursday.

Other little difficulties encountered: lack of rain boots and umbrella to combat the New York weather.

Julie began rehearsals Monday for a Broadway show, "Memo," which is scheduled to open at New York's Cort Theater the week of March 18. Co-starring in the sophisticated comedy is MacDonald Carey.

Bubbling with enthusiasm for the show, Julie has had the script since September and has "learned it forwards and backwards. I just got the revised script and fortunately there are only a few changes in my lines."

"In this show, "Julie explained, "I play a Mexican American gal, Maria Alvarez. She's a Stanford girl and the part doesn't call for an accent. Mac Carey is my employer and sweetheart.

"I feel very comfortable in the part. Maria acts and thinks the way I do. She's the same age. That's why I'm not too scared. I adore the character."

She said Mac Carey wanted to have the show's title changed to "Memo to Maria" — "which would have been just great for me."

"Even as well as I know the show, it still makes me really laugh everytime I read the lines, It's really a funny play," Julie exclaimed.

☆

IN THE SHOW which is being co-produced and directed by Shepard Traube, Julie will wear costumes designed by Theoni Aldrich, including a bikini, a towel (!), muu-muu,, ski outfit, slack outfit, and dress.

Discussing the stage setting, Julie said, "It will incorporate something that's never been done before. Sliding glass doors separate the audience from the stage.

"In a couple of scenes, the doors will be shut when the curtain goes up, as if the audience were looking into a room. The setting will be just beautiful — I've seen the models. There won't be too much furniture. It's a one-set show."

Everyone connected with the show, Julie commented, is most hopeful that the New York newspaper strike will be settled before "Memo" opens here. It's somewhat difficult to advertise the show without newspapers.

To publicize the show, MacDonald Carey will appear on the "Tonight" show and introduce Julie at that time. (Watch the Herald for date of her appearance.) After the show opens, Julie will return to the "Tonight" spot.

JOYCE WILBAR

In discussing the live theater as contrasted to the movies, the dark-haired beauty emphasized that "there's nothing, absolutely nothing like a live audience. You KNOW you have to get it right. In movies it can be shot over and over till it's perfect."

☆

TO ACCEPT the Broadway role, Julie had to turn down a leading role in a forthcoming Walt Disney production. But she's not sorry.

Despite her youthful appearance, Julie is not likely to be typed as an ingenue. "In 'Memo' I'm billed as 'leading lady' which does away with the ingenue label. A casting director once told me I act like 22 going on 30!"

Before opening in New York, the show will have two out-of-town dates — Wilmington and Boston. A longer road run was cancelled.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilbar will be on hand opening night to see their daughter debut on the Broadway stage.

First Musical Comedy

Frank Dalton, president of the Tecumseh Players, will be on stage in "Girl Crazy", playing a Big City hood. Frank follows his comedy hit as Banjo in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

First musical comedy ever staged by the Tecumseh Players will go before the audience next week.

"Girl Crazy," with music by George and Ira Gershwin, has been presented in many forms on stage and in the movies.

The Player's version includes not only the original music, but some added from Gershwin's "American in Paris".

One of the best known of these additions worked into the score is "I've Got Rythm." made famous by Ethel Merman.

Mrs. Richard Purkey sings this number in "Girl Crazy," playing the part of "Frisco Kate," an entertainer with an eye for Johnny Churchill.

☆

JOHNNY, a former TV western hero now trying to make a go of an Arizona ranch, is played by David Woods.

Used to the attention of women, he is intrigued by the fact that Molly, the postmistress in the local town, isn't interested in him.

Molly is played by Mrs. Robert Bagdon.

Johnny and Molly duet in such favorite Gershwin numbers as "Embraceable You."

Zoli Mostell, Kate's former husband and present accompanist, is portrayed by Fred Pokorny.

☆

ROUNDING OUT the cast are Sam, a press agent played by Dr. Robert L. Murray, and Doc and Snake Eyes, played by Frank Dalton and Dr. Richard Hammel, who run the local hotel and gambling casino.

A large chorus will add their voices and dancing talents to the production, both in special and supporting numbers.

I'm Biding My Time" and a barbershop quartet number are done by a male quartet including Gordon Comfort, Dr. Carlton Cook, L. E. "Gene" Earling and John Hartley.

Show Tickets Moving Fast

A brisk advance ticket sale to the Tecumseh Player's production of "Girl Crazy" indicates record turnouts. All seats are reserved.

The musical is being staged Feb. 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23 at the Community Center. Because of the large stage area required, only 207 seats will be available for each performance.

Center sections for both Saturday performances are already sold out with side seats going rapidly.

Reservations may be made at the Herald from 1 to 5 p.m. and in the evening by calling 423-4331.

Marilyn VanCamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Camp, 408 W. Logan St., was graduated Jan. 31 from Lansing Community College of Practical Nursing. Her parents held an open house Sunday for guests from Detroit, Mason and Tecumseh. Miss VanCamp is a 1959 graduate of Tecumseh High School. She will begin working this month in Bixby Hospital at Adrian.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

A Pious Comment by Walter

Far be it from us to tell the Democrats how to run their party in Michigan.

In fact, we're enjoying the way they do it so much that we can only cheer from the sideline, "Keep it up, fellows."

When the bottom fell out over the weekend in Grand Rapids at the state Dem convention, a lot of folks were surprised.

For the first time in many a year, the Democrats displayed a wide split in their former solid front. The old poise is gone and the party is heading off in several directions.

Walter Reuther piously told the Economic Club of Detroit Monday that labor didn't want to take over control of the Democratic party. If it did, Walter contended, labor would start its own party.

This brought some wry grins. Apparently the fellows around Solidarity House haven't been keeping Walter posted on politics in Michigan.

Or else he has been too busy making speeches. A recent public pronouncement of about 10 days ago still has heads spinning.

It was real simple. Walter said that in the case of a strike, which can't seem to be settled, the government should take over the industry and run it until management and labor reach accord.

As best as we can figure, this seems to reflect the philosophy Walt picked up as a youth, when he and his brother lived in Russia.

Executive Branch Revised in Proposed Constitution

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce outlining major points in the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

We feel Article 5 of the new proposed Michigan Constitution dealing with the executive branch, is greatly improved over our present antiquated constitution.

We presently give our governor great responsibilities but very little authority to successfully perform his duties. The new document greatly strengthens this office, as well as the entire executive branch, but at the same time provides a good system of checks and balances for a stronger government.

The terms of governor and other elected officials will be lengthened from the present two years to four years. This change gives the governor an opportunity to better carry out his programs.

The new document gives the governor the chance to appoint a majority of the members to most commissions during his term (with the consent and advice of the Senate). This makes the heads of all commissions directly responsible to the governor.

The Governor would be required to submit a balanced executive budget (with the approval of the legislature's appropriation committee). If revenues fall below estimates, a revised budget with reduced expenditures must be submitted.

He also may call the legislature back into session to raise additional revenue.

A strengthened provision includes a procedure for determining disability of the governor if he is unable to perform his responsibilities a clear succession to the office of governor.

The Lieutenant governor will be nominated by party convention and run as a team with the governor. This strengthens both offices, with the likelihood of closer cooperation in carrying out the responsibilities of running the state. The Lieutenant governor, as president of the Senate, gains a vote in case of Senate deadlock.

☆

THE APPOINTMENT of principal department heads such as treasurer by the governor, the superintendent of public instruction by the State Board of Education, the auditor general by the legislature, and the highway commissioner by the Highway Commission, should result in experienced men with administrative and technical competence.

The secretary of state and the attorney general still remain elective posts

Appointment to the important position of highway commissioner would be made by the Highway Commission. The commission would be four appointed members for four-year terms. Michigan has the only highway commissioner in the nation still elected.

The provision to consolidate the present 120 boards and commissions into 20 principal departments is a move for greater efficiency in operation of your state government and toward the possibility of saving tax dollars through this efficiency.

Our present government structure has been described, and we believe rightly so, as looking like "a 20-mule team harnessed in the dark by an one-armed idiot."

The consolidation provides individual department heads responsible to the governor. The governor gains authority to remove any department head as he sees fit, in order to maintain the highest degree of efficiency possible.

The governor would through an executive order be able to reorganize the executive branch, subject to veto by both houses of legislature within 60 days.

☆

THE STATE civil service is changed very little The legislature would be able to reject or reduce proposed wage increases by a ⅔ vote of its members in event of a clear abuse of Civil Service Commission powers. Civil Service administrative heads may abolish positions for efficiency reasons but not for partisan, racial or religious reasons.

The proposed constitution provides for a governor-appointed eight-member Civil Rights Commission, with no more than four members from the same party.

This commission will investigate discrimination because of religious race, color or national origin in respect to civil rights. Before final disposition by the commission all cases shall be tried before Circuit Court.

Hold That Weight Down

The world may love a fat man, as the saying goes. But the fat man's doctor worries about his patient's health.

The chief reason is the high death rate among those who are overweight, reports Dr. Park W. Willis, III, of The University of Michigan Medical Center.

"The obese patient is more likely to develop certain diseases that may be fatal or that may have fatal complications."

These include diabetes, hardening of the arteries, strokes, high blood pressure, heart attacks, and gall bladder, liver and kidney diseases. "Even cancer has been found to be more common in fat people," Dr. Willis says.

☆

THE OVERWEIGHT person also has a harder time recovering from serious illnesses, operations and accidents, says the U-M physician.

In addition, he suffers other annoying physical symptoms and emotional difficulties.

► He tires easily, often develops flat feet and arthritis of the knees.

► Heat bothers him. He flushes and sweats and is prone to develop certain skin conditions.

► He has personality problems. "A lot of mental stress comes from being teased or ridiculed . . . and from lack of social acceptance. It has been reported that the suicide rate is much higher than normal in overweight people."

☆

DR. WILLIS lists obesity as the "commonest single disease in the United States today."

His solution: convince the overweight to eat less and maintain an "ideal" weight.

Teen Crusade Is Saturday

Communism's grip on teenagers will be described by a man who attended the eighth World Festival of Communist Youth in Helsinki, Finland, at the Teen Life Crusade Rally in the Dawson Auditorium on the campus of Adrian College.

He is the Rev. Bill Drury, executive director of Philadelphia's Youtharama, who will address the group Saturday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

He will describe how two Swiss newsmen were beaten by the Red mobs who had gathered under the theme, "Peace and Friendship," and how Finnish police had to attack their own children under the threat of a Russian invasion to break up anti-Red rioting by Finnish youths protesting the festival being held on their soil.

He said 450 Americans were among the thousands of college youths and young professionals from 139 nations at the festival.

The Rev. Mr. Drury also will describe his interviews with cosmonaut Yuri Gararin, Russian poet Yeotrishenko and reporters for Pravda and Tass.

The Teen Life Crusade is a cooperative effort of pastors and churches in Lenawee County and the public is invited to attend.

Other features of the rally this Saturday will be a Bible quiz and special music by the youth choir and a trip from the Canandaigua Community Church.

Scoring Mark Set in 92-Point Route

A complete turnabout Saturday night resulted in a Tecumseh scoring mark as the Indians wallopped a visiting Airport five, 92-63.

Dead on their feet against Flat Rock Friday, Coach Doug Murdoch's league leading Indians poured it on against the Jets to erase a six-year-old school mark of 89 points, set in 1957.

Ten Indians joined in routing Airport with six hitting the bucket in the double-figure column.

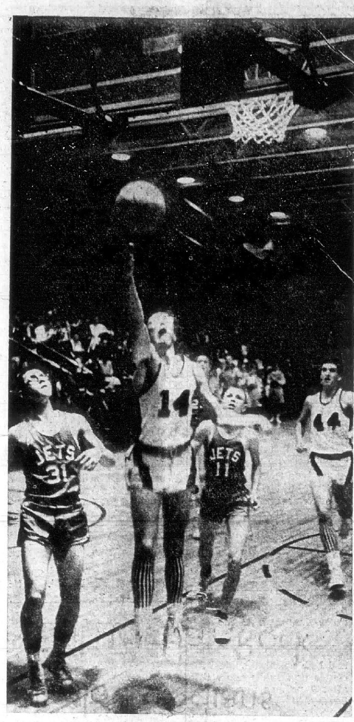

Tecumseh travels to Blissfield Friday night and must win to stay in first place or remain in a tie with Flat Rock. The Indians dumped the Royals last December in a hard fought game in the ABT tourney at Adrian.

☆

JUGGLING the lineup and installing a pressing defense paid all kinds of dividends for Coach Murdoch against Airport.

Sophomore Gregg Allen topped the scorers with 16. Jack Dick and Brad McCombs collected 14 each, Jerry Hebb 13, and Tim Sisson and John Oberlin, 10 each.

The 92-point total, common in college and pro games where there's at least an equivalent of another high school eight-minute quarter, resulted from 21-26-21-24-point periods.

FIRST OF MANY—Senior forward Jack Dick tallies on a lay-up, one of 32 field goals netted by the Indians in their easy win over Airport. Jerry Hebb (44) moves in to backup his teammate.

Listless Indians Fall to Flat Rock

Tecumseh dropped its second game of the season to Flat Rock Friday night, 74-58, and it was no wonder—the Indians played miserably.

Somewhat unorthodox in their manuevers and shooting, the Rams came to play basketball. The Indians didn't. FR deserved the victory.

The often brilliant Tecumseh team—despite two losses to FR easily should have racked up the Rams. But they could not shoot, run, jump or perform the other fundamentals necessary for winning.

☆

THE GAME undoubtedly caused nightmares to Coach Doug Murdoch and his players that night, especially when they knew they were capable of winning.

A big 24-point second quarter, boosting an even count at the end of the first eight minutes to a 14-point margin, was all FR needed.

At one time, the lead mounted to 18 points in the third quarter, only to have Tecumseh close the gap to 10 while playing its best ball of the evening.

Jim Tangeman, top Huron League scorer, tallied 28 points to pace all scorers. Tim Sisson and Jerry Hebb each scored 12 points for the Indians.

Greenfield Village Will Celebrate 100th Birthday

Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village will have a year-long program to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of its founder.

Events will take place at the famed American shrine in Dearborn, and additional programs have been planned to call attention to the centennial in cities around the nation.

More than 1,000 American antiques, showing progress in the United States from the 1600s through the beginning of the present century, have been loaned from the Greenfield Village collection for display during the centennial at the famous Lincoln Road Mall in Miami Beach.

Main Street U.S.A., an exhibition of Americana from Greenfield Village which travels the country by rail, will carry a centennial message to dozens of cities and towns in which it is scheduled to be shown during the coming months.

A colorful outdoor pageant in July will dramatize Henry Ford's industrial genius, and will depict his lesser-known accomplishments in other fields.

Each of the annual special events at the museum and village—such as the Muzzle Loaders Festival, Country Fair of Yesteryear and Old Car Festival—will incorporate a special centennial observance.

A current show of sports cars past and present features a display of early racing machines which Henry Ford drove more than 50 years ago. Included in this group is the famous "999," which he piloted to a 90-mile-an-hour speed record in 1904.

Greenfield Village officials expect nearly 1.5 million visitors during the centennial. Last year's record 1,140,000 was more than double the count in 1947, year of Henry Ford's death.

Tipton Man Sent to Jail

Circuit Judge Rex Martin sentenced Gerald D. Karpo of Tipton to three to 15 years in Southern Michigan Prison Jan. 31.

Karpo, 20, pled guilty to a charge of breaking and entering Richard's Oil Co.

He was apprehended by sheriff's officers in a cornfield after leaving the building when an employee arrived.

Karpo also served a term in the same prison for forgery and one in a California prison for breaking and entering.

Judge Martin recommended that Karpo be sent to Cassidy Lake Training school or to a prison camp.

He was given credit for time served since Dec. 19.

Con-Con Report

Retailers Support Revised Constitution

The Michigan Retailers Association has added its voice to the growing number of nonpartisan Michigan groups which endorse the passage of the proposed new state constitution at the April 1 election.

Richard O. Cook, executive vice president of the organization, reported that 94 percent of the voting members had approved the document in a poll taken by mail.

"We have turned our organization efforts to carrying out the dictates of the membership," Mr. Cook said. "We are working with all other interested groups and individuals to assure knowledgeable voter participation in the spring election."

The retail association has 3,600 member stores spread around the state. Its poll was taken after a special committee appointed by President Paul C. Wagner of Ann Arbor studied the new basic law formulated by the recent Constitutional Convention.

THE MRA membership expressed itself on a proposed "policy declaration" which needed a two-thirds vote for approval. Mr. Cook said 74% of the eligible voting membership — 20% above normal — registered its opinion.

"We consider this an excellent return that clearly indicates the interest of Michigan retailers in this most vital subject," he said.

The policy declaration says that the proposed constitution is "structurally capable of providing the basic system of government for the citizens of a growing Michigan."

"The new constitution, as supported by a majority of the delegates to the Michigan Constitutional Convention, is such a capable document and deserves the full support of all Michigan citizens.

"The Michigan Retailers Asso. therefore strongly urges the adoption of the new constitution in April, 1963 by the voters of this state.

☆

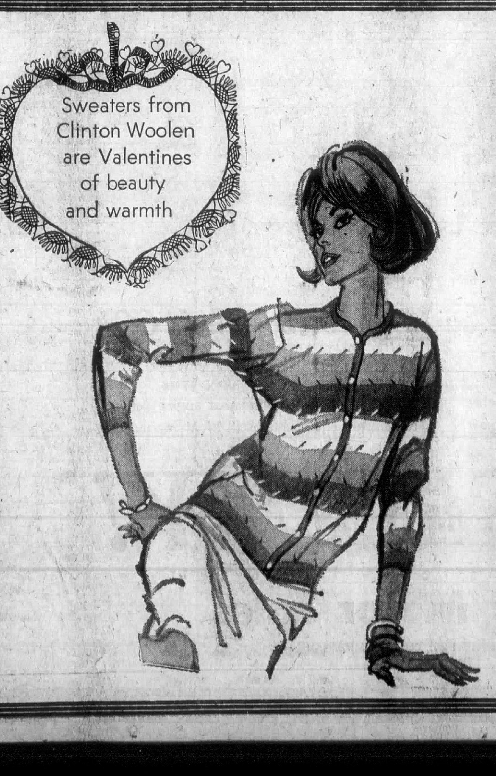

"FURTHER, the association urges all members to participate actively in programs designed to acquaint citizens with the provisions of the constitution and to assure knowledgeable voter participation in the 1963 spring election without regard to political considerations or personal prejudices involving limited sections of the proposed document."

Among other nonpartisan state groups which have previously endorsed the new constitution are the Michigan Farm Bureau, the Michigan League of Women Voters, the Michigan Education Asso., the Michigan Council of Churches, the Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Michigan Chapter sity Women.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The most reliable harbinger of prosperity in the United States points to 1963 as a year unmatched in history.

For years, the American economy has been closely tied to the production and sales of automobiles. Production of 1963 automobiles and trucks has reached an all time high.

By the end of December, a million and a half more trucks and cars had been produced than was manufactured for the 1962 market. This great increase reflects a new confidence of the American automotive business in its ability to sell a high quality product in the face of pressing competition from European manufacturers.

It also reflects a new faith in advertising. American manufacturers have learned that straight-forward advertising which stresses quality will sell a good product in spite of price advantages of the competition.

Thus, American automotive advertising has taken a new turn. It is now appealing to "second car" buyers with confidence. Several years ago this market was almost forfeited to European manufacturers.

The moral here was learned by such retailers as Sears and A & P years ago—that is, never under-rate quality as compared to economy even when dealing with a mass consumed product.

Of couse the public is interested in economy. However, it is more interested in value in terms of money spent.

The retailer, as well as the manufacturer, who has goods or services which provide values other than low price, does not have to be afraid of low-price competition when he uses advertising properly to inform the public about why his higher price is justified.

Mrs. Schneider Is Honored

Twenty-one past presidents of the American Legion Auxiliary were awaiting her arrival with Mrs. Charles Howe.

As the two entered the restaurant, Mrs. Schneider said, "We better not go in there. They are having some kind of meeting," much to the amusement of her companion.

The dinner featured a pink and white decorated birthday cake.

The group presented Mrs. Schneider with a permanent floral arrangement with cherub statuettes.

A brief meeting to reorganize the group was held following the dinner. Mrs. Jack Smith was elected president and Mrs. Vern Manwaring, secretary and treasurer.

Meetings will be held the last Thursday of every other month. Mrs. Paul Keyser will be hostess for the April meeting.

Later the group went to the home of Mrs. Kenneth Herrick to play cards.

Marda Gene Duncan's

THROUGH MY WINDOW

IT HAPPENS EVERY YEAR

When January and February roll around Old Man Winter takes a stand somewhere to the northwest of here and thoroughly enjoys blowing his cold, icy breath our way.

This year he seems to be outdoing himself. Winter weather we expect but this is ridiculous.

Records are made to be broken, but must all cold weather ones be broken at once?

I always dread winter, but it is never as bad as I expect. The worst thing as far as we are concerned, is that it is so confining. Our wheelchair doesn't get along well with snow and ice.

However, this is the time I always develop a terrible guilt complex. Nobody loves warm weather more than I do, but if we must have winter, and here in Michigan it seems that we must, I say "Let's have it."

From the snug warmness of my bed I can enjoy really cold weather. The purely selfish thought is that it is pretty.

☆

NOT HAVING to struggle with boots and gloves, nor gingerly contend with icy streets, nor fight a hard-to-start car on a cold dark morning, I can have the blankets pulled up a bit higher and settle back for some good looking.

And it is good looking too—the temperature doesn't have to skid to 16° below. That is a bit extreme, but readings from about 20 on down produce some lovely window pictures.

Usually our frigid arctic air is accompanied by fair weather. I look out on a true winter wonderland. Bright sunshine and deep, soft snow are an unbeatable combination.

Shadows on the snow are a blue-black and sunshine studs the snow with a million sparkles and glitters.

☆

THE SKY is a clear, bright blue and have you noticed lately how many jet streams crisscross the heavens and how clearly they stand out.

Everything is sharp and more vivid on a cold crisp day. The excitement of such weather is contagious, it comes right through my window.

The mood of less pleasant weather comes right through too. When the thermometer climbs to the high 20's or low 30's so often the days are dark and dreary.

A bone-chilling dampness comes in and our spirits sink as the temperature rises. The world outside is bleak, the sky is gray and the snow is dirty.

To me this is winter at its worst and the reason why our fourth season seems terribly long and drawn out. Isn't it unfortunate that the bad weather is remembered so much easier than the good?

☆

OCCASIONALLY, of course, even the bad days become worth while. How about a snow storm, a soft, gentle fall with big, fluffy flakes—very lovely indeed.

And, still speaking from a "staying in" point of view, I can even enjoy a wild blizzard. A roaring wind which whips the snow into a wild frenzy generates its own brand of excitement and good looking.

Several Saturdays ago a twosome worked together and produced sheer, wintertime magic. It was bitterly cold and for about an hour a heavy fog shrouded all.

When it lifted, our window pictures were breathtakingly beautiful — the frozen-on fog trimmed the trees with fine white lace.

So it is that winter has come and once again I am amazed at all the good-looking. I shouldn't be surprised, of course, it happens every year.

Implement Firm Hosts Rural Folks

It was back in 1924 when the late Hoyt E. Whelan, father of Fay Whelan, local farm implement dealer, started entertaining customers at an annual open house.

One day each winter, farm friends would flock into Tecumseh for a look at the latest in equipment.

On occasions, a factory representative would tear down a tractor to show farmers how it was done.

In the early 1930's, the John Deere Co. began a similar program for its dealers and the Whelan open house merged perfectly with the national theme.

☆

DEERE prepares special movies on farm life and farming techniques as the big portion of its program each year.

Coming up Feb. 12 this year, the Whelans will be entertaining about 550 farm folks at its John Deere Day.

Festivities begin at 11 a.m. in the Strand Theatre. At noon, guests will stream across the back lot to the Whelan showroom for a steaming lunch, which will be prepared by ladies of the Tecumseh Grange.

At 1 p.m., they'll return to the Strand for about one and one-half hours more of festivities, capped with the awarding of prizes.

Knife Fight Brings Jail for Cutter

Edward Guy Edwards of Adrian was sentenced to 90 days in jail for assault and battery after a second jury trial which was held last week in Circuit Court.

He was given credit for 60 days already served since his arrest.

Edwards was charged with cutting William Brown and Raymond Pate of Tecumseh with a linoleum knife during a fight.

Edwards told the jury that he may have cut the men, but if he did it was in self defense.

The wounds were minor and were treated Sept. 30 at Herrick Memorial Hospital after the fight.

L. B. Kuney represented Edwards in both trials as a court-appointed attorney. Prosecutor Harvey Koselka brought the case to trial. The jury in the first trial was unable to reach a unanimous decision.

MAC POWELL WITH A MUZZLE-LOADING REVOLVER IN HIS GUN SHOP ON N. PEARL ST.

Drifted into Gun Collecting

BY DOROTHY GRIGG

"I just naturally drifted into it," said O. M. Powell of 316 N. Pearl St. when he was asked how he happened to become interested in guns.

Mac, as he is called by his many friend, has a great number of various caliber weapons including six or eight muzzle loaders, shot guns, rifles and revolvers. He has a great number of various weapons. He buys and sells all the time until at the moment he really doesn't know the number in his collection.

Mac has both a federal and a state license for selling weapons.

He said first his brother and a nephew each gave him one. This started the ball rolling. Most of them came from Southern Ohio, the muzzle loader with a powder horn and powder purchased from an old man of Wellston, O.

Also among those cherished by Mac are an old Kentucky rifle with a 44-inch barrel and a replica of an old dueling pistol, also a muzzle loader.

☆

MAC DISPENSED a bit of advice to anyone interested in loading a muzzle loader. He said that an old rule of thumb is to place the ball in the palm of the hand and cover it with powder.

This is sufficient for one load.

Mac and his wife, Edith were both born in southern Ohio not far from the Ohio river. They experienced the flood of 1913 when the valley was filled and water backed up into the homes.

The couple was married in Montgomery, Ala. while he was in the service during World War I. After their marriage, Mac served in Scotland, England, France and Belgium.

☆

THEY CAME to Macon after the war and farmed before moving into Tecumseh in 1923.

Mac worked for Drewyer and Robinson Implement Co. until 1937, when he went into business on his own under the name of Mac's Service and Supplies.

In 1952 he sold the business to John Fossey. Many were the services he had provided for farm and towns people alike.

Welding was one of his major services to customers. Many times the horses stood hitched to a post, dinner cooled on the table while everything waited for Mac Powell to get the offending farm implement welded back together.

☆

HAVING always had an interest in farming, Mac bought 24 acres from John Sell in 1946. He sold it to Duane Furbush in 1961.

That same year he bought ten acres on the Raisin River from Merl Melott of Clinton. He enjoys visiting this property now. His saddle horse, "Katy", provides transportation about the woods and river bottom and the eight acres of work land.

Mac says, "It's a nice place to go. I have a little barn and a saw mill up there."

The past five years Mac has been on the night shift at the Tecumseh police station.

☆

THE POWELLS have five children, William of McCoy and Powell Real Estate, John of 303 E. Logan St., Mrs. Raynor Van Valkenburg of 7764 N. Adrian Hwy., Mrs. William Osburn of 6404 Pocklington Rd. and Mrs. John Thomas of Jackson.

The Powells are also pleased and proud of their 19 grandchildren. Mrs. Powell says, "They come often but they don't annoy. We have lots of nice picnics together."

A friend of Powells suggested that The Herald do a feature story of Mac's hobby of wood craft, another avenue of adventure which he followed for several years, making delightful things to please his friends.

But this active Tecumsehite has found a new major hobby — his gun collection and its care — and this takes the time he formerly spent at the woodworking tools.

53 Years for Boy Scouting

Scout Week, marking the 53rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, will be observed from Thursday, Feb. 7, through Wednesday, Feb. 13.

The theme for this year's program is "Strengthen America . . . Be Fit, Be Present."

The Federal Charter, granted by the United States Congress on June 15, 1916, states that the purpose of Scouting "shall be to promote through organizations and cooperation with other agencies, the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others.

It continues, to train them in Scoutcraft and teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance, and kindred virtues, by placing emphasis upon the Scout Oath or promise and laws for character building, citizenship training and physical fitness."

The 1963 Scout Week activities will be started by the 7th Annual Lenape District Appreciation Dinner.

The dinner will be held at the Michigan Producers Dairy in Adrian Thursday and will start at 7 p.m.

☆

PROGRAM FOR the evening will be a Pan-O-Rama of Scout Advancement showing just how a boy can grow in the Boy Scout program from an eight-year-old Bobcat Cub Scout to the Boy Scout or Explorer, Eagle Scout.

Cubmasters, Scoutmasters and Explorer Advisors and Den Mothers will be recognized for their work in the Scouting program.

Others to be honored will be people and organizations that have contributed to the Scouting program, though not actively registered in Scouting.

Each Cub Pack, Scout Troop and Explorer Post's adult leaders are planning their own potluck dinners for this banquet.

All reservations are to be made to the Wolverine Council office, 31 E. Elm Ave. in Monroe.

☆

OTHER Scout Week Activities will be highlighted by Scout Sunday observances in most all of the Churches in Lenawee County, on Feb. 10.

All Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers and their parents are encouraged to attend as a family, the church of their choice and the Scouts are to wear their uniforms.

At these services, some Boy Scouts and Explorers will receive their religious awards of their faith, which are presented to them by their own church.

Seniors' Campaign Adds 45 Subscribers

By TOM RIORDAN

BRITTON — At the mid-point of the Britton-Macon seniors, Tecumseh Herald selling campaign, 45 new subscribers have been added to the mailing list.

In addition, 26 renewals were signed up.

The seniors are conducting the effort to earn money for their annual Washington trip. They receive a $1.25 commission on each new subscription and 50c for a renewal.

Their goal is $300.

In the first two portions of the campaign, Susan Rowlands captured the "star salesman" commission of $5 both times. The special award is paid to the senior who brings in the most new subscriptions in roughly one week of selling.

Susan scored with seven new ones the opening weekend of the drive and then had 12 the next time. Running a close second in the past period was Fred McCrate, who sold 10 new subscriptions.

Readers who would like to help the seniors may call 451-2311 and suggest potential customers.

Although the Fighting Knights have suffered a number of defeats this season, last Friday's game against Deerfield was probably the hardest fought contest of the season.

Both teams did well the first half, both showing a lot of spark on defense as well as offense. However, the Deerfield Minutmen were able to increase the gap at half-time to 52-38.

In the final period of the game Boysville moved within 7 points of Deerfield, but time ran out leaving the score at 77-70 Deerfield.

Boysville's JV team was felled by Wayne St. Mary's last week by a score of 51-46.

HEY, LET ME HAVE IT — That's about what Tim Sisson (24) might be saying to the Airport player who is picking off a rebound in Saturday's make-up game, which was played about three weeks late due to previous bad weather. Kiwanians Will Be Kept Busy

In keeping with Kiwanis objects and objectives, Dr. Richard Coak while presenting the Rev. Laslo Gero, pastor of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church spelled out what Kiwanians will be responsible for during 1963.

In quoting from the keynote address of Walter Ray at the mid winter meeting, he said "It is necessary for every Kiwanian to do 10 times what the average citizen does" and "never in the history of the world was a cause won by being merely anti."

Dr. Gero impressed the members with the importance of US citizenship.

He told of the struggle most Europeans would endure just to obtain US citizenship.

He said of the five million Hungarians who have obtained citizenship never has he heard of any of them relinquishing their status, even though they had been bombarded by communist propaganda.

Dr. Gero left his native Hungary during the revolution there in 1958.

President Richard Myers, reminded the members that Tecumseh would be hosting the Kiwanis spring divisional meeting in April.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Being a literary agent sounds like a fascinating business and so it's time to give this aspect of the writing game a once-around-the-park fling.

Actually, my becoming an agent for a budding young author wasn't hard. In fact, downright simple.

Gail Marie Saunders, age 13, of Dearborn is my first client.

The new wrinkle in my career came about quite by accident Saturday afternoon while visiting an old friend.

It had been several years between get-togethers and this was spiced with much catching-up. Then, Bill introduced his 13-year-old daughter and said she was quite a writer.

Would I look over some of her efforts?

The first peek at one of Gail's short stories banished the thought that this was strictly eighth grade stuff.

Gail's dad explained that she had been writing since the sixth grade and had done dozens of stories, was now working on her first book.

Doing all fiction, she is going at it almost every day.

From first glance, the things which impressed me with Gail's work were the crisp sentence structure, her polished vocabulary, but most of all, her dialog.

If you've ever done much writing, you'll probably agree that doing a sparkling job on quoting story characters is a tough job.

It's equally difficult to round off the quotes with something besides, "John said."

One of Gail's stories, entitled "For the Love of Jimmy", has a sequel about a mom and dad getting a puppy for their son. Here's Gail:

When the puppies saw the Johnsons, all of them ran but one. He just sat there with his head cocked to one side as though he was glued to the ground.

"Oh, Cord," Betty Johnson said to her husband, "Isn't he simply darling! Let's buy him."

"Wait a minute," Mr. Johnson broke in, "We'll have to check and see if..."

But before he could finish his statement, the subject of their conversation was at his feet — jumping, tail wagging.

"Well I guess that settles it," Mrs. Johnson laughed as she picked up the puppy.

Notice the way Gail smoothed along the flow with "broke in" and "laughed", in addition to her natural conversation and descriptive account of the scene.

Gail's worked so impressed me that I brought home a batch of her stories. There's one, particularly good, which The Herald will run. It's called "The Christmas Gift."

In leaving the Saunders home, my observation to Gail was that she now had an agent — me.

Man, I can almost hear the postman's footsteps, as he comes up Nokomis St., bringing my 10% fees on Gail's writings.

Clinton Sets Move to Iowa

Clinton Engines Co. is transferring all its operations to Maquoketa, Iowa.

The plant in Clinton, which employs over 200, will be shut down by May.

Three-quarters of the machinery will be moved to the Iowa base, which has gradually become headquarters for the firm, that manufactures small gasoline engines, chain saws and outboard motors.

Officials of the union were notified Friday by executive vice-president Art Smith of the coming shut-down. He had made a quick trip to Clinton and then returned to Iowa over the weekend.

He was busy Monday drafting a news release, which was slated for distribution by Allied Public Relations of New York City by mid-week.

Mr. Smith confirmed to The Herald in a telephone interview that afternoon that employees had been notified but that he had "no public statement" at the time.

☆

IT IS KNOWN that the move "under one roof" was planned for almost a year. Eliminated will be thousands of miles of travel for castings, which were done in Clinton and then trucked to Iowa.

Efficiency in all operations should result.

Clinton officials apparently don't intend disposing of that machinery, which will not be moved, or selling the buildings. Clinton Engines has had some stormy chapters in its history. Founded in the nearby Lenawee County village, the plant errupted with a union problem 10 years ago, which resulted with the operation being transplanted to Iowa.

Gradually, some segments were brought back into Clinton. This trend reversed itself in the past year as management decided to center everything in Maquoketa.

Here We Go Again: Dillon Quits, City Signs New Collector

By JIM LINCOLN

Roots Rubbish and Garbage Contractors, of Ann Arbor, started pickup services here Tuesday morning after Acme, Inc., notified acting city manager Cal Zorn Sunday night that it was out of business.

This is the second change in collection services here in about a month.

Zorn said Tuesday that Roots would operate one truck here full time and employ another truck or two on half days, two or three times a week, in order to catch-up on services to the residents and businesses.

The Ann Arbor firm has been given the job for February and March. Bids are already being sought, and Zorn hopes that a new contract, beginning April 1, will be let at the March 4 or 18 Council meeting.

Acme has been one headache after another for city officials who let the contract for local service. Collections deteriorated so badly late last year that Council notified Acme in January that its contract was being revoked, effective April 1.

Herb Dillon, who originally sold the business to Acme, offered to take it over, admitting that services had been poor and the finances somewhat jumbled.

After several weeks attempting to correct the situation, he called Zorn Sunday saying that he could not continue.

He told the city official that his trucks had broken down, that Acme had already collected payments from many for the quarter and the financial condition of the concern did not warrant continuing in business.

Zorn says the bonding company, which bonded Acme, will be asked now to pay costs to Roots for February and March service.

Customers who have not yet made their payments may send them to city hall.

Treasurer Challenged

An interesting race for the position of Tecumseh Twp. treasurer is shaping up.

The first-term incumbent, Mrs. Garland Gove, 8725 Mathews Rd., faces Mrs. Earl Baldwin, 9234 Murphy Rd.

They'll vie in the Republican primary Monday and the victor gets the post since the Democrats have no candidates—for this office and any others.

What puts spark into the race is that Mrs. Gove, although running as a Republican, has definite leanings in the opposite direction.

The Herald asked Mrs. Gove if she was a Republican or Democrat.

She replid, "I split my ticket when I vote. Is there anything wrong with that?"

Interestingly enough, prior to her win as a GOP candidate two years ago, she served for many years as a township election inspector, expressing in writing that her "political party preference" was "Democrat."

Pay for the job of township treasurer is one-percent of taxes collected. Last year township property owners paid in approximately $6,000, giving the treasurer a $600 salary.

☆

IN THE only other contested race, Mrs. Milburn Brooks, 2154 E. Monroe Rd., is challenging Nobel Gregg, 1997 E. Monroe Rd., for his post of trustee.

Art Eaton 5695 E. Monroe Rd., runs unopposed for township supervisor, as do Al Merz 9716 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., for clerk; Fay Van Valkenburg 8153 N. Adrian Hwy., for board of review and Donald A. Smith 9361 Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., for constable.

Voting takes place at Tecumseh Equipment Co. from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. There are approximately 300 registered voters in Tecumseh Twp.

Watershed Survey Gets Official Nod

A complete survey of the River Raisin Watershed will be made by the State Soil Conservation Department.

Lloyd Ruesink, secretary of the Lenawee District, has officially requested the technical review and appraisal."

Being studied will be "flood control and improved drainage on the east side of Lenawee County extending into Monroe County, recreation are a development and industrial water supply."

Mr. Ruesink noted in his request to the state group that "There is interest at Tecumseh for the recreational development area and industrial water supply."

He also pointed out, "There is a need for additional water management on farmlands in the eastern part of Lenawee County."

☆

AN AREA meeting for people from communities which would be envolved in the River Raisin reclamation project, including Clinton, Tecumseh, Palmyra, Adrian, Blissfield, Dundee, Deerfield and Monroe, will be held at the Tecumseh Community Center, Feb. 26 at 8 p.m.

The general public is welcome, according to Cal Zorn and Royal Welch, who are co-chairman of the project locally.

They hope that an area committee will be named at this sessions, with each community having its own group working on the project.

Mr. Welch lauded work being done in Blissfield, where Duane DeLoach, local editor and publisher, is leading the way with a campaign in The Blissfield Advance.

☆

IF THE entire reclamation plan eventually becomes a reality there would be 12 lakes in Lenawee County, including three new ones in the immediate Tecumseh area.

There would also be at least three and possibly more in Monroe County.

Caucuses Planned for 2 Townships

Area townships are planning party caucuses and spring primary elections Saturday and Monday.

Macon Township's caucuses will be at the town hall Saturday, Feb. 16. Republicans will meet at 1 p.m. and the Democrats at 3 p.m.

The Raisin Township Republican caucus will be at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 18, in the town hall at Holloway. The Democrats did not file for a caucus.

McDowell Offered One-Year Contract

Contracts for the administration and teaching personnel were approved by the school board Tuesday night, a continuance of Monday night's regular meeting.

Teachers' contracts call for the usual $120 a year increment. Non professional personnel contracts will come up for discussion and review at the March 11 meeting.

Board president Aden Mead appointed members Dike Hodge, Ralph Comfort and Orville Bishop to study non-professional employee salaries and report back to the board.

Supt. James McDowell was offered a renewal of his one-year contract at the same salary, $16,500.

Norval Bovee, business manager, was extended a one-year contract with an increment of $200, making his salary for 1963-'64 school term at $8,600.

Besides routine matters at the meeting Monday, the board authorized Mr. Bovee to investigate buying a lot, practically surrounded by school property on N. Maumee St., from George Peters.

The lot runs between the high school and the administration building.

Purchase of the house and lot at the corner of N. Maumee and Shawnee came under discussion but it was decided not to take any action. The property was

City Manager Dies

Hundreds and hundreds from Tecumseh and the area paid their final respects this past week to Edmund J. Nelson, 61, Tecumseh's city manager for the past eight years.

Funeral services were held here Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church for Mr. Nelson, who died about 12:45 last Thursday noon at Herrick Hospital.

Death was expected. He had been in failing health for the past three years, and had been in and out of hospitals numerous times, combating cancer and heart trouble.

Despite his poor health, he held the city manager's post until last month, when on his doctor's advice, he resigned to become city consultant.

Mr. Nelson's association with citizens of the community actually eclipsed eight years. About a year and a half before council selected him to head city government on Jan. 7, 1954, he had been brought here to supervise the construction of the disposal plant.

Prior to the city manager's appointment, he had served on the village council and was one time manager of the old cyclone fence company here.

Most of Tecumseh's present, general improvements were instigated and completed while he was city manager; new bridges over River Raisin and Evans Creek, six new wells, an elevated water tank on S. Wyandotte, water mains to five new subdivisions and to other areas depending on private wells.

Street improvement program involving miles of new surfacing, curb and gutter, the inception of bituminous concrete for our main thoroughfares, assistance in planning and carrying out city utilities in subdivisions.

Expansion and improvements in city departments, the new community center, and many other facets of city operations and departments, in which he worked, supervised or started.

Mr. Nelson administrated city government within the budget, a thrifty manager who only once asked Council during the past three years to increase millage.

That request was necessitated to start a street program which will now benefit the community for many years to come. While he could have asked for several mills, he sought only one.

About 15 months ago, nearly 400 turned out in what was undoubtedly one of his greatest surprises and pleasures, a banquet in his honor at the Tecumseh Products Union Hall.

It was one of the greatest tributes ever given a local citizen.

A native of Michigan, he was born on Oct. 5, 1901, at Crystal Falls. Twenty-six years later on

TAIDC Sells Old Faraday Adrian Plant

Bowen Millwork & Furniture Co. of Adrian purchased the old Church St. plant of Faraday, Inc. from the Tecumseh Area Industrial Develop Corp. Wednesday morning.

Bowen was burned out of its Adrian layout two weeks ago.

Jack Osburn of TAIDC contacted the firm Saturday, showed the 60,000-square-feet setup Sunday and the deal was closed three days later.

Bowen, which employs 20, will use approximately two-thirds of the space, with the remainder being leased to Stubnitz-Greene Spring Corp. for storage.

No sale price was announced.

TAIDC purchased the two-story building when it induced Faraday to come to Tecumseh.

Behind Page One

For last week's story of the State Line Gem and Mineral Society, the headline read "Rock Hunt Tales Told to Society." Corky Hunt, 9-year-old son of Mrs. Robert Hunt, who works in this office, read the headline and asked his mother, "Are we any relation to Rock Hunt?"

What a birthday gift. There is just nothing that thrills a boy about to be 16 like obtaining his first driver's license.

Tom Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wright of 312 W. Kilbuck St., looking forward to his birthday anniversary Jan. 5.

Jan. 4 he fell on the ice while on his way to school and fractured a small bone in his left leg.

The slip happened behind the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Building and relatives employed at Ed's Auto Service took Tom to his home.

Now Tom is looking forward again, this time to Feb. 15 when he hopes to have the walking cast removed.

What is the first thing he wants to do? Apply for that license, of course.

Running a business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You may know what you are doing—but no one else does.

Dr. Bob Murray made his television debut last week and his dental partner. Dr. Bob Laidlaw almost went grey in the process. Dr. Murray, as president of the Michigan dental group for children, was invited to appear on the Larry Sands TV show over CKLW-TV. Dr. Laidlaw rode along to the Windsor studio, which proved fortunate because just before show time Dr. Murray was asked to stage a demonstration on proper brushing of teeth. And there were no props. Dr. Laidlaw rushed to a phone book, started down the A's to find a dentist. At Dr. Anderson he called asked for a model of over-size teeth and a big brush, was steered to another dentist who had some. Dr. Laidlaw rushed out and back, just as the camera's red light flashed on and the show started.

Gordon Crocker, Junior High teacher who coached the St. Elizabeth football squad, was surprised at the Catholic school athletic banquet Sunday evening with a gift from his players. It was a golf driver. Mr. Crocker explained to the gathering, this was especially appreciated since he had been playing golf with only irons. Then he modestly added "Can you imagine driving 440 yards with just a three iron."

The panic button was touched off Saturday at rehearsals for "Girl Crazy." Mrs. Duane Steele's daughter telephoned to say that "a man took" her brother from the Strand Theater. A quick trip to the show and a paging over the public address system proved that the lad had only been moved by an usher to quiet a disturbance. But by the time the panic was over, play cast principal Mrs. Richard Purkey, the boy's godmother, was unnerved to the point of having to leave the rehearsal.

A sign planted atop a four-foot snowbank in front of a barber shop on I-94 Business Loop in Benton Harbor drew plenty of smiles from passing motorists recently. It read: "Snow For Sale". One unexpected reaction occurred when a woman stopped in the barber shop and offered to buy some snow . . . if she could have it delivered next Fourth of July.

"Here's something you've always wanted. And it's free." This happy little message arrived at the Frank J. Cubon residence, 206 W. Kilbuck St., last week as well as at the homes of other post box holders. It was quite a surprise when upon opening the envelope there was nothing inside. Somebody goofed. Later it was reported that most such envelopes contained an offer to pick up 1963 license tabs for autos from a local car dealer.

Varsity Club members are having basketball program printed on slick paper for the final two home games of the year and during the district tournament, which opens March 5.

In the district meet here, fans will see some new squads, all Class B, including Saline, Monroe Jefferson and Erie Mason, as well as Blissfield and Monroe Catholic Central. The latter two have paid regular visits to Tecumseh.

Going on the ballot for nomination to the Univerity of Michigan's Board of Regents is our old friend, Ink White. Yes, that's really his name—and naturally he is in the newspaper business, publishing the Clinton County Republican News of St. Johns. Ink is a grad of Michigan, a fine guy and we hope he gets the nomination.

Sometimes life seems impossible. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bryan of 310 W. Shawnee St. had almost completed the task of getting their 11-year-old son John to shut the water faucet entirely off when he left the bathroom. Then along came cold winter with it's icy fingers that pushed the frost line to 52 inches freezing pipes from the street to the Bryan home. What did the city water department tell the Bryans? let the water run.

Moms-to-be aren't the only ones who get cravings for exotic dishes at odd times. During that below-zero snap recently, Chuck Goodacre, service manager at Wilson Motor Sales, decided he wanted a charcoal broiled steak—done on his own outdoor grill, just like summer. Chuck made one concession to the elements, setting up the grill in his garage, where it was only about two-below.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rumpf and family won the Valentine cake at the potluck supper and meeting of the Tecumseh Chapter No. 51, OES, Thursday evening.

A skit, "Follow the Gleam", and vocal selections by Ida J. Harley and Glenn Driscoll honored the past matrons and patrons.

Mrs. Robert Hunt and Mrs. Katharine Hunt, president and parliamentarian of the Lenawee-Monroe Association, were welcomed.

☆

Announcements were made of the Lenawee-Monroe Association dance and card party to be held at Addison March 16, and that Addison is the sister Chapter of Tecumseh. Tecumseh Chapter will present the program at Addison March 1.

Mrs. Harold Easton, Mrs. John Lott and Mrs. Duane Steel served refreshments [illegible] room.

A reception for 200 was held following the wedding, featuring a tiered heart-shaped cake.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School. After a trip in the southern states for one week the couple will make their home in Ann Arbor.

The rehearsal dinner was given in the home of the bride's mother.

Packaging Designer Joins Firm

Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. has hired Forrest Richards of Lebanon, O. as packaging engineer.

Mr. Richards has had 25 years experience in the corrugated industry—eight years with Ottawa River Paper Co. at Toledo, and later, in the same capacity, with Lanzit Box Co. and Triangle Container of Chicago.

He is recognized as one of the foremost designers in the industry.

Tom Weaver was hired as sales correspondent, reporting to Al Krol, manager of customer service.

Tom was formerly with the Monroe Union Bag Corp. plant, in a similar capacity.

Four major pieces of equipment are now in production at Corrugated and shipments from plant are expected to start next week.

A total of 21 people are on the payroll, and hiring will continue through next week, states Fred Attwood, president.

Six in Race for Quartet Council Seats

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

How long has it been since you walked alone in the falling snow perhaps in a wood or across a lake?

It' good for body and soul. Away from busy work-a-day thoughts and people, one's mind turns to those things that really count.

My, but God has been good to us.

Bundled and warm from a fast trudge, we suddenly slacken our pace and think, Well, what's the hurry anyway?

Why the hustle and bustle? Tomorrow will come soon enough if we give it time. Time, m-m-mh.

Each day for itself, that's all we can live at one time, after all.

Take that walk in the snow soon. You'll be glad you did.

NELSON

May 28, 1927, he married Evelyn Ames of Waukegon, Ill.

Mr. Nelson worked for the Cyclone Fence Division of U.S. Steel & Wire Corp., from 1921 to 1929, when he moved with the fence division to Tecumseh.

In 1936, he was transferred to Indiana, where after nine years, he joined the Ashley Picker Co. From 1947 to 1950, he was employed by the Metal Tile Products Co., of Hastings.

During parts of 1950 and 1951, he managed the American Machine and Tool Co. at Toledo.

Mr. Nelson, a member of numerous associations, was a local member of the Masonic Lodge, Exchange Club, and a year ago, was chairman of the Lenawee County Safety Committee.

Survivors, besides his wife, are a son, Robert, of Trenton, N.Y.; brother, Carl Nelson, Tecumseh; three sisters, Metha I. Nelson of Hollywood, Mrs. Fred Alford of Waukegan, and Mrs. Russell LeFebvre of Florence, Wis.; and two grandchildren.

A brother and two sisters preceded him in death.

The Rev. Julian Gresham officiated and the Green-Dunn Funeral Home was in charge of services. Pallbearers were Mayor Harold Easton, Councilmen Robert Bonner, John Hamilton, Carl Lamb, Terrence Mackin and Gene Tuckey.

Honorary pallbearers were city employees.

A Masonic service was conducted Sunday evening at the funeral home. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

He Was A Great Guy

"I didn't know I had so many friends," was the comment made by the late Ed Nelson a year ago, following a testimonial dinner in his honor.

More than 400 had jammed the Products Union Hall to pay tribute to Tecumseh's city manager, honoring his years of devoted duty to the community.

Ed and his family were thrilled. So were the people who staged it and those who attended the affair, which ranks as one of the nicest parties held hereabouts in many years.

At the time, Ed, his body already racked with cancer, knew his days were numbered. Almost everyone else did, too.

But this was no maudlin scene, rather an evening of gay fun. Ed loved the teaseing he got from old friends, like the spear-fishing expedition years ago in Red Mill Pond when he insisted on making the first thrust ending up tumbling overboard.

The praise Ed received was richly deserved and honestly given.

His life since then became progressively more difficult. The cancer, and a variety of heart attacks gradually sapped his strength. But never his determination to serve his city. Nor his willingness to cooperate.

Newspapers and city governments often have differences of opinions over the years. But no matter what these might have been between Ed and The Herald, they were always smoothed out and Ed never held a grudge.

We always thought Ed Nelson was a great guy

ED'S BIG NIGHT—Ed Nelson, city manager who died last week, was thrilled almost beyond description at the testimonial banquet given in his honor in the fall of 1961. Here Ed is congratulated by Charlie Mensing following the affair.

How To Lose $1 Million

One of the things Michigan wouldn't have should the proposed Constitution be approved is the spring election.

If we ever needed proof of the wisdom of this move, heres Exhibition A — next week's vote in Tecumseh Twp.

First of all, not a single Democrat filed for any of the seven township posts. That party's printed ballot is entirely blank. Someone may write in a name or two, but it's doubtful.

On the other side is the Republican ballot. There's only one candidate in five of the seven races. Only two positions have people opposing one another.

Obviously, there is scant interest in this election.

Without some big offices going up for grabs, elections receive little attention and thus fail to attract candidates or voters.

Multiply this disinterest by most of the township in the state and you have a mountain of wasted effort — and state funds.

Elimination of these spring elections will save the state $1 million. This alone is worth approving the New-Con. There are dozens of other reasons as well.

Some officials have the feeling that in grouping their races with state and national ones in the fall, the township battles would get lost in the shuffle.

Wrong!

The result could well be just the opposite. With plans brewing for the bigger races, more and more folks would get interested in lining up candidates or in running themselves for township posts.

Certainly, based on our Exhibition A, spring primaries are now a waste of money, another prime reason we should update our 1908 Constitution.

Help Can Be on The Way

Even as the news of Clinton Engines' removal from the village four miles to our north starts to spread, the situation in Clinton has possibilities of righting itself.

That town's Chamber of Commerce is in negotiation with another plant which has expressed interest in coming there.

If this materializes, it would mean bringing a glow to the complexion of Clinton's economy, which at present may appear a trifle peaked — and what town wouldn't be under this situation.

We have great faith in this entire area and honestly feel situations like this have a way of being worked out.

Ridgeway Library Feels Money Pinch

The 75th annual meeting of the Hall Memorial Library Asso. was held in the library in Ridgeway, Feb. 7

Jeanette Roberts, librarian for the Lenawee County Library, reported that many libraries, including the county library, are facing serious financial problems, and the County Library Board is finding it necessary to take a close look at branch libraries whose circulation of books does not indicate sufficient local interest to warrant the money being spent to pay a librarian to keep them open.

"An increased circulation of books and use of the library facilities by more people in 1963 may be the only way Ridgeway can keep it's library open," said Bernard Bishop association president.

Treasurer Norman Johnson reported that friends of the library contributed $412 during 1962, thus enabling the library to keep open as a branch of the Lenawee County library system.

In addition to the 2,000 books in the collection of the Hall library, 563 adult and 723 juvenile books from the county library are available for circulation.

During 1962 some 1567 books were loaned to adults and children of the community.

Officers elected to serve during 1963 are:

President — Mr. Bishop

1st Vice-president — Mrs. Robert Mitchinson

2nd Vice-President — Harley Slick

Treasurer — Norman Johnson

Secretary and Librarian — Mrs. Gerald Miller.

Earl Murphy of Britton takes a peek into the past via the well-kept diary of his father, written during the last century.

1875 Had Its Cold Days, Murphy Diary Points Out

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Earl Murphy of Britton brings interesting facts to The Herald concerning the weather of yesteryear.

While reading an account of cold January temperatures, Mr. Murphy recalled that diaries kept by his father, Thomas Murphy, held a record of temperatures in the 1870's.

He sought them out and was quite surprised to learn that temperatures then did not differ so much from the present winter readings.

In a firm hand, the elder Mr. Murphy had penned:

Jan. 5 1875—16 degrees below

Jan. 9, 1875—17 degrees below

Jan. 10, 1875—16 degrees below

Succeeding days were "very cold" and Feb. 3 was recorded as "quite cool, 10 degrees below."

☆

THE ELDER Mr. Murphy came to the United States from Ireland.

The diary states, "Left my home in Ireland May 23, 1868, was 17 days on the water and three days on the cars from New York to Detroit. Arrived in Tecumseh June 18, 1868."

The pocket diary was presented to the owner by his employer, Judge Stacy, son of a former editor of the Tecumseh Herald.

Mr. Murphy worked for Judge Stacy for six years until his marriage. He also lived in the Stacy home, which is presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wegner, 710 W. Chicago Blvd.

Most days the diary reads that Mr. Murphy hauled wood for the fireplaces in the big Stacy house.

☆

THROUGH THE month of February, he recorded "awful cold" and below zero temperatures, the lowest being 23 degrees Feb. 9, 1875, three loads of wood that day.

March 3 didn't bring much warmth apparently. It was "perfectly awful cold."

March 4, there was "lots of snow" and Mr. Murphy "made paths all day."

In 1877 or '78, Earl Murphy is not quite sure when, Mrs. Stacy asked his father, "When are you and Jennie going to get married?"

And then she graciously said, "Judge Stacy and I would like to have your wedding held here."

Thus it was that Earl's parents were married in the lovely brick home on the boulevard.

A Valentine theme was used and a three-tiered cake made by Mrs. Cavin and decorated with hearts and bells, centered the table.

The Spohrs have four other children, Lee and Dale Spohr of Britton, Dean Spohr of Clayton and Mrs. Howard Haas, Jr. of Britton.

Indians Win, Lead Title Race

The up and down Tecumseh Indians, rolling towards a Huron League championship, were up last Friday night to thrash a Blissfield five, 69,53.

Unless the Indians falter in their remaining three games, Coach Doug Murdoch's team is a cinch for the title. Dundee upset Flat Rock Saturday night, knocking the Rams out of a tie and into second place.

Milan, defeated earlier in the season, plays here Friday night in what should be a rather easy game for Tecumseh.

Hitting over 40% from the field against the Royals, the Indians were even hotter at the free throw line where they connected on 21 of 27 tosses.

Tecumseh, as in many past performances, scorched the nets in the first half to lead 39-22, but cooled off in the final two quarters.

Norm Tucker, senior forward and leading scorer, paced the Indians again with 28 points. Tim Sisson scored 13 points and Jerry Hebb, 10. In all eight Tecumseh players joined in the scoring.

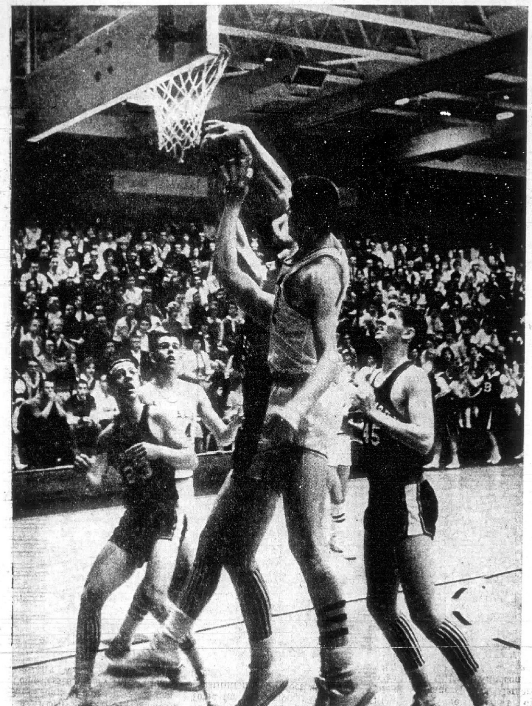

Whether the Indians can keep winning is questionable. In the unpredictable Huron League, teams Tecumseh has whipped by 15 to 25 points have in turn trounced Flat Rock — twice conquerors of the local cagers.

Two victories will cinch a tie for the loop, unless FR drops another, and if the Rams do, the race will be over.

Ex-Pro Directs Dance Steps

Dance steps for the musical comedy "Girl Crazy" are being guided by an ex-professional.

The Tecumseh Players' effort, which opens Thursday, has Mrs. Ted Pihl as choreographer.

She's an old timer when it comes to dancing, having embarked on a career at age three. She hung up her dancing shoes 15 years ago when she married.

Her career included stints in the movies as a child actress, stage appearances and town celebrations, performances. Mrs. Pihl also had a hand in radio work, doing writing and announcing for two years.

When the Players were formed three years ago, Mrs. Pihl joined the fun to help on sets, with costumes and makeups—but not to take any "on stage" chores.

Early effort by the amateur theatre group ran to drama and comedy. When it was decided last spring that the mid-winter show this year would be a musical, the group tapped Lorayne for choreographer.

The assignment was a natural and Mrs. Pihl has excelled in the job.

In fact, she looked so good showing the dancers how to do the various steps, she was soon roped into the specialty number, "Bronco Busters", which is the show's big dance.

She's been dancing in that one with Dr. Carlton Cook, Gordon Comfort, and the King brothers, Greg and Bruce.

☆

LORAYNE WAS three when she took her first ballet lesson. That was in Big Springs, Neb. When the family moved to Whittier, Calif. three years later, Lorayne broke into movies.

While six and seven, she worked at Columbia Studios as a member of a crew that did "Kid Comedies," which was in competition with the "Our Gang" series.

The Frickey family then moved to Iowa and little Lorayne was hard at her dancing, appearing at club programs, banquets and town celebrations.

This continued when she later attended Galesburg, Ill. High School, following a move there. While at Knox College in Galesburg, she appeared in a movie filmed on the campus, which featured William Holden and was called, "Those Were the Days."

"I was just one of many students standing around in the background," she shrugs off the movie.

After college, she went into radio and did a two-year stint writing and announcing for WG-IL, the local station, before marrying Ted Pihl, who then was teaching physics at Knox and now is chief electrical engineer.

The still trim Lorayne has worked hard for "Girl Crazy" and muses, "I hope they're not expecting too much from me."

But the players are thrilled, having a former movie star in the cast.

Insurance Coverag Extended for Corn Planting

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has authorized broader coverages and larger payments on corn that is planted this spring, according to Earl Wilson, Indiana-Michigan director for the corporation.

This broad protection is expected to result in a 20% increase in business in old counties this year in Indiana and Michigan.

He pointed out that the insurance taken out last fall on the 1963 wheat crop was at record levels.

Federal crop insurance is provided in counties where experience shows that a sound program can be handled, and where sufficient numbers of farmers are interested to assure efficient policy management.

It is unique in that it is designed to protect the cost of production against all natural hazards. By offering protection against loss of the farmers year-to-year working capital, it helps safeguard both past and future profits.

The farmers who pay the policies get assurances that they will receive payments from this Department of Agriculture agency, if their crops are damaged or destroyed by natural causes—drought, flood, hail or similar conditions.

Tax Changes Made in Proposed Code

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce outlining major points in the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

Article IX of the new proposed Michigan Constitution dealing with finance and taxation affects all of us personally. The first two sections provide the continuation of legislative levy of taxes, sufficient with other resources, to pay the expenses of state government.

Also, the privilege of taxation shall be surrendered, suspended or contracted away.

The new document provides the legislature shall continue a uniform real and personal property tax. However it is an improvement over our present one, setting a taxable limit not to exceed 50% of the true cash value. This percentage will be equal throughout the state with the new provision.

All property owned and occupied by non-profit religious or educational organizations and used exclusively for these purposes shall be exempt from real and personal property taxes. This is a new section.

THE TOTAL general non-voted property tax shall never exceed 15 mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of property as finally equalized. This remains unchanged. However a provision to allow the voters of any county or township or school district may initate an additional levy for their area.

The proposed constitution states, "No income tax graduated as to rate or base shall be imposed by the state or any of its subdivisions."

The legislature shall not impose a sales tax of more than 4%. One-half of such tax shall be earmarked for a school aid fund to be used exclusively for aid to school districts, higher education and school employees retirement system. Payments from this fund shall be made in full on a scheduled basis as provided by law.

The present ratio of sales tax returned to local governments remains the same, but the legislature is given the authority to exempt items like food, drugs and others as they see fit.

☆

ALL TAXES levied on motor vehicles, registration and fuels are still definitely earmarked for highway purposes. The one change is the wording to allow the legislature to define "highway purposes".

To allow responsible financing the legislature may borrow money up to 15% of the undedicated revenue from the previous fiscal year. With the stipulation this debt must be repaid in the same fiscal year it is borrowed, this implements a balanced budget. Borrowing for more than one fiscal year must be approved in both houses of the legislature by two-thirds of each membership and a majority of the people voting on the issue in a public election.

No money shall be paid out of the state treasury except in pursuance of appropriations made by law.

In the state's proposed new constitution, civil rights are strengthened. The new document has created the first and only state constitutional civil rights commission in the United States with broad powers.

Brown Re-Elected by Angus Group

Curtis Brown of Tecumseh was renamed vice president of the Michigan Angus Assn. at the group's recent meeting in East Lansing.

Also re-elected were William Brittain of Williamston, president; James Donahue, secretary, and Janet Stuart, treasurer.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE COLOR IS RED

A tired, old joke, dear to the hearts of weather-forecasters—talks about heavy snow followed by small boys with sleds. Well, could I change it to read snow followed by cardinals! This is exactly what happens up here—no matter how many, or how few, we see during good weather, when the snowflakes fly, so do the red beauties. They fly right up to the feeding station.

It is absolutely maddening how independent these birds can be in good weather. Corn and sunflower seeds will be piled high and we see cardinals flitting around but, if the ground is not white, the banquet tables are high-hatted.

Oh, I don't mean to say that the red ones never stop for a bite, because they do—they just don't come regularly and that, of course, is what we like them to do. At times it almost seems as if they are intentionally trying to tease us; they sit in the wren tree and it is a case of being so near and yet so far. How aggravating!

☆

THE TABLES turn quickly, however, and after the first heavy snowstorm my but the feeders become popular.

Mama and Papa C. hurry in; being hardly able to wait for day-light, they arrive for breakfast long before anyone else is around.

Cardinals are notoriously early and late feeders—at both the beginning and the end of the day we have had them at the feeding station when it was so dark we barely realized there was a bird there.

One thing about the red pretties though, they don't have to be seen to have their presence known.

No one ever taught them it is impolite to talk with their mouths full.

They make a peculiar little 'cheep-cheep-cheep' noise and all through a meal the sound-track plays.

It is always good for a chuckle to watch a cardinal working hard to grind open a big sunflower seed and listen to him talk.

Wish I could say that the harder he works the louder he talks, but it just isn't so, these birds do not seem to get excited about anything.

☆

A CARDINAL enjoying a meal is the picture of calm peacefulness. They don't hurry nor gobble the food but like true gourmets, chew slowly and savor each morsel.

There is an air of alooftness about them, they are really quite dignified.

Although the deep-freeze temperatures belie it, spring is coming—she may not be too close but the cardinals are starting to hint at her eventual arrival.

The handsome males are beginning to be a little more tolerant and friendly towards the dainty females. One even went so far as to let a prospective mate share the feeder with him for a few bites.

When Papa C starts these actions, we can at least begin to think that winter will end some of these days.

But that is in the future; let's get back to the cold weather cardinal population. It is quite a population too at one time we counted six females and there must be at least that many males, perhaps one or two more.

They are making our winter exciting and beautiful.

So it is that we look out these days and happy, happy, happy—the color is red!

Two well-known Tecumseh people are leaving the city.

Mrs. Gilman credited much of their progress to the Tecumseh Products Co., saying, "The families coming from Hillsdale in 1936 were demanding pasteurized milk. Also, we had efficient and cooperative help and Mr. John Thompson took us under his wing."

In 1952 the Gilmans sold the dairy and Mr. Gilman went to work in designing and engineering for Tresco.

LOCAL BUSINESS

When a woman is downtown on a shopping spree she gives the impression that she knows exactly where she is going and just what she is looking for.

Recent market research indicates that purposeful appearance of the woman shopper is due to the fact that she pre-shopped in her local newspaper. She does know where to go for what.

Approximately half of the homemakers questioned in a Richmond, Va., study said that before going shopping they had acquired specific ideas on what to buy from reading newspaper advertising.

The firm which conducted the Richmond study said that the influence of newspaper advertising is not confined to one type of woman . . . "it apparently extends, with equal force, to women of all racial, age and income groups."

☆

A FLORIDA food store, attempting to make a more specific test of the influence of its newspaper advertising, deliberately priced weekend bacon absurdly low. However, the low price was not marked on the package and offered only to customers who mentioned seeing the advertisement. Eighty-seven per cent of the customrs who bought bacon called attention to the advertised price.

A great department store which spends some three million dollars annually on advertising has made a science of anticipating the influence of newspaper advertising on the woman shopper.

"Our sales curves tell us within 5% of what to expect from a particular newspaper advertisement. It's not a matter of guessing. We know women buy from newspaper advertising," the sales manager asserted.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

The "River Raisin Water Shed Improvement Project" is a proposal long under consideration which will benefit our four county Southeastern Michigan area enormously.

It will create a beautiful system of parks and recreation areas in the four counties (Monroe, Washtenaw, Lenawee and Jackson), attracts thousands of visitors and open construction sites for thousands of homes in the high banks.

Through retention of the millions of gallons of run-off water, Monroe Harbor will be protected from silt deposits. Farmers and towns in the whole area will benefit from the restoration of water table levels and the restoration of the pristine beauty of the River Raisin.

Thousands of acres of impounded, constant flow lakes will be created on sub-marginal land.

I feel that this is a project which should be undertaken "as a whole" by the Federal Government with assistance from all local bodies and individuals.

I hope that you, as a civic body, and individually, will endorse this project and notify our Senators and Representatives in Washington, D. C. Also, write our Governor, Senators and Representatives in Lansing and the Water Resource Commission, the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Farm Bureau, the Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs all at Lansing, Michigan.

We should ask the Army Engineers, through Senators McNamara and Hart, to conduct a "Feasibility Study" of the entire Raisin River water shed area in the four counties.

This project was initialed in 1935-'36 but was abandoned through "public apathy." We must not let this happen again. The public is alert to our dwindling water supply and to the great loss it will be to future generations.

They all enthusiastically support this great recreation, conservation and reclamation project.

Again, I urge you to support this project which will re-create a Southeastern Michigan Water Wonderland.

Con-Con Report

Booklet Available

(Editor's note—This is another in a series of articles about the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

A simplified statement of the major provisions of the proposed Michigan constitution is contained in a recently-published booklet: "Voters' Guide to the Proposed Michigan Constitution of 1962."

The booklet is authorized by Miss Sarah Luedders, a research assistant for the Constitutional Convention.

In the booklet's preface, the research directors write:

"We believe the boklet merits the consideration of every voter for it puts the proposed constitution in context with the government of this state as we know it today and affirmatively states how that government can be carried on under the proposed constitution.

To aid and inform the casual student of the new document, Miss Luedders divides her discussion of the proposed constitution into six parts:

1. The checks and balances operating to control the three traditional branches of government —legislative, executive and judicial.
2. The basic rules laid down by the document for such vital governmental functions as elections, qualifications of officials, civil service and local government.
3. Provisions relating to the raising and expenditure of governmental funds.
4. Guarantees of individual rights.
5. Proposals for education.
6. Provisions permitting changes to meet changing conditions.

Three useful charts appear at the conclusion of the booklet. They illustrate in simplified form the workings of the legislative, executive and judical branches of government under the terms of the proposed constitution.

Fifty thousand copies of the Voters' Guide have been printed and are being distributed as a public service by the Michigan National Bank. Copies are available on request from any office of the bank.

Bill Fanning, with 25 points, led the losers and Phil Benedict with 26 was high for the Tories.

Tom Komon put in 14 and Ron Mastie put in 13 to score in double figures for the Tall Tories.

Britton will play Whiteford at home Friday.

During the meeting it was voted to have the boys pay their dues by the year if possible.

It was also voted to remember the Boy Scouts, who are hospitalized.

Plans were begun for the annual pancake supper, which will be held Thursday, Mar. 28 in the Britton-Macon School Cafeteria.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Yarckow on Wednesday, March 6.

The hostess served refreshments of cookies and coffee.

Seniors Hit 92

BRITTON — They're really moving.

Going into this week, seniors of Britton-Macon have signed up 92 new subscribers for The Herald in the class campaign to earn money for the annual trip to Washington.

The drive, which got off to a frigid start because of the below zero weather two weeks ago, has been extended until Feb. 23.

If readers have any suggestions for potential customers, they are asked to contact any senior or call 451-2311.

Last week, Connie Godzina proved the "star salesman", selling 15 new subscriptions and six renewals.

For this effort, Connie earned a $5 bonus.

Barb Gillespie was runner-up with eight new subs and 11 renewals. Yvonne Osterhout came in third with five new and one renew.

The class treasury is fattenned $1.25 on every new subscription sold and 50c for renewals.

CONNIE GODZINA

To date the seniors have racked up $157 in straight commissions, plus a trio of special $5 bonuses for hitting plateaus of 25, 50 and 75 new subscriptions. When 100 is topped, there'll be another special of $5.

In addition, there have been three "star salesman" awards of $5 each, which are individual prizes, with two more to come for this week and the next.

√

Last Saturday the eighth grade class went to Rouge Park, for an afternoon of tobogganing.

√

The Knights invaded the Whiteford High gymansium last Friday night and gained a 55-44 win.

In the first quarter both teams opened up with a zone defense. In the second quarter, the Bobcats changed to a man-to-man defense while the Knights maintained the zone. The Knights took advantage of the situation and took the lead at the half time 23-19.

During the remaining periods of the game, the Knights were able to increase the gap.

Stan Klos led his squad with 16 points.

Al Padilla followed closely with 13, Ron Klos, 8; Tom Ryan, 7; Bill Moran, 6, and Bill Weitzel, 5.

√

Although both teams scored 15 goals, the Junior Knights were able to defeat Whiteford's JVs on the free throw line. The final score for this game was 45-43 Boysville. Top hoopers for the Knights included Mo Jacobs with 14; Pascal Brown, 11; Jim Fedorki, 7; Dennis Clabaugh, 7, and Don Nicholas, 6.

Warming Grease Leads to Fire

The Tecumseh Fire Department was called to the home of Victor O. Lawson of 3837 Billmyer Hwy. Feb. 3 when fire broke out in a garage attached to the residence.

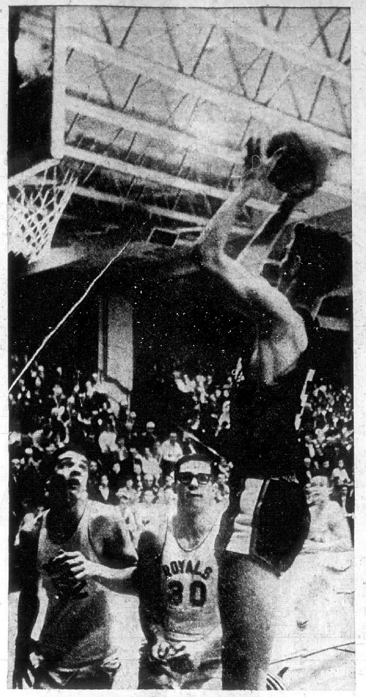

Mr. Lawson had placed a can of grease on a stove in the garage to warm, and had left it to eat dinner.

The loss, covered by insurance, was confined primarily to the garage, with some smoke damage in the house.

Big Boys Shined Against Royals

Jerry Hebb (left photo) dumps in a doggie in the Blissfield game and his team mate, Gregg Allen (right) pushes a shot basketward in these two fine pictures by Rick Duffin. These are the two "big boys" in Coach Doug Murdoch's Tecumseh attack and both have played well this year, being especially potent in pulling down rebounds on both the offensive and defensive backboards. The pair will get a serious test Friday evening when the Milan Big Reds invade Tecumseh's gym.

Hotrums Host Fellowship Class

Mr. and Mrs. William Hotrum entertained 14 members of the Quaker Fellowship Class of the Friends Church recently at their home.

Mrs. Melvin Muhn and Mrs. Garland Holmes arranged a musical program with Mrs. Paul Brantinham as accompanist.

Mrs. Hotrum served refreshments.

He's for 'New-Con'

Both the speaker and the place of meeting were changed for the session on the proposed new Constitution arranged by the Rolling Hills Farm Bureau group recently.

Van Hatch of Marshall spoke concerning the proposed state document and also answered questions from the floor.

The meeting was held in the Methodist Church due to flooded floors in the Community Center caused by a frozen water line.

Mr. Hatch said that he believed no man could truthfully say that the proposed Constitution was not an improvement over the present one.

He was a delegate to the convention.

James Erskin, chairman of the meeting, quoted an appropriate remark made by Benamin Franklin: "I find some fault in the new document, but I agree to its adoption because I expect no better and I am not sure this is not the best."

About 64 attended the meeting with refreshments served by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Sawyer and Mr. and Mrs. Art Eaton.

Jayvees Avenge Loss, 49-34

The Tecumseh Jayvees boosted their season's record to 9-3 last Friday night when they easily dumped their Blissfield opponents, 49-34.

A tight defense, holding the Royals to just 19 points in the first three quarters, allowed the Indians an 18-point lead to wrap up the game before the final stanza.

Ten of Coach Jim Hoffman's cagers broke into the scoring column with only Don Hughes, Bill Bartenslager and Jerry Hale missing out.

Capt. Doug Goldsberry paced the scorers with 10 points. Top Jayvee shooter, Jeff Osburn, was held to six points, his lowest in five games.

The last time the two teams met, Blissfield rallied in the final period to squeak out a victory, 58-54, thanks to Tecumseh foul trouble.

Last week, the Jayvees dodged the infractions and romped to an easy win.

The story tells of all the hardships and humorous incidents of 11 daring men who duplicated Columbus' voyage across the Atlantic. Everything up to the last detail was the same as on the original cruise.

The class, taking notes as their teacher read it to them, later summed up their notes and came up with some interesting essays.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

This is a protest against a recent action taken by the good ladies of St. Elizabeth's Rosary & Altar Society.

Hold it, girls, don't start tossing those brickbats yet. Can't a fellow make a constructive criticism?

This has to do with dropping the annual spaghetti dinner in favor of a fish fry.

The move stunned me. I have always looked forward to that once-a-year opportunity to dine on the finest spaghetti and meat sauce concocted on the Western Hemisphere.

Nobody, but nobody, can top this dish as prepared by Mrs. Eugene Rebottaro, the gal who has long been major domo at the St. Elizabeth meal.

My plea is probably echoed by many a fellow around this town. I hope, ladies, you'll be staging the spaghetti dinner again soon.

☆

Mr. Flu Bug invaded some Tecumseh homes this week, including that of my partner Jim Lincoln.

☆

The Parks & Recreation commission was sorry to lose John Henderson, who has done a bang-up job, and so were folks at The Herald.

But we're all glad so fine a young man, in the person of Don Montague, has been namgd to replace John.

☆

"Girl Crazy" is a fine show staged by a group of really dedicated people—both on stage and off.

One young man who deserves rich praise is Dexter Bailey, who plays the organ in the orchestra like a veteran.

His ability as an accompanist has been a major factor in the smooth vocal renditions.

The review of the show by Lee Steele is frank and extremely well-done. Lee has a world of theatre and music background and The Herald is tickled to have her with us as a guest writer.

Special arrangements were made with The Blade to have Lee's services for the job and we are grateful to the management of this fine daily for this.

Incidentally, this week's final three performances, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, are complete sell-outs.

The only chance someone without a ticket has of seeing the show is to wait in the lobby until after 7:45 p.m. That's the time unpaid reservations must be picked up. If not claimed, they'll go on sale.

Car Wash Operation Sought Here

Donald Blaker of Adrian would like to set up an auto wash in the old telephone office, across the street from the Country Market.

He appeared at a recent Planning Commission meeting and then huddled Tuesday with its chairman, John Zeigler, detailing specific plans.

Mr. Zeigler's main concern was possible traffic congestion, Mr. Blaker said with the arrangement he had worked out, 40 cars could be handled beside, behind and in the building.

He explains there would be remodeling of the building, owned by Louis Schneider, with the flow of customers coming into the drive east of the building, entering in the rear and exiting from the front.

An Adrian insuranceman, Mr. Blaker explained that if the plan goes through, a 40-foot extension would be added to the present structure.

He anticipates the operation would employ eight.

7 Will Vie for Council on April 1

Seven candidates will compete for four council seats in the April 1 election.

Robert W. Bonner, John H. Hamilton and Royal Welch all will seek re-election.

Others in the race are Raymond L. Puffer, George McCombs, James L. Records and Robert L. Wood.

For justice of peace, the present JP, Ernest Oliver, was the only one to file.

Betty Bishop Hurt Badly in Car Smash

Betty Bishop, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop of 113 Maple St., is reported slightly improving at the Pawating Hospital in Niles, where she was admitted Feb. 14 after suffering critical injuries in an auto accident.

Miss Bishop suffered multiple fractures, internal injuries and injury to her left hip and pelvis. It is expected that she will undergo surgery Thursday.

Blowing snow and ice-slick roads were cited by State Police at Niles as contributing factors in this and five other accidents that day in Niles.

Miss Bishop was a passenger in an auto operated by Suzette Pauline Velandra, also of Tecumseh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Velandra of 709 N. Union St.

The car skidded out of control on US-31 and into another car about 2 p.m. The other driver suffered a bruised hand and leg.

Miss Velandra suffered shock and cuts. Another passenger in the Velandra auto, Joan Burgess of Adrian, received a fractured right ankle.

The three young women are employed by Brockley Studio of Adrian. They were taking children's pictures at Sears Roebuck Stores and were on their way to the Muskegon store when the accident happened.

Miss Velandra and Miss Burgess were treated at the hospital and released to return to their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop have been with their daughter since the accident. Her room number is 243.

The Rev. and Mrs. Blair Bashore and Mr. and Mrs. James Danforth went to Niles to be with them this past week.

City's Retirees Can Remain Part of Group Policy

Retired city employees will be able to maintain their membership in the local government's Blue Cross group policy, Council ruled Monday.

Acting City Manager sought the arrangement, explaining that it would save retirees approximately 15%, as opposed to going on an individual plan, and net them greater benefits.

Mr. Zorn said retirees would pay premiums directly to the city and could forsee no problems.

SPARKLES — Martha Bagdon sparkles on stage in the role of Molly, postmistress in "Girl Crazy." The part demands a wide range of both acting and vocal ability. Although this is her stage debut, Mrs. Bagdon shines in the role.

Property Re-Zoning To Be Aired

A public hearing is slated for March 4 to consider re-zoning property on W. Chicago Blvd., owned by Mrs. Ethel Hammack.

Councilmen voted unanimously to air the proposal, being sought by Mrs. Hammack, who operates the local license bureau.

She told Council there would be ample room for parking on her property if she removed a front-yard fence.

☆

COUNCIL ruled four weeks ago that she could no longer run the bureau from her home, since cars parked by her patrons created a traffic hazard.

Mrs. Hammack told Councilmen Monday that the situation is bad only approximately two weeks of the year.

She asked that the land on which Wegner's Market is located, and to which she holds the deed, as well as property where her home is situated, be re-zoned from Residential A to Business A Restricted.

3 State Officials To Speak

More than 125 Lenawee County residents are expected to attend the River Raisin Reclamation meeting Tuesday evening in the Tecumseh Community Center at 8 p.m.

Three state officials, who'll speak, include:

► Dale W. Granger of Lansing, from the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

► Earl Fenton of East Lansing, assistant state Soil Conservationist.

► G. W. Reschke of Detroit, Chief of Engineering Division, Army Engineers.

Following their comments, an open discussion will be held.

Sale of Faraday, Inc. Slated by April First

Faraday, Inc. is operating normally as officials await word of the industry's sale by the parent company, Teletronics, Inc. of Amber, Pa.

The transaction is going through the Federal Court in Philadelphia, where proceedings Monday were attended by three Tecumsh men.

Representing Faraday were Fred Worden, vice-president and general manager; and Roy Olson, treasurer and controller.

Jack Osburn, president of the Tecumseh Area Industrial Development Corp., was also present.

One company, Gray Manufacturing of Hartford, Conn., offered $900,000. Gray produces dictating machines.

The court ruled that a final decision on new ownership of Faraday will be made on April 1.

Bid Prompts Protest

Council authorized Acting City Manager Cal Zorn to accept a dump-truck bid submitted by George Underwood Dodge of Adrian at its Monday session.

Although the vehicle will cost $225 less than the next lowest bid, the decision brought a protest—from Bob Karle of Tecumseh Motor Sales.

He questioned Council for asking bids from out-of-town dealers.

Tecumseh Motor had entered a price, as did Tecumseh Equipment Co., on an International. George Underwood Ford also submitted a proposal.

Mayor Harold Easton explained that Schneider Chevrolet-Buick had not bid because owner Louis Schneider was in Florida.

☆

COUNCILMAN John Hamilton told Mr. Karle he prefers the city buying in town, but that a savings so great couldn't be overlooked. Mr. Zorn stated that George Underwood, Jr., agency owner, is a Tecumseh taxpayer, living in the city.

City fathers agreed that when a difference of five-percent was involved, the nod woulr probably go to the local business.

Bids were sought on a 1963 dump truck on which a 1957 Ford of similar size, 23,000 gross vehicle weight, would be traded-in.

Bids were:

Underwood Dodge	$2,975
Tecumseh Equipment	$3,200
Underwood Ford	$3,400
Tecumseh Motors	$3,520

Garbage Problem May Be on Way to Final Solution

By TOM RIORDAN

Garbage got an airing—figuratively speaking—at Monday's gathering of Council.

The community's No. 1 problem of the moment, removal of garbage and rubbish, seems to be on the way to a solution.

Acting City Manager Cal Zorn said that about half a dozen firms are anxious to bid for the local contract.

Roots Rubbish and Garbage Contractors of Ann Arbor has the job for now—and may be the high bidder come March 4.

Reports on Roots' operation here have been good to date.

☆

MR. ZORN has proposed a new garbage law, which packs some stiff requirements for contractors, including "successful experience in rubbish business" and 'at least two title-clear units to back up any trucks that may incure breakdowns."

The contract must be bonded for not less than $5,000.

Acme Hauling, which ran into so many difficulties before losing the city contract, was bonded for $3,000.

The city is claiming the entire bond to break even, if possible, on the trash removal situation. City crews helped Roots get started last week.

☆

THE BOND will just cover quarterly collections made in advance by Acme. This money will be paid to Roots as the service is given during the next two months to 1,000 residential customers.

All commercial customers are billed after service is rendered.

Council approved Mr. Zorn's request for $500, which will be paid to Roots in the next week. This money will eventually come from the bonding fund.

Party Fetes Donald Judd

Donald Judd was guest of honor Feb. 1 at a surprise birthday party with 28 guests present.

Ping-pong, pool, dancing and charades were played by guests from Lansing, Drayton Plains, Chelsea Adrian, Britton, Macon and Tecumseh.

A decorated cake was featured on the buffet luncheon table.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kirschenbauer Jr. of Lansing remained as house guests of the Judds for the weekend.

CUSTOMS SIMILAR—Sharon Ries found many new ways of living while with the International Farm Youth Exchange on Taiwan. But other customs were reminiscent of other times and lands. For instance, the hat and scarf she wears here are like those the Taiwanese women wear in the fields to keep their skin from darkening and coarsening. Farm women in America have done the same for generations, in contrast to the modern suburbanite's sun-seeking habits. But the rice bowl and chopsticks she is using are strictly an Oriental innovation. Sharon, back home in Tecumseh now, will share her experiences with Herald readers through a series of articles, the first of which appears today on the last page of the paper.

Michigan Week Here Is Being Dedicated to Ray W. Herrick

Michigan Week in Tecumseh is going to be dedicated "in honor and appreciation of Ray W. Herrick."

A resolution to this effect was presented by Mrs. Carlton Cook at Monday's City Council session and unanimously accepted.

It asks that 'all residents join together in allied efforts to improve our city.

"We think an appropriate way of showing our appreciation to Mr. Herrick would be improving his and our pride, Tecumseh.

"Individually or collectively we could join together our energies in making Tecumseh a better place in which to live by improving our home grounds, our schools, our municipal and public buildings, our commercial sections, city approaches and parks."

Mrs. Cook explained later that she and several other women had discussed the undertaking and decided to present the plan to Council. No organization is sponsoring the program.

She said she hoped a wide variety of groups would become interested in the effort.

Mayor Harold Easton thanked Mrs. Cook and added that she would probably be called upon to help guide the undertaking.

Sparkles in Many Spots

By LEE Z. STEELE
of The Toledo Blade

So many spots sparkle in "Girl Crazy" that it is a temptation for a visitor to say that opening night on Valentine's Day, the Tecumseh Players produced a sweetheart of a show.

This is the temptation to which a politician would succumb. It is a temptation that a lover of theater must shun.

The Tecumseh Players, in their first effort at staging a musical comedy, deserve an "A" for effort. Maybe the achievement ranks somewhat under the first letter of the alphabet, but the show, on the whole, is a better-than-average production.

☆

LITTLE things demonstrate the difference between a smooth, professional show and one that hasn't quite reached top level.

For example, one of the truly high spots in the show is that lusty spoof entitled, "Sam & Delilah," sung by Florine Purkey, a candidate for Miss Torrid Tecumseh of 1963. Of course Mrs. Purkey kept my foot tapping with her, but it was the ogling blue eyes of Gene Earling in the back row of cowboys that made the scene credible.

In a professional show, everyone on stage, no matter how minor a character, gets into the spirit of the story. No player should forget that. Perhaps the director repeated this to his company, and this is simply an added reminder.

While Mrs. Purkey's wisecracking, sophisticated Kate was fairly convincing, she didn't really warm up to her part until that "Sam & Delilah." Her rendition of "I Got Rhythm" was a letdown—perhaps because of opening night jitters.

And yet, a little study of her predecessors in the role of Kate might have helped the leading lady. Ethel Merman brought down the house in 1930 when "Girl Crazy" opened on Broadway, and she sang "I Got Rhythm." Then in 1943, Judy Garland did the same song in the movie version.

☆

"I GOT Rhythm" is a song that takes belting out, a sense of style, and yes, rhythm—even if the singer doesn't have much of a voice. Mrs. Purkey may I add hastily, has a charming voice. undoubtedly, she has rhythm, and er-ah, ahem, quite an abundance of natural charm, distributed gracefully over a trim figure.

Her expressive eyes add much to her portrayal, and she uses them to advantage. But Mrs. Purkey might do well to move about on stage more frequently when she sings, and, oh yes, go heavier on the sophisticated makeup. She looks a mite too refined for the part of a big city Eve Arden type character.

"Girl Crazy", which ran 272 performances on Broadway, also featured another personality, Ginger Rogers, then only 19, in the ingenue role, Willie Howard, and the orchestra of Red Nichols.

☆

THE "GIRL CRAZY" version which Tecumseh Players is presenting, has been given a few musical additions: "By Strauss," and an election ditty to the tune of "Strike Up the Band" from an earlier Gershwin musical of the same name.

In this new version, a television performer who specializes in Western heroes leaves the Big City to run a dude ranch. David Woods, who plays this role of Johnny is a newcomer to the local stage, we were informed, as are Mrs. Purkey, and Martha Bagdon, the other principals.

☆

THEREFORE Dave may be pardoned some first night reticence. He has a pleasing voice that needs to be projected more. A crewcut hairdo would help to age Mr. Woods: he looks too young for the part. His scenes with Mrs. Bagdon, the attractive postmistress whom he woos in the show, need extra rehearsal.

Perhaps the physical setup of the stage and auditorium hampered Mr. Woods somewhat. The audience is so delightfully close to the stage in the Tecumseh Community Center Theater that the action is as close as it would be from a television screen.

To a newcomer to show business, such proximity could be a bit stifling. Imagine playing love scenes with another man's wife in front of your neighbors and friends. That's show biz, Mr. Woods; that's show biz.

Board Appoints Center Director

Don E. Montague, 27, of Toledo, has been hired by the Parks and Recreation Board to succeed John R. Henderson as director of the Community Center.

Although he will not officially take over until March 1, effective date of Henderson's resignation, Mr. Montague already has started acquainting himself with the operations of the center.

The new director is a graduate of Waite High School in Toledo, and was graduated last month from the University of Toledo, where he majored in physical education with a minor in social science.

He served two years with the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, being discharged in October, 1956.

He now is a substitute teacher in the Toledo Public Schools system.

Mr. Montague is married, wife's name Barbara, and has three youngsters, Cindy, 5; Nina, 2, and Mark, 1.

Bloodmobile Visits Tecumseh March 6

Behind Page One

At the annual Rotary Ann banquet last week, a raffle was held for the ladies. Each was asked to sign her name to a ticket and drop into the proverbial hat. When Bob Karle produced one winner, he read, "Joyce M." A voice chirped from one end of the room, "That's mine. I didn't bother to put my last name because I knew I wouldn't win anything." The lazy penman was Mrs. Vern Manwaring.

Sid Turner, the Blue Cross-Blue Shield man, turns out to be a way-out hockey player, having started his career at age six in his native Canada. A resident of Tecumseh the past three years, Sid says the only thing this town needs is an indoor skating rink.

There seems to be some confusion—Robert Kennedy is the president, not some other guy. That is, president of the Tecumseh Products Credit Union.

Husbands and wives of cast members in "Girl Crazy" are proud of their spouses' accomplishments. Showing this in about the most appreciated manner known were Richard Purkey, Robert Bagdon and Ted Pihl. They presented floral bouquets to their wives, Florine, Marty and Lorayne, as the three took bows at the footlights last week.

The band played on, but Dexter Bailey didn't, on a couple of occasions during the musical comedy production last week. The reason: Someone kicked out the plug on the organ, and the power to the bellows was cut off. At one point, the chorus, looking for a note to bring them in on the correct tone, was relieved when the power came back.

The sparkling costumes worn by the "cowgirls" in the current Tecumseh Players production were the inspiration of Mrs. J. H. Rohweder. Fashioned of felt in brilliant colors, they were sewn by Mrs. Rohweder, Mrs. Joseph Horvath and Mrs. Alton Snyder.

A small but important part of the Mexican waitress is being played by Mrs. L. E. Earling. The change in cast was made too late to announce in the Tecumseh Players program. Although on stage only a few minutes, Joy Earling must have spent just over a half-hour with the makeup crew each night, preparing for the part.

Tecumseh's Wilfred Waldron is not to be outdone by President Kennedy's physical fitness program. After checking the distance from Matthews Hwy. to the United Savings Bank building at the city's main intersection with his car, Mr. Waldron drove home and walked the distance. In 31 minutes 20 seconds, the 76-year-old agriculturist hiked the 2.2 miles at just a regular walking gait. He remarked, "I remember walking to town nine times one day rather than hitching up a horse."

How much time is saved by an "aggressive" driver who darts into every opening in traffic to get ahead? Tests made at the University of Michigan comparing driver-education teachers with "poor risk" drivers having bad records of traffic violations and accidents showed "aggressive" driver actually lose more time than they gain by their actions. Driving in 12 miles in traffic, the poor-risk drivers used the accelerator 90% more than the teachers, had 90% more movement of the steering wheel, used brakes 60% oftener—and took more time to cover the distance.

From the sublime to the ridiculous is the way Tecumseh's weather is behaving. Just as the youngsters started their springtime course of wading through every puddle they could find, the thermometer plummetted and ice covered the puddles again. Off with the boots and on with the skates again.

John Henderson, retiring recreation director, was at the Council session Monday to thank city fathers for their cooperation. He mused that he and Don Montague "wondered if councilmen would like to take a 50-mile hike." Up popped John Hamilton with, "Maybe 50 days, at one mile a day. I might buy that."

TRIPLE PLAY — Katie Corkery sings, dances and acts the part of Rita, a transplanted New Yorker, in "Girl Crazy."

Pack 4 Enjoys Mystery Trip

Fifty-six Cub Scouts of Pack 4 enjoyed a train ride from Jackson to Ann Arbor recently while on their annual Mystery Trip.

Just a few had experienced a train ride before, and Cubmaster Dr. Robert Laidlaw reported the boys were so entranced during the trip that there was no need for the seven committeemen who accompanied them.

After arriving in Ann Arbor, the cubs were all treated to a milk shake, then proceeded to Yost Field House where they viewed wrestling matches between the University of Michigan and Ohio State University teams.

Fourteen men assisted as chaperones and drivers for the group.

Show Sparkles

MRS. BAGDON'S part as the postmistress was a competent piece of acting and equally competent singing. She also was convincingly tipsy in her attempt to drown her heartbreak in alcohol.

As the glib wisecracking, fast-talking actor's agent, Dr. Robert Murray could hardly have been better. In the more demanding and longer role as Zoli, Fred Pokorny was splendid. What his voice lacks in timbre, Mr. Pokorny makes up for in a sense of theater. He knows how to get a song across. It isn't his fault that whoever updated the scenario dubbed Zoli a Hungarian and then has him mouthing German phrases.

Good supporting parts were taken by Frank Dalton, as a tough gambler; Dr. Richard Hammel, who caricatured his gambler role in the best tradition of a B movie; Virginia Snyder as Tessa, and Bruce King as a Mexican policeman. Katherine Corkery made the most of a small part as Rita. She is the kind of actress audiences remember, vividly.

☆

THE MALE quartet of Gordon Comfort, John Hartley, Dr. Carlton Cook and Gene Earling opened the show on a rather leisurely note. Too leisurely. Fellas, when you sing, put some expression into the words. "I'm Bidin' My Time," as you sang it the first time had all the appeal of a train conductor announcing, "Rochester, Buffalo, and Erie, Pa."

Things began to move, musically, with "Broncho Busters," and by the end of the show, everyone was singing with lots more gusto than I would have thought likely at the opener.

Since a musical comedy means that the music is a large portion of the show, I must admit candidly that the greatest room for improvement lies with the musical accompaniment. Providing organ instead of piano for the solos is a fine touch, but the tempos need some rocket fuel. There is just one answer more rehearsal and an overhauling of the musical direction.

☆

WHILE the ensemble numbers are good, and the fine choreography of Lorayne Pihl apparent in most of the scenes, the chorus lines became ragged too frequently as the dancers and singers forgot the cardinal rule expressed earlier in this review: act every minute you're on stage, no matter how minor your part.

The costumes are handsome, the sets very functional and the scene changes effected smoothly.

Robert Tolan directed, Carolyn Russell was associate director and Eve Bowen the technical director.

The show runs tonight through Saturday. The Tecumseh Players should begin looking around for another musical to produce. With so much good talent in their ranks, they can produce an even bigger and better show.

About The Reviewer

Lee Steele who reviewed "Girl Crazy" for The Herald by special arrangement with The Toledo Blade, has been involved with the theater since childhood, both behind her typewriter and behind the footlights.

While teaching critical reviewing at Bowling Green State University, she both wrote the senario and played the lead in a musical comedy produced on campus.

A prize-winning script she wrote for a Dr. Christian radio show was produced coast-to-coast.

She also has been first-place winner four times in critical reviewing contests of the Ohio Newspaperwomen's Assn.

In addition to regular duties as staff writer for The Blade, she currently writes two music colmuns weekly, and has done music and drama criticism.

City's Center Unused Boilers Being Removed

Two of the four giant boilers in the basement of the Community Center have been removed, with a third to go shortly.

Since the structure was fashioned for its present use, only one of the boilers has been needed.

The four were originally installed by Henry Ford to manufacture electricity. At that time they burned coke and since were converted to natural gas.

The removal job is being done for the salvage rights.

Birds are in the news this week. Of course, everyone is looking for the first robin. We have had people stop at the office especially to inquire about this particular sign of spring.

Mrs. Henry Howard of 706 N. Evans reported a pair of the red breasted birds hanging around their feeder and the Don Nettlemans'.

Mrs. Mae Hopkins of 106 Muscody St. sent word that a robin was perched on her porch just outside the window the first of the week. "Wanted to come in and get warm, no doubt," she commented.

There were 12 quail at the feeder near the John Hamilton home on E. Shawnee St. recently.

Certainly these are good signs, but the one I believe even more is the early rising and late retiring of "Ol Sol."

A resoultion, which memorialized the late Edmund J. Nelson, was approved by Council Monday.

Following reading of the document, which praised the dedicated job Mr. Nelson did as Tecumseh city manager, Councilmen and others attending the session stood in a moment of silent tribute.

Councilmen Glad To Support This

A $200,000 gift to the city for building the rest home behind Herrick Memorial Hospital was officially accepted Monday.

Diesel Generator To Serve Hospital on Stand-By Basis

A diesel generator to produce emergency electricity, will be installed at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Trustees approved the project, accepting a bid for the 150-kilowatt engine of $11,050 from the D. W. Onan & Sons, Inc.

Purchase will be made through Industrial Electric Co. of Adrian.

The firm's installation bid of $2,200 was also accepted.

It will be housed in a building behind the hospital's laundry. Construction of this was awarded to Raymond C. Kempf for $1,130.

The generator will automatically go into action if regular power sources fail. An underground tank, with a 1,000 gallon capacity, will provide fuel.

Sunday at 12:30 p.m. Tecumseh High School will be represented on the TV waves via Channel 4.

Four students and one alternate have been selected from the Tecumseh National Honor Society for the Detroit News "Quiz 'Em" contest against Richmond High School.

These five students will be studying issues of the Detroit News for five days, starting with Sunday, Feb. 18. They will digest all local, national and international news, and have plans for dividing different sections of the paper to one panelist for some specialization. Thorough preparation is a key to success on this type of program, as well as quick reflex action.

The contest is run like the College Bowl program which has been so popular for several years. The students will be awarded points for each correct answer, and the school panel with the highest total of points will be the winner.

Friday, Feb. 22, these five students will journey to Detroit for a brief warm-up and then taping of the show.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Sales per dollar of advertising should be the measure of any retail promotion outlet.

Most retailers have means to make simple tests which should give them a picture of the relative value of various advertising media. They may use coupons, sales charts on specific items, or they may simply ask customers about the media which influences buying.

Newspaper publishers welcome any kind of objective check on the value of advertising. They know that the very large retailers have been making such studies for years. They know that the results of careful surveys have caused such retailers as Krogers,Sears and A & P, to continue to invest the bulk of their advertising budgets in newspapers.

☆

IN FACT, the major retailer in larger cities who does not concentrate his advertising in newspapers is a real oddity. Many advertisers who test results regularly still regard all other media as "supplementary" or experimental.

Local automobile dealers are among the retailers who can test results most quickly through sales figures. For instance, within 48 hours a White Plains, N. Y. dealer sold $135,000 worth of Mercurys after spending less than a $1,000 for newspaper advertising. As the result of a $196 newspaper advertisement, appearing one time, an Atlanta dealer sold $35,000 worth of new Pontiacs.

Of course some types of retail stores must advertise consistently for months to obtain measurable results. But whether the results are dramatic or accumulative, in terms of sales per dollar, few retailers will find a close runner to the newspaper in a fair test.

TV PANELISTS — Representing Tecumseh High School Sunday on a television quiz program will be, from left, David Dustin, Dennis Paruch, Louise Stutesman, Fawn Choske and alternate Janice Whelan. The program, which will be taped Friday, will appear over Channel 4 at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Fire Razes Rumpf Lines Warehouse

W. J. Rumpf, president of Rumpf Truck Lines, said Tuesday, "We have bids from contractors on a new building to replace the one that burned and they are ready to begin work as soon as the insurance company releases it."

A warehouse on old US-12 between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti owned by the trucking company was destroyed by fire Friday.

Mr. Rumpf said that in 20 minutes there was nothing left of the building but ashes.

The loss, estimated at $85,000, was completely covered by insurance.

☆

AN EXPLOSION in the basement of the warehouse fed by a broken high pressure gas line enveloped the office floor in flames.

Glen Taylor of Milan, assistant manager, and Guy Nordman of Ann Arbor, an employee, fled the office in their shirt sleeves in near-zero temperatures.

Mr. Nordman suffered burns on his hands, but was back at his work the first of the week.

E. L. McLain, traffic manager in the general office in Tecumseh, assured customers that there would be no disruption in service.

Manor's History Told to Baptist Society

Mrs. Robert Foreman, matron of Maple Lane Manor, and Mrs. David Brown, director of nursing at the Manor, presented an interesting program for 29 members and guests of the Women's Society of the First Baptist Church Feb. 11.

They advised that as early as 1836 a year before Michigan was admitted to the Union, residents of this area recognized that adequate care should be provided for many in need and the County Home was established at the present site.

The year 1953 marked a new era when a donation effected a revamping of the home, which then was renamed Maple Lane Manor.

The hospital unit was started in 1954 and by 1957 a 67-bed hospital and 38-bed infirmary were made available to Lenawee County. By 1970 a 150-bed hospital unit will be badly needed, the speakers estimated.

☆

EACH YEAR a large portion of the food used is raised and grown at the Manor.

Many individuals and civic and church organizations make needed and thoughtful donations of gifts and baked goods.

Seasonal parties are given by organizations and the Manor staff for the pleasure of the residents and one group provides a special birthday cake for each resident.

The Christmas party held the night before Christmas Eve highlights the special events. A gift is received by each person and Santa circulates while all enjoy holiday refreshments.

The speaker said that gifts by interested persons are always needed for this project.

They added that the residents would so appreciate visitors to help the long hours pass more swiftly.

☆

MRS. EDDIE Kirkland, program chairman, gave devotions and Mrs. John Westgate sang "My Task."

Members voted a donation of $10 to the American Leprosy Missions for the hospital at Carville, La. as a memorial to Mrs. Delmar Finch.

A check for $10 also was given to Mrs. Foreman to purchase popcorn for the Maple Lane residents.

Members also voted to obtain mirrors for the church narthex and the bride's dressing room.

Constitution Is Important to Business Community

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce outlining major points in the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

In many respects the business community has an important stake in a Constitution, since such a document has the ability to regulate, restrict and tax the functions of business.

The methods and types of regulation are an important factor in the determination of location and operation by business. If unfavorable, business would locate in some other area.

This should bring a question to the minds of the Michigan voters:

Which of the documents in question (the present Constitution or the proposed Constitution) would create a more desirable climate for these important sources of jobs (and incidentally, tax revenue) for Michigan?

Article XII of the present Constitution has nine sections devoted to the control of corporations, whereas the proposed Constitution has no article relative to corporate control, and has retained only one of the nine sections contained in the 1908 document.

Most of these sections were deleted simply because they are useless in this day and age. Two important exceptions are: section 3, dealing with limitation of corporate life, and section 5, prohibiting corporations from holding unoccupied real estate for more than 10 years. The deleted sections were dropped because it was generally felt by the delegates to the Constitutional Convention that these sections are a definite deterrent to the organization of corporation or investment of funds in Michigan.

UNDER the proposed Constitution the number of agencies comprising the executive branch of the government shall be allocated among 20 departments.

While this provision does not reduce the laws regulating business, it will reduce the number of agencies enforcing them and will simplify relations between business and state government promoting efficiency.

Taxes are an important subject with the business world, as they are to the average citizen, and the proposed Constitution creates several avenues for improvement in our present tax structure.

It has been said of tax structure provisions of the proposed document that these changes may do more to improve the competitive position of Michigan business than any other changes in the entire document.

March 4, is the deadline for registration to be able to vote on this important document. Election Day is Monday, April 1.

Addition of 7 Rooms to School Proposed

BRITTON—A remodel and addition program at Britton-Macon School is being considered by the Board of Education.

Supt. William Saxton outlined the proposed plan to members of the PTA at their meeting Monday in the study hall.

The program would be three-pronged:

► The present fifth and sixth grades joined and made into a science laboratory for physics and chemistry.

► The present kindergarten converted to a library.

► A seven-room section for elementary rooms added onto the west end of the building, next to the gymnasium.

Mr. Saxton pointed out that in the December accreditations survey by the University of Michigan, the present science lab and library were cited as in need of improvement.

This was a factor in the board's proposed action.

☆

BY COMBINING the fifth and sixth grade, a science lab of 42x28' would be available with space to handle from 24 to 48 students.

At present, only about 20 juniors take chemistry and 10 seniors are enrolled in physics. Better facilities would likely increase these numbers.

There is a chance that the federal government would allow a grant in improvement of the science lab.

At present, the library is in a corner of the study hall. Moving to the present kindergarten would give a space 30x32'.

☆

IN THE proposed new section, there would be six classrooms, which would handle the disposed kindergarten, fifth and sixth grades, as well as offer space for other elementary classes and possibly a special education room.

There would also be lavatories in the new section.

Mr. Saxton and the board met with R. S. Gerhanoff, the architect, on Saturday and he in turn is getting estimates on the cost of the program.

A bond issue would be required for the proposed addition, but Mr. Saxton points out that since the 1955 bond will be paid off in 1964, the new program would probably not appreciably change the amount of tax dollars being spent for school purposes.

The '51 issue was for $200,000 and required 2.3 mills.

The 1955 addition of a gymnasium and four classrooms, costing $235,000, will not be paid off until 1981.

Altogether, Britton-Macon District property owners, pay 16.3 mills for school purposes. This breaks down:
9 mills—operational
2.5 mills—voted operational
4.3 mills—debt retirement
.5 mill—special education.

The 2.5 voted operational was OKed for two years and will again go up for vote this spring. The proposed addition could also be considered at the same time, Mr. Saxton feels.

Tories Take Champion's Title Again

BRITTON — Britton's Tories defeated Whiteford 45-24 Friday night to win their second straight league crown. Two league games left, but the Tories are out in front by 3 games.

The Bobcats of Whiteford controlled the ball most of the game, but were unable to get in close enough for a good shot. The Tories lost the ball a number of times the first half when they did get their hands on the ball. Britton left the floor at half time with a four-point lead, 23-19.

The Bobcats held the ball almost five mintes during the 3rd quarter and collected only 5 points during the second half. The Tories, able to get their hands on the ball only 15 times during the second half made good 10 of the 15 shots attempted for an easy victory, 45-24.

The Britton fifth and sixth grades gave the fans some excitement at half time of the varsity game with a 6-6 tie.

The Tories travel to Deerfield Friday, Feb. 22, for a league game. They will close at home March 1, with Sand Creek.

BIG CENTER FIRES—Jerry Hebb (44), rangy Tecumseh center, gets away a neat behind-the-board shot against Milan. Jerry had a fine evening, posting 22 points. At right, Tecumseh's Jack Dick is ready to go after a possible rebound.

Spotlight Beams on Moms and Dads of THS Hoopster

Parents of Tecumseh High School basketball players will be honored at Friday evening's game with Ypsilanti-Lincoln on the Indian court.

The THS five will try to salt away another victory in the race for the Huron League championship. Dundee is nipping at the heels of the Indians, a single game behind.

Tecumseh wraps up its regular slate against Grosse Ile on March 1.

Playing without star Norman Tucker last week against Milan, the THS five started slowly, then got hot in the second half and streaked home, 86-64.

Norm was a guest of Iowa State University over the weekend, investigating the possibility of accepting a football scholarship there.

Milan led 15-11 at the end of the first quarter, then the Indians, paced by Jack Dick's 24 points and Jerry Hebb's 22, got rolling. Tim Sisson also had a good night, netting 16.

☆

IN THE junior varsity fray, Coach Jim Hoffman's crew posted a 39-38 win, for its 13th victory of the season.

Doug Goldsberry was the hero, dunking two free tosses with 15 seconds to play.

Jim Lawson tallied 10 for the JVs, with Steve Derby and Don Baird outstanding on rebounds.

The JVs entertain Adrian, Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Nearly 2,000 Michigan doctors of medicine will convene in Detroit March 13-14-15, for a post-graduate refresher course on the year's medical discoveries.

This will be the 17th annual spring meeting of the Michigan Clinical Institute, sponsored by the Michigan State Medical Society and 10 cooperating organizations.

The training sessions will translate scientific research into terms of medical practice that can be used by Michigan physicians for the direct benefit of their patients. Over 30 scientific lectures are scheduled to be presented by nationally-known speakers.

Concurrent conferences will be held by the medical assistants, operating room nurses, and residents, interns, and senior medical students.

Julie Finds Theater in Constant Change

By GRETTA PORTER
Special to The Herald

NEW YORK—Julie Parrish has made a big discovery about the theater: Nothing is constant. Since going into rehearsal Feb. 4 for her first Broadway show, "Memo", everything from the script to opening date has been changed.

First, the rehearsal hall was changed. Julie thought the cast would run through its paces at New York's famed Harlequin Rehearsal Studio "Insteald," Julie said, "we're at a place with no name on 51st St. It's just labeled 'Studio Three'. The set was too big for the Harlequin."

Then came the line changes. I'd already learned all my lines Julie laughed, "then the script was almost completely changed."

☆

JULIE rehearses daily from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and begins at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Instead of opening Feb. 27 in Wilmington, the show is expected to open in New Haven, Conn., the same day.

The New York opening date hasn't been announced and the theater in which the show opens is still indefinite. "It'll definitely open the week of March 18." Julie commented, "but who knows the date?

Julie, the former Joyce Wilbar of Tecumseh, has many kind words for her leading man, Macdonald Carey. "He took me to see 'How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying' and to Sardi's for dinner. It's easier to get acquainted in an informal situation than at the rehearsal hall."

☆

THE "MEMO" playbill, announcing the show, says: "JULIE PARRISH is making her debut on the stage, playing opposite Macdonald Carey. All concerned with the production are enraptured by her and predict a fabulous career for this stunning creature. Born in Kentucky, of French, English, Scotch and Irish ancestry, she has won seven beauty titles and will be seen opposite that madcap star, Jerry Lewis, in his upcoming film, 'The Nutty Professor.' "

Also in the "Memo" cast will be Fred Clark, who appeared in "Auntie Mame" with Ros Russell, "The Mating Game" with Debbie Reynolds, 'Don't Go Near the Water" with Glenn Ford, and "Boys' Night Out" with Kim Novak.'

The other star in "Memo" is Pippa Scott, who plays in the television show, "The Virginian." She also was the feminine star of the "Mr. Lucky" series.

(Next: Julie on Broadway)

THROUGH MY WINDOW

A CRAZY, MIXED-UP BIRD

It was a perfectly dreadful day, so dark and gloomy. The weather was skidding into a fit of depression and I must admit that my spirits were not far behind.

It was even too bad to storm. The TV was droning out the usual day time bill-of-fare, dull and uninspiring; I was gazing out the window, day-dreaming rather than looking.

Now, this is one of the joys of bird-watching—in an instant the whole morning was changed. Oh, the weather didn't improve, but who cared! My aimless gazing had suddenly snapped into focus on the wren-tree and I found myself looking at a bright and handsome towhee. Wow!

Imagine a towhee in February! Several times before I had seen her at a distance—I was sure it was her but still, this time of year? Maybe I was mistaken.

Now there was no doubt, she was right in the wren-tree, not more than 15 feet from the window and she was a towhee.

This was the closest look ever and my, I must say again that she was a handsome gal.

Her head, back and wings were soft brown, rather wide bands down each side of her breast were rich chestnut and her tummy was pearly white. (Had she been a he the brown would have been black and the white a bit brighter.)

I was só thrilled and she was most obliging—while I 'ohed and ahed' she perched in the tree turning a little first this way, then that and showing herself off beautifully.

☆

AFTER this first exciting close-up, Mrs. T. apparently decided that the wren tree was a good spot. She came back several times but always when I was in the room alone.

Golly, half the fun of a new bird is sharing it. A week ago Tuesday however she did herself proud — both Mother and Ida were here when she made an appearance.

Speak of an appreciative audience; they were every bit as thrilled with her as I had been. With an enlarged group to play to she put on quite a show.

After posing in the tree she flew down, lit right under the feeder and what a view the folks had of her then!

She was out of my sight but they had a perfect look at her back. And what a pretty back—her wings were edged with white and when finally she flew away, there was also white on her tail.

MRS. T. had a great time under the feeder. There was lots of good scratching and, of course, her family are first class scratchers. In the spring and summer, their more normal time of being here, we see them working at the edge of the creek bank.

They scratch through the leaves and, from the way things fly, it's hard to believe a bird of only eight inches or so is making all the fuss. They kick up quite a commotion.

To say that this or that bird should not be around at this time of year is skating on rather thin ice.

Bird-books may indicate they migrate a little—we read these books but quite obviously the birds don't.

I shall say however that I don't believe it is the usual thing for towhees to winter in this area.

Although not great distance travelers, the books have them congregating in our southern states; they certainly don't list Michigan as a winter residence.

So it is that we are having fun with a towhee and, as for why she isn't with the rest of the clan, I can only believe that she is a crazy, mixed-up bird.

What's Going on at BOYSVILLE

By PAT MIRON

George and Ira Gershwin's musical comedy, "Girl Crazy." provided entertainment for twenty-five Boysville boys last Thursday night. The boys would like to thank the Tecumseh Players for the tickets and extend their congratulation to the cast for the wonderful job.

✓

Brother Philip Armstrong, CSC, director, announced this week the Glee Club will entertain at the Wayne Ford Clinic League, March 4. The vocal group headed by Joe Laus will accompany the Glee Club.

✓

Brother Paulus McGory, principal, added three more students to the list on the honor roll. The added members include Edward Lemanski, John Kostka, Robert Schwanki. Dennis Frei was placed on the honorable mention list.

Two new cooks took up their duties of ordering, planning and cooking the meals for the Boysville family of 190. Mr. Mobley will prepare breakfast. Bob Rupert, formerly of Tecumseh, will prepare the other two "squares" a day.

✓

Last Friday night Boysville was "skinned alive" by the hustling "Bluestreaks" of Ida by a score of 77-46. Ida took and maintained the lead early in the first quarter as the Knights failed to break through Ida's man-to-man defense.

Ron Klos took scoring honors for Boysville with 21 points.

'Ag' Folks Sought

"I wish I knew more about agriculture so I could be of more help here," writes Peace Corps Volunteer William Weinhold from Kuala Lumpur, Malaya.

Mr. Weinhold, whose home is in Kobler, Wisconsin is a graduate of DeVry Technical Institute in Chicago.

He is assisting a BBC expert from England design new studios and stations for Radio Malaya.

"Malaya is one of the fastest developing countries in all of Asia, but," says Mr. Weinhold, "it needs trained agronomists to conduct a soil survey of the country."

In a letter, he asks his friend to do what he can to get "ag" people to volunteer for the Peace Corps because of the great need in many countries.

"Some countries need people who can operate tractors and get up dairy farms. Some need skilled veterinarians. I believe there are wonderful opportunities for young agriculture graduates in the Peace Corps."

☆

J. RAY GILLESPIE, county agent of Lenawee County, says the requests for Volunteers with farm backgrounds and training in agriculture, forestry and homemaking are increasing with every new Peace Corps project.

The demand for college trained volunteers far exceeds the present number of qualified applicants. They are being requested to work in agricultural extension projects, in rural community action projects, as teachers in school systems, as instructors in colleges and universities, and, in some cases, as researchers.

There are also opportunities for men and women without college training, provided they have farm experience, vocational agricultural training, or good 4-H backgrounds.

Applicants are now being selected for projects starting in late spring and summer for Malaya, Nepal, Pakistan, India, Colombia, Equador, Peru, Venezuela, Brazil, Guatemala, Uraguay, Chile, Jamacia, St. Lucia, Guinea and Togo.

Many Peace Corps Volunteers like William Weinhold wish they knew more about agriculture so they could make an even greater contribution to their host country.

Peace Corps application forms are available from Cooperative Extension Office in the court house at Adrian or from:

Few Feed Many

The secret of America's strength lies not in her sprawling cities or bee-hived industrial complexes and corporations, but in her agriculture—an agriculture whose working fore represents only 8.7% of the national population.

From this small minority flows the food that adequately feeds 187 million Americans and countless other millions in countries around the world.

In India, for example, it takes almost three-fourths of the total population to feed the hungry masses, and the diet is minimal at best. Russia, more advanced than her less fortunate neighbor, still requires half of the total population to meet the demand for food.

Yet her leader has told the world that they will bury us—or will we bury ourselves?

From a modest beginning a few hundred years ago, American agriculture has grown and expanded, nurtured by the free enterprise system and honest competition.

Those with foresight planned ahead and succeeded. Those who didn't, failed. It was almost as simple as that. Government aid was non-existent, as were government controls.

Capitalism is a harsh taskmaster if you disobey its rules, but the rewards are more than ample when you play the game correctly. The majority of American farmers have never complained about the rules, and have taken the bitter with the sweet as they worked and prospered.

It is only when the individual wants to have the sweets to himself; and share the bitter with his neighbors that trouble begins.

The past few decades have seen the spreading encroachment of government controls, not only in the area of agriculture, but in all phases of American life. "From the cradle to the grave" is not so far in the future as we might believe.

One might ask himself what has happened to the individual, and where is the spirit that "won the West?"

The Russian leader has said that he will bury us. But if Capitalism and our American way of life is dead before then, —what difference will it make to the corpse who throws the last shovelful of dirt on the grave, or for that matter, who dug the hole.

The corpse may have dug it himself when he was still a free man.

Congregations Plan Prayer Service

Mrs. Paul Hadsell will have charge of World Day of Prayer services Friday, March 1 at the Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Other local churches participating in the world event are the Presbyterian, First Baptist, Gloria Dei Lutheran and Episcopal.

"More Than Conquerors" is the theme of the 1963 service, inspired by the Apostle Paul's encouraging word to the Romans that neither tribulation, distress persecution, famine, nakedness, peril, nor sword can separate from the love of Christ for 'in all these things we are more than conqerors through Him who loved us."

For many of the Christian people around the world who will participate in the World Day of Prayer, these words are more than words, for as with the women of Korea, who wrote the service, they have seen tribulation, distress, persecution, famine, peril and war.

☆

"THE WORLD Day of Prayer service is not just a program. It is planned as an active experience of prayer, to give us a sense of unity with the worldwide church, and a response to this in informed giving," according to Mrs. Paul Moser, national chairman for World Day of Prayer.

The offering, a dedication of gifts and money to assist the work of those giving time and talent in many fields of service, will be channeled through the Division of Home Missions and the Division of Foreign Missions of the National Council of Churches.

Funds will help support 12 women's colleges in Africa, India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong and Taiwan.

They will provide attractive Christian literature for women and children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

They will make possible a friendly reception and hospitality for the 60,000 students who come to this country annually from overseas.

They will help the Migrant Ministry to provide recreational centers, vocational and homemaking schools, day care centers and programs for responsible citizenship. They will help in the work with Indian Americans moving into industrial areas.

March 1 the United States will be one of 150 areas in six continents in the world where some group will be gathering at some time during the entire 24 hours, to girdle the world with prayers.

Mrs. Robert Ries, junior high home economics instructor, and her eighth grade section put on a skit, "Susie Grows Up."

On the program committee were Elizabeth Frost and Joan Forrester.

Chris Reeves and Connie Robinette served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Sharon Comes Home Healthy from Stay on Taiwan

(Editor's note—This is the first in a series of articles by the Tecumseh girl who recently spent seven and one-half months as an International Farm Youth Exchange on the Island of Taiwan.)

By SHARON RIES

Hi! Remember me? I'm Typhoon Tillie from Taiwan and I just blew back into town for an extended home leave.

I'm now employed five days a week as a counselor at the Girls' Training School in Adrian and spending approximately three nights each week giving talks and showing slides to Lenawee County groups and even some Detroit and Ann Arbor organizations.

My three-T name has now been changed and officially registered —Two-Ton Tillie.

Due to a combination of factors— delicious food, plenty of it, and my own voracious appetite —my scales are telling all sorts of nasty little tales. Like 15 pounds over what I ever would have a horrible nightmare of being!

As a result of this unavoidable fact my wearable wardrobe now consists of five pleated skirts and whatever blouses and sweaters I can put with them harmoniously.

This extra 'pudge" seems to be the only physical part of Taiwan I brought back within me—the doctor just gave me a complete clean bill of health and went away wondering why.

I'm thrilled to prove all those "experts" wrong who warned me before I left of all the diseases and parasites I would pick up living with the rural people.

This seems to support my theory that picking up such items is three-quarters psychological and one-quarter lack of common sense.

☆

I'M GLAD to be back for two very important reasons:

1—Home looks sweeter than ever after one has been so far away for seven-one-half-months.

2—My Typhoon winds are all primed up to share with each of you my wonderful experiences in Taiwan and the insights it has given me into understanding our culture as well as the Taiwanese culture.

I'm afraid you'll think me prejudiced about my adopted country, but that's only because I'm so proud that I can say I have actually lived there. The cause of my pride I hope you'll soon decipher as you read this and future articles.

☆

WE MUST learn the background of any country before we can begin to understand the complexities of its present culture and how and why it is changing in many directions.

You may know Taiwan better by it's Portugeuse name "Formosa" meaning "beautiful." It's people have seldom seen much peace. They were first occupied by the Dutch, then the Portugeuse, Japanese and now the Chinese.

Since the Nationalist government was driven from the mainland by the Red Chinese they have settled in Taiwan.

Thus Taiwan is now also known as the Republic of China. This move has caused much confusion on the island as to who is governing what.

It would be the same situation if the U.S. government lost all the states, but Rhode Island and retreated to this one state—thus creating the U.S. in Rhode Island alone—along with its own state government. Not a very clear cut or always compatible situation to say the least.

☆

ONE OTHER distinction we should know before we proceed to Taiwan today is the difference between the three main groups of people inhabiting this tiny (250 miles by 80 miles) island off the coast of Mainland China.

The true natives of Taiwan, now numbering 205,000, are referred to as aborigines and might correspond to our American Indians.

Due to a similarity between some of their dialects and those found in the Philippine Islands, it is believed that their origin may have been from this island grouping.

The early settlers, now referred to as Taiwanese, came from South China 300 to 400 years ago, principally from the provinces of Fukien and Kwangtung.

The people referred to as Chinese (also called Mainlanders) are those who migrated to the island in the face of Chinese Communist aggression. Although the basic roots of aTiwanese culture came from China during the early immigration, they have, over the intervening years developed their own culture which in many ways differed from that on the mainland.

☆

KEEPING THIS short sketch of Taiwan's history in mind we can delve further into our "Venture in World Understanding" in future articles as I share with you what I saw experienced and felt as I came to know Taiwan and its people and it became my real Oriental home.

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 21 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1963 | 14 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Her name is Anita Watson.

She lives with her folks on a farm in Ohio, near the town my wife and I published the weekly paper for six years.

Anita, in her 30's, is a victim of multiple sclerosis and has never walked.

Despite the handicap, she has one of the cheeriest dispositions you could imagine.

Anita attended a special school for handicapped youths in Akron and was a bright student.

We got to know her when she applied for a job with our paper to collect personal items by telephone from her home.

During the Korean War, the Red Cross Bloodmobile began making annual visits to our little town and the call went out for volunteer workers.

Anita was one of the first to offer her services. She phoned folks asking them to give blood, helped arrange schedules. She spent dozens of hours on the project.

But most of all, Anita wanted to donate a pint of blood herself that first year.

She was rolled through the preliminaries in her wheelchair and asked the usual questions and given the regular checks.

But Anita was rejected because she was underweight.

"I'll be back next year," she told the crew, "I'm going to start today to gain some poundage."

She dug into the groceries the next 12 months and when Bloodmobile time rolled around again, Anita was on hand with a happy report that she was ready and eager to donate.

After a thorough check, she was allowed to give that precious pint of blood.

No girl ever grinned broader than Anita as one of her fellow volunteers presented her with the Red Cross donor pin when Anita joined others who had just given at the snack table for cookies and a cup of coffee.

Anita came to mind as I checked copy this week on a story reporting that the Bloodmobile will come to Tecumseh March 6.

Here's an opportunity for us to build up the local bank for our own use and other members of our families.

If you can give blood, please do March 6.

A lot of television sets were cheered Sunday afternoon — well, not the sets themselves, but what was coming over them.

Four bright-eyed Tecumseh youngsters flashed on screen and did right proud for themserves and their school.

David Dustin, Dennis Paruch, Fawn Choske and Louise Stutesman teamed to defeat a group from Richmond High in a contest on current events.

Their prize was a portable television set.

It was a grand day for Tecumseh.

LENAWEE COUNTY DRAIN COMMISSIONER DON MITCHELL SOUGHT INFORMATION FROM EXPERTS AT TUESDAYS SESSION

Survey of Raisin Getting Started

More than 114 attended a session on the River Raisin Watershed project Tuesday evening in the Community Center.

Almost all towns and cities in Lenawee and Monroe counties which would be affected by the plan were represented.

The giant effort, which could eventually include areas in Jackson and Hillsdale counties, is gradually moving ahead thanks to the dedicated efforts of several area men.

Ron Pocklington of Britton has been a main spring in a proposed reclamation of the Raisin. His dreams go all the way back to the 1930's when he ran a survey of the watershed for the government.

Tecumseh Councilman Royal Welch has worked closely with Mr. Pocklington in the present organization. He served as chairman for Tuesday's meeting.

At Tuesday's session, one of the major steps was formation of a 15-man steering committee, in which a variety of communities are represented.

Selected were:

Clyde Cook, city planner of Monroe

Mrs. August Breckel, Jr., Adrian township

Nello Stevens, Deerfield

John Truesdale, Clinton

Clifford Miles, Adrian city administrator

Richard Kuntz, Manchester

John Wilt, Palmyra

Norman Richardson, Blissfield Township

Bill Case, Dundee mayor

Dale Wagenkencht, Petersburg

Don Mitchell of Adrian, Lenawee County drain commissioner

Don Burton, Monroe County drain commissioner

Cal Zorn, acting city manager of Tecumseh

Royal Welch, Tecumseh

Laurence Liebold of Monroe, treasurer of the Lake Erie clean-up committee

☆

FOLLOWING the gathering, Woody Barclay, Lenawee County Soil Conservationist, explained that a technical review of the watershed is to be made next week.

This will be done by a five-man committee, whose members will spend about two days in the area, interviewing residents and examining the general condition of the river.

Following this, the comittee will accept a formal application from the Tecumseh Council for an engineering survey. The local governing body has already approved the idea of damming the Raisin at three points near here to form a trio of new lakes.

Mr. Barclay said 661,720 acres of land drain into the Raisin through the four counties in the watershed, Jackson, Washtenaw, Hillsdale and Monroe.

Mr. Pocklington warned that the water level had been dropping in recent years. He estimated that there were probably 40 possible sites for dams along the river, which could form a chain of lakes, boost water levels and offer a variety of recreation areas.

☆

EARL FENTON, of the Michigan Soil Conservation Service told the audience about recent changes in Public Law 566, under which the Raisin plan could win federal funds.

In cases of flood prevention Mr. Fenton said, the government would pay 100% of costs. With recreation, the government matches local money dollar for dollar.

He added that local municipalities can borrow their share at an interest rate of 2.9% from the secretary of agriculture.

Size of projects cannot exceed 250,000 acres, Mr. Fenton said, but this might be set up in a series of several should the overall need be bigger.

B. J. Goelzer of the Army Engineers from Detroit told briefly that after a plan has been formulated, local sponsors must contact Congressional representatives, who in turn would call the Engineers into the project.

LEAD CAUSE—Ron Pocklington (left) and Royal Welch have been spearheading the River Raisin reclamation program.

ASKS ABOUT FEES—Art Eaton asked if fees could be charged those who might use proposed recreation facilities along river. Answer: yes, a moderate fee may be asked to maintain property.

THS Students Bring Prize from Quiz

TV honors have come to Tecumseh High School through Quiz 'Em contestants Fawn Choske, Dave Dustin, Dennis Paruch and Louise Stutesman.

These THS students, along with alternate Janice Whelan and coach John Pobuda, traveled to Detroit last weekend to match wits with a panel from Richmond High School.

Viewed over channel 4 Sunday, the Tecumseh groups led the way with the first question, succeeded in retaking the lead shortly thereafter, and wound up 100 points ahead at the finish of the program.

Nervousness was apparent on the part of the students, but good hard work doing their newspaper studies showed results.

Tecumseh High is now the possesser of four TV personalities, as well as a new portable TV set, the prize selected by the winning students.

Library Funds Running Short, .6-Mill Sought

Tecumse Library Board will ask voters in June to approve a .6-mill tax for library operating funds.

The board is faced by a triple problem:

► Penal fines, which formerly paid half of the library expenses, have dropped steadily for several years, and further decreases are expected.

► The .32-mill tax voted several years ago has expired, with funds collected for the last time this year.

► In moving into the new library, the board found increases in both business and operating expenses.

Space was increased four times, and the heating and lighting expenses more than doubled.

The combination of increased expenses and decreased income already has made the board cut all possible costs, including cancelling purchase of all new books and magazines until the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

☆

THE BOARD expects to be operating on the minus-side of the ledger by the end of the fiscal year.

The operating income has been cut from $24,000 in 1961 to $22,000 this year, despite the increase in expenses. The loss came because the opening of new highways has cut income from fines levied against overweight trucks.

This loss has been felt by libraries throughout this section of Michigan. Fines collected in each county are distributed to public libraries in the county on the basis of population served.

☆

THE INCREASE in local taxes, which would amount to 28 cents for each $1,000 of taxable property, would make up for the drop in state tax funds, and also make it possible to restore the fund for adding to the library book collection.

Unless the library district levies a local tax of at least .3 mill, it can get no state penal funds.

Despite having to handle an increase in patronage at the library, the board has cut hours worked by the employees. The library will remain open the same number of hours per week, however, as long as funds permit.

The request for funds will be made at the Tecumseh school election in June, to save the expense of calling a special election.

Bowling Fans Being Sought

Tecumseh residents are reminded by Hugh Walter that two teams of Tecumseh bowlers will participate in a Rotary tournament in Frankenmuth. Sunday, March 10, at 303 N. Main St. at 2:30 p.m.

It is hoped that interested bowlers will go to Frankenmuth as spectators.

Exchange Changes Meetings

Members of the Tecumseh Exchange Club have made some changes in the meeting dates.

The next meeting will be held March 11 at 6:30 at the Eagles Hall as usual.

In the future meetings will be held the second and fourth Monday of each month.

Members will bring guests to the March 11 meeting when reinstatements will be taken and new members initiated.

Tecumseh will host the Adrian and Dundee Clubs and it is expected that a top Exchange speaker will be present.

Date for ladies night will be announced.

Boys Aid in Hunt for Missing Lady

Fourteen boys of Boy Scout Troop 73 spent the weekend winter camping at Kanesatake on Washington Lake.

They were accompanied by Donald Brees and Howard Wilson Jr.

The group was asked to participate in the hunt for Mrs. Joyce Watkins of Brooklyn and they did, covering the entire 104 acres of the camp.

Ladies Aid Adds Members

Grace Lutheran Ladies Aid society met in the church auditorium Feb. 13 and welcomed a new member, Mrs. Edward Klopp.

The Rev. K. F. Koeplin showed a film strip, "It's Up to You," depicting the synodical budget and the need for individual stewardship. The committee for the evening included Mrs. Vernon Bennett, Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Mrs. Alfred Schwede and Mrs. Fred Ward.

Feb. 20 members of the society served a chopsuey supper to approximately 175 persons. The proceeds of the free will offering taken will go toward the "Chapel for Japan" fund. The committee in charge of the supper included Mrs. Koeplin, Mrs. Carl Schomburg, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Furguson.

The Lutheran Girl Pioneers provided appropriate decorations for the dining-room. A sound film, "Japan Harvest," was shown during the evening.

Residents Save $4,865

Red Cross blood is free.

Tecumseh residents automatically qualify under the Red Cross blood program for needed blood — at no charge.

Only cost involved is normal hospital administration fee.

Keeping the blood bank full for the program is the responsibility of residents, who may some day need to draw from it.

This is done by giving blood during the regular visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Next one is slated for Wednesday, March 6 at the Products Workers Union Hall from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

☆

DURING THE months August through November, 1962, Herrick Memorial Hospital administered 160 pints of free Red Cross blood. University Hospital, Ann Arbor used 35 pints for Tecumseh residents during the period.

At the previous cost of $25 per pint of blood, this amounts to a savings of $4,865 for Tecumseh residents in a four-month period.

To stay in this new program, Tecumseh has to fill a quota of 125 pints of blood every six months. Last August, Red Cross received only 64 pints.

Over 200 pints are now needed to fill the quota.

☆

MARVIN NELSON, chairman for this drive, is distributing posters and pledge cards as reminders for local citizens. Pledge cards are also available at the Herald office.

Mrs. Marvin Nelson, co-chairman in charge of volunteer workers, is being assisted by Mrs. Douglas Dunn for the Jaycee Auxiliary, and Mrs. Wayne Patton for the Gray Ladies.

Anyone interested in helping during the Bloodmobile can call Mrs. Nelson 423-3528.

Schedule cards for the coming visit are also available at The Herald.

She Got Eight Pints

An ideal way for friends to donate blood for Betty Bishop, a patient at Pawating Hospital in Niles, would be to give the life-saving fluid when the Red Cross Bloodmobile is in Tecumseh March 6.

Miss Bishop suffered multiple fractures in an auto accident Feb. 14, while en route from Niles to Muskegon.

Donors may specify that their donation at the Bloodmobile is for Miss Bishop. She has already received eight pints of blood which the Red Cross will replace at the Niles Hospital.

Legion Auxiliary Hears Reports

Fifteen members heard reports from standing committees at the Feb. 14 American Legion Auxiliary meeting.

Mrs. John Zarnoch, membership chairman, reported 123 have paid dues. She also introduced Mrs. Glen Pittenger.

Mrs. Roy Beasley, rehabilitation chairman, announced that the date for the veteran's party at the Ann Arbor hospital was Feb. 25.

☆

MRS. ROBERT KOFFRON, poppy chairman, stated that students in grades four, five and six, who wish to participate in the poster contest with their parents' help, may obtain the official rules from her.

Plans for the past commanders past presidents' dinner for March 16 have been completed.

A Valentine motif was used by Mrs. Koffron, Mrs. Albert Bagshaw, Mrs. LaVern Seizert and Mrs. Robert Smith, when they served the refreshments.

Behind Page One

Barber shops were well patronized Monday by cast members from "Girl Crazy." The director had ordered, "No haircuts until after the production." One of the first of the shaggy "cowboys" to be shorn was Dr. Carlton Cook, in the barbershop before 9 a.m.

In last week's paper we had one candidate for Council incorrect. The Puffer who'll run will be C. Raymond Puffer, Jr.

Karl Schneider, just back from a two-week vacation trip with his wife Eileen in Florida, found the fishing there a bit different with Tecumsehite Tobe Brown than he did three weeks ago with Harold Green. The local finance manager landed a four-pound snook and some other big ones with Tobe. Earlier this month with Harold as a fishing guide and during zero weather, he spudded through 30 inches of ice on a small lake in the Springville area only to discover no water left in which to fish. Karl's only consolation was thty didn't lose the spud.

Old Friend Writes Bronc Busting Poem

Ten days before George Wittrup died, he visited for an hour with an old friend, Guy Hoover of Clinton.

They chatted about the old days, 30 years ago, when the pair broke horses together near Saline.

The animals had been shiped into Michigan by Mr. Hoover from Montana and had never been ridden. As a result of their mutual experience, Mr. Wittrup and Mr. Hoover became life-long friends.

Mr. Hoover was prompted by the visit with his old friend to write a poem, memorializing the days they spent together.

Our Last Vista

Well, George, get your chaps and let's saddle a nag.
We'll each rope a wild fighting thing.
We'll cinch up and straddle and swing to their swag,
And hang to the hackamore string,
While they swish-tail and groan as they buck the zigzag,
And our spurs jangle dangle down ding.

Then we'll grin and ride on, as they snaffle the reigns,
And we'll steer to the low setting sun.
And we'll ride this last ride as we rode the old plains
Long ago on the roan and the dun.

☆

Only now we'll ride past the trail's end, far below,
And beyond the horizon's deep blue,
Till we're only a speck in the late evening glow,
And absorbed in the twilight and dew;
Till we're lost in the mist that no knowledge can know,
In the realm where infinity grew.

YOU TOLD US

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Before we leave the patriotic month of February, let's take a look at this bit of philosophy.

If you want your father to take care of you, that's Paternalism.
If you want your mother to take care of you, that's Maternalism.
If you want Uncle Sam to take care of you, that's Socialism.
If you want your comrades to take care of you, that's Communism.
If you want to take care of yourself, that's Americanism.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Best Place To Look

Progress has its price. Sometimes the cost is figured strangely.

New highways crossing the county have cut travel time, wear and tear on vehicles and accidents.

But they have cost the country's libraries some sorely-needed funds

State penal fines, most of them coming from overweight trucks on the country's roads, dropped sharply when the new highways and their higher load limits became available.

Since libraries in a county split this fine money, they suffer the loss of revenue.

Tecumseh Public Library has seen its penal fine revenue cut by some $4,000 in the last three years. The cut in the current fiscal year was $2,300.

Except for the small economies of turning out the outside lights, turning down the heat and cutting the hours worked by young pages, the Library Board had only one place to trim the budget: The book fund.

No new books have been ordered since the first of the year, and none will be ordered until after the end of the fiscal year June 30.

A library is only as good as the books it offers.

Even buying at the special prices offered to libraries by publishing companies, the Tecumseh library has been spending around $5,000 a year to maintain and slowly build its collection of books, and to subscribe to the magazines and periodicals library patrons want.

Utilities take another large chunk of the library budget. When the new library was opened, these expenses rose too.

The only place to look — indeed the best place to look — for needed support for the local library is local funds.

Tecumsehites have shown they appreciate the new library. They are spending more hours there, taking out more books, asking more reference questions.

They should show this appreciation in June by giving the library the support it needs to continue operating.

The cost would only be six-tenths of a mill.

Little enough to spend for one of the community's biggest assets.

Hard Work, Cooperation

It's fun to watch a civic enterprise grow and prosper, through dint of hard work and cooperation.

This is the case with the town's amateur theatre group, the Tecumseh Players.

When the operation started three years ago, there was lots of tough sledding. Members used to joke among themselves about early shows being "artistic succeses" but not so financially.

But gradually, as more and more folks became patrons of Players' offerings, the gate receipts caught up and eventually passed expenses.

This year's two shows, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and the most-recent, "Girl Crazy" did real well, especially the latter which showed a profit of almost $800.

There are all sorts of uses for the cash — more stage equipment, lighting gear and the like.

We laud the efforts of the Players.

NO ONE WAS INJURED—Howard Thomas Atkin of rural Adrian escaped injury Feb. 20 when his car slid across the oncoming lane of traffic on W. Chicago Blvd., crossed a ditch and smashed into the first of a line of autos parked in front of Wilson Motor Sales. The left front wheel of the Atkin's car ran up over the hood into the windshield and shoved the car into the next one, driving the latter back 48 feet. The bumper of that auto scraped the right front fender of an adjacent car. Mr. Atkins was issued a ticket for not having his car under control.

He is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and Moody Bible Institute.

Mr. Stutesman and his wife and son, David, 2, live on W. Liberty St. in Ann Arbor.

THS Draws Erie-Mason

District tournament drawings Tuesday afternoon put the high-flying Tecumseh Indians against oft-beaten Erie-Mason next Tues day night at 8:30.

The winner will then meet Monroe Catholic Central at 8:30 Thursday evening. The finals are scheduled for Friday night at 7:30.

Other tourney games, all to be played in the Tecumseh gym, are Blissfield and Saline in the opener Tuesday at 7:30. This winner will play Jefferson at 7:30 Thursday evening.

Off team records, Blissfield and Tecumseh should be the class of the tournament. Saline, having a better than average year, also could be tough.

The district winner will be entered in the Regional 5 tourney at Franklin High School, Livonia.

Six Tecumseh players—Norm Tucker, Jack Dick, Tim Sisson, Dan Greene, Brad McCombs and Mike Osburn—will be playing their last basketball for the orange and black.

All have been starters or instrumental in this winning season, except possibly Osburn, who has played little but has drawn the appeal of the fans.

How far Tecumseh goes in tourney play depends a lot on the boards. Strong on offense and fair on defense, the Indians have shown a big weakness in rebounding.

If they pick up the desire to rebound, couple it with their offense, no Class B team in this area should give them trouble

LOCAL BUSINESS

"Lousy. . ." This cryptic term is used by retailers to describe business in New York since a strike has closed major newspapers of the city.

During January, department stores and speciality shops reported a drop of $5,000,000 in expected sales. For some departments, sales are off 15 to 20 per cent.

The employment market has been disrupted. Job applicants have been reduced more than 50%, because classified advertising sections are no longer available to bring employer together.

On the other hand, sales are increasing in suburban areas where community newspapers continue to publish. Some New York retailers fear that damage to the downtown business may be permanent.

However, most believe that restoration of the normal shopping medium, the local newspaper, will return business to the city.

In the meantime, public officials are duly alarmed. An estimated $20,000,000 per month loss in business is a great shock even to the largest city in the world.

Even in New York no adequate substitute has been found for the hometown newspaper as a retail shopping bulletin. It this respect The New York Times is no different from the smallest country weekly.

MRS. RICHARD PURKEY, FRED POKORNY WERE AMONG STARS OF "GIRL CRAZY"

Players Realize Profit of $800

More than 1,000 persons saw "Girl Crazy," a record attendance for Tecumseh Players productions.

The audience totaled 1,026 for six performances, an average of 87% capacity.

The last three nights were completely sold out.

Many who called were unable to get tickets.

This total doesn't count the approximately 70 persons who worked directly on the production, on stage, in the band and behind stage.

Nor does it count the many persons, including spouses and children of cast members, who attended rehearsals.

☆

A PROFIT of around $800 was realized, after royalties, rent and other expenses were paid.

The Players also had a financial success in their first production of this season, 'The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Final play of the year will be "Angel Street," which was made into a noted movie, "Gaslight."

Tryouts for the drama-mystery begin soon, with the play scheduled for mid-April.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Roswell Inn. Mrs. Clarence Damon, mother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hall were present from this area.

Frozen Silage Poses Threat

Many Michigan farmers need to be on the lookout for a hazard "hanging over their heads." And the hazard is not overdue loans or bills.

After the coldest January in 45 years, many farmers are looking at frozen silage "hanging over their heads" in the silo. Several Michigan farmers have been killed in recent years when they were crushed or buried by frozen silage which had suddenly broken loose from the silo wall.

"This could be one of the worst years for this type of accident. It will take extra caution to avoid this type of hazard," according to Richard Pfister, agricultural safety engineer at Michigan State University.

Warm days are the most dangerous. The silage thaws and breaks loose from the silo walls when temperatures rise. As much as eight to ten tons of silage can break loose and fall at one time. In addition, most of this "hanging silage" will spoil when the weather warms up.

Mr. Pfister recommends that farmers pry the frozen silage loose as soon as possible. He also cautions them to think before they act and keep out of the way of the falling silage. Using a long rod from the silo chute can be enough to break silage near the silo doors. A ladder is helpful in getting out the remaining silage.

By getting above the frozen silage it can more safely be pried loose. In narrow silos, the ladder base should be set against the opposite wall to avoid shifting from falling silage — and an unexpected fall.

Lawyers Ask for New - Con

(Part of a Series)

Two former Con-Con delegates, a Republican and a Democrat, are authors of an article supporting adoption of the proposed new Michigan Constitution in the current issue of the Michigan State Bar Journal.

The bipartisan summary of the new document is written by John E. McCauley, Wyandotte attorney, and Eugene G. Wanger, Lansing lawyer.

Mr. McCauley was a Democratic delegate representing Wayne County Board of Supervisors. Mr. Wanger is a Republican and was elected to represent Ingham County's 1st District at Con-Con.

"Taken as a whole and judged by any non-partisan standard, the proposed new Michigan Constitution is a great improvement. It deserves your support at the polls April 1," the article begins.

☆

LAWYERS McCauley and Wanger write: 'It contains literally scores of major new provisions, the majority of which were supported by both political parties at the convention, which could never be amended into the present constitution by the legally cumbersome, politically uncertain, time-consuming and costly process currently required."

Important changes in each of the 12 articles of the proposed constitution are discussed by the attorneys with the comment that "most informed citizens will find the vast majority of them to be better, in most instances immensely better, than our present basic law."

With respect to the controversial issue of apportionment, they comment:

'The new provisions will produce a legislature far more representative of population than at present and contain machinery virtually guaranteeing that both houses will be redistricted promptly every 10 years to reflect population changes. At the same time effective representation for people in sparsely populated localities is retained."

☆

AMONG THE improvements noted in the document by the two delegates are:

Broad and flexible provisions for strengthening county, city, village and township government.

Executive branch reorganization to consolidate the more than 120 executive agencies into not more than 20 principal departments.

Increasing the terms of the governor and other elective state officials to four years; and joint election of the governor and lieutenant governor as nominees of the same political party.

More adequate, equitable and flexible state financing.

Increasing the independence of the judiciary by permitting elected incumbent judges to nominate themselves for reelection.

Establishment within five years of a court of limited jurisdiction to replace justices of the peace and circuit court commissioners; elimination of the fee system as compensation for judges.

Better coordination and planning for public education in the state.

In their concluding paragraph the attorneys write: "We think that the new constitution will be adopted April 1 because of the Votes of Democrats and independents as well as Republicans, who having judged the two documents on a non-partisan basis recognize that Michigan's future will be better under the new constitution.

Sunday, Feb. 10 Mr. Underwood accompanied his mother to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Latham Dewey in Tipton for another celebration honoring Mrs. Cummings, and her son whose birth date was also being observed. It was also the 17th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey.

Clinton Editor Talks of Move by Town Plant

Hollis H. Farley, editor and publisher of the Clinton Local, had some interesting comments to make regarding the annoncement of Clinton Engines leaving that town.

In a public relations company's release dated Feb. 13, it was stated that the company announced a million and a half dollar consolidation and modernization program.

They didn't say they were going to spend a million and a half bucks, you will note—they merely announced the program.

They failed to note also, that the Clinton division of the company had, for some time past, been the one of their operations to show a profit.

Some time ago, a survey was made by several company officials, we were told, in an endeavor to make a decision as to where plant operation should be consolidated for the most efficiency.

The answers obtained at that time pointed out definitely that the availability of labor, production per man hour, accessibility to parts and supplies, availability of office personnel, transportation markets, taxwise and in several other ways, Clinton was the logical place in which to center production.

☆

SINCE THAT time rumors of many kinds have been rampant, but nothing definite was announced and no one had an official word to say until the announcement was made that all operations would be transferred to Iowa.

The point that I am trying to emphasize is the fact that the move in no way reflects upon the industrial climate of Clinton.

The town has cooperated in every way to make the location favorable to industry.

The Chamber of Commerce, for example, bought and gave to the company, land for a parking area after they expanded their facilities here.

The present problems of the Clinton Engines Corporation can in no way be blamed on our community.

Several inquiries have already been received from prospective industries regarding plant facilities here, and it seems that in the not too far distant future, we can recoup our current losses.

Boat Tags Are Offered to Owners

Despite the zero weather of January and the snows of February, 100,000 boat owners are all set for the spring day when they will put their craft into the water.

They are the persons who have their 1963 decal which shows they have paid $3 for their 3-year Michigan boat license.

Secretary of State James M. Hare says that there are about 300,000 watercraft owners who have not yet re-registered their boats.

"Failure to re-register soon could result in a boat owner losing his present "MC" license number," Mr. Hare said. "We sent out re-registration forms to about 400,000 Michigan owners so that they could be sure of keeping their current boat numbers and to avoid the nuisance of having to get a new set.

Only one out of four boat owners has sent back his re-registration blank.

"At this time we can process them in an orderly fashion," Mr. Hare pointed out. "If they all expect to get overnight service 24 hours before Memorial Day, a great many of them will be disappointed."

Michigan's 1850 constitution was a good one as it applied to agriculture which was the basic industry at the time. But since then manufacturing and tourist industries have come to the state. The proposed new constitution is fashioned for all three industries.

YOUNG MEN PLAYED HOCKEY SUNDAY FOR OVER FOUR HOURS AT RINK BUILT BY WES HAEUSSLER FROM HIS HOME, BROOKS ST.

Indians Battle for Title

The highest scoring team in Tecumseh's history travels to Grosse Ile Friday night for the Huron League championship.

If the offensive-minded Indians rack-up the Flyers, they'll sport a loop record of 12-2 and a 13-3 season mark—both the best records in recent years.

Coach Doug Murdoch's cagers cinched at least a tie for the title last week with a 65-51 win over hapless Ypsi-Lincoln. Only team with a chance for a tie is Dundee, which tangles with Airport.

Last month, in probably their finest game of the year, the Indians outclassed Grosse Ile by 37 points with an 81-44 victory. The score Friday undoubtedly will be much closer but Tecumseh should win it—and the championship.

Airport made somewhat of a surprise game out of its tussle with Tecumseh before bowing here last week. The Indians, however, definitely did not play one of their better games to make the tilt closer than what it should have been.

Tim Sisson, who has found the range, again led Tecumseh with 22 points. Norm Tucker collected 11, the only other player to score in the double-figure column.

Sisson and Dan Greene sparked the Indians who led by only nine points at the half, held even in the third stanza, and then opened up the margin early in the final quarter to win going away.

Jack Dick, who must be rated the Indians best all-around player with his rebounding, scoring and scrap, contributed only six points but proved his value on the boards again.

Fouls and free throws, more than any thing else, kept the Jets within range. Airport had 32 chances at the foul line, making 23 for nearly 75% shooting. Tecumseh had only 14 opportunities to cash in with free throws, but made 11 for about an 80% average.

Jayvees Wallop Ypsi; Trounce Adrian '5' Tuesday, 49 to 40

The Tecumseh Jayvees racked up two wins during the past week, whipped Ypsi-Lincoln here 64-47 Friday night and then Adrian Tuesday evening, 49-40.

Coach Jim Hoffman's cagers capitalized on a 17-point third quarter against Ypsi, boosting a six-point half time lead to 17 points at the end of the third stanza.

Twelve Jayvees tallied in the rout with Don Baird pacing the attack with 15 points.

Bill Thomas and Jim Lawson rallied their teammates against Adrian, Thomas banging in 13 points, nine in the last quarter when Tecumseh outscored the Maples 19 to 12.

Lawson collected half of his points in the second period. Jeff Osburn, top Jayvees scorer, hit for nine points.

Wheat Program Is Confused

From the Michigan Farm Bureau

When Alice followed the White Rabbit down the hole in the base of the tree, she could not have been more confused than those now involved in the "multiple price, certificate plan" scheme for wheat.

Prime difference between Lewis Carroll's whimsical tale and the Washington Wheat Wonderland, is that Alice woke up. Now, it's up to the American farmer to see if he can awaken in time. At stake are strict acreage allotments, a new higher type of marketing quotas, "diverted acre controls" and a long list of new powers that may be handed to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Back of it all is a section of the Agricultural Act of 1962 that calls for a multiple-price, wheat certificate plan, to be placed before wheat growers in a referendum. Two-thirds of those voting must approve the scheme before it can be adopted. Under the law, the Secretary of Agriculture has up to April 15 to announce the terms of the referendum and the vote date, which must take place within 60 days of the announcement and before June 15.

The certificate two-price plan assumes that there are two main wheat "markets" — a primary market that includes wheat for food, and the portion of wheat exported that the Secretary of Agriculture cares to include.

"Secondary" wheat is that used for feed-grains and the world market. "Certificate" wheat would be supported at 65 to 90% of parity, at the Secretary's discretion. Non-certificate wheat would be supported on a complicated schedule in relation to feed-grains, feed value and world market prices.

In all, the heavy hand of the Secretary plus political determinations would constantly be apparent.

Opposition to the certificate control plan has been growing in all parts of the country. Farmers know that a "Yes" vote would be interpreted by politicians and by the Department of Agriculture as endorsement of more government-control in agriculture.

They truly feel that the best way to stop the continual take-over of their operations by Washington is to turn down the whole scheme with the kind of overwhelming "no" vote that even Washington can't ignore.

Sports, Outdoor Exposition Set at Fair Grounds

The world's largest sports and recreation exposition is coming to Detroit March 1-10 at the Michigan State Fair Grounds.

A "Parade of Outdoor Champions", a 1½ hour stage show, will introduce to the Detroit area a host of events and champions from various parts of the United States.

This will be held twice daily in the Coliseum, where more than 6,000 seats will be available without additional charge.

Another building will be devoted to demonstrations of all the newest rods and reels, a live trout fishing pool for public participation, two casting pools, exhibits of guns, golf equipment, and archery.

Vacation and travel exhibits will occupy another building. There will be a marine section showing fishing boats and motors and a large area devoted to camping and the pick-up camper.

Another feature will be a theatre with continuous hunting and fishing movies from Michigan and throughout the United States.

Healthful Health Hints

Protect Your Children, Poison Proof Your Home

This year half a million children will swallow potentially poisonous substances. Five hundred of them will die.

This unnecessary slaughter can be stopped if parents "poison proof" their homes.

How many times can you say "Yes" . . my home is poison proof"

☐ ☐ Do you keep household products and medicines out of the sight and reach of children? Even if you leave the room for an instant be sure the container is in a safe place.

☐ ☐ Do you store household products only in their original containers? Cups, glasses and soft-drink bottles are for FOOD and Beverages — NOT for bleach, kerosene, turpentine, etc.

☐ ☐ Do you store medicines separately from other household products?

☐ ☐ Are you sure that all your household products and medicines are properly labeled?

☐ ☐ Do you always call medicine by its proper name? MEDICINE IS NOT CANDY.

☐ ☐ Do you clean out your medicine chest and storage cabinets regularly?

☐ ☐ Do you use caution when you throw away an old container? The contents SHOULD BE FLUSHED DOWN THE DRAIN and the container rinsed.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY FROM THE DANGERS OF ACCIDENTAL POISONING. POISON PROOF YOUR HOME TODAY. .

THROUGH MY WINDOW

OF ALL SIZES AND SHAPES

Let's take care of the common, ordinary ones first. There are times when I think we are playing host to every English sparrow in southern Michigan.

They absolutely swarm. The feeder will be packed full, the snow-covered ground black and the poor wren-tree will have dozens of them just sitting there waiting.

They scrap and squabble amongst themselves incessantly.

Occasionally these fierce battles become hilariously funny.

The other day, for example, two antagonists squared off at each other and what illusions of grandeur they must have had.

They stood face to face, heads lowered and mouths open. Their wings were slightly extended, their tails held up and fanned out.

As they glared at each other and lunged back and forth, no actual contact was ever made, but it was certainly quite a performance to watch.

Shades of ruffled grouse behavior. Is there no limit to the heights to which these lowly creatures will aspire? Ha!

☆

ANOTHER interesting facet of sparrow behavior is the way they spook. The mob will be in the yard or on the feeder and suddenly, for no reason apparent to us, they all take off.

The flock flies as one bird and swoosh, they go around the cor ner of the house heading for the barberry bushes and the fence.

It is actually possible to hear the noise their wings make.

We often wonder what startles them, how they manage to all take off at once, how do they know where to go and how come there never are collisions?

☆

BUT WE have other sparrows to talk about, ones which are prettier and much more interesting.

Our old friends, a pair of song-sparrows, are regular free-loaders.

They are being most uncooperative this year and content themselves with dining upon scratch feed which has fallen to the snow.

How can we take pictures of birds who won't come to the feeder when that is where the camera is aimed? Oh well, it is nice just having them around.

Song sparrows fit into the classification of cute birds. Their round roly-poly bodies are accentuated by slender tails. Their white heavily streaked with brown breasts are good, easily seen identification marks and the dot in the middle of the breast is a sure sign.

A slim, sleek and dapper gentleman who also disdains the feeder is the tree sparrow. He is a real gay blade and sports a perfect black dot stick-pin the middle of his solid gray front.

☆

THE LINCOLN sparrow is another ground-lover, at least the two or three times we have seen him, that is where he has been.

He has a finely streaked, buffy breast and his sides are faintly washed with yellow. A pretty bird, wish he would come oftener.

Please don't think that the only sparrows who visit the feeders regularly are the tiresome English sparrows. The pert field sparrow is most faithful this winter.

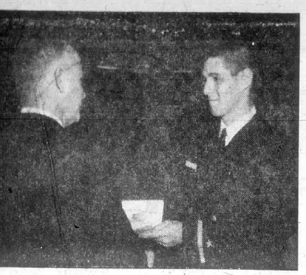

A little fellow, rather nondescript in coloring, we noticed him first because he was so much smaller than the others.

Close observation revealed sharply defined white wing bars and a tiny pinkish bill. Not very photogenic but fun to have around.

So it is that lately we have been entertained by sparrows of all sizes and shapes.

Teacher Salaries Are Hiked As Accreditation Measure

BRITTON — Salary raises for teachers is the first step the Britton-Macon Board of Education has made toward retaining accredation by the University of Michigan.

The administration was informed that Britton-Macon High School was accredited for the 1963-64 school year on a tentative basis, with the request that certain violations of the U of M standards be corrected within that period of time.

The violations were:

► No health or physical education for girls on the high school level.

► No librarian for the high school library.

► Library facilities are inadequate.

► Science laboratory is not large enough or well enough supplied to meet the needs of the students.

► Too large a teacher turnover, which disrupts curriculum continuity.

The new salary schedule is expected to help in enabling the school system to attract and retain teachers.

Starting salary for beginning teachers with a bachelor's degree was recently raised by the Board of Education from $4,000 to $4,200. Those who have a master's degree will start at $4,400.

Maximum pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree was set at $5,700. Maximum for a master's degree was raised to $5,900. The annual increment is to remain at $150.

Teachers will be paid for extra services, including coaching, directing school plays, cheerleader advisor and yearbook sponsor.

City Awards Garbage-Trash Pickup Contract

By JIM LINCOLN

Dependable Garbage Service, of Napoleon, was awarded a three-year contract with the city by Council Monday night.

The contract will be effective April 1.

Rates for residential pickups are:

► One can, $1.50 per month or $4.50 a quarter.

► Two cans, $2.25 per month or $6.75 a quarter.

► Three cans, $3 per month or $9 a quarter.

Commercial rates have not been determined.

The new collectors are already servicing Manchester and several townships in the Irish Hills area.

Unless poor weather is encountered, garbage and trash will be buried by a bulldozer on a farm near Napoleon.

☆

NEW TRUCKS will be employed and Councilmen were assured that satisfactory service will be provided. Representatives are expected to canvas the community within the next few weeks to determine the number of people desiring collections.

Other bidders included:

Simon & Laberdee, Ottawa Lake

Roots Rubbish & Garbage Contractors, Ann Arbor

Weasel Bros., Tecumseh

Community Sanitation Service, Inc., Toledo

Rons Light Hauling & Trash Removal, Adrian.

☆

THE NAPOLEON bid was the lowest for one can and comparable with the others for two or three cans, except the Adrian bid which was about tree times higher.

Mayor Harold Easton was the sole dissenting voter in awarding the contract. He remarked that the city had had enough trouble with collectors attempting to operate on $1.50 a month.

Roots of Ann Arbor has been garbage and trash here for the past several weeks, since Acme and Herb Dillon both quit after complaints and financial difficulties.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

"Red" Wilson is a mighty popular guy. This seems apparent.

Now recuperating in Arizona from a stroke, Red has been deluged with "get well" cards from friends back home.

Long-time personnel manager of Tecumseh Products, Red recently took a leave of absence and made a trip to the far west with his wife.

Shortly after the Wilsons arrived, they headed for Sun City to select a home to which they would eventually retire.

Then the stroke hit and Red was hospitalized in Tucson.

Just about the time this happened, Mabel Lockwood, editor of the Products employee publication was getting out the February issue of her TP Broadcast. It contained a front-page spread on Red.

When Mabel learned that Red was in the hospital, she led off the yarn with a short note, telling of his illness to about 3,300 Products folks and suggesting that they send cards.

Mrs. Wilson later dropped Mabel a letter to report, "so many cards arrived they (hospital personnel) thought he was some kind of celebrity."

Red was released from the hospital Sunday, spent several days with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Morse in Tucson, and then he and Mrs. Wilson were to be settled in their Sun City place for the balance of Red's leave.

For the present, Red is getting around with a walker, but he plans to get rid of this before long and has already made the statement that he'll be playing golf this summer.

Besides the cards and letters, Red also had visits from several former Michigan residents. One Tecumseh businessman, Cal Damon, dropped in for an unexpected chat on his way back from a California vacation.

Friendships are wonderful. Just ask Red.

Some months ago, there was a story in The Herald about the building of a nuclear submarine, which will be named the Tecumseh.

Construction work has been underway and the boat (not ship, you navy guys — it's a pigboat, see) will probably be commissioned in about 18 months.

By a happy coincidence, there's a naval officer from Tecumseh, who is extremely interested in this craft and has volunteered to keep The Herald posted on it.

Ensign Don Beaubien is the son of Mrs. Pearl Myers, owner of the Bostonian Dining Room here. He graduated from THS in 1947, then a year later went into the navy.

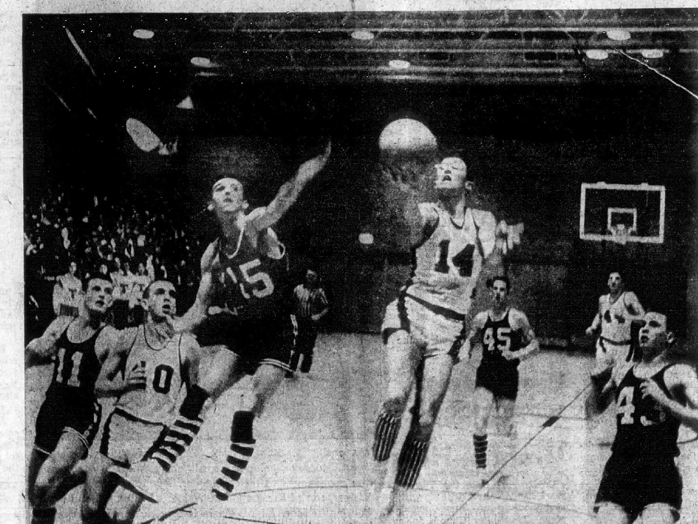

During the past 15 years he has worked hard and long at his career and was recently commissioned into the regular navy. His specialty is electronics and he just completed a course at Newport, R.I.

While in the East, he visited the General Dynamic Corp. in New London, Conn., where the Tecumseh is being built, and had a chat with some of the people on the project.

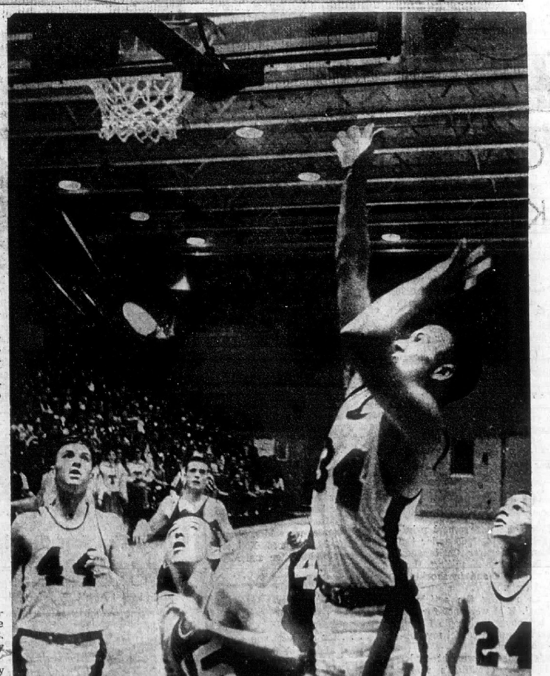

Don's next stop is Great Lakes for a one-year session in advanced electronics and he intends to stay close to the sub story while there.

He is making a variety of contacts with key service people to prepare articles on the nuclear submarine program for us. They'll point out the opportunities in this new setup, what academic preparations, a youth in high school should make for it, the workings of the Tecumseh.

They all should make interesting reading.

FAST BREAK—Tecumseh ran hard against Erie and in this break Jack Dick (14) lets fly. Teammate Bradley McCombs (40) eyes action as tiny Erie defender tries to block Jack's shot.

Indians Set Scoring Mark Against Erie

THURSDAY, MARCH 7
Jefferson vs Blissfield at 7 p.m.
Monroe Catholic Central vs Tecumseh at 8:30 p.m.

FRIDAY, MARCH 8
Winners of Thursday games meet at 7:30 p.m.

Tecumseh opened its drive for the Class B District Tournament crown Tuesday night with a resounding 96-43 victory over a weak Erie-Mason five.

The point total, which snapped the old 92-point THS record made earlier this season against Airport, easily could have been well over the 100-mark.

All 13 players on the varsity played and scored.

Four Indians—Norm Tucker, 17; Jerry Hebb, 15; Tim Sisson, 14; Greg Allen, 12—tallied in double figures.

The Indians will now play Monroe Catholic Central this Thursday evening at 8:30 at the high school gym, and CC should give favored Tecumseh a much better game than Erie-Mason. CC is 5-11 for the season.

A victory will probably pit the Indians against Blissfield Friday night at 7:30 in the finals. The Royals have fallen twice to Tecumseh this season, the first game a thriller in the holiday tourney at Adrian.

The starting five and reserves scored at will against the Eagles, running up quarter scores of 21-23-26-26, a lot of points for high school teams which play only eight-minute periods.

The Eagles scored nine of their 19-point half-time total from the foul line, but then made only four of 13 attempts in the final two quarters.

The game undoubtedly was the greatest mismatch seen in Tecumseh in many years, and the Eagles had no chance whatsoever.

If Indians Win, Here's Next Stop

IF, and a big one, the Tecumseh Indians win the local district tournament this week, the following route to Franklin High School, Livonia, for tjhe Regional tourney next Tuesday will be helpful.

Turn left or west onto Joy Rd. to Franklin High School at 31000 Joy Rd.

Blissfield Edges Past Saline, 39-38

Blissfield advanced into the District Tournament semi-finals by the tender margin of a single free toss.

The Royals slipped by Saline, 39-38, in a ragged match that turned into a real game the final minute of play.

The loss of Blissfield star-scorer Jack Cory, home with the flu, hurt the Royals.

At first Cory's absence didn't seem to matter, as Blissfield held comfortable margins right into the final minutes of play.

Then Saline got sparking and a five-point Royal lead dwindled to two with 27 seconds to go.

Blissfield's Fran Pavelka sank a free toss, which turned out to be the difference, but Saline came tearing back and Capt. Ron Tucker flipped in a 15-footer with six seconds to go.

The buzzer sounded before Blissfield could get the ball out —and the Royals had notched their opening tourney win.

Speeding Car Rams into Tree, Killing 2

Two were killed when a out-of-control car smashed into a tree on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. Friday night.

Mrs. Agnes Marsh, 38, whose life had been touched by the tragic death of her son two years ago, was the driver.

She died instantly.

Carl Ray Marshall, 20, of rural Clinton, her passenger, was declared dead on arrival at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Marshall was taken to the hospital by his brother, A. J., who was trying to catch up to the death car, which he said traveled at 80 miles an hour.

A. J. Marshall told police that the trio had been in a Clinton tavern earlier, then started for Tecumseh.

When the Marsh vehicle began to act erratic, A. J. Marshall said he got Mrs. Marsh to stop and warned her to drive more carefully.

She sped away, losing the second car, losing control and running off the road a few minutes later.

☆

SERVICES were held from Corkery Funeral Home Monday for Mrs. Marsh, who was survived by four children, James, Nina, Mary and Lori.

The family lived at 311 S. Maumee St. and the survivors are presently living with relatives.

It was just two years ago this month that another of Mrs. Marsh's sons, John, 13, was found dead from a pistol shot after the boy had disappeared for a week.

Mrs. Marsh, a divorcee, is also survived by four brothers and two sisters, all of Kentucky. The Rev. Donald Hackworth of Adrian conducted the service and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Funeral for Mr. Marshall, survived by his wife, Phyllis, and a daughter, Wanda Jean, was Tuesday in Clinton. Other survivors include four brothers, two half-brothers and four half-sisters.

He was employed by Tecumseh Products Co. a week prior to the accident.

Car Wash Given OK

A building permit for construction of an addition to the old te lephone building on E. Chicago Blvd., was authorized by Council Monday night.

The decision will pave way now for Tecumseh's first fully —automatic car wash, to be operated here by Donald Blaker and Jack Webster of Adrian.

Jack Osburn, real estate salesman representing Louis Schneider, owner of the building, asked Council for the permit after the Planning Commission and city offiicals neglected to act on it.

The Commission had been approached on a car wash several months ago and had not issued an opinion. Mayor Harold Easton said the commission should have said yes or no, and didn't believe the commission had grounds to say no.

Acting City Manager Cal Zorn said he felt the car wash could help the downtown businessmen by providing another service to the residents and others coming to town.

The latest, modern car wash equipment will be installed, according to Mr. Blaker, an Adrian insuranceman, and Mr. Webster, now working at Merrilat Woodworking.

Work for a 40-foot addition is expected to start about March 15, and the car wash to be readied for business early in May.

Beware of Mr. Flu Bug

Take every precaution to avoid Asian flu.

Plenty of rest, a balanced diet, avoiding over-fatigue are key steps to take. Avoiding exposure with sick persons and large groups of people is important.

Common symptoms of influenza include chills and fever, headache, nausea and muscular aches and pains.

If you experience these symptoms, call your doctor.

Although only a few cases of Asian influenza have been confirmed by laboratory tests, they prove the disease is in Michigan.

Industry and schools in this area show no great increase in absenteeism, but local doctors have sighted a slight climb in chest viruses and some influenza.

☆

TO QUOTE a local physician, "We seem to have had an increase in infections very similar to influenza. This recent warm spell could possibly attribute to the increase."

2 Taverns in Trouble with City

Two Tecumseh taverns came under criticism Monday night at the Council meeting with the Rocket Tavern subjected to most of the discussion.

According to Police Chief Murell Clark, promised improvements at the Rocket have not materialized and poor conditions still exist.

He cited as examples, rear exit, front, kitchen and covering of food, toilets.

Council authorized a letter to the State iquor Commission not to renew the Rocket's license unless corrections are made.

Chief Clark also said that he was holding up the transfer of ownership of Nick's Tavern until proper drains are installed and the kitchen remodeled.

Behind Page One

The William Mackeys on Mill Hwy. were surprised to see several squirrels playing around their bird feeder Monday. Usually the squirrels appear one or two at a time. Their surprise grew as the squirrel population increased. At last count, there were seven furry feeders.

One auto license plate was missing, so her husband took the other off the car, in order to get plates and the 1963 tabs. She didn't know, so innocently drove the car to Adrian. A state patrolman stopped her and said, "The back license plate is missing."

She answered, "It dropped off. We are getting a new one."

He said, "Lady, the front plate is missing, too. Let me see your car registration."

She reached into the glove compartment, withdrew an empty hand. The light dawned.

The patrolman apologized for making her late for a class at Siena Heights, and said he was sorry he had to give her a ticket. Most polite policeman she'd ever met, said Mrs. Thomas Riordan.

MR. FLU BUG

Although the flu itself is not dangerous, it can lead to severe complications, such as pneumonia.

Pregnant women, people over 45, and especially those over 65, and small children are extremely susceptible to the disease.

The severity of other illnesses, such as measles, suggests the probability of a number of different viruses.

Acres Subdivision Floods Again

A five-man crew from the city's street department is working feverishly to battle flooding in many areas.

Hardest hit—as usual—is the Tecumseh Acres subdivision, which has no storm sewers.

The intersection of Sunset Dr. and Cairns St. is under about six inches of water, forming a lake that runs 300 feet long and about 100 feet wide in parts.

West from the corner, down Sunset, flooding is building up.

Where Murray Dr. bends there is another huge lake.

Meyers Aircraft has a flooded section to the south and west, although this started to drain Wednesday morning when city workers forced warm water through a frozen culvert under the Macon Rd.

Freezing of catch basins all over the city is a major problem, explains Acting City Manager Cal Zorn.

However, in Tecumseh Acres, he admits that the lack of a storm sewer system is the main cause.

Mr. Zorn states that a sewer network for the troubled subdivision will be submitted for consideration with other city improvements next spring.

He has recommended that the Irelan gravel pit on Occidental Hwy. be purchased by the city and the proposed storm sewers drained into it.

Blood Rd. was closed Tuesday when the overflow from a 36-inch culvert under Roger Hwy. covered the roadway.

Faraday Officials Praised

Trustees of Teletronics, Inc. had some comments about Faraday, Inc. in a recent report.

"Faraday possessed a highly-capable and efficient management team.

"Faraday net sales for the past five years have averaged in excess of $2,600,000 per year.

"For the year ended Dec. 31, 1962, net sales were $2,766,524 and a net profit before taxes of $122,893, after deduction of a non-recurring moving expense of $76,150."

The report was made to United States District Court in Philadelphia, which is conducting hearings on the fate of Teletronics. The parent firm has filed for reorganization under Chapter 10 of the Bankruptcy Act.

Faraday, its chief asset, is presently in the process of being sold to Gray Mfg. Co. of Hartford, Conn.

Gray has made a $180,000 deposit on the $900,000 purchase price. The sale becomes official April 1, unless Teletronics comes up with an alternate reorganization plan that the court will approve.

TO THE EDITOR

Your front page report printed February 14, 1963 under the caption "Treasurer Challenged" was thoroughly disgusting, flagrantly abusive and in shockingly bad taste.

After reading the article I sickened. If it were not for the few bits about the people I used to know I would cancel my subscription at once.

Despite the downright malevolence, the candidate's whopping victory with nearly 80% of the count was indeed gratifying.

Congratulations to Mildred Gove!

Merit Scholarship Test Attracts 79

Seventy-nine Tecumseh High School students will spend their Saturday morning deep in concentration during the administering of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Students will be taking this three-hour examination of educational development in the study hall starting at 9 a.m.

The 1963 testing session is the first step in the ninth annual competition for four-year Merit Scholarships provided by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. and by sponsoring corporations, foundations, associations, unions, and individuals.

The number of scholarships awarded in any one year depends upon the extent of sponsor participation.

☆

TEST SCORES of students who are examined in March will be reported to their schools before May 15. Scores are used by class advisors in many high schools to help students make decisions about college attendance and field of study.

Many students who do not expect to win a scholarship take the test in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses in the areas measured by the test.

Some 13,000 semi-finalists, the highest scorers in each state, will be named early next fall.

Names of semi-finalists are published in a booklet which is distributed to all colleges and to other sources of financial aid for under-graduates.

Further, their names and test scores are sent to the colleges they express an interest in attending as their first or second choices. The order of preference is not shown.

An additional 35,000 students, selected on a national basis, receive letters of commendation for their high performances on the qualifying test.

These students are considered for special awards made through the Merit Corporation, and their names and test scores are also sent to their first and second-choice colleges.

☆

EACH Semi-finalists will be asked to take a second examination. Those who repeat their high performance will become finalists in the Merit Program. Winners of Merit Scholarships will be selected from the finalist group on the basis of school records and recommendations, test scores, extracurricular activities, leadership ability and accomplishments outside the classroom.

Each finalist is awarded a Certificate of Merit attesting to his outstanding performance.

The scholarship stipends are based on financial need. The minimum award is $100 and the maximum is $1,500.

Mrs. Branigan apparently applied the brakes to avoid the car in front of her and the Branigan auto skidded sideways onto the shoulder and then backwards into the snow along the road.

Zoning Changed to 'Business A'

By JIM LINCOLN

Council Monday night approved a change in zoning on W. Chicago Blvd., involving the properties of Wegner's Market and land next door owned by Ethel Hammack.

The change switches the zoning from residential to Business A restricted.

Several residents in the area attended the public hearing which involved considerable discussion and a 5-1 vote from Council.

Mrs. Hammack said that she would construct parking lots on her property for motorists visiting the Secretary of State Office, which she manages.

☆

STATE POLICE had complained of motorists parking along the roadside. Wegner's Market owners had asked motorists not to jam their parking lot to do business at Mrs. Hamack's office.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Buehrer complained that repeated changes of zoning to commercial would endanger the value of theirs and other residential properties.

Councilman Roy Welch, who voted against the change, stated the change should be temporary and then revert back to residential and to continue to serve as a buffer zone between commercial and other residential properties.

☆

MRS. HAMMACK told the Council that she did not intend to keep the state office for many years and hoped to sell the property.

She said that it would be practically imposible to sell the land if it was zoned residential.

Business A restricted calls for a 50-foot setback from the road, which limits any commercial construction in the area due to Evans Creek, which cuts in toward the highway behind Bud's A&W, Wegner's Market and Mrs. Hammack's property.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Time, Brain Power, Money

Each Thursday and Friday, our mail brings soundings from many Michigan communities via a variety of weekly newspapers with which The Herald regularly exchanges copies.

Papers come from Mason, Saline, Lapeer, St. Clair, Manistique, Brown City, Oxford, Plymouth, Wayne, Leslie, Hartford, Blissfield, Three Oaks and Baldwin, to name some.

You'd be amazed at the similarity of happenings from week to week in these communities. Small towns have many identical problems in local government, schools, along business rows.

The various editors report what is taking place and then often make suggestions, cajole, needle, and prod with editorials.

A common theme these weeks is the need to improve various business sections in communities all over the state.

The Lapeer County Press hit this subject with a sledge hammer last week, pointing out that merchants there face competition with sleek shopping centers—as far away as Northland.

People like to trade where there is plenty of parking, where stores are attractive, where there is enjoyment in buying.

Most Tecumseh business places meet these requirements. Some do not. There could will be a program here to bolster the over-all appearance—both from the front and rear entrances—of local businesses. It would take time, brain power and money.

Sometimes, folks will stack these requirements in reverse order. If they don't see the cash readily available, they drop the whole idea.

A lot of Michigan weeklies are coming up with suggestions that Urban Renewal be considered in the matter of downtown beautification and restoration.

Under Urban Renewal, old buildings would be torn down and replaced by new ones. Obviously, this type of program would take careful planning and the tying down of a thousand loose ends.

But should it come about, results could be most impressive.

This is a project that reaches far into the future. It envelopes much of the potential for doing business by retailers the rest of this century.

We hate to wave a scarlet flag, but one only has to look around the area to see some towns gradually going under because business places, for one reason or another, would not face up to the fact that folks must think farther ahead than today.

The EMU choir, with voices selected from students in all departments of the college, appears under the direction of Blaine Ballard, music and choir director of Tecumseh's First Baptist Church.

Mr. Ballard's wife, Betty, is organist at St. Peter's

☆

THE CHORAL festival was inaugurated on the EMU campus in the 1960 Christmas season. It was patterned after a service of the same name done at King's College Chapel, Cambridge, England.

It met with such success on the Ypsilanti campus that it was modified to suit the needs of the Lenten season.

Produced in cooperation with the Campus Religious Affairs organization under the direction of Charles Minneman, the service consists of alternating Lenten scriptures and music.

Mr. Ballard professor of music at EMU, received his master of music degree from Indiana University and is working toward a doctorate.

He established an opera workshop at EMU and has been guest conductor for honors choirs of Michigan high schoolers.

Indians Squeak to League Crown

by JIM LINCOLN

A squeaking 55-53 victory over Grosse Ile Friday night gave Tecumseh its first undisputed Huron League title.

The win, a must since Dundee slaughtered Airport, gave the champions a 12-2 record in the loop, besting Dundee by one game.

Tim Sisson sparked the Tecumseh cagers with 21 points, 12 coming in the last half when GI threatened to upset the Indians.

Jack Dick, runnerup to Sisson in Tecumseh scoring, tallied 14 points, and collected the final six points to squeeze out the win.

The Indians ran into foul trouble, besides a pepped-up GI team, and three players—Dick, Sisson and Jerry Hebb—finished the game with four fouls each.

GI took advantage of the infractions. Outshot from the field, the Flyers made 19 of 27 free throws while the Indians were collecting only 11 of 17.

Officials called 22 fouls against Tecumseh and only 13 against GI.

☆

COACH DOUG Murdoch's team was again plagued with poor rebounding, frequently giving GI a second or third shot offensively, and failed often to snag a rebound which would have enabled the Indians to try another shot.

Ball hawking by Sisson and Dan Greene troubled GI and was a prime factor in Tecumseh's winning, which would have been made easier if the Indians had been able to collect bucket or two when they were on the verge of rounting the Flyers.

The score was tied several times during the last quarter. At one time, the Indians trailed by four points.

$3 Million More for Construction

Bitter and prolonged cold weather has caused Consumers Power Company and its subsidiary, Michigan Gas Storage Company, to add $3,000,000 to their gas construction budgets for 1963.

A. H. Aymond, Consumers chairman of the board, said the two companies would spend $36,000,000 instead of the $33,000,000 originally planned to strengthen their combined gas system. The system serves almost 600,000 gas customers in 32 Michigan counties.

Grosse Ile Conquers Tecumseh Jayvees

Grosse Ile avenged the Tecumseh Jayvees last Friday night, 54-44, but it was not quite the same team which the Indians had fielded earlier.

Missing was big 6'5" Bill Thomas from the lineup, a Jayvee who varsity coach Doug Murdoch had moved up to the varsity.

Steve Derby more than handled the scoring chores in relief of Thomas, but the shorter Derby couldn't quite match his effectiveness on the boards.

As it turned out, GI had to rally in the second half to win, outscoring the local cagers 35 to 22 in the final two periods. Tecumseh led at the half, 22 to 19.

Dave Tilton, scoring nine points in the final quarter, paced the Jayvees with 13 points. Derby collected 12 and Jim Lawson 10.

Taiwan Has Much to Offer for Those Who Really Look

SHARON RIES

by SHARON RIES

"I feel so sorry for those people over there . . . How did you manage to live just as they? . . . I admire your courage . . . Weren't you afraid of such a strange country and different culture?

These are comments I've heard so much since my return home. They always make me feel so discouraged and disappointed at the little amount of insight and empathy Americans seem to have. Then I stop and remember that some of these same and similar questions occurred to me before I left.

There's really no one to blame but ourselves—but the present couldn't be a better time to discover a bit about my host country, my host families and how we lived.

☆

TAIWAN'S ECONOMY is second highest in the Far East, right behind Japan's. The occupation of 12 million living on this island one-third the size of Michigan (7.8 million population) is 48% agricultural. The average farmer in Taiwan supports his family of 7-10 members on approximately two acres, earning in cash the equivalent of $200 U.S.

The money exchange rate is fantastically high: $1 U.S. to $40 N.T. (New Taiwan). Locally manufactured or grown products are quite a bit cheaper than are the U.S., of course:

1 fresh pineapple—10-20c

Good filling dinner (at local restaurant—not tourist)—50-75c

Bus fares — 2c (in city or town)

Hotel (not tourist) for one night, including maid service and hot tea—75c-$1.

But products which many of us consider to be necessities, and which are in our culture, are not manufactured in Taiwan and are extremely expensive — even more than in the U.S. because they must be imported. Refrigerators, washing, machines and tractors and cars are simply never found in rural homes and seldom in well-to-do homes.

☆

FARMERS EVERYWHERE work hard, machines or not. My farm families and I usually arose between 5 and 6 a.m. every morning. To begin the day's activities, we swept all the floors (usually concrete, sometimes hard-packed clay) and the courtyard, wetting them down to lay the dust.

Even though temperatures during the summer reached 100 plus in the shade and the humidity just as high, the hot noonday sun really dried the exposed dirt out, leaving most roads and clay courtyards very dutsy.

Being the lazy American I was—accustomed to arising at 7 a.m. at the very earliest for last minute studying before my 8 a.m. exam—I was horror stricken at the thought of rolling out of bed at that unearthly hour in the morning!

Strangely enough, though, I readily found it not difficult at all. It became light then and all the family and neighbors got up, so I just followed. After all, if you can't fight 'em, join 'em!

I found myself still rested at the end of the day sometimes, because it was custom that everyone take a short siesta after lunch during the hottest part of the day. After vainly trying to work through the middle of the day, the fact finally pierced my thick skull that no one was trying to pamper me (something I just could not stand) when they suggested an afternoon nap. It was custom there and healthwise very sound.

It's hot enough even in mornings and late afternons.

None of us would ever work very fast because of this, sometimes giving foreign visitors the impression of laziness. Farmers in the U.S. quite often do the same, especially on particular hot days.

Farming itself is done by hand or with the aid of a draft animal. A few of the wealthier farm families can now afford a small garden tractor of Japanese make. It speeds up the necessary labor considerably.

Since each farmer has so little land he has the time to spend on it to grow excellent, well cared for crops. He used all the fertilizer he can get to make it possible for him to keep his soil in good enough condition so that he can grow year-round crops profitably.

☆

I ENJOYED the water buffalo much more than the machine. It has many advantages: it's so easy to 'fuel-up" at no cost, simply by riding on its back, letting it absorb fuel from roadside grass whilst you are reading a good book or doing your studies. This slow-moving, dependable creature seldom has a parts breakdown, his engine doesn't need tuning up if fed properly, he has no trouble with carburetor icing. Nor does anyone siphon gas from him late at night. What more could you ask for?

I do admit that I had as much trouble driving him as I did manuevering a garden tractor. He knew where to go and what he was doing and could keep in a straight line if given the correct directions. Poor beast!

When my host brother in one of my 10 families took me out in the rice paddy for a lesson, it was almost a complete failure —the problem being me! They have the most beautiful set of curves in their soybean rows this year!

The garden tractor pulled its students, too—it had a mind of its own which didn't quite coincide with mine, especially when I pulled the wrong handle to turn and we ended up going left instead of right. But through it all we managed to plough—amidst the patience and laughter of my host family—and we did get our sweet potatoes planted by hand soon after.

☆

WHERE ELSE can a farmer be engaged in full time farming and still have time left for letting the guest experiment — laughing at her fumbling attempts? One can easily see the gains and advances of this industrious people—in their beautifully terraced rice paddies on the mountain sides in an irrigation system which can be the envy of the world, and in their use of a relaxed, unhurried atmosphere at all times — something very conducive to mental health which we have never learned in our "get ahead" society.

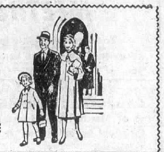

Nothing is wrong with our society for us, because this is the way we are, but we certainly must admire and respect another society for the niche it has carved for itself and in building a strong foundation.

LOCAL BUSINESS

One of the most important by-products of advertising is the American concept of freedom of the press.

Freedom of the press as it is conceived in the English-speaking world derives financial support from advertising. Not even in the United States, in spite of constitutional guarantees, did a free and fair press exist until advertising freed publishers from highly partisan supporters and select interests.

From the time of the Ameri[illegible] until approximately 1830, American journalism was represented by a profusion of small highly biased political sheets. There was no dependable source of a fair report of news.

☆

HOWEVER, when expanding business firms recognized the need for reaching a new public through advertising, publishers found a neutral and variegated source of support which made them independent.

Indeed, advertising made it imperative that the newspaper should think in terms of serving the whole public, rather than venting wildly for special political projects. Advertisers could not wisely support publications which failed to attain wide public acceptance.

Today, perhaps even more significantly than at any time in history, advertising—especially newspaper advertising—is the best support and guarantee of a free press.

As government has become more complex, as law and rule by bureaus and agencies have burgeoned, there is more than ever a need for a press free from control of political interests.

Such a press exists only where advertising support has made it possible for a publication to serve the whole public without fear or favor.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: My husband died five years ago. I have been receiving social security payments for my two children but have never applied for any for myself because I was still working. I earn $1,700 a year. Should I be receiving anything for myself?

ANSWER: It is possible that some benefits may be payable to you even though you are earning over $1,200. A social security beneficiary who earns $1,700 in a year would have $250 withheld from his total benefits for the year, but would be paid the rest of his social security benefits. You should get in touch with your social security office for further information and to apply for any benefits due you.

√

QUESTION: Three years ago, I was told that since I was earning over $2,080 and working full time, no social security benefits would be payable to me. I was told I could get $115 a month for myself and $57.50 for my wife, if I retired. I earn about $2,200 a year. Have the recent changes in the law made it possible for us to receive anything?

ANSWER: Yes. With earnings of $2,200 a year, you and your wife would be able to receive about $1,320 in benefits. To be eligible for these benefits, you should apply for them immediately.

√

QUESTION: I don't have a wife but I do support my widowed mother. If she outlives me, can she get benefits on my social security? She has never worked and I'm her only support. My father had never worked under social security.

ANSWER: Yes. If you died she could get payments as a dependent parent on your social security record when she's 62 or over.

√

QUESTION: How long can a man get disability payments under social security?

ANSWER: If his condition doesn't improve, he draws disability insurance benefits until he's 65. At that time he's switched over to retirement payments The amount of his check doesn't change, however.

√

QUESTION: My sister is a widow. She gets social security for herself and her three children on her husband's social security record. I know the children's checks will stop as each reaches age 18. Will my sister's check stop too?

ANSWER: Yes, if she isn't 62 by the time the youngest child's checks stop, her benefits will be suspended until she does reach 62.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

We started this "Through My Window" series way back in January 1958, I believe. My, but that sounds like a long time ago, doesn't it? The years have gone quickly though, much too quickly. Goodness, just see all of the gossiping about birds and squirrels that I have done.

They say history has a way of repeating itself and I heartily concur. One of the first articles we did concerned a February visit by some cedar waxwings.

One sunny day this February, guess who dropped in for a short call? Who else, cedar waxwings!

The '58 'stop-over" occurred on a Sunday, whereas this year it was Tuesday—other aspects are strikingly similar. Both Februarys were cold but the chosen days hinted of spring.

These days are one of Mother Nature's nicer and similar treats. In the midst of a hard, wearisome winter, when we are all at about wit's end, she unexpectedly throws out a good day and makes life worth living again.

The temperature may be low but the sunshine hints of warm weather and the blue sky prophesis springtime. Such days are blessings themselves, but when a special bird adventure comes along too—wow!

☆

CEDAR WAX-WINGS are such quiet birds they don't announce their presence. As is usually the case, the latest wax-wing spotting was sheer luck.

I just happened to be looking outside at the right moment. When a bird flew into view, my first thought was of Mrs. Cardinal. This seems to be another usual thing: at first glance a cedar waxwing does look like a female cardinal.

The two birds have much in common. They are about the same size. Actually, according to the books, there is about an inch difference, the cardinal being the longer, but with birds flying through the trees one inch is hard to spot.

Their over-all coloring is quite similar, soft brown, but of course each has definite and distinctive specific coloring of its own. Perhaps the most striking similarity is their top-knots.

The wax-wing lacks a pronounced face mask but the top-knot is sure a fooler.

☆

WHEN I looked closely at the bird sitting on a small branch of the mulberry tree I knew it was no cardinal.

The narrow, but so bright that it was easily seen, bend at the end of its tail was the give-way. These birds always looking as if they had dipped their tails into a can of the most vivid yellow available.

By the time Ida reached the window to have a look, the bird had swooped down and was on the ground directly beneath the window. She had an excellent view of the mysterious, red waxy spots which give basis to the name wax-wing.

An almost iron-clad rule with wax-wings is when you see one, keep looking because there are bound to be more near by.

They are sociable birds, gregarious and often the flocks are surpriseingly large.

While Ida was exclaiming about her one, it was joined by three others. I kept track of the trees and sure enough, wax-wings were everywhere.

Our flock was not a big one. Counting was next to impossible as they were scuttling from trees, to ground, to barberry bushes, but probably there were between 12 and 16.

As I remember, the '58 group was interested in bathing as well as eating.

They used depressions in the snow, which would fill with water, for bathtubs and had great fun splashing.

This year food was a bit more important than cleanliness.

A few of the birds took quick dips in some of the melted snow out in the road, but their main interest was the shriveled red fruit on the barberry bushes.

So it is that although we have had visits in beteween., the last cedar wax-wing adventure reminded us of an earlier one and it is true that history repeats itself.

Farmers Get Options for Social Security

Some self-employed farmers may be entitled to use an optional method for figuring their net earnings from the farm for social security credit, Raymond C. Backus, district manager of the Social Security Office in Jackson, and Lyle Antcliff, administrative representative of the local Internal Revenue Office, reminded farm operators.

Mr. Antcliff pointed out that:

1 — If your gross income from agricultural selfemployment is not more than $1,800, you may count as your net farm earnings either your actual net or ⅔ of your farm gross income;

2—If your gross farm income is more than $1,800, and your net farm earnings are less than $1,200, you may use either your actual net or $1,200;

3—If your gross farm income is more than $1,800, and your net farm earnings are $1,200 or more, you must use the actual amount of your net earnings.

Mr. Backus added that use of the option enables farmers with gross income as low as $600 to obtain social security protection for themselves in their old age, if they become disabled before that time, and for their survivors.

He emphasized, however, that regardless of the way in which you figure your net earnings, you must have net earnings of at least $400 (from farming alone, or in combination with other self-employment earnings) to get social security credit for the year.

Some farm owners who receive cash, rent, or crop shares from tenant farmers can get social security credit for such income. If the landlord (or his agent), under his agreement with his tenant, materially participates in the production or management of production of the farm crops raised on his land, this income may be creditable for social security purposes and subject to the social security tax.

Information regarding taxes and tax return forms can be obtained at the Internal Revenue Office, 312 S. Jackson Street, at the County Building in Jackson.

If you have any questions about old-age, survivors or disability insurance, the people in the social security office at 536 N. Jackson St., Jackson, will answer them.

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Death is funny. When it comes to someone you know, even only slightly, there is a twinge of sadness.

It may last a few moments. It may remain for days — or a lifetime, when the deceased is a close relative or friend.

The telephone in our office brought news of unexpected death last Wednesday as we put the finishing touches on the weeks' edition.

John Cavas had just died, reported a friend at the Kroger division office in Toledo where John worked.

The news hits like a trip hammer. John was a close friend.

At 31, John was the picture of the physically-fit young man. He was full of boundless energy, a fellow making the grade in his chosen profession in a big way.

John had been manager of the Kroger store here for a year back in 1959 and we got to know one another quite well.

Kroger officials surmised that John had a bright future with the firm and he was one of a dozen young men chosen to make a trip to the home office in Cincinnati that year.

Top brass wanted to talk with these fellows, to size them up for future placement. John was naturally nervous about the junket and we chatted about it several times as the bewitching date drew near.

It seemed obvious to me that Kroger was on the right track in considering John Cavas for its executive training program and I told him so, hoping this might calm his feelings a little.

But I don't think that John really needing my attempts at morale bolstering.

John had been a star athlete at Adrian College and his sports background was serving him well in this situation. He was preparing himself mentally for the joust in Cinci, just as he had gotten ready for tough college basketball games.

When John returned to Tecumseh after the trip to headquarters, he was grinning broadly. He had passed the test with the proverbial flying colors. John was being sent by Kroger to Michigan State University to obtain his master's degree in food merchandising.

A big company doesn't toss these opportunities about with wreckless abandon. Kroger knew it had a future top executive in John.

After wrapping up his advance studies at MSU, he was made an associate buyer at the Toledo headquarters.

A week ago Saturday, a tiny blood vessel in John's brain burst suddenly. They said afterwards it had been weak from birth. John was unconscious four days, then he died.

Services were held in the Greek Orthodox Church of the Holy Trinity in Toledo and he was buried in Memorial Park.

He is survived by his wife, Bonnie, and a daughter, Cynthia.

I'll always remember John as a smiling, friendly, hustling guy. The picture with this column best represents that feeling and was taken during a rather unique Kroger promotion.

It happened while John was manager here. Throughout the entire country, Kroger store head men were asked to ring several hundred doorbells in their areas, present each housewife with a package of needles and some trading stamps, tell about the virtue of shopping at their places.

John was delighted with the chore and must have burned up an inch or two of shoe leather making his rounds in Tecumseh. This picture, taken at one of his stops, was John Cavas as folks knew him here, a real nice guy.

CITY MANAGER CAL ZORN IS HANDY MAN WITH SLIDE RULE

Cal Zorn Named City Manager

Although it will not become official until next Monday evening, Cal Zorn has been appointed by Council to succeed the late Ed Nelson as Tecumseh's city manager.

At an executive session last week, councilmen voted unanimously for the 38-year-old acting city manager, who temporarily assumed top city responsibilities in mid-January.

Knowing Tecumseh's operations, the governmental organization, past and future projects, Mr. Zorn was the logical choice for the post.

He holds a degree in civil engineering from Michigan State University, graduating in 1952. After college, he was employed by Bay City in its engineering department.

Four years later, in March 1956, he moved to Tecumseh and was Mr. Nelson's right-hand man for seven years.

He was city engineer, city assessor, member of the Board of Review for five years, the county's Board of Supervisors, and has been active in zoning. He has worked closely with the Planning Commission.

"No drastic changes are planned," remarked Mr. Zorn in reply to a question regarding his taking over the city manager's position.

"We will push street construction, do more street preventative maintenance, attempt to work out something for storm sewers in Tecumseh Acres and complete some other projects such as guard rails for some of our streets and perhaps adopt a program for tree planning and planting," he stated.

His wife Lois, and three children, Mike, Pam and Darrel live at 806 River Acres Dr.

PRIME PROBLEM — Out Tecumseh Aces way, City Manager Cal Zorn inherits one of the peskiest problems, the annual spring flood. Residents along Shady Lane can boat to their mail boxes these days. Mr. Zorn feels that a storm sewer system is the only answer.

Tecumseh-Built Planes Sweep Top Three Places

Meyers Aircraft planes captured the first three places in a 100-mile race for four-place ships at Deer Valley, Ariz. Sunday.

Sanctioned by the National Aeronautics Association, the Phoenix 100 was sponsored by Championship Air Races, a company recently founded to revive aviation sporting events in the United States.

Running in first place was a Meyers 200B, flown by W. C. Brodbeck of Bakersfield, Calif. He is the firm's sales representative on the west coast.

Second place went to a Meyers 200B, piloted by Mels Stickney of New York.

Finishing third was a Meyer 200 A with Ken Worth of Great Falls, Mont. at the controls.

The winning ship was clocked at an average of 198.87 miles per hour for the 100 miles, a world's class record.

Eligible to enter were four-place planes of not more than 260 horsepower, flown at 100% power for approximately 35 minutes. There were 12 finalists.

Joe LeFevre and Ray Betzel of the Meyers firm were on hand for the event.

Library Tax Money Won't Run Out After All, Officials Learn

The .32-mill tax now collected for Tecumseh Public Library has another year to run — to the surprise and relief of Library Board members.

However, the board will continue with its plans to ask voters to approve a .6-mill tax for library use this June.

This would be substituted for the lower tax, and give the board enough funds to restore its book budget, as well as covering operating expenses.

If the millage is rejected by voters, the board still would have the .32-mill tax for 1963, to enable it to continue operations.

Without the local tax, Tecumseh would be ineligible for state aid, and would have to close the library.

The millage was approved in 1959. Board members were informed this winter that the tax had been collected for the last time.

☆

A CHECK of the ballot wording in preparation for this year's vote brought out the fact that the millage was to run "from 1959 to 1963, both inclusive."

This means the .32 mill can be on the Dec. 1, 1963, tax bills.

However, the board, meeting Tuesday night, voted to seek the .6 mill this year. The other millage would not be collected.

Hit by a drop in state aid funds and an operating budget which grew substantially because of the large new library building, the board had to cut expenses to the bone this year, and still may find a deficit at the end of the fiscal year June 30.

No books have been purchased since the beginning of the year, and other services, such as magazines and investment periodicals, were cancelled.

OKs Planned Library Vote

A request to seek more money for the Tecumseh Public Library was approved by the School Board Monday night.

Con-Con Debate Starts March 19

The Tecumseh Jaycee's Governmental Affairs Committee met Monday night to finish plans for the March 19 and March 26 debates at the Community Center at 8:30 p.m.

Moderator Don Brazee, Tecumseh High School government teacher, will select one of three topics 10 minutes prior to debate. Topics include: taxes and finance, executive branch, reapportionment.

Attorney Joseph Gillis and Adrian College Professor Kenneth Hoffman will be the debaters Tuesday, March 19.

Discussions on the New Proposed Michigan Constitution and a question and answer period will follow the dabate.

Confirmation has not been secured yet from the speakers for the debate March 26.

Clifford Bird, chairman, is inviting people of Tecumseh and the surrounding area to attend the debates.

Rifle Training Course Is Open for Boys Over 9

The Junior Rifle Club is starting a second class of training for boys over the age of nine.

Interested parties may contact Mrs. Cecile Smith at the city hall to acquire an application.

Students May Have to Walk

The Tecumseh School Board approved Monday night putting on the June 10 ballot a proposal to eliminate bussing of school children, except kindergarteners, living within city limits.

The proposal, an evident measure to reduce school expenses, would not affect students living outside of town.

If all children in town were not bussed, the schools would save approximately $5,000 plus $3,000 in state aid. Savings will be slightly less with bus pickups for kindergarten pupils.

The present regulation that kindergarteners live at least one-half mile from their school for transportation would still apply, even if the proposal was approved.

The plan, if passed, would mean that all students living in Tecumseh, would walk or obtain their own transportation, possibly from parents or car pools.

Another issue authorized for the June 10 ballot is a transfer of about $160 from the Ridgeway debt retirement fund to the general fund.

This amount accumulated from delinquent taxes and the board can not legally use the money unless voters approve the transfer.

Calendar To Avoid Conflicts

Don Montague, parks and recreation director, is rapidly scheduling spring events on the community calendar at the Community Center.

Program chairmen for organizations in the city and surrounding area may avoid conflicts in dates if they call him at the city hall 423-2107 and ask for extension 06.

Many meetings and programs as well as sales of various varieties have already been scheduled.

Mr. Montague is cooperating with The Herald in bringing them to the readers' attention.

Science Fair Set at Tecumseh High

The Tecumseh High School Science Club will sponsor a science Fair March 16 and 17 in the high school gymnasium.

The fair is open to the public from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Saturday and from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Projects from the elementary schools as well as the junior and senior high schools will be exhibited.

Prizes will be awarded in each grouping.

"Atoms in Action", an exhibit sponsored by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, will be shown in addition to the other projects.

Newspaper Report on Language Skill Slightly Exagerated

(Editor's note — This is another in the series of stories by Sharon Ries, who recently returned home after seven and one-half months on Taiwan as an International Farm Youth Exchangite.)

By SHARON RIES

My first introduction to Taiwan radio and TV came in December.

I stayed in a hotel in Hualien, the main city in my last host hsien (country) for a few days visiting hsien officials and doing some sightseeing before proceeding to my host family's home which was a good 3½ hours away by train.

A newspaper in Hualien somehow got the mistaken idea that I could speak fluent Chinese — and they printed this little fact.

Just after I returned to my hotel room at 5 p.m. following a day of visiting and sightseeing. I heard a knock on my door.

Innocently opening the door, I was confronted by one tape recorder, one camera and three persons excitedly chattering away in Chinese — saying something about wanting to record, at that very moment, an on-the-spot interview completely in Chinese.

After a short debate on the merits of this type of a program with my limited knowledge of Chinese, the message got through and they made the wise decision that perhaps an interpretor could be of great assistance — especially when they discovered I couldn't quite understand what the gist was of the first few questions.

Since none of them could speak English, we quickly rounded up a hotel guest who could and proceeded with the interview.

Questions like "Compare U.S. and Taiwan farming methods and families" would have taken me a year to answer in Chinese! And after I heard myself on the radio that night, I decided that what Chinese I did speak needed definite improvement.

☆

THEN THERE was my TV debut in December.

I've never in my life been so nervous. Have you ever tried to remember what you had written several days before and had told countless people the same thing — but without a TV camera staring you in the face?

To add to my problems, I didn't wear my glasses so the lights wouldn't reflect off them. Therefore I couldn't see the notes I had laying on the coffee table in front of me, or the TV technician giving cues about where I was supposed to look at what time!

I'm sure I was looking the wrong place at the wrong time the whole 15 minutes we were on the "see-waves".

Luckily we spoke in English or I would have been in a real fix. And to end this live interview, I was requested to sing a song in Chinese.

I'm sure the airwaves and TV screens of Taiwan are still undergoing major repairs after it's short three month life (it's Taiwan-s first TV station — in operation since Oct. 10 of last year.)

fiscal year, June 30.

Voters will be asked to approve only a small increase, raising present library millage from .32 mills to .6 mills, at the June 10 election.

Mr. Wright said utility costs were much higher than anticipated, and the board has used money from the general book fund to help pay the utility costs.

☆

WITH ONE or two exceptions, the library has not been able to purchase new books and periodicals for the past nine months due to the heat and light charges.

The building's architect and engineers have inspected the new building, advising the board of possibilities to cut down costs.

Some savings have been realized, said Mr. Wright, who remarked, "We have a beautiful new building, one that is being used about twice that of the old library, but a new library without books."

The .6 mills, if passed, is for five years.

Although the library comes under the jurisdiction of the School Board, the Library Board runs its affairs without practically any supervision from the schools.

Attending the board meeting with Mr. Wright, were Mrs. Jule Fosbender, librarian, and Mrs. Lane Holden.

Floyd F. Bohannon, 208 N. Maumee St., was taking McKenzie home when McKenzie grabbed the steering wheel and sent the car out of control clipping a light pole and hitting a tree.

Taken to the hospital for examination of possible injury, McKenzie three times attacked a police officer, twice while waiting for examination by a doctor.

Justice Ernie Oliver also added an additional 15 days on jail sentence if McKenzie fails to pay the fine.

"The Friars" concert March 6 at Dawson Auditorium in Adrian was certainly the most delightfully refreshing evening of musical harmony we have enjoyed in some time.

Well received by the mostly youthful audience, the long, low purr of satisfaction exemplified the reception they were given as G. Brook Stanford, spokesman, announced the lovely "Maria" from Leonard Bernstein's "West Side Story."

Eight voices blended into one the the young men from the campus of the University of Michigan easily presented the sublime or the ridiculous.

They even have a "chorus line" which is hilarious.

Arrangements are being handled in Tecumseh by Mrs. Melvin Purple, 509 S. Evans St., telephone 423-3679..

The Lenawee Dental Health committee in cooperation with the County Health Dept. sponsors the program.

The fee is $2 per child and interested parents must contact Mrs. Purple by Monday, March 18.

☆

TOPICAL applications of sodium fluoride to newly-erupted teeth will reduce new tooth decay by 40% in groups of children.

In addition to these benefits the program offers a valuable educational experience with no discomfort involved. Dental health education is given the child by the clinic personnel. Each child is given a free toothbrush also.

The entire procedure consists of four visits to the clinic which will be held in the local schools. At the first visit the teeth are cleansed and the first application is given.

On the second, third, and fourth appointments the application of the sodium fluoride is repeated.

☆

SPECIAL CASES referred by the family dentist will also be accepted. In Tecumseh there will be exceptions, as the city water has been fluoridated since 1956.

The schedule is as follows: fifth and eighth graders.

Pre-schoolers, kindergarten and second graders who do not drink water continously from Tecumser water supply.

Tories Win District, Gear for Regional Battle

BRITTON — Now for the regional.

Having chalked up its third Class D district basketball title, Britton-Macon is gearing for a regional crown this week.

The Tories drew a first round bye and will see action Thursday evening at 7 in the Livonia Franklin gymnasium.

Britton meets the winner of the Flint St. Mary's and Detroit St. Elizabeth's game.

Championship battle for Class D is 7 p.m. Saturday, followed by the Class B finals at 8:30 p.m.

Franklin High is located on Joy Rd., just west of Middlebelt Rd.

☆

BRITTON-MACON notched its 17th and 18th straight victories of the season while winning the district at Adrian last week.

Hanover-Horton fell, 75-46, and then Deerfield tumbled, 73-48, to torrid Tory attacks.

Coach Sam Hamilton was particularly pleased with the first half against Hanover-Horton in which Britton netted 50 points. Sam called it the team's best 16 minutes of play this year.

Phil Benedict popped in 20 points with Ken Southwell, Pepper Griewahn and Ron Mastie each netting 14.

Benedict really shined in the Deerfield tilt, collecting 33 points and picking off 20 rebounds to lead his squad, which nailed 55 wayward scoring efforts.

☆

IN COACH HAMILTON'S four-year stint at Britton, his Tories have won the district crown three times. His Britton record is 60 wins and 19 loses.

In 13 years of tutoring hardwood crews, first at Mio, Saranac, then Britton, Coach Hamilton has 149 wins and 104 loses.

His current crew has improved with every game, he states.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Generally it is supposed that people become wiser as they grow older.

At least they read more. And newspapers become more important to a person after he is 45 years of age. The tendency has been noted frequently by researchers of universities and private agencies.

In fact, the tendency is so pronounced that a major agency which specializes in selling goods to the more mature market holds that the newspaper is the only medium which gives the older reader what he expects in advertising.

The company, Maxwell Sackheim-Franklin Bruck, Inc., has stated:

"Because the 52,740,000 people in the U. S. who are 45 years of age and over are skeptical and dollar conscious . . . Detailed, long newspaper copy is vital, if you want to move this important market fast."

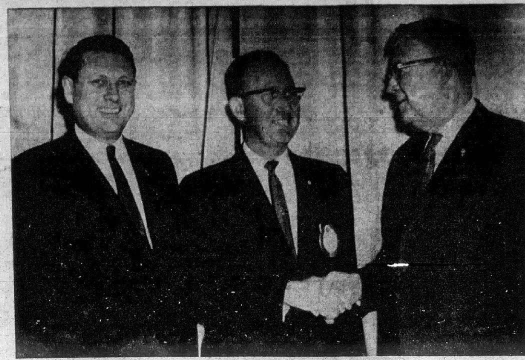

An official of the company says that the newspaper is especially important to consumers over 65.

"These elderly people must make every dollar count. They want the hard facts and are willing to wade through columns of type, if necessary, to get them," he said.

Another executive in the company commented:

"One of the most important facets of this market is the need for the older person to feel wanted, to be part of the community. And no medium gives him this sense of participation and belonging as does his daily local newspaper. He reads it like an old friend he has known all his life . . . and trusts."

It could be added that many people who have not reached the "elderly" classification feel the same way about the local newspaper.

Rotarians Hear Talk on Russia

"Russians raise more wheat per bushel to the acre than Americans do," stated Albert Gall last week at the Rotary Club meeting.

"And they do not use fertilizer" continued Mr. Gall, a Saline-Macon area dairy farmer who toured Russia last September.

Mr. Gall showed pictures and gave factual information concerning the cooperative and state farms behind the Iron Curtain.

There are no privately-owned farms.

The manager and his assistant operate farms, helped by women who do most of the work, operating tractors and other equipment.

☆

MR. GALL said he has never seen better soil than the loam near the Black Sea.

The tour entailed three of the 12 states of the Soviet Union.

He felt that Russia is outstanding in pork production but its corn yield is exceedingly poor, perhaps because USSR farmers fail to replace humus in the soil. They raise about 30 to 40 bushels of corn to the acre.

Mr. Gall said the Russians harvest everything right to the ground.

Fay Whelan was program chairman.

☆

A NUMBER of Tecumseh Rotarians were in Frankenmuth Sunday to watch the bowling tournaments with Tecumseh's two teams participating.

The Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Grams, missionaries to South Africa, will relate interesting and unusual experiences they have had and a color film entitled "African Harvest" will be shown.

The discovery of gold in the Orange Free State of South Africa in 1946 brought thousands of people from all walks of life to the area and it is among these spiritually hungry Africans that the Grams minister.

Doris Nimmo, also a teacher of Christianity in the African bush, will be the speaker at the meeting Friday evening.

Miss Nimmo was principal and teacher at a day school in Monrovia, Liberia where 325 students were enrolled. She ministered in towns not yet reached by churches. She promoted a Sunday school convention and organized three church schools.

The meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the Rev. Speer extends a cordial invitation to the public.

The Rev. and Mrs. Andrew McCabe will speak at the 11 a.m. service Sunday, March 17, telling of their work providing Christian education for 400 boys in North India.

As managers of the James Harvey Memorial School they offer elementary and secondary education approved by the government to 270 day students and 130 students who live at the school.

Boys of various faiths attend the school which has Bible classes in addition to the regular curriculum.

Boysville NEWS

By PAT MIRON

Boysville's Drum and Bugle Corp, under the direction of Brother Philip Armstong, CSC will march in the St. Patrick's Day parade in Bay City.

√

Winners of the model car contest were announced this past week by the PX management. First prize went to Armand Boisvenue, second was captured by Richard Lapish and third prize was taken by Bill Crowley.

√

Senior and freshmen classes traveled to Lansing Thursday to visit the Capital and meet Frank Kelly, State Attorney General.

√

During the course of the past year, a number of new items appearing in this column included activities of the Photo Club. A brief history of the Club at this point should be of some interest to the readers of this column.

√

The terms "successful" and "experiment" are both necessary in describing the history of Boysville's Photo Club.

It was started in September of 1957 by Brother Aloysius Glombowski, CSC.

It was an experiment, since neither Brother Aloysius nor the new members had any previous contacts with the hobby of photography. In fact, it took Brother Aloysius 15 hours to get his first print.

The club started with five members and little equipment. During the following year, the membership was increased to 10 and the club took its first trip — a tour of Ross Roy Inc. in Detroit.

During these precarious times, David Lidel was president. New equipment was added in the form of flood lights and a drier.

Al Adnrine and Fred Duzzie ran the club in the 1960-61 school year. At that time, the club took the first of its many trips to Enterlines' Photo Finishing Plant in Plymouth.

The following year the club witnessed its biggest single improvement as headquarters were moved from the old chemistry lab to a larger room above Neri Hall.

In 1962 Bob Miron, president, introduced the selling of personalized Christmas cards. The number of members at that time was 20.

At the present, the Photo Club boasts of some 15 members, a new backdrop for pictures. They also took a trip to the Detroit News office.

The Photo Club has a short history, but it has proved itself a successful venture, thanks to the efforts of Brother Aloysius and some of the hard-working members.

Jaycees Want New Members

The Tecumseh Jaycee's have completed plans for a meeting to orient prospective members.

It is for all young men between 21 and 35 years of age who are interested in community improvement and self-betterment.

"Every young man in Tecumseh or the surrounding area is cordially invited to attend," said Mr. Wonderly.

IN MEMORY OF George Webber who passed away one year ago March 19th, 1962.
The sun and moon are shining on a lone and silent grave,
Beneath lies the one we dearly loved, but whom we could not save.
Friends may think we have forgotten, when at times they see us smile,
Little do they know the heartache, that our smiles hide all the while.
Sadly missed by his wife Ona Lee and daughter Tina. 1tp

Your HEALTH AND Chiropractic

WHY THE SPINE?

Many people wonder why the chiropractor is so interested in the spine when often the complaint may be located in the stomach, kidneys, eyes, legs, etc. The spine is important because it houses the main channel of nerve energy . . . called the spinal cord. The spinal cord may be likened to the trunk of a tree from which many branches and sub-branches come forth.

The spinal cord and nervous system comprise the main communication system in your body, carrying messages to and from the brain to every tissue of the body. When there is an open line so to speak . . . that is, when the messages get through, all is well and health is abundant providing that moderation is the keynote of living. When there is a block to that nerve energy output, it means that one or more of the bones of the spine (vertebrae) is displaced from its normal position.

Now you can see why the chiropractor is so vitally interested in your back and spine. He is trained to locate and correct conditions caused by blocked nerve energy at the spine.

Blissfield Upsets Indians, 61 to 54

By JIM LINCOLN

One of Tecumseh's finest basketball teams was upset in a shocker here Friday night in the district tournament finals, 61-54.

A scrappy Blissfield five, playing vastly improved ball after sneaking by Saline and Monroe Jefferson in two previous tourney tilts, copped the victory and avenged two earlier Tecumseh defeats.

They were defeated in regional play Tuesday night by Riverview, 60-50, and are now also through for the season.

Despite playing horrible basketball, their worst of the season, the Indians stayed close to Blissfield until the final two minutes.

After gaining a 19-14 first quarter lead, the Indians collapsed—traveling with the ball, throwing it away, missing easy shots and failing to make a single foul shot in five attempts.

Failure at the foul line could have cost Tecumseh as much as 10 points, since the game's one-and-one rule was in effect.

Blissfield won at the free throw line, hitting 23 of 36 attempts while the Indians collected only 14 of 21. In the winner's big 21-point second period, 11 points resulted from fouls.

Although the officiating did not result in Tecumseh's loss, a lot of quick-tooting put Tecumseh in trouble, especially in the first two periods.

Jack Dick, Tim Sisson and Norm Tucker each had three fouls at the half. Sisson fouled out in the fourth quarter. Eighteen fouls were called against the Tecumseh starting five and 24 during the game.

The Royals had a total of 15 fouls called against them and none fouled out.

Blissfield forward Jack Cory was top scorer, hitting seven goals and nine of 10 foul shots for 23 points. Mike Hermansen tallied 11 points.

Sisson paced Tecumseh with 11 points, Jack Dick had 10.

☆

THURSDAY night, the Indians played on of their best games of the season in routing Monroe Catholic Central, 87-34.

An indication of the play is evident in the leads built up by the Indians in the first half. Tecumseh led 24-5 after eight minutes and 46-12 at the half.

Jerry Hebb was top scorer with 15 points.

Grateful Families

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Two Tecumseh families are most grateful for the Red Cross blood program.

One has a daughter, hospitalized following a serious auto accident. She has required eight pints of blood and will probably need more.

The other has two sons, both haemophiliacs, each of whom required up to 28 pints at one time.

CASE HISTORY NO. 1

Betty Bishop, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop, 113 Maple St., was critically injured in an accident Feb. 14.

Rushed to Niles Hospital with a crushed pelvis and multiple fractures, one of her first needs was blood.

Her condition has since improved, but she still is a long way from recovery.

When the Bloodmobile visited Tecumseh last week, 17 donors said they wished their blood would be credited to Miss Bishop's account.

CASE HISTORY NO. 2

The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Boss, 708 N. Evans St., are victims of the rare blood disease, haemophilia, a tendency to profuse bleeding, even from a slight wound.

"It takes four pints of whole blood to make one vial or about one pint of anti-haemophilia globulin which Guy and Merton are given when they are hurt," Mrs. Boss explains.

They sometimes receive as high as 30 vials in one day, which means 120 pints of blood.

Last fall, Guy was injured and 28 pints of blood were needed for the preparation of globulin. All of this blood was replaced by the Red Cross.

She told of the difficulty in getting replacement blood, not so much in getting donors, but her experience was that few were accepted by the University Medical Center.

☆

THE BOSS family came to Michigan in March 1952 on the advice of their doctor in Boise, Idaho. He said that Ann Arbor was the only place that he knew of, at that time, making a study of haemophilia.

Mr. Boss' brother, Kermit a Tecumseh resident, had asked that the family come here. After they did for a year, Mrs. Boss said, "We just couldn't afford to go home."

Trouble for haemophiliacs is not necessarily caused by an injury. The bleeding sometimes starts in their sleep with no apparant reason, but it is vital that they do not receive injuries.

When asked how they took care of the blood situation before the Red Cross replaced it for them, Mrs. Boss was quick to reply, "Paid for it or replaced it, usually the former because it is so hard to replace."

☆

"WE FEEL fortunate just lately in that Guy has only been hospitalized four times in the past three years," she said.

"The year before, he was only out of the hospital 28 days."

Merton is still home from school after a bout with a nose bleed. He was recently released from the University Medical Center.

The charge for blood when it cannot be replaced by a patient is $30 a pint plus typing, cross matching and equipment, upwards of $50 each.

BLOOD PROGRAM VITAL TO THEM — Mrs. M. D. Boss and her two sons, Guy (left) and Merton, are extremely close to the Red Cross blood program. Posing with 24 pints, just donated in Tecumseh last week, they realize that blood from others helps to keep alive the boys, both victims of haemophilia. Mrs. Boss is happy to give her services as a Gray Lady when the Bloodmobile comes to the community.

63 Pints Donated

At last week's visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Tecumseh, 63 pints were donated by Tecumseh residents, report Mr. and Mrs. Marv Nelson, who served as co-chairmen.

This was far short of the 125-pint quota.

Flu, colds and a few crossed wires apparently account for the failure of persons who pledged to come, then didn't.

Jaycees who assisted with unloading and loading of the Bloodmobile were James Rundell, James Fielder, Duane Steele, Loren Forrester and Walt Wonderly.

Nurses, who donated their services and were scheduled by Mrs. M. R. Blanden, included Mrs. Oscar Shonsheck, Mrs. Howard Furry, Mrs. Lester Reed of Tecumseh and Mrs. Tom Young and Mrs. Harold Kiebler of Clinton.

Bob Stone Property Is Sold

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone have sold their farm home at 9233 Ford Hwy. and will move with their three sons to a rented house at 500 Murray Dr., following an auction April 4 at the farm.

The Stones plan to spend the summer months traveling in search of a new location for the family.

The Stone property was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Frayer of Britton.

Con-Con Report

Contrary to Rulings

(Editor's note—This is another in a series about the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

Those who interpret the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Baker vs. Carr case as a precursor to "one man, one vote" in the districting of all legislatures are going against the weight of a score of lower court cases decided since the high court ruling.

So writes Jerold Israel, assistant professor of law at the U. of M., in the current issue of the Michigan Law Review.

It is Professor Israel's hope that the Supreme Court will eventually lay down guidelines for determining constitutional apportionment.

In the absence of such guidelines, however, he says the courts have attempted to establish standards in two main categories.

One requires practical numerical quantity of population for legislative districts. The second approach permits "limited but substantial" deviations from equality when the deviations are based upon "rational" justifications.

☆

ONLY ONE and possibly two lower courts have accepted the "practica equality" standard. Four of the U. S. Supreme Court justices have indicated they would not accept such a standard, Mr. Israel says.

The overwhelming majority of courts dealing with apportionment cases have looked to reasons other than population in reaching decisions, the law professor writes.

"In general, these reasons are founded upon the concept of granting special political security to minorities, particularly the inhabitants of the more remote and sparsely populated sections of the state," he says.

This, in essence, is what the proposed new Michigan constitution provides in its sections dealing with apportionment of the state senate.

With its flexible formula which bases representation 80% on population and 20 % on area and economic interest, the proposed Michigan document recognizes that the state's 79 upstate counties should have effective representation in the upper house of the legislature.

In these counties live about 47% of Michigan's population.

☆

THE APPORTIONMENT formula proposed in the document provides for near-population equality in the drawing of districts for the state legislature's lower house—the house of representatives.

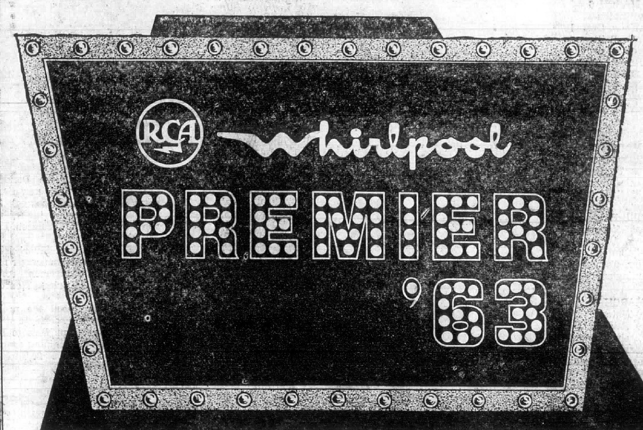

The principal deviation from numerical equality of house districts comes about because of adherence to county lines in the districting process.

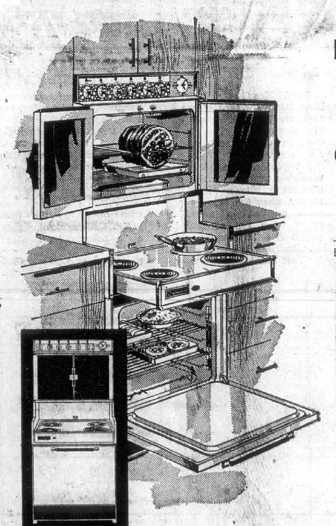

There was unanimous bipartisan agreement in the convention that county lines should be respected in drawing legislative districts because the county is a basic Michigan political unit.

MODEL MADE BY ARCHITECT JIM SMITH SHOWS PLANNED CIRCULAR DRIVE

Circular Drive at Hospital

Council heartily approved Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's plans to construct a circular drive to the entrance of the hospital and make other landscaping improvements there

By letter and plans submitted by architect A. J. Smith, the improvements call for an expenditure of about $8,000, of which the Auxiliary has about $4,500.

The Auxiliary, seeking what help the city can lend, was told by Mayor Harold Easton that come July 1, the city would include in its budget funds to give the Auxiliary some help.

The landscaping, which is estimated to suffice for the next 20 years, includes new sidewalks, the circular drive and installation of proper shrubbery. Only five trees will be removed for the drive.

Several members of the Auxiliary were present, as was Orrie Gilbert, hospital administrator.

Paris Sidewalk Cafe Is Setting for Scouts Honoring Adopted Land

Sixty Senior Girl Scouts observed International Friendship Day Wednesday evening when a "Hands Across the Table" program was presented at the Scout Cabin.

In the atmosphere likened to that of a Paris sidewalk cafe, the girls were seated at candlelighted tables to enjoy foods of France, their adopted country for the day.

Girls from Troops 117 and 123 presented the flag ceremony, followed by the Promise, spoken in French.

Fawn Choske, Rosemary Heistand, Sue Rutherford, Ann Drake, Diane Hock, Linda Sinkey, Peggy Morris, Marilyn Dick and Pamela Dabe, making up a French chorus, sang "La Marseillaise" accompanied by Edith Holmes.

☆

TROOP 81 sang a French round. Mrs. Gordon Goldsberry is their leader.

Mrs. Bernie Hitchcock led Troop 10 in presenting a French restaurant skit.

Mrs. Donald Creger and Troop 117 enacted a three-part comedy of a typical French home.

The girls placed their pennies beneath a large replica of the Eiffel Tower.

Tap softly echoed by the girls in French, concluded the program.

Mrs. Wayne Balliot, district advisor, was a guest at the dinner and program which were planned by Mrs. Merrill Murphy with her Troop 123 as hostesses.

Slices 2 Fingers in Vegetable Rig at Adrian A&P

Gerald Henricks, 602 Orchard Lane, sliced the tops of two fingers on his left hand early Thursday while preparing produce for display at the Adrian A&P store.

Mr. Hendricks started up a vegetable trimmer, which operates much like a rotary lawn mower, when the guard slipped.

He reached to adjust the guard when the accident happened. A fellow employee took Mr. Hendricks to Bixby Hospital for first aid.

Rotarians Hear Tale of Dundee Cement Co.

This history of the Dundee Cement Co., why the new firm came to Michigan, progress to date and prospects for the future were revealed to Tecumseh Rotarians Feb. 26.

The speaker was Stuart Kirvan, public relations manager for the five-year old cement company in neighboring Monroe County.

Mr. Kirvan traced the problems involved in choosing a site, the many important facts to be considered in determining eventual location of the 25,000,000 plant and experiences in carrying out a market in the Great Lakes region.

The Dundee company distributes its product in five midwestern states.

Mr. Kirvan indicated that Michigan's poor national image is greatly exaggerated, but that there is some corrective action needed to make this state more appealing to new industry.

The speaker was introduced by Clifford Knudson, program chairman.

Underwriter Goes to Conference In New York City

James C. Howard, Jr., field underwriter in Tecumseh for Mutual of New York's Lansing agency, was one of 85 MONY sales leaders attending a special educational conference with top company executives last week at New York.

Conferences were invited to attend on the basis of excellence in sales and service of life and health insurance.

The three-day conference included lecture sessions, group discussions and panels covering such things as the life and health insurance company's products, policyholder service techniques and home office operations.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

There was a time when a "walk" was considered a stroll in the moonlight, a leisurely Sunday afternoon pastime or something you had to do when somebody else was using the car.

Times have changed now and little, big, young and old are hiking down the highway, on the road to better health.

No more can you count on doing your good deed for the day by stopping to pick them up, even tho it might be the President, some of his family or staff. They do not want to ride . . . thank you.

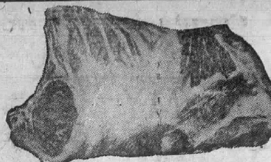

It is really a switch for a salesman to stop a hitchhiker, ask him if he would kindly drive the car for the next fifty miles, he, himself would like to walk!

It is estimated that sales people walk an average of nine miles each day at their normal work. Thinking back to the miles we walked to and home from school, as a Scout, a young man without wheels and a summer job we had while going to college that required 20 miles a day for five summers, we have had our walk . . . thank you.

Whether you walk or ride to Clinton Woolen you owe it to yourself to see our selection in all-weather coats. 20 styles to choose from . . . smart for the Easter Parade, practical for that dash from car to market, warm for the cool days or if you like to walk in the rain.

A rain bonnet with every coat.

Walking reminds us we have a few wool walking suits left . . . these have been marked to half-price. Be sure and ask to see them when you are at Clinton Woolen.

Larry Hand Has 'Outing' with Third

GRAFENWOHR, Germany — Army Pfc. Larry R. Hand, 21, son of Mrs. Beatrice E. Hand, rural Tecumseh, recently took part in a four-week field training exercise with other members of the 3rd Armored Division near here.

The training included varied types of range firing and day and night maneuvers.

Pfc. Hand, who arrived overseas in November 1961, is regularly stationed in Gelnhausen as a parts clerk in Co. B of the division's 122nd Ordnance Battalion.

He entered the Army in June 1961 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

Pfc. Hand is a 1961 graduate of Tecumseh High School.

'Rock Swap' Discussed by Society

Clair Handy outlined plans for the "Rock Swap" at the meeting of the State Line Gem and Mineral Society meeting March 3 afternoon at the Community Center.

The event will be held in June at Frontier City. Richard Matych conducted the meeting when Don Bruce of Blissfield was introduced and directed the group in the art of faceting a potato.

Prizes from Berndt's Jewelry Store were awarded. They were "real" faceted stones.

There was also a small jewel for each person participating.

The club members recently enjoyed a day at Cranbrook Museum where much was learned from the scientific displays.

Friends See New Film on Goodwill

Members of the Tecumseh Friends Missionary Society were entertained by Mr. Claude Whitehead, representative of Goodwill Industries, at their monthly meeting Feb. 28 at the church.

Mr. Whitehead spoke of the work carried on by Goodwill. He pointed out that broken people and materials meet and are restored to usefulness.

A premiere showing of the film entitled "Walk with Me" followed his account. It dealt with six people who had been restored to normal lives through the Goodwill Rehabilitation Center in Ohio.

Twenty-nine members and several guests were present.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Paul Brantingham, Mrs. Ben Ross and Miss Carolyn Chase.

The group celebrated Mrs. Brantingham's birthday with a cake baked by Mrs. Ross. Homemade ice cream also was served.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

A PRETTY, PRETTY MORNING

March 3 is circled in red, because without a doubt it was far and away the prettiest snowy morning of the year. (Wish we could say it was the last but that is being too anxious).

The storm was short lived, at least the part we saw, but oh 'twas good while it lasted.

The flakes were not just big, they were huge—really, they were the largest I have ever seen.

There was no wind driving them but the flakes were so enormous and coming so fast that it was a beautiful sight. This was no gentle easy fall. The flakes were heavy and fell fast.

They tumbled and bumped into each other in their hurry to get to the ground.

Usually my warm-weather oriented mind does not entertain such radical thoughts but this was the kind of snowy morning it would have been fun to have been outside.

☆

FOR BIRDS who originally did not inhabit this area, but who within memory have steadily worked their way northward, the cardinals have certainly accustomed themselves to cold, snowy weather.

When the storm was at its prettiest, three female cardinals perched in the wren tree and the bright, most handsome male in the neighborhood, sat on the fence.

It is amazing how these birds love snow. They just act as if they know how perfectly beautiful they look in it.

All too soon the storm petered out, but my, what a lovely legacy it left. The wet snow was piled high on even the tiniest twigs and branches.

The fence railings were heavily frosted and each post wore a high white cap. Surely this was winter as its best, a true winter wonderland.

☆

AS SOON as the snow had stopped, other birds started appearing. The cardinals no longer had things all to themselves. The juncos' two footed scratching came in handy, the feeder had had a fresh supply of scratch-feed the night before, but of course, this was now covered with snow.

Sparrows and tufted titmice also helped with the excavating or digging out. Mr. and Mrs. Downy Woodpecker and three bouncy chick-a-dees seemed happy to find that by clinging to the side of the feeder they could eat from the underside of the piece of suet and not be bothered at all by the snow.

They wouldn't breakfast together but took turns — as befitted the morning, they apparently didn't mind waiting.

☆

NOT SO patient were the blue-jays, two of them came and they were mad at the whole world. They screamed at each other, at the other birds and at whatever else was in hearing range.

Blue-jays are such fun when their tempers show and these two must really have "gotten out of bed on the wrong side.

So it is that even though by 10 a.m. the show was about over —the temperature was rising, the snow-lace was about gone from the trees and the breakfast business at the feeder was letting up—March 3 will long be remembered. It was a pretty, pretty morning.

Girl Finds Banded Pigeon

Diane Bishop, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bishop of 6762 S. Ridge Rd., found a banded pigeon Feb. 23 at a neighbor's home.

Diane, a junior high student, said that the bird, carrying the number AU 61 T7887 on its leg, has been staying in a barn owned by Earl Pennington for several days.

According to William Beckey, local pigeon enthusiast, the numerals on the bird have this meaning:

The AU is the American Pigeon Union of this area, 61 is the year, the T stands for the owner, who, since it is a single letter probably raises many birds, and the following number is the bird's own numeral.

No other bird has this number.

He advised Diane to hold feed in her hand and whistle to the bird.

He said this was probably the procedure used by the owner and quite possibly the bird would come to her.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

There are over one million people in the United States eligible for social security benefits, but have not applied for them. This includes many people in Jackson, Lenawee and Hillsdale counties.

Even if you are working full time, it's a good idea to think about applying if you are 65 or over, if you are 62 and not working, or if you are 62 and working at reduced earnings.

QUESTION: I am 65 but don't see why I should apply for social security benefits since I am working or if you are 62 and working at reduced earnings.

ANSWER: You should apply because there have been changes in the law which make it possible for older people to earn more and still collect some social security benefits. Under the law as it now stands, you can receive all your social security checks if your yearly earnings are $1,200 or less. If your yearly earnings are between $1,200 and $1,700, one dollar in benefits is withheld from your total yearly benefits for each two dollars that you earn in that bracket. One dollar for each dollar earned is withheld for your earnings above $1,700. For example, if you earn $2,000 a year, only $550 of your yearly social security benefits would be withheld. Also, you can get a payment for any month that you do not work or in which you earn less than $100, regardless of your total earnings.

✓

QUESTION: I am 62 years old and I operate a frozen custard stand during the summer. My yearly earnings are about $5,000. I don't work at all during the winter. Can I receive any social security?

ANSWER: Yes, you may be able to get benefits for the months you are not working. A person can collect his benefits for each month he neither earns over $100 in wages and doesn't render substantial services in his own business.

✓

QUESTION: I retired from my job last year. My wife, however, is continuing to work, and she earns over $4,800 a year. Can I continue to receive my social security benefits while my wife works for over $1,200 a year?

ANSWER: Yes. Your wife's earnings will not affect your entitlement to social security benefits. Only your own earnings could keep you from getting benefits.

✓

QUESTION: I am over 65, but have never worked under social security. Now I have an opportunity to work part time in a job covered under social security. Can I receive credit for my earnings and become eligible for benefits, or am I too old to start?

ANSWER: You can start any time to earn social security credits. As a matter of fact, the oldest person now receiving benefits is 120 and he started working under social security at the tender age of 113.

✓

QUESTION: I am a widow, and my husband died in 1940. When I inquired about social security benefits several years ago, I was told that he hadn't worked long enough for me to receive any benefits. Has there been any change in the requirement?

ANSWER: Yes, you may now be eligible for benefits. By all means, discuss your case with a representative at the social security office as soon as possible.

CD Says No Soup

Lenawee County would have a mess!

So said John Saling.

During the Civil Defense board meeting in Adrian last week, a review was given on the emergency feeding of 600 searchers for Mrs. Douglas Watkins in Brooklyn.

Within 24 hours Jackson County Civil Defense organized a hearty lunch featuring bean soup. The soup was cooked outside in large containers over an open fire.

Following the review, Mr. Saling, county CD director, stated a mess (and not chow) would result if a particular emergency arose in Lenawee County where mass feeding would be required on short notice.

☆

ALTHOUGH surrounding counties have trained people to handle mass feedings, Lenawee has failed in this respect. Mr. Saling said that no one in Civil Defense in this county has been trained to organize such emergency meals.

Mr. Saling also stated that a medical self-help course has failed to get off the ground in Lenawee County.

This program, a 16-hour course, would train one member of each family to handle certain medical emergencies — even childbirth.

Apathy and lack of cooperation are the main factors in the standstill.

YOU TOLD US

Mrs. James E. Hartsell of 702 Center Drive who has been confined to her bed for the last five weeks has not shown much improvement.

Sam Prestons Are Spending 3 Months in Lehigh Acres

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Preston, 506½ E. Chicago Blvd., are enjoying a three-month vacation in Lehigh Acres, the new community in sunny southwest Florida.

Lehigh Acres is near Fort Myers, the site of the Thomas A. Edison old winter home and boctanical gardens.

During their stay they toured the famed Lehigh Acres Hydroponics farm, which uses the modern technique of "soil-less" farming. This is the same technique now in use on six Polaris submarines to help the crews grow their own fresh vegetables.

They also enjoyed the newly-opened Polynesian gardens and visited the non-profit Golden Age Village of garden apartments for the elderly in Lehigh Acres.

Of special interest to them as homesite owners is the unusual Lehigh Acres friendship program, a pioneer project in this country, to welcome new Florida club leaders.

Lehigh Acres is now preparing to play a leading role in the Florida Arts Festival starting April 20.

Included will be guided tours of private homes showing unique hobby collections — antiques, dolls, furniture, glass and "treasure-hunting" finds in Florida.

Also scheduled are great film revivals, community-wide art shows, concerts, book exhibits in Lehigh Acres public library and book reviews.

Surprise Party Honors Packards

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Packard were surprised last Sunday afternoon by 20 relatives and friends from Clinton and Tecumseh in honor of their 45th wedding anniversary.

Stanley Packard and Pauline Filbur were married March 11, 1918 in Adrian. They have resided in Tecumseh throughout their married life.

The evening was highlighted when Harvey Schmidt, a 12-year-old neighbor, presented the couple with a cake he had baked and decorated himself. Mrs. Daniel Dermyer decorated the anniversary cake. The cakes and ice cream were served from a lace covered table.

Mr. Packard has been active in repairing toys for needy children.

The couple received many lovely gifts.

Real Gift of Christmas

(Editor's note—When a youngster in junior high works eagerly towards a literary career, getting into print the first time can be a real milestone. That's why The Herald is pleased to present this short story by 13-year-old Gail Marie Saunders of Dearborn, who writes fiction much of her spare time.)

By GAIL MARIE SAUNDERS

The bright, fresh-fallen snow glistened. But to Laura Holms the beauty of this Monday morning meant little. Tomorrow would be Christmas.

Laura was 16 and had to care for a family of eight boys. She was the eldest and the only girl.

Until the night of her mother's death, Laura did not mind looking after her brothers. This, however, would be their first Christmas without the mother they so deeply loved.

Mrs. Holms had been ill with cancer for several years. The doctors told both Laura and her father that she would not live, but Laura refused to accept the truth.

She believed only that her mother would recover and that it wasn't cancer that had stricken her.

Every night after school Laura had come home and helped with housework so that it wouldn't be necessary to hire a maid. The Holms were not wealthy and a maid would have been too costly.

Laura always helped with the children and made sure her mother was comfortable. Her mother meant everything to her and she loved her very much.

☆

THE NIGHT Mrs. Holms died brought great sadness to the ten remaining members of the family. There was the baby, and little David, who was only two. Then came all the rest ranging from age five to sixteen.

During her mother's sickness Laura had refused to participate in any school activities and soon grew unpopular. It wasn't fair that she should be so disliked at school just because she always rushed out of the building as soon as the bell rang. She never explained why she had to hurry home.

Poor Laura had gone through a great deal. She was not the only one though. Mr. Holms had suffered also.

The door to Laura's neat, but modest home popped open and the tired form of Bert Holms stalked in.

"Oh hello, Laura," he smiled, "Have you had much trouble with the boys?"

"Not at all," was the wan reply. "But father, I'm so sick and tired of being stared and mocked at every day."

"By whom?" her father said angrily.

"I'm sorry, dad, let's not talk about it. I didn't mean to upset you."

"Sit down, Laura dear," Mr. Holmes looked very concerned. "You've had a rough time of it I know, darling, but please don't let it upset you on Christmas Eve."

"Oh," Laura cried, "Little Terry is crying."

She dashed to the baby's room

GAIL SAUNDERS

and stopped horrified as she saw eight-year-old Kevin bouncing the baby high in the air. The infant screamed with fright.

"Kevin, give me that baby!" Laura cried out in fright.

"No, I wont," he yelled back at her. "Why should I? You're not our mother. Quit trying to pretend you are. Our mother is dead!"

☆

FOR A SILENT moment Laura just stood there, fighting back the hot tears that were forming.

She couldn't believe what her little brother had said.

At first she thought him hateful and mean. But then she saw the misty little eyes . . . the timid head that hung as if he knew she was about to slap him for his words. But instead she kissed him.

"Oh, my poor little brother!" she exclaimed. "How right you are. I could never take mother's place. And now I'm going to tell you something. Did you know, sweetie, that our mother is having the best Christmas you or I could ever have?"

"But how?" the wide-eyed little boy asked. "Will she have presents to open too?"

"No dear, but she will have a present. The same as everyone she is with will have. Only their presents won't be wrapped in colorful paper and placed beneath a Christmas tree."

"Then what is the great gift, Laura?"

"Why, it's the same gift everyone on earth should receive. Don't you know, little Kevin?"

"Yes, I know what it is now, Laurie."

Laura's face beamed as he called her by the nickname only her mother had used.

"It's what I'm going to give you for Christmas," Kevin continued.

"What's that?" she asked proudly.

"Love, Laura. Love is the best gift you could give. It's priceless . . . something you can't buy."

"That's right, Kevin, and you know I think we've learned a lot tonight. Come in the living room to say 'hello' to dad. Then you can hold the baby."

"Can I really hold him?" he cried with joy.

"Yes, Kevin, you can hold him as long as you wish, but don't get rough with him."

"I promise," Kevin beamed.

☆

WHILE THE family was eating supper Mr. Holms asked if they would like to go to the late church service.

"I would," 14-year-old Chris conceded.

Soon all the children joined in expressing their pleasure at going to the evening service. Laura was very proud of her brothers.

Now I know how mother must have felt, she thought, in having such a Christian family. Her mother had always made sure the family went to church.

And, on Friday, evenings, she had always held family gatherings to discuss the Bible.

Mrs. Holms had brought up her children the best she knew. As a result the entire family always looked forward to Sunday mornings. They loved church and this had made Mrs. Holms happy.

☆

LAURA has made sure after her mother's death that religion would not be neglected.

Then too, she made sure her brothers understood the real meaning of the hereafter. Whenever one of the children, in answering questions about their mother, said she had died, Laura would always interrupt to gently point out that their mother had gone to a better place.

The whole family now knew the difference and were happier for it. They loved and remembered her for her many thoughtful acts and the things she had taught them . . . the things she loved.

Together that Christmas Eve, the Holms family stepped out into the night on their way to the church that Mrs. Holms had loved so much. Hand in hand they walked down the icy walks singing a carol as they went.

For the Holms family knew the real gift of Christmas.

Incompleted Tax Forms

Whether the selected federal income tax return is the "shortie" 1040A or regular 1040, many taxpayers forget some important items, R. I. Nixon, district director of the Internal Revenue Service, advised.

Some of these are:

(1) Failure to attach W-2

(2) No signatures

(3) Tax information not readable

(4) Failure to list dependents and exemptions.

What happens when the IRS gets an illegible or incomplete return?

The director said this type of return cannot be properly processed and will delay the issuance of any refund due the taxpayer. The taxpayer gets a letter or phone call questioning him and, Mr. Nixon added, this takes away clerical help from processing the perfect returns.

Director Nixon suggested that the taxpayer review his return as soon as it is completed, put it aside overnight, then review it again the next day.

After he is sure it is clear, complete and correct, he should mail it to Director of Internal Revenue at Detroit.

SPRING OF 1937 — There were ample supplies of flood water back in 1937, remembers Otto Basske, 309 S. Union St., who has these two pictures of the Hayden Mill, which now is the Community Center. The Globe Pond emptied over the water wheel and the flow continued (below) under M-50 and into the field beyond. As you'll note the whole area south of the highway was a huge lake. This is where the city's sewage disposal plant now stands. The flow of the pond now runs farther east, in the River Raisin.

Really, He Likes Kids

Elmer T. Pocklington has been disturbed about something since Thanksgiving time and he has been the object of many good-natured jokes since that time.

In taking a survey, a Herald reporter asked Mr. Pocklington what he was thankful for.?

He replied, for things he did not have and added that sometimes this was children.

Just why he made this remark we did not go into, but rather let it drop thinking this perhaps had not been his day with the young fry.

Perhaps the whole thing was a misunderstanding.

Mr. Pocklington loves children and he wishes to make this fact known with a poem which he wrote a number of years ago.

THE LITTLE CHILDREN
by ELMER T. POCKLINGTON

When local ancient history
Requires some one to know,
I am the chap to whom they come,-
To me they always go.

For most of them who lived with me
In days so long now gone
Have lived the days attotted them
And, one by one, passed on.

If I had failed to find my friends
Among both old and young
Life now would be a dismal dirge-
The saddest ever sung.

But always I have sought for friends
The boys and girls I knew;
Now some of them are 'up in years",-
They're getting older too.

And some of them are middle aged,-
Are in their active years;
I take an interest in their lives,-
I share their joys and fears.

And some of them are boys and girls
Who'll be when I'm gone;
So long as they remember me
I'll sort of carry on.

Yes I have friends of every age
A few as old as I
But most of them are younger folks
I've met as time rolled by.

LENAWEE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING TECUMSEH, BRITTON, RIDGEWAY, MACON AND TIPTON

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 24 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1963 | 20 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long & Short

By TOM RIORDAN

To most folks, Tory means an old fashioned political party in Great Britain.

But not to about 800 fanatics, living in the Britton area a few miles from here.

To them, Tory has but one conotation — a school nickname.

Their Tories are a band of young men who love basketball and can do a lot of marvelous things with the round sphere.

Win or lose in their final action this historic week, to Britton fans their Tories will always be tops.

Over at the spacious Livonia Franklin High School last week, the Britton squad won a regional crown and boosted its two-year record to an amazing 39 wins against one loss.

Someone said he thought he had wandered into Cobo Hall by mistake when he stepped into the Franklin gym.

It was decked out with huge signs. Cutest was the one dreamed up by Britton senior Marie "The Brain" Schober, "There's a Tory in every VicTORY."

The new school, opened last fall, is a tremendous facility. If the academic program matches the physical layout, all Franklin graduates will be Rhodes Scholars.

Set well back from the road, gracefully landscaped and with a giant paved parking lot to one side, the building takes on the appearance of some modern, lush industrial plant.

Tory rooters came early and soon stands on their side of the floor were jammed.

It was easy telling who came from Britton — each one was wearing something red, a vest, skirt, tie or dress.

Among them were most of the old-time Britton boosters who have been cheering Tory teams for years and years.

For instance there were the Benedicts, Charles and Alice and Gerald and Opel, who never miss a game.

All-State Phil Benedict is the son of the Charles Benedicts, but before him came Lee, Neil and Jerry, the offspring of the Gerald Benedicts.

Charles and Annie Komon are veterans Tory spectators, first watching Chuck (Class of 1960) perform and now Tom.

Always on the stands are Berl and Leota Sanch, who have followed sons Melvin and Merl, now Chip.

McCrate is a well-known name around Britton with Mary Katherine and Bob long familiar faces at basketball games. When son Jerry began to play about 1954 they started to attend each game and still do, now cheering offspring, Fred, who is a senior.

Henry and Katie Mastie are avid Britton boosters yelling just a little stronger when son Ron flips one in.

Henry had been hospitalized the past few weeks, missed the district action in Adrian. He got the doctors to release him Thursday, long enough to watch the Tories in the opening regional game, then returned to the hospital right after the battle.

The medicos finally let him out for good Saturday and he headed right for Livonia for the Memphis contest.

Clair Griffin, the town barber, and his wife, Jane, although they have no children on the team, are considered among the top fans. So are Earl and Mildred Smith, who are usually the first folks in the stands.

Forrest "Fat" Wichner and wife Marie are always at the games.

Car salesman Tom Bruce and his bride, Kate, seldom miss.

These are some of the old-line regulars, always pulling for the Red and White.

My fondest hope, at this writing early Wednesday morning, is that these loyal rooters and all the other Britton fans will see their team go all the way in East Lansing this weekend.

LITTLE GUY STARS — Ron Mastie (21) the "little guy" in a lineup of giant Britton-Macon Tories, was the big gun as Britton took the Memphis Hornets to win the regional championship. Here Ron slips around behind the backboard and hangs in a bucket to the chagrin of two defenders.

Quarter-Final Tilt

Britton-Macon unbeaten in 20 straight starts this year—drew Camden-Frontier in the state tournament quarter-finals at Michigan Center Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Winner of the fray goes to Michigan State University for the semi-finals Friday evening.

The Class D championship battle will be run off Saturday afternoon in Jenison Fieldhouse.

(Story and picture of Britton's regional victories last week appear on the last page of the third section.)

2 Cities Try To Lure Away Meyers Aircraft

Two Michigan cities are actively working to lure Meyers Aircraft Co. away from Tecumseh.

Both Kalamazoo and Alpena have sent representatives to chat with Al Meyers about the possibility of moving.

In each case, they said plants of whatever size needed would be built for Meyers at the Airport.

They added that local investors would probably be willing to buy blocks of stock in the firm worth up to half a million dollars.

Each city is primarily interested in the airplane division, but would also be happy with the boat section, which operates three months during the year.

☆

"I DON'T want to go anywhere," Mr. Meyers told The Herald, "They came here to lure us. If the offer is so good, what can you do?"

At present the firm employs 25 in plane manufacturing and another 25 for the boat division during three months. Total payroll reaches $250,000 annually.

The firm owns the entire air field and pays real and person property taxes to both the city and Tecumseh Township at the rate of approximately $4,000 annually.

The city allows the company a $900 credit annually for maintaining the 2,650-foot hard-top runway.

Mr. Meyers states that in the fall of 1961, the company resurfaced the runway at an expense of $2,000.

Meyers Aircraft came to Tecumseh in 1940 from Wayne at the urging of the late Bill Sage and the late Dr. Harry H. Hammel.

From a one-building start, the company has expanded to a 50,000-square-foot capacity.

Only one other industry in Michigan manufactures airplanes and that one, B. D. Maule Co. of Napoleon, started making a high-wing, four-seater ship only last wing, four-seater ships only last

HIS CLASS WON A FIRST — John Bryan, a member of the sixth grade class of Miss Doris Heckert at Patterson School, shows the "tuba" he made as part of the first-place exhibition entered in last weekend's Science Fair. This was a joint effort by various members of the room entered in the intermediate division.

City Seeks Its Share: $80,000

Unless Tecumseh can come up with $80,000 — City Manager Cal Zorn thinks it can — the planned Evans Creek Interceptor Sewer Project may go down the drain.

Mr. Zorn told Council Monday night that the Federal government had rejected the city's request for Federal aid due to "inability to finance your share of the project's cost."

Regulations call for Tecumseh and the government to share the total cost, $160,000, equally. Also, according to Mr. Zorn, if Tecumseh had budgeted for the project, it would be ineligible for the assistance.

The city manager cited city funds from which money could be borrowed and added the possibility of the city borrowing $26,000 to meet the $80,000 total needed.

Council authorized Mr. Zorn and attorney James Beardsley to resume investigations and reopen negotiations with the government.

Cal Zorn's Position Is Official

Council made it official Monday night by appointing Cal Zorn as Tecumseh's new city manager, succeeding the late Ed Nelson.

The decision had been made about two weeks prior at an executive session.

The position pays $9,500 a year.

The new city manager has been employed by the city for the past seven years and was the logical choice for the appointment, which was unanimous.

New Jersey Folks Guests in Macon

MACON — Betty Restrick and Margaret Kellogg of Collingwood, N. J. were dinner guests of Mrs. Melvin Travis and May Baker Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Baker of Sylvania, O. were Sunday afternoon callers in the Travis home.

Guidance Will Come from Prayer

State Trooper Al Houghton was guest speaker at the meeting of the Happy Home builders Class of the First Baptist Church March 13.

Twenty-two members and guests were seated for the cooperative supper.

Ernie Topps introduced Trooper Houghton, who spoke of his work in this area.

C. O. Baily presided at the business meeting when members decided to have the next meeting May 8, in lieu of the many Lenten appointments.

Mrs. Baily led the devotions using as her topic, "Just For Today."

She stressed the two carefree days, yesterday which was "our day" and now is God's "day" and tomorrow which now belongs to God, but will belong to us.

She also said that each one must pray for daily guidance to do His will and to love our neighbors as we are led by the Master to do.

License Transfer Held Up

A request to approve the transfer of a tavern and SDM license for Joseph and Mary Ann Nykoden to Richard H. and Alberta B. Crandall was tabled Monday night by Council.

City officials want an investigation and police report before approving transfer for the State Liquor Commission.

600 Attend Science Fair

Over 600 people attended the Science Fair at Tecumseh High School Saturday and Sunday.

Sponsored by the Science Club, the Fair had 146 entries. President Don Rudd and vice-president Peggy Johnson organized various committees for the event.

Judges were from University of Michigan, Sienna Heights, Adrian College and Dundee High School.

Gerald Nelson, club advisor, was honored at a dinner after the show Sunday.

$150 Being Given by City Merchants

It's Spring-time in Tecumseh!

So says Mrs. Dorothy Osborne, general chairman of a $150 give-away being sponsored by the retail division of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is open only to women over 21, or under 21 if married. No purchase is required and chances are available in most Tecumseh business places.

The contest will begin Thursday, March 21. Drawing for the $150 will take place Saturday, March 30 at 4 p.m. on the four corners.

Several merchandise prizes also will be awarded. The names of all participating stores will be on the back of the script, where it can be spent.

Although the winner does not need to be present a $25 bonus will be included if she is in attendance, thus making the prize $175.

Mike Rohrer Gets Award From U of M

Michael Rohrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rohrer of 604 Center Dr., has been selected as one of 289 freshmen at The University of Michigan to receive a William J. Branstrom prize.

Branstrom winners rank in the top seven per cent of their class.

The prize is a choice of one of 21 select books stamped with a gold U of M seal.

Mr. Rohrer is a 1962 graduate of Tecumseh High School.

Appeal Board Formed

By JIM LINCOLN

A request, passed by the Planning Commission, to establish a Board of Appeals for the Commission was received favorably by most of Councilmen Monday night.

The new board would be the last resort for residents after action by the commission. At present, residents may take their cases before Council if their requests have been refused.

Councilman Gene Tuckey voiced an objection to the board on the grounds that Council itself would be shedding some of its responsibilities.

Attorney James Beardsley said establishing a Board of Appeals would relieve Council, an elected body, from some unnecessary pressures, which could be handled just as fairly by another body.

He was authorized to prepare a resolution to establish the board for the next Council meeting, changed to April 2, due to April 1 being election day.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

► Accepted a report that the state's Safety and Traffic Division would conduct an extensive traffic survey of Tecumseh.

► Tentatively approved fire protection for all sections of Adrian Township, and authorized a meeting between the city manager and the township's supervisor to reach a permanent agreement.

► Approved a renewal of a boiler insurance policy with Travelers Insurance Co. for three years.

► Appointed Mrs. Carlton Cook and Don Montague as co-chairmen for Michigan Week.

Office Supply Store is Coming

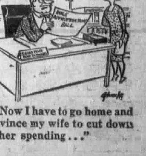

Paul F. Roekle, of Adrian and formerly associated with Adrian Typewriter & Sales, has rented the store between Wright's Drug Store and Gaston and Son Jewelers for an office supply shop.

Hanna Insurance and Real Estate handled the transaction.

Enters Hospital

Fred Chase, 9321 Tecumseh-Macon Rd., entered Veterans Hospital in Ann Arbor Monday, March 18. His address is Veterans Hospital, sixth floor, ward 14.

My Neighbors

"Now I have to go home and convince my wife to cut down on her spending . . ."

Behind Page One

Mrs. Bradley Flippen, 1102 James St., is a great booster of the Tecumseh police force. She was home alone recently, getting ready for a junket to Florida, as her husband had taken the car to Gale Hooten's gas station for repairs. Mrs. Flippen fell and broke her arm. She called her sister, Mrs. Catherine Parker, who in turn rang Hooten's Mrs. Parker then dialed her sister to say that help was on the way. Before Mrs. Flippen could hang up, police arrived. They rushed her to Herrick Memorial Hospital for repairs.

Finally, the happy little place on M-50 this side of Frontier City has a name. For some years the state highway department has maintained a roadside park, one mile south of Cambridge Juncton, where many Tecumseh families enjoy outings in the summer months. This spring a plaque bearing the name of Everett E. Wells will be mounted in the park. The park is being named for the 62-year-old retiree of the right-of-way division of the State Highway Department, a veteran of 31 years of service. Mr. Wells' home is in Grand Ledge.

Stocky Norm Tucker landed a first-place spot on the Detroit News All-Huron League squad and was given honorable mention in the Free Press All-State unit.

Spring is really coming!

Twelve-year old Linda Marine, 115 N. Maumee St., sighted a large flock of geese heading straight north early Monday morning.

Mrs. Leota Smith, Herald linotype operator, also saw many honkers Friday, March 15.

This is the robin story to end all first robin stories.

Mrs. William Mackey of 6767 Mill Highway reports seeing two large flocks of robins, with perhaps 30 in a flock, last week.

Besides that, she said a pair of Merganser ducks arried at the Mackey residence March 12.

She also saw six pheasants flying high in the trees.

Blissfield fans were geared for their district championship battle with Tecumseh. Several signs slapped on the wall behind the Royal cheering section proclaimed, "Tipacanoe and Tecumseh Too," "Pass, Punt and Kick Tecumseh." All of which Blissfield did.

Plans are being made for an April 20 wedding by Miss Hoffman, a 1962 graduate of Tecumseh High School, and her fiance, who is attending Jackson Junior College.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

SOMETIMES YOU ONLY GET ONE CHANCE

► To put aside your pride and say, humbly, "I was wrong."

► To explain a misunderstanding that, if ignored, would sour a friendship.

► To hear what a child very much needs to tell you.

► To defend a person when slighting remarks are being made against him.

► To accept a shy, but sincere offer of friendship.

► To stand up and be counted when you don't agree with the crowd.

So wrote Ruth Millett, NEA columnist in the Memphis Press-Scimitar.

A group from Tecumseh attended the Promenade Jamboree at the Sports Arena in Toledo Sunday with 1,000 other couples.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fogelsong, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Buehrer, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Musch, Mr. and Mrs. Art Williams, Mr. and Mrs. James Barton and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Conklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bowen left Saturday by plane for a two-week vacation in Hawaii. They will stop over in San Francisco before departure and at Las Vegas enroute home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Champanois and Mr. and Mrs. Myron (Pete) Dermyer are spending the next two weeks in Florida.

Richard L. Meads, seaman apprentice of Great Lakes Naval Base arrived home unexpectedly Friday evening.

He and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Meads, and Georgia went to Chillicothe, O. to see Seaman Meads' niece, Jana Lee. The new baby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Penrod.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bater have returned to their home after accompanying his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bater to Fla.

Rose Service flew by jet to Florida to visit relatives and friends for a few weeks.

Red Wilson and Mrs. Wilson have moved to their new home in Sun City, Arizona, 10619 Crosby Drive. They especially enjoy the view of a golf course.

Dennis Martinus, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Martinus of Holloway, has been accepted for the fall term at National Operators Heavy Equipment School in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. George Green, Jr. and three daughters have moved from Plainwell to Three Rivers.

Mr. Green is assistant vice president of the First National Bank.

Mrs. William Mackey's new home on Raisin River at 6767 Mill Hwy. is quite a vantage point for bird watching.

Last week she saw three different kinds of ducks.

The first of the week she saw beautiful white Mergansers with black tips on their wings. These birds are not common in this area.

Mallards have been frequent visitors. A pair of wood ducks also came into the view of Mrs. Mackeys binoculars.

BLUE RIBBON ENTRY — Glenn Slick, a junior, won the high school division chemistry award at the Science Fair with his "Periodic Table."

VOICE OF THE HERALD

An Excellent Show

Plaudits to members of the Science Club of Tecumseh High School and their advisor, Jerry Nelson, who teaches biology.

Their annual Science Fair over the weekend was one of the most outstanding extra curricular school events of the winter.

More than 600 viewed the 146 entries prepared by perhaps three times that number of students, as many were joint efforts.

To our thinking all the displays showed marked ingenuity, especially in the upper grades. We liked them all and know that the judges had a time of it selecting winners.

The show's sponsors made a shrewd move when they included in the panel of judges representatives from Adrian College, Siena Heights, the University of Michigan and the Clinton Schools, thus eliminating any question on selection of prize winners.

Having such events is sure to stimulate interest among the community's young people in math, biology, physics — and working up a project from scratch with their own two hands.

Battle Date Nears

Even some of the opponents of the New-Con are now saying that it will pass.

Could they be trying to lull those who want it into a comforting sleep and maybe not even vote? Or do they secretly want the New-Con themselves?

Much as we'd like to believe that the April 1 issue is a shoo-in, we have to keep reminding ourselves that no vote ever succeeded, no battle was ever won, or no contest automatically became a victory because the foes seemed to toss up their hands.

Ever hear the story about the Trojan horse?

The New-Con issue is too vital to every citizen in this state to let it slip by and then remark casually, "You know, we should have really worked to get that passed."

The time for that labor is now.

We would like to recommend to folks who want the New-Con to be sure to vote. Furthermore, each one should call several neighbors and remind them.

It would be wonderful if some organization could conduct a saturation telephone campaign the night before the balloting.

Typewriters of reporters from all over the state have practically been worn out the past few weeks with reams and reams of stories on New-Con. So much has appeared that probably many folks are completely befuddled.

We like to boil down the issue to a few salient points favoring New-Con:

► Michigan will save a million dollars by eliminating spring elections.

► More than 120 state agencies would be chopped down to 20, thus likely saving more tax money.

► Governor and lieutenant-governor would be elected on one ticket for a four-year term and half of the administration board would be appointed by the chief executive. (We'd like to see the entire ad board appointed to make for a better working team, but Con-Con had to compromise on this. Here half a loaf is definitely better than none.)

And for goodness sakes, don't vote "No" if you don't know.

If you feel you haven't got an idea of what New-Con will do for you and millions of other Michigan residents, start now to find out.

From Many Directions: 'Give'

"Give" has perhaps become one of the most overused words in our language. Everybody wants someone else to give—either financially emotionally, or to give of his time, his knowledge or his particular abilities.

Everywhere Mr. Average Citizen looks, someone has posted the word "Give" for his attention. And that brings us to the point.

We believe people should give to those organizations which make the best use of the funds they receive and give most to those whom they profess to help.

This is the season of the year when we are pleased to call attention to the fact that three great faiths are seeking funds for overseas aid.

The Protestant One Great Hour of Sharing and the Catholic Bishop's Relief Fund are both this Sunday. There is also the worthy United Jewish Appeal, nearly identical in its appeal. The reason these groups do meet ground rules is that they are religious causes—spiritually motivated. The reason these groups do meet ground rules is that they are religious causes—spiritually motivated.

The bulk fund raised goes for direct assistance to peoples who need it desperately: flood victims in the Phillipines; freezing, homeless victims of the Algerian civil war; stunned, hungry villages wrecked by earthquakes in Iran—or long-range programs designed to help people eventually stand on their own feet with dignity.

These are worthy causes.

God Provides for Retarded

Robert Johnson, phychologist for the Lenawee County Special Education Services, was the speaker March 11 at the meeting of Women's Society of the First Baptist Church.

He was introduced by program chairman, Mrs. Warren Puffer.

Mr. Johnson's talk was titled, "The Easter Challenge and Youth With Problems."

He posed the question "What does the resurrection or salvation offer the mentally retarded or emotionally incompetent child?"

☆

MR. JOHNSON stated his belief that God provides for children who are incapable of accounting for their own behavior.

He went on to say that three out of four retarded children are this way due to emotional difficulties rather than lack of intelligence.

The problems these disturbed children must cope with are ► Inadequate parental example

► Self-understanding and lack of communication

► Resisting stereotype growing up with honor and self-respect.

In conclusion, Mr. Johnson stated that the resurrection is proof of God's provision for man's ultimate needs. The secret of becoming complete human beings, including youth with problems, lies in many relationships, parental, peer, social, and religious.

☆

MRS. ROBERT SMITH presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Orville Bishop.

Mrs. Norma Pence presented devotions including a prayer for teachers and a prayer based on the need to love.

A love gift of $18.70 was dedicated by the chairman, Mrs. Vern Manwaring.

Members voted to donate $50 for the institutional budget of Mather School in the south.

Tentative dates for banquets were announced:

Tuesday, April 23—Father and Son

Monday, May 6 — Mother and Daughter.

☆

PRAYER was given by Mrs. B. O. Bashore for the sick and bereaved.

Mary Snedecor presented a slate of officers which was unanimously accepted. They are:

Bookkeeper Told To End Home Work

Herrick Park resident Carson House, bookkeeper and tax consultant, was told by Council Monday night that he was in violation of a city ordinance and must cease his work at his residence.

The resulting action came about after city officials reported complaints from neighbors who had reported driveways blocked by persons visiting the House residence for income tax purposes.

Mr. House, who had received tentative approval from the Council a couple of years ago, providing there were no complaints, said that he tried to limit parking just in front of his residence, but it was practically impossible to control parking of his patrons.

Attorney James Beardsley informed him that his only alternative was to approach the Planning Commission for a change in zoning.

Mayor Harold Easton said that Council could not let him break the law.

Probably, no action, if any, will be taken until after the current tax business is completed.

Partridges Entertain for Martin

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Partridge entertained at an open house Sunday afternoon in observance of the baptism of their grandson, Martin Kevin Barrett.

He received the sacrament at St. Elizabeth from the Rev. Thomas J. Collins.

The little boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Barrett, 211 W. Brown St.

Godparents were Mary Pat McCann of Tecumseh and Robert Ritchie of South Lyons.

A book cake in the form of a birth announcement made by Mrs. Allen French was featured at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Partridge was assisted by Mrs. Julius Vincze.

Guests attended from Detroit, Plymouth, South Lyons, Onsted, Britton and Tecumseh.

Short Hours May Mean Less Blood from Residents

An interesting point about the bloodmobile has been brought to the attention of The Herald. More people may have participated if it had started earlier and run later.

Many second shift workers were hesitant to give blood because recuperation time was too short before work.

A woman working outside Tecumseh from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. was unable to reach the Union Hall before 6 p.m.

If the bloodmobile opened at 7 a.m., many third shift workers might give. Evening hours would also be a great advantage to many residents.

Clothing Drive for Teen Boys Will be in April

Business and Professional Women's Club have a new project for the Lenawee County Children's Home.

A drive will be held in April for good useable clothing for teen-age boys from 12 to 19.

Ladies will spend a day at the home sorting the clothing into size groups.

Mrs. Melvin Wegner program chairman, asks anyone wishing to donate clothing to keep this drive in mind.

The clothing is much easier to sort if sizes are pinned on it.

The club has recently completed furnishing the Children's Home entry hall.

Mrs. Leota Smith showed the boys the lineotype machine and how it worked.

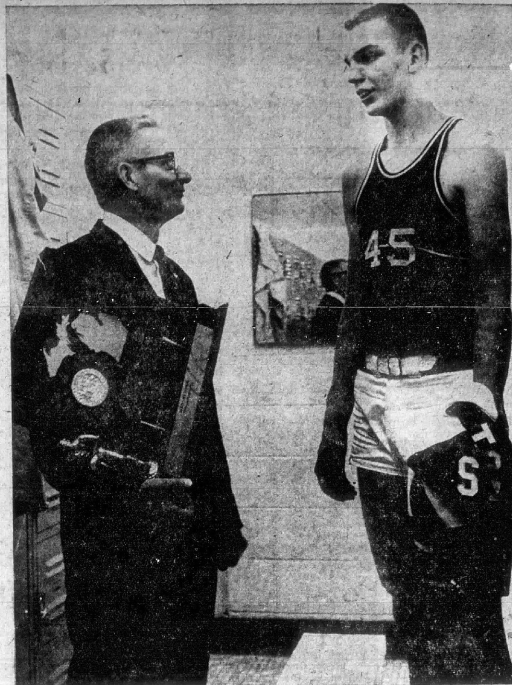

Mr. Riordan showed the boys how they "put the paper to bed." This is the process in which a huge machine prints and folds the paper ready for distribution.

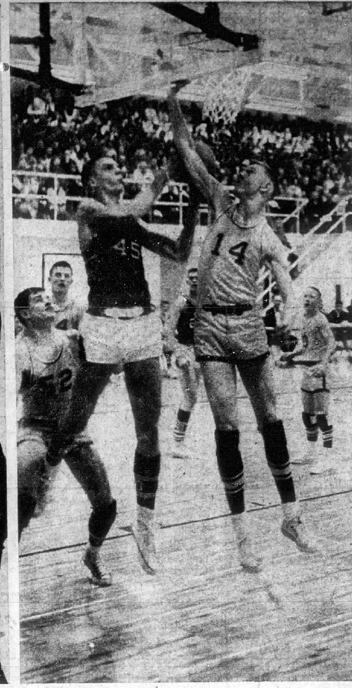

Those attending with their den mother, Mrs. Robert Laidlaw were:

Appoint Auditor General

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles prepared by Tecumseh Junior Chamber of Commerce outlining major points in the proposed new Michigan Constitution.)

Michigan government is vested in three divisions: legislative, executive and judicial.

Legislative branch makes, executive branch enforces and the judicial branch applies the law. Five major provisions for legislative changes are provided in the new constitution.

State senators shall have four-year terms; representatives' terms shall remain at two years.

Notice of hearing and a statement of subjects are to be announced prior to each legislative committee meeting, and a roll call vote of all action on bills and resolutions is to be recorded.

A new bipartisan legislative council, named by the legislature from its members, would supervise a staff to maintain bill drafting, maintain research and examine and recommend revision of the state's laws.

The auditor general would be appointed instead of elected.

The new constitution would establish a commission, equally representing the major political parties, to reapportion every 10 years the House and Senate. The Supreme Court would review in case of disagreement of the commission.

A mathematical formula would be used to assign the 110-member House of Representatives on a population basis and the 38-member (four larger) Senate on a 80% weight to population and 20% weight to area basis.

HEALTH Hints

DR. W. C. ELWARTOWSKI

You may be one of many people troubled with coughs and colds during winter. Maybe you acquire them in the fall and have them hang on all winter. Sometimes they go away, leaving you in rundown condition sometimes they drag along until more serious troubles develop.

If your resistance is low, you'll develop such troubles easily. You have within you all the resisting power you need, but that power is of no service so long as it doesn't reach every part of your body. As long as there is spinal nerve impingement, the flow of vital force to various organs will be interrupted.

Chiropractic teaches that subnormal resistance is due to lack of functional impulses sent out over nerves, because a vertebra is out of alignment and interfering with nerves. This shuts off the normal supply of "resistance" or functional impulse.

Nerve Interference Correction Important

Your chiropractor — expert in his knowledge of the spine, locates the point of nerve interference and corrects, such interference by adjusting the vertebral subluxation that is causing this interference.

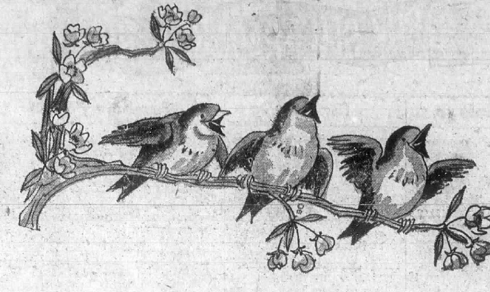

A periodic examination of your spine is the best kind of health insurance.

Box Making Is Complicated Business

BY TOM RIORDAN

There is a beehive of activity these days at Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co.

Working with smooth efficiency, the city's newest industry is processing orders for a variety of customers, including three Tecumseh firms.

Corrugated Box numbers Tecumseh Products, H. W. Tuttle and Faraday among its client and Sales Manager James Robideau is hustling in a near 100-mile radius of the city drumming up other business.

March 1, 1962 will always be a happy memory with the founders of Corrugated. That's the date of the first shipment, a trailer load of pallet packs for the Products.

"Everyone had a hand in loading that one," smiles President Fred Attwood, who added that the entire work force wanted to be able to say in later years each had done his part in getting out the initial order.

Others have followed regularly.

☆

OPERATING a container company takes oodles of floor space and Corrugated is rapidly filling up the 60-000-square-feet of the old Quaker Oats plant, which was completely remodeled during the year's time the Products owned it.

Products officials had made plans to use the building, but programming changed and the structure was sold to the newly-formed firm. Mr. Attwood stated that the vast floor space is perfect for Corrugated Box.

A large concrete floor had been installed by the Products along with new-lighting, wiring and heating.

☆

CORRUGATED buys its raw materials in the form of flat blanks. These can be formed into a variety of shapes, whatever the customer might require.

The blanks are fed through a a massive printer-slotter, which imprints the stock in two colors, cuts, scores and trims. Two men feed blanks in one end and two more gather them up as they come out the other.

Because of their bulk, the big pieces are handled about eight or 10 at one time.

In many instances there will be intricate internal partitions for the containers

The boxes are not set up in final form. That comes later at the customers' plants where the items to be packed are ready to be popped into their cardboard homes for shipment.

When, for instancce, the Products calls for certain compressor containers, Corrugated will hustle over the component segments—the external box and the various inside ingredients, each stacked on wooden skids.

☆

IN ADDITION to the printer-slotter, there are staplers, taping devices, a die-cutting press — and a complete machine shop to keep the production gear in first-rate working order. In it are a lathe, grinder, drill press and milling machine.

But to Corrugated officials, the most vital pieces of equipment are located on the second floor, in the sample design room.

Presided over by Forrest Richard, this is where the ingenious models for production pieces are formed for the first time.

It's Mr. Richard's job to take customer requirements and fashion them into a functional package. Often he will take a current model, sold by a competitor, and redesign, it to be made less expensively and serve more efficiently.

☆

THE AVERAGE person might regard containers as four sided, with a top and bottom. Until one views highly-complicated boxes used by manufacturers, studies stresses and internal needs, it's difficult to imagine the possibilities on fashioning a container.

Incidentally, local folks will soon have a chance to see just this when Corrugated Box holds an open house this spring.

Until then, take The Herald's word for it—building boxes is a complex and intriguing business.

Mrs. Lee Prettyman and Edith Ingersoll were guests of the Tecumseh Music Club Feb. 19 when members gathered at the home of Mrs. Maynard Mulvaney.

Mrs. Fred Oberlin presented a program, "Parade of American Music," beginning the program with Stephen Foster selections.

Mrs. Perry Hayden, Mrs. Wilfred Waldron and Mrs. Mulvaney sang "Beautiful Dreamer" and "Old Black Joe" accompanied by Mrs. Paul Brantingham.

Mrs. Ashley Chase played a piano solo, "To a Wild Rose" from Edward McDowell's Woodland Sketches.

☆

MRS. RAY SOMMERS sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" from Victor Herbert's operetta, "Naughty Marietta," accompanied by Mrs. Chase.

Mrs. Prettyman and Mrs. James Danforth sang "At Dawning" by Charles Wakesfield Cadman.

Mrs. Charles O'Neill sang "Only a Rose" accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Schwartz.

Mrs. Brantingham and Mrs. Chase played a piano duet, "Liberty Bell" by John Philip Sousa.

Mrs. Arthur Schwartz accompanied herself on the piano as she sang "Look For the Silver Lining."

The program concluded with the group singing the hymn of the month.

☆

MEMBERS DECIDED at the January meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Paul Brantingham, that they would consult various people in the community to assist in the observance of National Music Week, May 5 to 12, in connection with the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Plans are in progress to present another grass roots opera at that time.

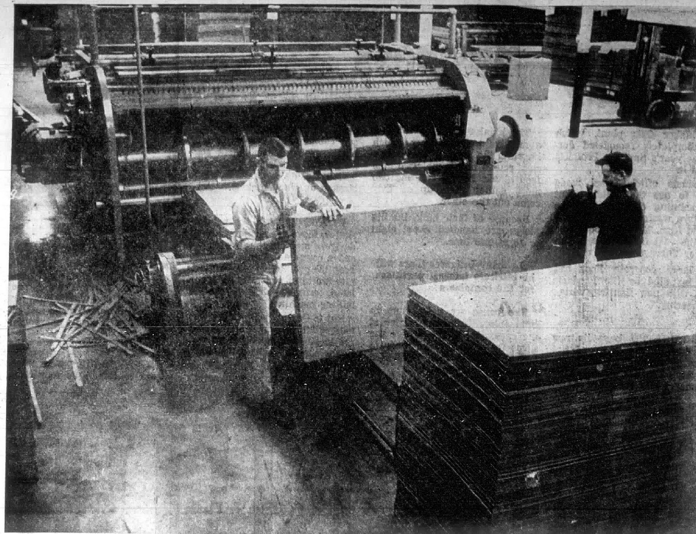

Mrs. Perry Hayden presented a program, "Music of the Faiths" at the January meeting.

Mrs. Waldron was co-hostess.

Romney Will Tell Press of State Progress

Michigan Week '63 has scored an important "first" with the acceptance by Governor George Romney of an invitation to address the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., May 22.

William H. McGaughey, chairman of the 17-member Manufacturing Committee of Michigan Week, said the committee originated the idea for the governor to address the nation's corps in the middle of Michigan Week activities in order to acquaint the nation with Michigan's recent progress and future industrial potential.

Forty of Michigan's leading industrialists and educators are planning to accompany Governor Romney to Washington to attend the luncheon.

Michigan's 20 congressmen and two senators that make up the state's delegation in Washington will be invited to attend.

"The Governor's talk before the National Press Club will focus favorable attention on Michigan industry and bolster our national reputation as an important and growing industrial state" Mr. McGaughey said.

"Other Michigan industrialists also are being urged to seek out and accept speaking engagements beyond the state lines as a missionary effort in behalf of Michigan's accomplishments and growth potential.

"Governor Romney's example undoubtedly will spur others to carry the Michigan progress story to the 49 other states", he added.

☆

UNDER THE slogan, "What Michigan Makes—Makes Michigan," the statewide manufacturing committee has established a number of other targets in its vigorous promotion of manufacturing during Michigan Week, May 19-25.

These include:

► A survey of Michigan colleges and universities, both public and private, describing projects underway which will contribute to immediate and long term employment and industrial expansion in the state.

► Manufacturers, whenever possible, will key the introduction of new products, announcement of expansion programs, contributions to local communities, etc., to the Michigan Week period.

Additional continuing activities will include promotion of Michigan Week through inplant programs and community activities.

Among these activities will be: informational meetings with employees, plant tours, use of Michigan Week slogans on postage meters and as a greeting by switchboard operators, speakers for local meetings.

Included are:

"Made in Michigan" signs and stickers on Michigan-made products and the cartons in which they are packaged.

Talk Is Illustrated with Slides

A. W. Heeschen of Morenci was the speaker March 15 at the meeting of the Garden Club in the home of Mrs. Archie Dunsmore.

Mr. Heeschen illustrated his talk on "Birds and Their Relation to Conservation" with slides.

Tea was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. O. L. Feight.

Mrs. Neil Pearson presided at the table.

Post Mortem of a Comedy

By GRETTA PORTER
Special to The Herald

NEW YORK — Post Mortem of a play that didn't get to Broadway.

Julie Parrish and I sat having lunch in a quiet corner of a New York restaurant, reconstructing what happened in the former Tecumseh gal's first attempt to crack the Broadway theatrical world.

The comedy, "Memo," in which she was scheduled to have opened this week with Macdonald Carey closed Saturday, March 9, in Boston.

By the time we met, Julie had completely regained her wonderful composure, although she appeared slightly preoccupied.

"We just plain ran out of money. With expensive sets and so on, the backing didn't go as far as we'd expected," Julie lamented.

☆

"WE GOT good reviews in New Haven, but were slaughtered in Boston by the press," she said.

"Of course, the Boston critic had just gotten out of the hospital the night before and I'm sure he was in no mood to see a comedy!

"In both cities, although the houses weren't sold out, the people really seemed to enjoy the show — and laughed a lot.

"I don't regret a moment of the time, energy and pain," Julie emphasized. "It can all be chalked up to experience.

"There were certain sadnesses connected with the show closing," Julie said. "Our beautiful (and expensive) set had to be destroyed. Equity rules that it can't be sold or loaned to anyone else — very sad. Also I would like to have had some of my costumes —but due to a mix-up they went to someone else. They were so pretty.

"It's also like someone died... knowing Maria (the role Julie played in the short-lived show) will never be seen again — walking, talking, breathing.

☆

"BELIEVE ME, I cried all night Saturday (when the show closed). We'd been given our notice the week before but were told not to worry as the money undoubtedly would be found to continue.

"The producers have to give the cast and crew a week's notice so they aren't forced to pay salaries a week after a show closes. I really wasn't worried.

"But Saturday night when we knew for sure this was going to be it, I cried during the last curtain call," Julie confessed.

Although she'd planned to leave for the West Coast, Julie's been reading for a number of television shows. If she finds interesting work in New York, it's likely the young actress will stay here for a while.

Working here, she felt, would probably be good for her career. "It's important," she said, "to have one's name known in New York as well as on the West Coast."

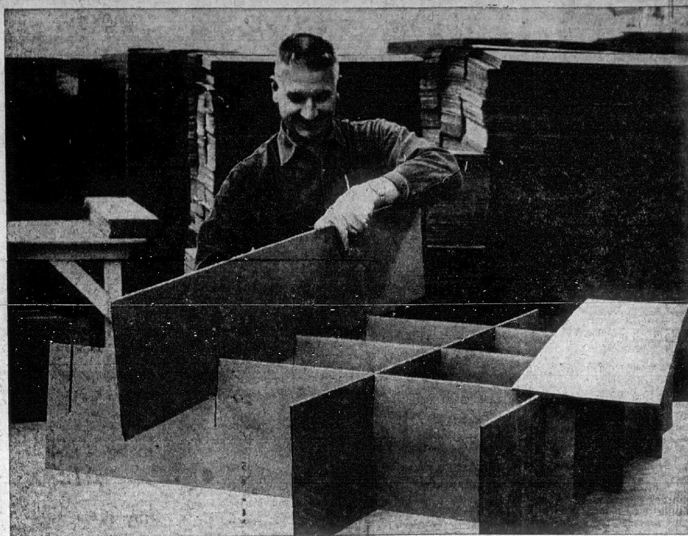

Escotts Host at Card Party

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Escott were hosts for the Rebekah card party March 16.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jess Nichols, Mrs. Orin Beevers, Mrs. Roy Allshouse, Don Escott and Erwin Buss.

Refreshment were served by Mrs. Escott and committee.

Con-Con Report

'Fee System' Would Go

(Editor's note—This is another article on the proposed Constitution as prepared by the Tecumseh Jaycees.)

The Judical System proposed in the New-Con carries through with the basic idea of a unified court system under the head of the Supreme Court.

Several changes have been made in this section.

The Supreme Court still will have jurisdiction over all lower court decisions, but the number of justices would be fixed at seven and each must be elected. (This is to have money and speed due process of law by eliminating the petty appeals.)

A "Court of Appeals", an entirely new setup, would promote the speed and administration of justice. It will have nine elected judges with the provision that the Supreme Court may direct them to sit in groups of three judges.

This court must hear an appeal from any criminal case.

The Circuit Court retains the same jurisdiction as at present, the only change is that where more than one judge is elected to a circuit, their terms must not expire on the same date.

☆

PROBATE COURT jurisdiction is only changed by the addition of juvenile cases. Judges terms are extended to six years and the judge must be an attorney.

The legislature may group counties into a probate district. (This is so that all areas of the state may have a qualified full-time judge.)

The legislature may provide for other courts, but they must have limited jurisdiction. (Previously the legislature could create any court less than the Supreme Court.)

Other changes proposed included, "No justice or judge shall be paid on a fee basis."

The offices of Justice of the Peace and Circuit Court Commissioner must be replaced with courts of limited jurisdiction within five years.

Rulings and orders of any administrative officer or agency affecting private rights or licenses are subject to review by the courts.

PTA Buys Supplies for School

MACON — The Ridgeway-Macon PTA met March 13.

The PTA voted to give Macon School money for needed supplies. Meetings will be held next year every second month.

Election of officers was postponed for another month due to low attendance because of illnesses.

Miss Lillian Cesokas, dental hygienist at the office of Drs. Bob Murray and Bob Laidlaw, spoke on dental hygiene and care of teeth.

Refreshments were furnished by the second grade and served by room mothers.

—o—

The constitution under which Michigan now is operating is basically a pre-Civil War document. The 1908 Convention largely revised the previous Constitution and added a few ideas of its own.

Sunrise Service Assignments Made

A group of youth and adults representing local churches met Sunday at the Baptist Youth House to initiate plans for Easter Sunrise Service.

Hidden Lake Gardens will again be the scene of this traditional 6:30 a.m. observance.

☆

SEVEN CHURCHES will share the responsibilities

Gloria Dei Lutheran — chorus
Baptist — invocation
Methodist — programs
Presbyterian — publicity
Friends — music and parking
Assembly of God — scripture
Episcopal — transportation.

The speaker will be the Rev. Julian Gresham of the Presbyterian Church.

Next meeting of the planning committee will be March 31 at 1:30 p.m. at the Baptist Youth House.

NAOMI SALLOWS, City Clerk

SPRING IS HERE—It happens every spring, the ice thaws and the frost comes out of the ground. This makes for a mess in more ways than one—as City Manager Cal Zorn will attest. City streets are particularly hard hit as this photo graphically shows. Crews have been doing some patching as the situation permits, but any major corrections will have to wait until warm weather. This picture, taken on S. Oneida St., could have been snapped on most any roadway.

Marda Gene Duncan's

THROUGH MY WINDOW

NON-FEEDER VISITORS

All of us who maintain a bird feeding operation have a warm spot for the regulars. They are the ones who keep things going. Blue-jays, chick-a-dees, nuthatches, tufted-titmice and all the rest of the freeloaders make the daily visits which keep our window pictures busy. Even the hoards of sparrows contribute; it's a sure bet that their constant bickering will fill any lull in the activity.

But, not being disloyal and taking nothing away from our everyday friends, there is another group which lends much excitement and brings many thrills to our window pictures.

These are the independent free-thinkers who disdain the feeder; they fend for themselves.

Mrs. Towhee is such a non-feeder visitor. (By the way, wasn't it fun to read in Dorothy's "Here and Now" that other people are enjoying towhees—glad that this neighborhood isn't the only one which is hosting a crazy mixed-up-bird.)

Our lady is really quite a gypsy; she gets around. Gertrude and Marshes see her frequently and think she crosses the creek to call on the Laidlaws.

☆

ACTUALLY I believe Mrs. T. is a window-peeker at heart. She perches on a limb of the wren-tree which heads this way and provides an excellent vantage point from which to turn the tables on us.

She can look in our picture window and check on what the crazy-mixed-up people are doing. From this spot she can also check the feeder and I'm sure this is of much more interest than our doings.

She gives the banquet board a thorough going over and then sails right by it. Never, as far as we know, has she made a mistake and landed on the feeder.

The ground beneath she finds most attractive; it is excellent for scratching. The sparrows are partially responsible for this, with their poor table manners. My, but they knock a great deal of food to the ground.

☆

ANOTHER favorite spot is the yews directly beneath our window. As an "easy chair" for a short rest between sessions of literally scratching for a meal, these bushes are ideal.

Mom says that a colorful towhee sitting on a snow-laden evergreen branch is a sight almost comparable to a cardinal in the same position.

There are other non-feeder friends whom we must mention before space runs out.

They are a puzzlement because in past years, although not regulars by any stretch of the imagination, once in a great while they did drop in for a bite of suet.

Not this year though — both the hairy woodpecker and the yellow-bellied sapsucker are keeping their distance. Darn 'em!

The woodpecker's domain seems to be across the creek. The first spotting was quite a surprise — we were using binoculars to snoop upon a squirrel when, all of a sudden, the woodpecker popped up.

He was on a branch between the squirrel and me — wow! Through the glasses he seemed right on top of us.

The sapsucker has been less dramatic. He merely plays hide and seek around the trunk of Marsh's big elm tree.

So it is that while we thoroughly enjoy the regulars, much fun is also afforded by the non-feeder visitors.

NEXT WEEK:
Jeepers Creepers.

Mrs. Marguerite Garlick principal of Herrick Park School, has been named special delegate to the Michigan Education Association's 42nd annual Representative Assembly to be held in Lansing, March 28-30, at the Jack Tar Hotel.

More than 500 teachers and administrators from throughout Michigan will be attending this policy-making assembly.

The official delegates, numbering 304, represent educators in the MEA's 184 districts. An additional 196 persons will include ex-officio members who do not have voting power.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. Timothy M. Stinnett, an assistant executive secretary for the office of professional development and welfare, National Education Association.

Delegates to the assembly will be considering a proposal to adopt a new constitution for the MEA. If accepted, this would be the first major constitutional change since 1935.

Educators will also focus attention on establishing goals for the MEA for 1963-64, discussing a proposed professional practices act, approving a budget and adopting professional priorities.

Matter

A Bible lesson on the subject of "Matter" will be read this Sunday at Tecumseh's Christian Science Church.

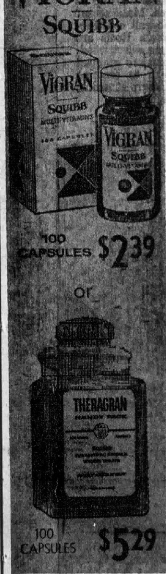

Among the many Scriptural selections, will be this citation from II Corinthians (5:8): "We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord."

During the years, Michigan voters found it necessary to amend the present 1908 Constitution 70 times.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Although the total cost of advertising in the United States amounted to $12 million in 1962, the cost must necessarily be higher to meet the expected economic expansion of 1963.

The rate of increase grows from year to year for several reasons. So long as business volume continues to rise, advertising, a basic investment in distribution, should be expected to rise.

However, other forces make it necessary for larger proportions of gross income to go into advertising. For, when advertising is related to net profits, the advertising increase may represent increased efficiency in production and distribution.

The more modern a business is, the more it must advertise.

When automation replaces manpower, when research produces less expensive products, the manufacturer and the retailer have a more difficult job of selling. They are faced with a continuously changing market.

On the other hand, because of automation, they are able to devote an increasingly large part of gross income to selling.

Advertising, itself an important phase of automation in modern business, should be evaluated as any other tool used in production and distribution.

Perhaps total costs do increase annually. What about costs per dollar earned? Or what about costs in relation to net profits?

Certainly advertising should be increased when it brings in more business and earns greater net profits.

Sharon Writes about Chinese Politics

(Editor's note—In this article of her series about Taiwan, Sharon Ries of Tecumseh talks politics Sharon spent almost six months on the island as an International Farm Youth Exchange representative, living with a variety of families.)

TAIWAN: POLITICAL CLIMATE

By SHARON RIES

Politics is an emotion-laden word the world over. Because of the peculiar situation in which Taiwanese find themselves enmeshed, political situations take on a slightly different hue than in our country or any other.

I want to tell you frankly and fairly as possible about the political climate in Taiwan, as observed by a "foreigner" who lived among and with the people for 5½ months.

We must first make a distinction between the Taiwanese and Chinese: the Taiwanese are those Chinese who emigrated from Mainland China (mostly from Fukien Province) 300-400 years ago.

The Chinese are those who have come from Mainland China since its invasion and subsequent conquering by the Chinese Communists. The members of this latter group are often called "Mainlanders".

These two main groups of people comprising the large majority of Taiwan's population, are outwardly friendly to one another,, in accordance with the Chinese tradition of politeness and courtesy. But inwardly, most Taiwanese do not like Mainlanders and vice-versa.

☆

THERE ARE many reasons for these feelings, some quite valid. When the Nationalist Government fled China, officials set themselves up in Taiwan as the Republic of China, a democracy.

The government has actually functioned more closely to a benevolent military dictatorship, under the leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Most of the Chinese who fled at this time were quite wealthy, well educated, and had some political influence because of the first two factors.

This influence combined with the fact that many Taiwanese had little education at this time, led the Nationalist government to appoint primarily Mainlanders to all the supervisory offices

Even though they have occupied Taiwan since the time of World War II, the Nationalists have not yet put many Taiwanese into offices of major responsibility, because a great many Mainlanders still have this feeling of being greatly superior to the native group of farming people.

This feeling of superiority is definitely felt and resented by the Taiwanese and justly so. Even though they recognize that the Chinese Nationalists have brought much concentrated American aid to their tiny island, resulting in the joint Sino-American achievement of vast improvements in the economy, industry and agriculture, there is still the friction present.

☆

MANY TIMES I heard the phrase "He's a Mainlander — but he's good" or a cutting sarcasm "He's a Mainlander —".

As groups, they do not like one another, and it's quite obvious. But as individuals, there are a good many positive relationships.

One of my Taiwanese host sisters had a Mainlander boyfriend. Some Mainlander school principals have become quite close to the Taiwanese. Some Mainlanders have studied diligently to learn the Taiwanese language so that they could become better acquainted with the native inhabitants of the island.

Even the progress and mixing are advancing on the level of individuals there is little on the governmental level.

In order to hold any job of importanct one must be a member of the Kuomingtang (KMT), the only political party of any stature (Chiang's party, headed by himself), whether he be Taiwanese or Chinese.

Only a relatively few Taiwanese are members because the requirements of membership seem to be complete obedience and submission to the will of the party in almost all matters.

For example, since the schools are owned and financed almost completely by the government (the people themselves are unable, economically, to support their schools), they have also determined who may or may not be a school principal.

School principals are appointed by the government and must meet these requirements: enough education.

Membership in the KMT (or at least approval by the KMT) meaning concomitant obedience to the demands of this party.

☆

A COMMON question asked me is "What do people think of Chiang?"

The Taiwanese and Chinese both seem to like him very much. He has somehow maintained a favorable image with the people, even though the Taiwanese despise his party and the Nationalist government. In spite of this dislike, the Taiwanese would support Chiang's return to the mainland if he should ever attempt such.

Probably a main motivating factor in their support would be the fact that if Chiang recaptured mainland China, the Taiwanese would again be ruling their own island

Even though they would still be a province of China, the Nationalist government headquarters would no longer dominate their island.

The Chinese are still optimistic about their eventual return to the mainland, but the Taiwanese are beginning to wonder if this event will ever occur.

☆

THE TAIWANESE and Chinese do not hate one another — they simply dislike each other because of the type of forced contact with one another they have had.

If our national government was suddenly driven out of Washington and its only place of refuge left was Connecticut, we might begin to see the depth of the problem facing Chiang, the Mainlanders and the Taiwanese.

Where does national government stop and state begin? When the enemy is a scant 100 miles away, how much power should the national government take?

Should the citizens of Connecticut be entrusted with very many high positions or should the trained Washington politicians continue to hold all important offices?

Taiwan's situation may seem far away to us now, but is it really? How far is Cuba? We must think now, not later.

No man under 75 years of age was old enough to vote in 1908, the last time the question "Do you approve of a new state constitution?" was asked.

HERALD HOBBY CORNER

They Fashion Lovely Ceramics from the Molds Right on Up

(Editor's note—This is the first in a series of Herald hobby stories. If you have an unusual hobby or know someone who does, please call us.)

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Hobbies that are loved and enjoyed quite often produce most amazing pieces of art.

This is certainly true of the ceramics made by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Prichards, 602 E. Logan St.

The figures they make are beautiful in detail, painted by Mrs. Prichard and fired in an electric kiln by her husband, a retired electrician.

"But our firing is a military secret," quickly adds Mrs. Prichard.

"It takes 18 to 20 hours to fire a piece depending on the size and number of pieces in the kiln," she said.

☆

MR. PRICHARD tests with an amp meter to determine proper temperatures for the loads. He uses a tiny cone which when it becomes bent to a 90-degree angle tells him that the firing is completed.

He encourages his wife to experiment and makes many molds of more intricate designs from pottery plaster.

When the piece is taken from the mold it is called greenware. Then it is cleaned and painted. When it has been fired once, it is called bisque, then comes the clear glaze.

With paint pots to vie with the colors of the rainbow, Mrs. Prichard is a selfmade artist who paints designs free hand or follows a pattern as suits her fancy.

Just now, perky Easter bunnies with their families, chickens and dozens and dozens of personalized eggs emerge from the kiln every few days.

Sluyter Electric is taking orders for the Prichards to fill. The Prichards currently have a display in Sluyter's window.

☆

SO NUMEROUS are the lovely pieces made by this couple that anyone interested would be highly entertained to spend an afternoon at the Prichard residence.

Their daughter, Mary Jane, a fourth-grade teacher in Bowman School in Redford Township, interested the Prichards in ceramics after her father suffered a heart attack.

A hobbyist herself, Miss Prichard's urging of the clay has certainly resulted in many satisfying hours for her parents.

There are five other children in the family and 11 grandchildren.

One son, Charles, lives in Milan and another, Frank, lives in Tecumseh at 6723 Mill Hwy.

A daughter, Mrs. George Mack, lives in Tecumseh, another, Mrs. Larry Wimple lives in Saline and yet another, Mrs. Harold Schroeder lives in Britton.

FIRST STEP — Don Pritchard pours liquid clay into the mold of a tiny home He made the mold himself from pottery plaster. After the house hardens, he gently removes the various pieces of the mold, trims off rough edges, then bakes house for nine hours in his kiln at 1,875 degrees. The house is then painted, put in the kiln at 1,725 degrees again for a glaze finish.

SELF-TAUGHT—Mrs. Don Pritchard can do some wonderful things with her paint brushes on the ceramics she and her husband make. Here she works on the features of an Easter bunny.

Architect Smith Shows Slides

Architect Jim Smith showed slides and explained drawings of landscape plans for the hospital at the meeting of the Herrick Memorial Auxiliary March 12.

The plans for the project of the auxiliary were accepted by the members in Presbyterian Fellowship Center.

Announcement was made of the Southwest District Auxiliary Committee spring meeting April 23 in Sturgis. Those attending should contact Mrs. Carlos Knisely.

Seven were accepted as new members. They are:

Mrs. Richard Meyers
Mrs. Otto Baaske
Mrs. Dwight Helms
Mrs. Richard Purkey
Mrs. Clifford Bird
Mrs. Richard Creswell
Mrs. J. W. Meadows

Mrs. Ted Sisson and Mrs. Don Purkey were hostesses

School Board's Corner

During the school board meeting held last week it was decided to put the question of "school bus service within the city limits" on the June election ballot.

Board members wanted voters to give a definite answer as to whether the district wished to continue this service at total cost to the school district, plus a penalty assessed by the state.

In a continuation of the regular meeting Monday, it was determined that the school bus law so reads that it would be necessary to vote out all buses in order to cut out the city service.

It would take another vote in 60 days to restore a specified service area at a cost, for the election, of approximately $1,000.

For this reason board members decided not to include this question on the June ballot.

☆

A REPORT has been made to the board by Norval Bovee, business manager, that the initial payment of $113,147 has been made on the debt.

As is customary at every board meeting, Mr. Bovee also made available to each board member a report of the balance to date of every account for which there was an allocation in the budget.

Thus it is possible to accurately determine each month whether the budget is staying in balance.

☆

JERRY BIRNBAUM, representative of National Cash Register Company, was present at the meeting to answer any questions from board members as to the efficiency of the accounting machine purchased from his company.

It is this machine that supplies the data for the monthly business reports, as well as all payroll records.

Mr. Birnbaum told the board that this district is the only one with whom he has contact that has completely and accurately set up all the accounts as stipulated under the new accounting procedure for public schools in Michigan.

He suggested that there are one or two accounts that could be revamped for more efficient procedure, particularly the individual cost accounts for each bus.

☆

AS REPORTED last week the board approved a revised curriculum for the Junior High School in view of the return to the full school day in fall 1963.

A complete listing of these changes will be given to The Herald by Mr. McDowell, school superintendent, so that it may be printed in one of the following issues of the paper.

The main changes were in electives offered and in placing more of the Social Studies through the eighth grade.

A new schedule for non-professional employees wages and benefits was offered by a special committee of board members.

Some pay scales were lowered, others remained at their present levels. Duties of each job were stipulated and the remumeration discussed, after which the board accepted the new schedule as presented.

The last of the teachers contracts were released for signing, after special health stipulations were inserted in two contracts, and probationary periods extended on others.

All Digit Dialing Means Fewer Miscues

ANN ARBOR — People complain — and make fewer mistakes — under the new all-number telephone dialing system, a University of Michigan psychologist suggests.

Dr. J. D. Birch says, anti- digit dialing committees to the contrary, that studies indicates that the all-numeral system is not only more efficient but easier than the old letter-numeral system.

Research supports the conclusion that all-digit dialing produces fewer errors than letter-numeral dialing he explains.

Psychologist Birch began his study several years ago. It has involved testing the reception, retention and recording (dialing) of telephone numbers which were given as seven digits (all numbers), as two letters and five digits, or as an exchange plus five digits.

The all-numeral system proved equal to and in some cases better than the other two systems.

Once an all-digit number is memorized, its performance excels that of the letter-digit number, the U of M psychologist says, adding that experiments with college students indicate that about eight numbers (digits) can be memorized without difficulty.

Most people group numbers in subunits to make memorization easier, Birch explains. The 3-4 grouping (345-6789) seems to work best with an all-digit number.

Frankfurt, Germany Is His Post

FRANKFURT, Germany—Army Pfc. Gary J. Hanna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Hanna, 707 Outer Dr., recently was assigned for duty at the 97th General Hospital here.

Pfc. Hanna, an administration specialist, entered the Army in May 1962, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas in February 1963.

The 22-year-old soldier is a 1958 graduate of Tecumseh High School and attended Ferris Institute in Big Rapids.

This Time It's Free

It's free this time. Three stars of the recent "Girl Crazy" production will present selections from the show and other numbers at the meeting of the Patterson School PTA Thursday, March 21.

Mrs. Robert Bagdon, Mrs. Richard Purkey and David Woods, members of the Tecumseh Players, will sing.

Miles Cowdrey has charge of the program which will follow the room visitation at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Maurice Tuckey will have charge of the refreshment hour.

Fish Lovers in for Treat Friday

Fish lovers will have a gourmet treat when they go to the Fish Fry being sponsored by St. Elizabeth's Altar Society Friday.

Some 200 pounds of fish fillets will be breaded and fried. Scores of assorted home-made pies will also be featured at the Lenten event to be held in the church school auditorium beginning at 4 p.m.

Scalloped potatoes, cole slaw, vegetable, rolls, milk, coffee and tea will complete the menu.

Miniature fish bowls, enclosing a rose, will be center-pieces on each table which will be used for family style serving.

☆

PIANO MUSIC will provide background dinner entertainment.

Mrs. Russell Johnson, chairman, who has been associated with the food and restaurant business for nearly 20 years, reports "This will be one of the most delicious Lenten meals you'll ever taste. No one will go away hungry."

Take-out dinners will be available.

The Fish Fry committee includes Mrs. Robert Vaillancourt, Mrs. Robert McCrate, Mrs. R. W. Dixon, Mrs. Paul Velandra, Mrs. Benjamin McWilliams, Mrs. James Merillat and Mrs. Charles Fitch.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kossey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dziachan, Michael Buku, Donald Frolich, Jack Reis and Wally Whiting. are also on the committee.

Two students, Jamela Cain and Donna Rudd, will handle the cloakrooms.

St. Elizabeth Altar Society members are noted for the ease in which they organize their dinners. Although most of this is due to the chairman and members of her committee, general parish cooperation is outstanding.

THEY'LL COOK — Michael Buku (left) and Donald Frolich (right) will fry fish and Wally Whiting (center) will assist with coffee making at St. Elizabeth's Fish Fry to be held Friday. Jack Ries will also help with the deep frying. A full-course meal served family style will be served in the church school auditorium from 4 p.m.

Sons of Harmony Sing

It will be an all musical concert with a time of singspiration for everyone.

The quartet consists of Dave Thomas first tenor; Ron Roesink, second tenor Don Brown, baritone and Bob Hammond, bass. They have been singing together for almost four years.

In May, 1961 they were first-place winners in the Northern States Gospel Quartet Convention contest in Detroit. The quartet competed against 25 singing groups from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

They have appeared with several nationally-known professional quartets and have made many appearances throughout Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. Their accompanist is Mrs. Leland Roesink of Flint.

Their first long-play record was released in November, 1962. Over 500 records were sold in four weeks.

The Rev. Herbert Nation, pastor of Church of the Nazarene, extends an invitation to everyone to hear these talented young men sing, and also to join in singing with them in a time of singspiration.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Lion or lamb, March came in and will soon be gone . . . so far it has brought us definite signs of spring. Tulips are up a tiny bit, birds are singing, pussy willows are putting on a smooth coat of grey, the mud is at it's best, and soon the voice of the turtle will be heard.

Spring means many things to many people and to us it brings an avalanche of new merchandise and a horde of salesmen showing next fall and winter merchandise.

We particularly like to see the new merchandise . . . it gives us a lift from late winter blues.

Among the new things for spring and summer, certain items we feel are particularly noteworthy . . . for the man a new nylon jacket that reverses to a nautical patterned cotton, hood in the collar and an all over ski look.

A real man's jacket for boating, skin or scuba diving and all around use.

For the ladies there are a wide variety of casual and playclothes . . . the Togo and Tara coordinates are outstanding, both as to style and fabric.

We are celebrating the start of Spring with our annual Fabric Festival and Remnant Sale. Each year we try to out-do the previous year with a better selection of fabrics at the lowest possible prices.

Despite the handicap our mishap in December caused, we have outdone ourselves again.

You will not want to miss this event . . . it starts tomorrow and will run for several days. A double opportunity to pick up some true bargains in fabrics . . . and preview this spring and summer sportswear for men and ladies.

We will be looking for you the next few days at Clinton Woolen.

Agriculture in Action

By M. L. WOELL

Michigan Farm Bureau

Farmers, busily struggling over income tax statements — have been shaken to learn that part of what they pay in to the United States Treasury will in turn be paid out to build up the collective farm system of Communist Cuba.

Paul Hoffman, the president of the United Nations "Special Fund" has confirmed that $1,500,000 has been tapped to rebuild the Cuban agriculture that Fidel Castro seized and destroyed.

Americans must not forget that confiscated along with the land was a billion dolalrs worth of American property taken without repayment of any kind.

In spite of a generally weak-kneed attitude, our State Department has lodged a protest against the use of American money in Cuba, pointing out that it doesn't make much sense to bring "economic sanctions" against Castro on one hand while bailing him out of his troubles on the other.

This however, is the same State Department that on occasion feels free to support "agrarian land reforms" in other Latin American countries.

☆

FARMERS KNOW "land reform" movements for what they are—political excuses to rob, to create a new "social (socialist) order"—and in the long run, the subjugation of a free people through starvation. Such is Cuba.

Witness the words of Antonio Lopez, one of thousands of refugees now fleeing to the United States. Antonio is beginning a new life among Michigan friends and is eager to tell of Cuban conditions.

Speaking to an overflow crowd at the "Freedom Conference" sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau, Mr. Lopez told how the Communists have wrecked Cuban agriculture.

"Agrarian refrom in Cuba has been a big mockery. In spite of Castro placing the blame on large estate owners for Cuban conditions, our agriculture had accomplished [illegible] Before Castro, cattle had reached high levels of production.

"The rice crops were plentiful. Sugar production stood at seven million tons per year. Now all this has changed. Food is rationed. The rice disease covers the land. The coffee crop is burned. High quality livestock has been shipped to Russia or butchered for greedy Communists," Mr. Lopez reported.

U.S. money now, from our tax dollars, makes up 40% of the UN Special Fund. Is our money now to be used against us? How long will Americans, you and I, tolerate paying for our own destriuction?

Early Martyrs Are Discussed at Fellowship

Linda Gilbert and Pat Green presented a reading based on early Christian martyrs at the Presbyterian Church Senior High Fellowship.

The group met at the home of Tim Rinehart Sunday.

Ice cream and a cake were especially decorated to express gratitude to Marilyn Sundal and Tom Price. They have been serving as advisors to the group.

Mr. Price is returning to Houghton this week to complete work on his bachelor's degree.

Miss Sundal will continue to drive from Detroit week-ends to help the club.

The third study course began Wednesday, March 13.

The meetings will be held in the Educational Building with the Rev. Donald Porteous as teacher and the subject will be The Dimensions of Prayer.

☆

FINAL PLANS were completed for the White Breakfast to be held at the church April 4 at 9 a.m. with Mrs. Myrtle Labbitt, radio personality, traveler and lecturer, as speaker.

Admissions will be by reservation only and tickets are available from Mrs. Irwin Buss, chairman of the ticket committee, and other officers of the Society.

Mrs. Lenore West and Mrs. Wilfred Waldron presented a program on the Biblical Foundations of Missions.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee with Mrs. Dorothy Curth, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Murphy and Mrs. Beth Hatch.

Lenten Services Held for Baptists

First in a series of Lenten services was held Sunday evening at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. B. O. Bashore speaking.

Another will be held March 24 at 7:30 p.m. and each Sunday evening until Easter.

Tories Capture Regional Cage Championship

News of Britton

Sizzling Final Quarter Helps Bury Memphis

Playing one sizzling period, Britton-Macon notched its second straight regional basketball championship Saturday.

The Tories stopped Memphis, 61-40, to grab the title and advance to the state tournament quarter-finals at Michigan Center Wednesday night.

Britton looked ragged the first three quarters. Thanks to the outside shooting of tiny Ron Mastie, the Tories were able to stay in front of the outmanned Hornets.

But the final period broke the contest wide open and left the Britton followers with stars in their eyes.

The Tories relaxed and began running and shooting as if they suddenly realized they were a championship team.

Piling up 26 markers, Britton sped away from Memphis.

Mastie was the game's high point man with 19. Ken Southwell, who turned in a bruising under-the-hoop game, notched 18. All-State Phil Benedict contributed 15.

Two nights earlier, Britton eliminated Detroit St. Elizabeth, 65-48, in what Coach Sam Hamilton said was one of the Tories' worst showings of the year.

"We were awful," were Sam's words.

☆

AGAINST Memphis, Britton started well enough, taking a quick 11-3 lead. Mastie's 15-footers were the big factor as his team-mates failed to hit the strings.

By halftime, Britton was in front 23-16, but still fumbling.

The Hornets, woefully poor shooters, kept plugging away, but the rebounds all went to the tall Tories, who notched 56 while Memphis got but 24.

A packed Livonia Franklin gymnasium really saw some action in the final frame. Southwell and Benedict did most of the scoring, but there was some fancy passing by Tom Komon, Pepper Griewahn and Mastie.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

For most of Monday and Tuesday I was working, more or less, for the Chief Publishing Co. of Wauseon, O.

It was an exciting experience and the task at hand consisted of the 12-page supplement, devoted to Britton's state champions, which can be found tucked into this week's paper.

Chief Publishing, which prints a raft of weeklies and a variety of monthly farm magazines, is one of the fastest-growing small plants in this part of the country.

A reason is the firm's new high-speed $100,000 web-fed offset press.

It is drawing publication business from all over Northern Ohio, into Indiana and Michigan.

To translate offset printing, it is an age-old method, but only recently adapted for fast newspaper work.

Turning out about 15,000 complete papers in an hour, the press is fed by huge rolls of newsprint. There are no chunks of type to print from, but rather a unique arrangement in which a thin metal plate is inked and then makes impressions of the pages onto a rubber blanket, which in turn offsets onto the speeding stream of paper.

The Herald's press is also web fed—running with one continuous ribbon of paper—but there the similarity ends. Our press speed is about 3,500 per hour and we print directly from type and engravings.

The Herald press, built about 40 years ago by a Kalamazoo firm that has long been defunct, was never meant to print lots of pictures. It does fine on type, but the inking system is not always dependable with art.

The opposite is true of offset—and I think you'll agree when you peek at that basketball section. Offset's trump card is the class with which the photo can be handled, all the way up to 10x13½" in size.

Besides its speed advantage, color can easily be added, as we did on four pages of the Britton supplement.

Since our special tournament section is almost entirely pictures, it was reasoned that farming out the job was the answer and Wauseon is within a 50-minute drive of Tecumseh, so off I sped.

During Britton's Friday and Saturday games at East Lansing, I had gone shutter happy with the trusty 35mm Nikon. When it was all over there were about 125 negatives!

It was a chore going through them to select the 23 which best told the story of the fabulous Britton weekend.

Unfortunately there was one major error in the supplement and for this we owe Pepper Griewahn apologies. Pepper got the deciding point in the game, not Tom Komon as was stated in the short title game review in the middle spread.

Incidentally, extra copies of the supplement can be obtained from the business places which sponsored its publication. Each one has approximately 180.

They're accepting donations for the Britton athletic fund with each supplement.

Almost Wins $20,000 New Home

Mrs. David Ousterhout, 222 E. Chicago Blvd., experienced a thrill when she was notified she hed correctly guessed the number of nails in a house at the Builders Home and Flower Show in Detroit.

Only fly in the fun was that five others had also guessed the correct number, making them all eligible for a $20,000 new home.

A plastic bag was filled with nails and the winners each asked to guess the number. In the run-off Mrs. Ousterhout received $25 for fifth place.

A couple from Brighton, who won the house, Mrs. Ousterhout said, now live in an apartment. They have four kiddies.

The award would have been most appropriate for Mrs. O., too, since she was going over house plans when the congratulatory phone call came. She and her husband hope to build this summer.

Tall Tories Triumph

By JIM LINCOLN

In little over an hour Saturday afternoon, some young giants from nearby Britton did what no other Lenawee County school has ever done—they won a state basketball championship.

The Britton-Macon Tories—darling of the entire area—proved in Jenison Field House against Negaunee St. Paul they are the best Class D team in Michigan.

The name of Britton, quite common place in this region, flashed across the entire state, giving the community a prominence it has never reached before.

And, a tall Tory five did it, coming from seven points behind in the third quarter, rallying again in the final few minutes, before copping the 59-58 victory.

The Tories and Coach Sam Hamilton's win probably did more for basketball in this area than any cage victory in the past. Fine county teams in the past have tried to win a state title, none had ever succeeded.

MSU's Jenison Field House erupted in bedlam and congratulations following the victory, one not decided until seven seconds to play.

Negaunee St. Paul had a superb, scrappy team and a sophomore guard, Dominic Jacobetti, one of the finest players and deadliest shots in the state.

Britton was better, the Tories fined players. If it were not for a rash of fouls, the Tories probably would have won by a wider margin.

The champs dominated the first quarter, although leading by only 16-15. All-State, All-Tournament Phil Benedict tossed in 10 of Britton's points.

Early in the second stanza, fouls began taking their toll, with Benedict strapped by four before the half.

☆

AFTER THE intermission, Negaunee zoomed to a 38-31 lead, and the Tories were slipping badly. Coach Hamilton had no other alternative than to risk losing his 6'8" center on fouls. Benedict returned to the game with about half of the quarter gone and sparked the rallying Britton team.

At the 4:48 mark in the fourth period, Tom Komon hit the first of two crucial baskets and gave the Tories a 50-49 lead, their first since the second quarter.

Negaunee fought back, regained a 54-52 margin with about a minute and a half remaining, and then, after a time out, attempted to stall. It proved fatal.

Negaunee missed a foul shot, Britton grabbed the rebound, and Komon tied the score with another long jump shot.

Then for the first time, a full court press by Britton befuddled the Upper Peninsula team. Ken Southwell tipped the throw-in from out-of-bounds pass, shot, missed, but Fred McCrate cashed in the rebound to give Britton a two-point lead.

☆

NEGAUNEE HAD an opportunity to tie the game from the free throw line, but again missed. Benedict quickly boosted the margin to 58-54 before Negaunee hit and pulled within two points again.

Komon, outstanding in the final quarter, missed a game clinching free throw, but Pepper Griewahn iced it for the Tories, hitting a foul with just seven seconds left for Britton's 59th point.

The winner's simply stood and watched Jacobetti drive and score a meaningless two-pointer—only two seconds remained. Britton never had time to take the ball out-of-bounds.

The champs were terrific in victory. Hamilton used eight players in the title game and each contributed to the win.

Benedict paced his teammates with 26 points, 17 of them coming in the first and third periods. Guards Griewahn and Komon each collected 11 points.

☆

THE SHORTER Neguanee five capitalized on fouls, hitting 16 of 25 free throws. The Tories made five of 10 attempts.

Tory Tidbits

► The Tory team got stuck in the elevator at the Jack Tarr Hotel for 20 minutes. They overloaded it!

► The busses got lost twice Friday. Once going and once coming. Talk about excited bus drivers!

► Britton opponents Friday night, Brethren-Norman-Dickson, have as superintendent the brother-in-law of Britton superintendent, William Saxton.

► Camden-Frontier coach, Britton opponent Wednesday night, is a former classmate of Britton coach, Sam Hamilton.

► Many Britton fans stopped to eat at a restaurant in Jackson. Suddenly a group of men wearing red blazers entered. The whole crowd started to cheer, thinking it was the Britton team. Think of the red faces when they discovered it was a bowling team!

► Hundreds of people had lined up at the school in the wee hours of Saturday morning for tickets. Superintendent William Saxton had to sneak in the back door to keep from being mobbed.

River Project To Be Discussed

The River Raisin project will be discussed at a general meeting in the Community Center Friday at 10 a.m.

Members of the Technical Review Committee, Ron Pocklington and Royal Welch, will be present and discuss the problems in this particular area.

Mr. Welch is urging that people go to the meeting saying that this is the one that will get the project under way.

The Technical Review Committee is made up of the heads of the Soil Conservation Service, the Water Resource Commission, a representative from the State Agriculture Dept., a representative of the Extension Service.

A meeting was held Tuesday evening at the court house in Adrian to discuss the problems of the 15 communities involved in the project along the river.

About 40 people from the various communities attended.

The Technical Review Committee will gather in Adrian Thursday, March 28, at 8:30 a.m. to meet with local officials at the office of Don Mitchell, Lenawee County Drain Commissioner.

Following the meeting they will tour the southern end of the River Raisin, making an overnight stay in Monroe, where a meeting of the residents and city officials will be held.

Behind Page One

What a day for a birthday was March 18. For Don Montague, who turned 28, things just didn't go right. First a Toledo radio station phoned to ask a mystery question. The correct answer would have won him a $135.35 prize.

Question: "Who was the first lady aviatrix to crack the sound barrier?" Don still doesn't know.

After driving on icy roads in miserable weather from Toledo, Don reached the Community Center. In parking, his car skidded at about seven miles an hour into an already parked auto—$30 worth of crumpled fender. Better to have stayed 27, Don.

Members of the TOPS Club should give Sam Hamilton an honorary award. He lost 35 pounds during this year's season.

Sam said "I could afford to lose some weight, but that's a poor way to do it" and added nostalgically, "But it's fun."

We had a terrible time keeping our headline writer from using, TERRIFIC TALL TORIES TAKE 'TATE TITLE over the Britton Cage win.

All men, no matter how big, do make mistakes, but biography teaches us that big men refuse to falter because of mistakes.

It is true that lots of men make no mistakes but they attempt few things.

Henry Ford forgot to put a reverse gear in his first automobile. Edison once spent over two million dollars on an invention of little value.

The man who makes no mstakes lacks boldness and the spirit of adventure. He is the one who never tries anything new.

He is the brake on the wheels of progress.

According to an item in Automotive News, the police in the Australian hinterland have a novel method of dealing with drinking drivers. They pass the culprits' names along to the local newspaper, which runs a list under the heading, "He's Drunk and in Jail."

Mrs. Don Phelan, 511 Nokomis, qualifed for Mothers of Twins Club at approximately 3 a.m. Sunday, March 24.

She gave birth to a boy, 4 lbs., and a girl, 5 lbs., at Herrick Memorial Hospital.

ter, the foul count against Britton was 19 while Negaunee had been called for only seven.

The Tories, considerably taller than their opponents, won the game from the field, making 27 field goals to Negaunee's 21, and off the boards.

Britton's rebound average was nearly two-to-one, and the Tories often got several shots with Negaunee unable to do anything about it.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Help Save State Money

A day of vital decision for all residents of Michigan comes Monday.

Our state will be handed a decision on the long-discussed New-Con. It's of great importance to our future, but we wonder if the average fellow agrees.

A lot of Americans have long been negligent and unconcerned about voting. Like many another gift that comes to us easily, our birth right of the free election is badly neglected.

As a result, New-Con might rapidly become Was-Con unless a lot of us get out and prod our friends and neighbors to be sure and vote.

Besides the constitution issue, there will also be a string of candidates running for state offices.

There's no secret (at least we hope not) about the fact that The Herald feels you should say "yes" to New-Con. It can save the state millions. Who wants to argue that Michigan couldn't use a little economy in operation?

New-Con would place logical leadership in the hands of the governor, over a four-year term instead of two. The lieutenant governor would be his running mate in a gubernatorial race. What's more logical than this? Certainly not having the head man of one political faith and the No. 2 guy of another.

State government in general would be vastly streamlined, with 120-odd department telescoped into a tidy 20 for less red tape, more efficiency.

George Romney, who is a great leader, helped write New-Con. He wants the issue approved. We admire Mr. Romney and agree wholeheartedly with his thinking.

Tecumseh Loves Tories, Too

History in Lenawee County was made Saturday, and it couldn't have happened to a finer community.

Britton is Class D State champion — a title earned and deserved, one fitting for the Tories.

Saturday was Britton's day, one the team, Coach Hamilton, school officials and students, and other fans will never forget as long as they live.

Tecumseh won't forget it either.

The Tories had hundreds of fans here, some attended the game Saturday, others were glued to their radios. Some, we know, who seldom go to a game and some who don't know the difference between a basketball and football, also were listening.

The Tories, young giants as they are, grew and grew on Tecumseh folks to the point where they might just as well been their own.

One can take an impositon with tongue-in-cheek or with a smile, and we believe Britton took Tecumseh's imposition after the game Saturday with a smile and a bit of gratitude.

There was a local feeling here of "what can we do for the Tories—win or lose," Saturday morning. If some local Tecumsehites — Harold Easton, Cal Zorn Ken Zarnow and Don Purkey to mention a few—had the time, money and organization, the victorious Tories would have crossed town on a red carpet.

As it was, a hastily made sign was hung across W. Chicago Blvd. Plans to meet the team and caravan of fans at the west end of town with the city's new fire truck and police car were made and completed.

Everything, as much as time allowed, went as planned, including an escort to Britton by the fire truck and police car.

It wasn't much. It wasn't everything which could have been done with more time and planning.

But, for the folks in Britton, we in Tecumseh just wanted you to know that we think quite a bit of your basketball team, too.

Congratulations from hundreds and hundreds of your Tecumseh fans and boosters.

P.S. — Maybe next year we can do better.

State Champions Royally Greeted

BRITTON — Britton hasn't had as much excitement since 1956 when the late Detroit Mayor Cobo visited during Michigan week, and Walper Elevator burned.

It started when the basketball team and caravan were greeted at Billington's corners by Tecumseh Police.

The entire caravan stopped while the team shook hands with policemen.

The new Tecumseh fire truck met the cars at Harvey's Grill and led them under a sign reading Congratulations Britton and past many well-wishers.

Britton streets were lined with fans that were both able and unable to attend the victorious game.

As the caravan arrived in town the Britton fire siren started to blow. County Deputy Sheriffs and Britton Police led them to the four corners where everybody went mad!

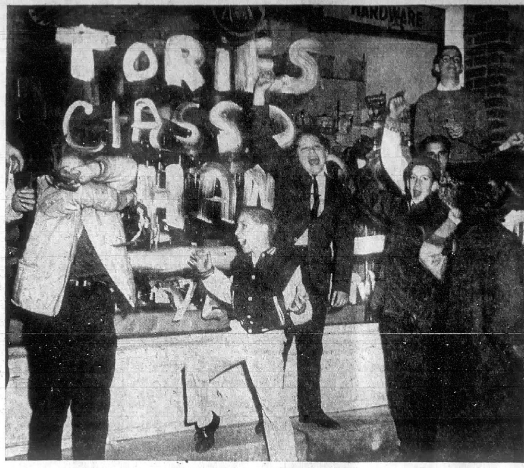

The boys were barely able to move because fans mobbed them in their joy.

The confusion started all over upon the arrival of the student busses. As the kids piled out, cheerleaders led them in yells.

The team was fed at the L and S restaurant. Free coke and potato chips were available to all, compliments of J. J. Walper and Son.

Dancing in the streets began shortly after eating. Someone even put a television on the street to watch the Adrian finals.

Parties were held throughout the night in separate homes.

Sheep Dipper Built for Farmers

A $350 sheep dipper has just been completed by the Tecumseh FFA farm mechanics class.

Doug Randolph and Tom Norris headed the project. The boys with their adviser, Paul Burns, obtained plans for the dipper from Michigan State University.

They also looked at several operating dippers in the area.

The boys made several changes to fit their needs then built the dipper. They have already dipped 350 sheep.

The dipper now operates with maximum efficiency.

Several of the boys will dip sheep for local formers.

A farmer may rent the dipper from the chapter.

The sheep dipper will be a great asset to the community and state since Michigan has a full time veterinarian, Dr. Bill Britton, to check all sheep shipped into the state for scab.

Sheep are also dipped for lice and ticks.

For several years feeder sheep have been increasing in numbers in this area.

Some farmers are feeding as many as 1600 or more sheep per year.

Commercial ewe flocks also have increased in the area.

Sheep business in the state amounts to over 387,000 animals.

It is valued at $410,000 annually with about 1,333,000 lbs of wool produced.

Scholarships Being Given to Science Fair Winners

ANN ARBOR — Two college scholarships valued at $250 each have been added to the prizes to be awarded at the Fifth Annual Southeastern Michigan Science Fair here in April.

University of Michigan Vice-President Ralph Sawyer, director of the 1963 event, announced that the one-year scholarships will be given to two of eight candidates selected from the leading senior division student scientists at the Fair.

A Science Fair committee will interview the eight after the Fair to determine which pair have the best overall qualifications for the college aid, he said.

☆

OTHER AWARDS will include expenses-paid trips to the National Science Fair at Alburquerque, N. M. in May for the top senior boy and girl, cash prizes, medals, books and supplementary awards.

Funds for the prizes—and for all expenses of the Fair—are solicited from area business and alumni by members of the Ann Arbor Exchange Club, one of the Fair's three sponsors. The Ann Arbor News and the University are others.

The Fair will be held April 19-21 at the U-M's Intramural Sports Building on Hoover St.

Entry cards have been mailed to junior and senior high school science department chairmen in Hillsdale, Jackson, Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw Counties.

Deadline for return of entry cards is April 12.

Additional cards may be obtained from the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair, 4507 Administration Building, The University of Michigan.

Wheat Program Voting Eligibility Is Explained

Producers who have an interest in a 1964 farm wheat acreage allotment will be eligible to vote in the 1964 wheat referendum this spring.

If the allotment is less than 15 acres, however, the farm operator will be asked to decide—at least seven days prior to the referendum—whether he wants to participate as an allotment grower in 1964.

If he elects to participate, this will qualify the operator and the other wheat producers on the farm to vote in the referendum.

The election will be made by signing on the back of the regular allotment notice for the farm and filing it with the ASC county office.

☆

EACH PERSON may cast only one ballot in the referendum, regardless of the number of wheat farms in which he is interested.

Exceptions of this rule are:

(1)—Individual members of a partnership each have a vote, but the partnership as such has no vote.

(2)—A person may also vote as the representative of an organization, such as a corporation (which is entitled to only one vote)

(3)—A person may vote as the administrator or executor of an estate, or as a trustee or guardian, but the persons whom he represents are not eligible to vote.

Producers who have an interest in an allotment include landowners who receive all or a share of the wheat crop or proceeds thereof, and tenants or sharecroppers having an interest in the farm acreage allotment because of sharing in the wheat crop or proceeds thereof.

Special provisions apply to cases of joint ownership or operation.

Wheat growers who have some question about their eligibility to vote in the upcoming referendum on the 1964 wheat program are encouraged to discuss the matter with their ASC county committee. The referendum will be held sometime in May or June, the exact date to be announced later.

☆

THE REF9RENDUM will offer wheat growers a choice between:

1—limited production of wheat, a relatively high price support, and payments for wheat acreage diverted to a conservation use.

2—No limits on production or marketings and a relatively low price support only to growers who stay within their allotments.

Beard Growers Asked To Join Brothers of Brush

All Tecumseh men and boys capable of growing hairy facial appendages are invited to join the Greater Clinton Area 125th Celebration "Brothers of the Brush."

The Brothers will have the official kick-off Monday, April 8.

All men or organizations interested in forming their own chapters of 10 or more members are incited to attend this meeting at 8 p.m. at the Community Center in Clinton.

Official charters, certifiqates and membership buttons may be obtained at this meeting.

Beard, side burn, mutton chop, mustache and goatee styles guaranteed to tickle all are on display in Clinton barber shops now.

Manhunt Begins for '53 Graduates

The class of 1953 of Tecumseh High School is launching a newsletter in lieu of a class reunion.

Mrs. Richard Bohnet nee Nancy Kinietz, 1460 West 44 Street, Erie, Pa. and Gretta Porter, 207 East 15 St., New York 3, N.Y. are organizing the project.

They have been able to contact about one third of their class mates but are delayed due to lack of current addresses of 1953 graduates.

The two are asking Tecumseh residents to assist them if they have the needed information.

Mrs. Bohnet is underwriting the cost of the newsletter project.

It is hoped that current news of each member of the 1953 class may be included.

Traffic is Full Scale Study

A full-scale study of local traffic problems, together with recommended solutions, will be conducted in Tecumseh as a public service by Automobile Club of Michigan this summer.

Ernest P. Davis, director of Auto Club's Safety and traffic department, announced the project.

The study will be aimed at reducing future traffic congestion and accidents. It will require about six weeks of field work by a traffic engineering-research team headed by Charles Gordon, Auto Club traffic research supervisor.

The Tecumseh City Council requested the study in November, 1962, because of a concern about changing traffic patterns resulting from the citys growth from 4,000 in 1950 to over 7,000 in 1960.

Costs of the survey will be borne by the Club as a civic contribution.

The AAA research team intends to study records of every accident that occurred in the city last year. They will also measure traffic volumes and movements and pinpoint hazardous or potentially hazardous intersections and areas.

In other parts of the survey, the traffic specialists will make a special study of parking problems in Tecumseh's central shopping district.

They will check the present parking facilities against actual usage and analyze future parking needs. Plans will also be developed for a major and minor street system.

☆

A DETROIT traffic engineering firm, Gibson and Associates, will be retained by Auto Club to serve as consultants on various phases of the project.

A complete report of findings and recommendations will be presented to city officials and civic leaders later this year.

The Auto Club has conducted similar surveys in nearly 100 Michigan communities during the past 30 years. Other studies will be made this year in Cadillac and Union City.

Mrs. Ries and Mrs. Hugh Des Ermia were the co-hostesses for the evening.

Twelve veterinaries and their wives attended the dinner meeting of the Southern Michigan Veterinary Association recently at the Bostonian Dining Room.

The Association includes members in the Monroe, Lenawee and Hillsdale Counties.

A high school girl from Fayette, O. presented a movie and tape recording of a project she had made in the past three years, which won a trip to the Seattle World's Fair for her.

The project, "The Embryology of a Chicken", shows the microscopic slides made by the student as well as the sterile incubator which she had made.

The project follows the incubation through the hatching period.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: Last year my regular employer took social security tax on the first $4800 paid yearly earnings reached $4800. I also worked part-time for another company and they withheld social security tax on $2,000 I earned with them. Since I paid the maximum tax in my regular job, was my part-time employer correct in also taking social security tax out of my pay?

ANSWER: Yes, each employer must withhold the social security tax on the first $9800 paid you in the taxable year. However, you can claim the excess social security tax you paid as a credit against your income tax. Complete information as to how this credit is shown on your income tax return is in Internal Revenue Instruction Form 1040 for 1962.

✓

QUESTION: My husband hires a young man to help us with the farm work each spring. Last year he paid this hired man $235. Our neighbor says we must report the hired man for social security, but my husband disagrees. Who is right?

ANSWER: Your husband must report the cash wages of the hired man. Any farm employer who pays $150 or more in cash wages to a farm employee in a year (or has a farmhand working for him on 20 or more days in a year for cash pay figured on a time basis) is a farm employer for social security purposes and is required to pay the taxes and make social security reports. Your husband should ask the Internal Revenue Service office for necessary report forms and instructions.

✓

QUESTION: How much would my family get in social security payments if I die? I'm 32 married, and have three small children. My earnings from 1954 through 1959 were $4300 a year. Since then, I've earned $5200 a year.

ANSWER: Your widow would get a lump sum death payment of $255. She and the children would get monthly payments of $254. These are the maximum family benefits that can be paid.

✓

QUESTION: I've been making over $5000 a year since 1956. I recently took your advice and checked my social security record. The statement I got back is wrong. It shows credit for only $4800 a year. Why is this?

ANSWER: $4800 a year is the maximum amount of earnings that can be credited toward your social security account. Even if you earn more than this amount, only $4800 is on your record. You do not pay the social security tax on earnings over $4800.

County Board to Make Closing Law Decision

Public hearing will be held Thursday, March 28 at 10 a.m. at the county courthouse in Adrian on the weekend closing law.

Although it is referred to as Sunday closing law, it actually permits stores closed on Saturday to be open Sunday.

The law provides that it may be discontinued in counties by two-thirds majority vote of supervisors. They may also extend a confusing list of exemptions as they see fit.

The supervisors will make their decision after the hearing.

Many business representatives are expected to make their views known.

The law actually goes into effect Thursday.

☆

A TECUMSEH merchant felt the closing law is all right, but he feels the government is wrong to be the institution to impose it.

He stated "If the government can close us on Sunday, they can close us on Wednesday afternoon.

Perhaps the ministry could press this issue further."

Ezra Neuroph, chairman of the Lenawee County board of supervisors, would not guess on the outcome of board voting, but said, "It's a rather foolish law to be enforced."

He referred to passages that permit the sale of boat supplies, but not a boat; raincoats and overshoes, but not clothing.

Even grain elevators would be affected by the law.

☆

EXEMPT are stores not larger than 4,000 square feet if they have only two proprietors and employ no more than one other person.

The listed exemptions include many athletic, recreation and repair items—helpful to the tourist industry and outdoor sports.

Many counties including Hillsdale, have already rejected the law and business firms long active in Sunday selling are fighting it.

Violators would be fined up to $100 on the first offense, up to $500 on subsequent offenses and could even lose their business licenses.

☆

STATE organizations working to support the law include the Michigan Food Dealers Association, Michigan Retail Hardware Association, Michigan Retailers Association, and Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

The bill was sponsored by the Detroit Board of Commerce.

Paul Braunlich, Monroe County board attorney, said he felt large business interests in Wayne County were back of the weekend closing move because of competition from Sunday discount houses.

He contended religious significance is secondary.

Con-Con Report

Constitution is Non-Partisan

(Editor's note—This is the last in a series of articles about the proposed new Michigan Constitution. A decision on the new document will be made by the state's electors at the polls on Monday, April 1.)

'Michigan needs the new constitution. It holds the promise of the future. It is the state's escape from the shackles of the past and our means of reversing the trend towards dependence upon Federal government for answers to purely state and local problems."

So said Gov. George Romney this week, just four days before next Monday's election when Michigan voters will go to the polls to pass judgment on the proposed new state constitution.

Bipartisan support for the new document has become increasingly evident as Election Day approaches.

Early this month Prentiss M. Brown, Democratic elder statesman and former U. S. Senator, announced his intention to vote for the new constitution.

Dr. Connor D. Smith, Democratic chairman of the Michigan State University board of trustees, had previously announced his support.

☆

AT LEAST 70 major changes from the 1908 state Constitution are incorporated in the proposed document and 75% of them received the unanimous or near-unanimous vote of the 144 delegates to the Constitutional Convention.

No decisions at the convention were made on a strictly partisan basis and all sections of the document passed by the delegates had bipartisan support.

Among the significant improvements over the 1908 constitution are:

1. Abolition of spring elections saving an estimated $1 million each two years.
2. Four-year terms for elected state administrative officials, permitting the time needed to establish program.
3. Reorganization of Michigan's hodge-podge of 126 boards, bureaus and commissions into not more than 20 departments.
4. Tools to help the legislature solve the problems of mushrooming urban areas.
5. Co-ordination of the state's educational system through an enlarged eight-member state board of education who would have authority to appoint the superintendent of public instruction.
6. Expanded provisions on civil rights, including a new antidiscrimination clause which is to be enforced by the nation's first constitutionally-established state civil rights commission.
7. Legislative apportionment formulas which will guarantee to Michigan citizens a truly "balanced" legislature.
8. Improved basic enactments on finance and taxation which will permit short-term borrowing of substantial amounts of money at periods during the year when the state traditionally experiences lower monthly revenues.

☆

NO SIGNIFICANT changes are made in people's right to amend the new document. The process will be substantially the same as in the present constitution.

The question to be submitted to the voters at Monday's election is a simple one—"Shall the revised Constitution be adopted?"

If the proposal receives a favorable majority, the new document would become effective on Jan. 1, 1964. The first election for four-year terms under the new constitution would be in November of 1966.

OUR READERS WRITE

(Editor's note—City Council authorized Attorney James Beardsley to draw up an ordjnance to govern dancing in proceedings March 4.

Complaints were made about teenagers' dancing Sunday morning in a downtown business place.)

TO THE EDITORS:

I read in the Daily Telegram where the council is stopping the teen-agers from dancing in restaurants and other public places due to many complaints from parents or people of the area.

These teen-agers sure are taking a beating from a few fuddy-duddies, who probably as teenagers sneaked around and done many things their parents didn't approve of.

At least these teen-agers were doing their dancing in public with no shame or guilt, which I think people should be proud of.

Some of these righteous people probably sneak in the back door of the bars down-town so nobody will see them drinking and carrying on themselves.

Leave the teen-agers alone that dance in public and crack down on the ones who are afraid to carry out their evenings in public and the whole area and city will be far better off.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Depression is really a failure in salesmanship.

In modern society this means a failure in advertising. For, advertising is the only form of salesmanship which can move goods to the mass market which automated industry supplies.

Good selling has the same effect on business activity in a community as new money from outside sources.

Effective salesmanship unleashes savings and energy which are inactive when demand is low. Neither tax cuts nor higher individual incomes automatically stimulate production and sales.

American communities have always made progress when people demanded new and better goods vigorously enough to assure fulfillment of demands.

Today, when business is slack in a city the cause can rarely be traced to a shortage of savings or credit. More likely, a recession, local or national, may be traced to saturation of demand.

Nations such as the United States and Canada, which are always capable of overproduction, experience depressions only when the will to consume drops and distribution stagnates.

The retailer, as well as the manufacturer, will wait in vain for better business unless he makes the first move with more and better advertising.

10 Outstanding Citizens of State Will Be Cited

On the 10th anniversary of Michigan Week, 10 outstanding, state leaders will be cited for voluntary and meritorious contributions to the enrichment of Michigan life during the past decades.

Nominations from the public are sought for individual leaders —men and women—throughout the state who have made significant contributions to the educational, religious and cultural advancement of Michigan.

The leadership contributions to be recognized should have been made between Jan. 1, 1954 and Jan. 1, 1963—a period during which nine previous Michigan Week programs have been observed.

Any citizen of Michigan is eligible to be nominated.

The Citizen Leadership Awards was advocated as a method of focusing national attention on the state's advancement in the fields of education, religion and culture.

Nominations may be submitted by individual citizens or by groups such as members of a church, college, school, cultural organization, business association, community council, etc. All nominations should be signed and include mailing address and telephone number of person signing the nomination.

All are requested to mail their nominations by April 30, to the Greater Michigan Foundation, 520 Cherry St., Lansing 33, or to submit nominations by that date to the local Michigan Week chairman in their community.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Every once in a while we find a shopping list, one of those little slips of paper with things written on it to remind a woman of where she is going, what to get and do when she gets there. They are always interesting, for instance the one yesterday has listed: nuts, cheese, olives, paper napkins, shoes shine, City Hall, carrots, teeth (Dentist), cookies, shorts, size 38 or 40 steak or roast or boiling, curtains, garden rake, Library, Hospital, if time . . .

Now you will have to admit this covers a multitude of things but we would like to add one more . . . Clinton Woolen. As you might know we would put it at the very top! And, of course, you know the reason is, we have so many new spring things to show you.

You have evidently noticed the newness in knit suits this season. We know of no garment that looks so well on all women, that is so right for most occasions, and that is both smart and practical.

Whether you prefer wool or orlon we offer a selection in both. While you are looking be sure and see the two piece Tara Tweed suits at $19.95 with coordinating blouses at $5.95. The dazzle of spring white or the pastel of your choice.

We have been told our collection of all-weather coats is more varied than many of the big city stores. This makes us feel good because it is exactly what we set out to do. Stop and take a look before heading for the big town, the chances are you will save time and money.

Meyers Worked Hard for Honors

Phoenix "100" Air Race at Deer Valley Arizona was taken over by Meyers Aircraft planes in the nation's first stock airplane race.

Running in first place was a Meyers 200B, flown by W. C. Brodebeck of Bakersfield, Calif. He is the firm's sales representative on the west coast.

Second place went to a Meyers 200B, piloted by Mels Stickney of New York.

Finishing third was a Meyer 200 A with Ken Worth of Great Falls, Mont. at the controls.

Eligible to enter were four-place planes of not more than 260 horsepower, flown at 100% power for approximately 35 minutes.

The winning ship set a world's record.

☆

DURING time trials the Meyer's 200's captured three of the top four entries. Eleven planes entered the semi-finals.

Two laps of the pylon course were necessary to get all planes into position for the first semi-final. Two Meyers planes won at 191.25 mph and 184.54 mph.

The second heat resulted in the third Meyers plane winning at 189.63 mph.

Seven planes qualified for the finals. The Meyers planes clocked 198.78 mph, 194.80 mph, and 192 mph respectively. The times were averages per hour for 100 miles.

The races were conducted around six pylons on a five mile closed course.

PARTICIPANTS in the Phoenix "100" National Stock Airplane Race came from all parts of the nation.

Gathered in Phoenix were undoubtedly the top professional racers.

Highest men in aviation throughout the nation had taken time off to be officials or pilot a plane.

Newsmen from some of the nation's leading magazines were on hand.

The stage had been set for the first of what many hoped to make one of the main sporting events in the nation yearly.

The race offered wonderful opportunity to aviation manufacturers to display their products.

☆

THE NORTHWEST Flyer, largest aviation newspaper in the world, stated that Meyers Aircraft did just this.

Factory personnel were on hand with three planes entered in the competition.

Pilots and crews worked feverishly on the aircraft to bring them up to perfection for the races.

Gas was carefully allotted for each race, and the planes were polished and repolished.

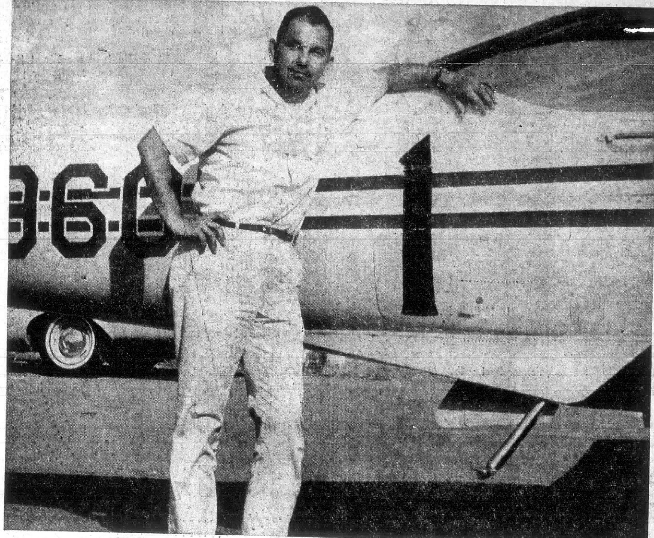

Props were waxed and all excess removed.

☆

QUITE obvious to all spectators was the fact that this was the only manufacturing organization bent on showing off their product to the best of their ability.

Through their efforts Meyers Co. gained the respect and gratitude of all.

There is hope that the rest of the industry will get off the dime and join Meyers Aircraft next year in showing the public what a modern aircraft and equipment can do, stated the newspaper.

THE WINNER — Bill Brodebeck of Bakersfield, Calif. poses with his Meyers 200 Monoplane after winning the first Phoenix "100" stock airplane race. Brodebeck, who distributes the fast flying Meyers airplanes in three states, won the Phoenix "100" with an average speed of 198.78 miles per hour . . . March 9 and 10 at Deer Valley Airport, Phoenix, Arizona.

For Sam, 13 Is a Lucky Number

Genial Sam Hamilton loves his Britton Tories. His four-year record as their head tutor is quite amazing — 84 victories and only 19 loses. In the past two winters Britton was 43 and 1. When Sam is asked his favorite number, there isn't a moment's hesitation. It's 13. This was Sam's 13th year of basketball coaching and by far his most rewarding. His squad went undefeated, won the Michigan Class D championship and he saw rangy Phil Benedict named to the All-Tournament team, as well as being chosen first five All-State by both the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press. It all goes to prove that "nice guys do finish first."

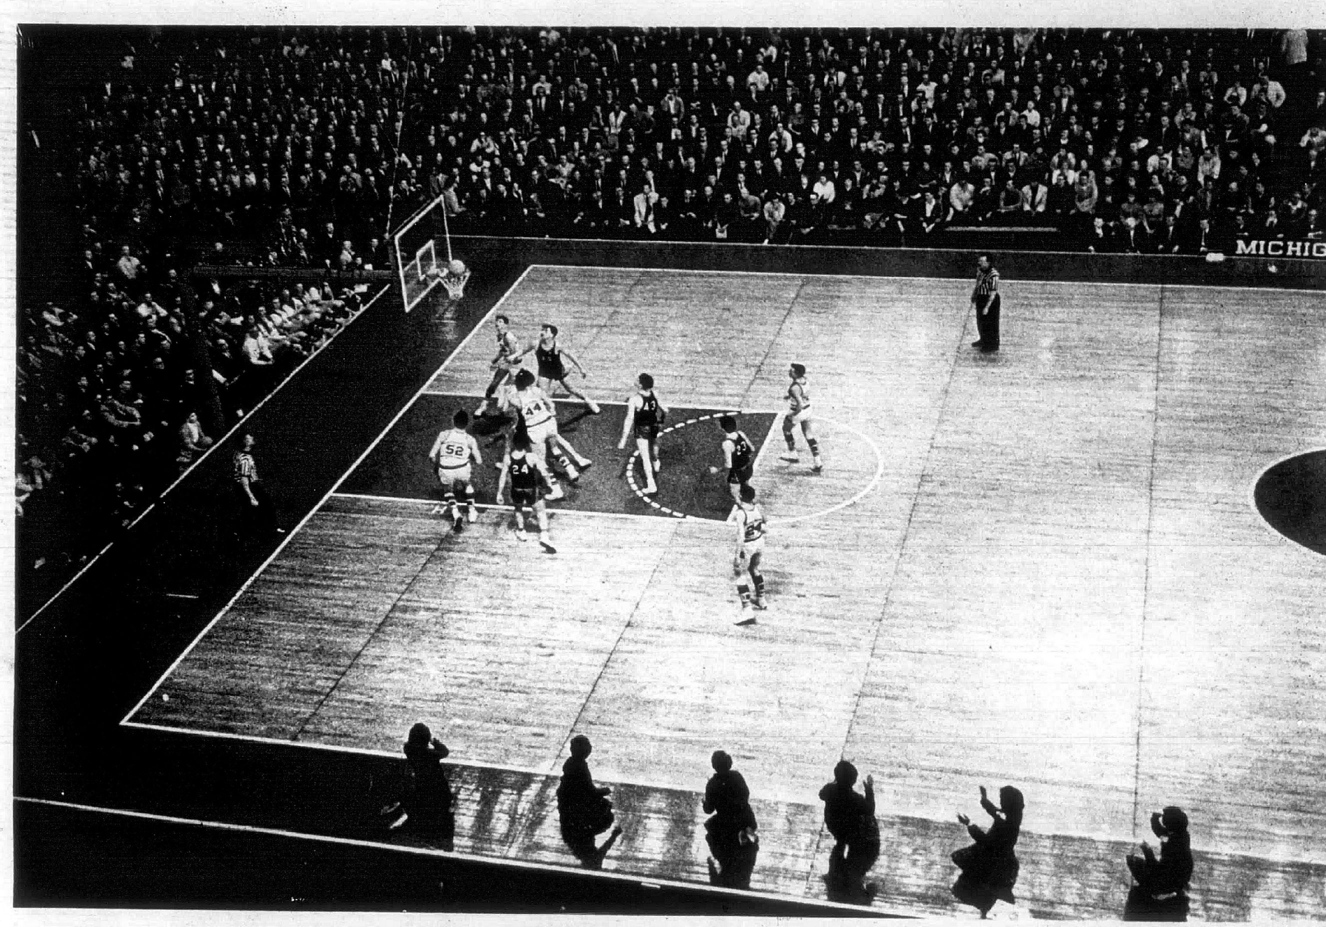

FRONT COVER—Coach Sam Hamilton accepts state championship trophy from Lynn Bartlett, Michigan superintendent of public instruction. LOWER LEFT — The clock shows 10 seconds to play with Britton ahead 58-56 and Pepper Griewahn about to make the winning free toss. Semi-Final Action

Brethren Fell 67-51

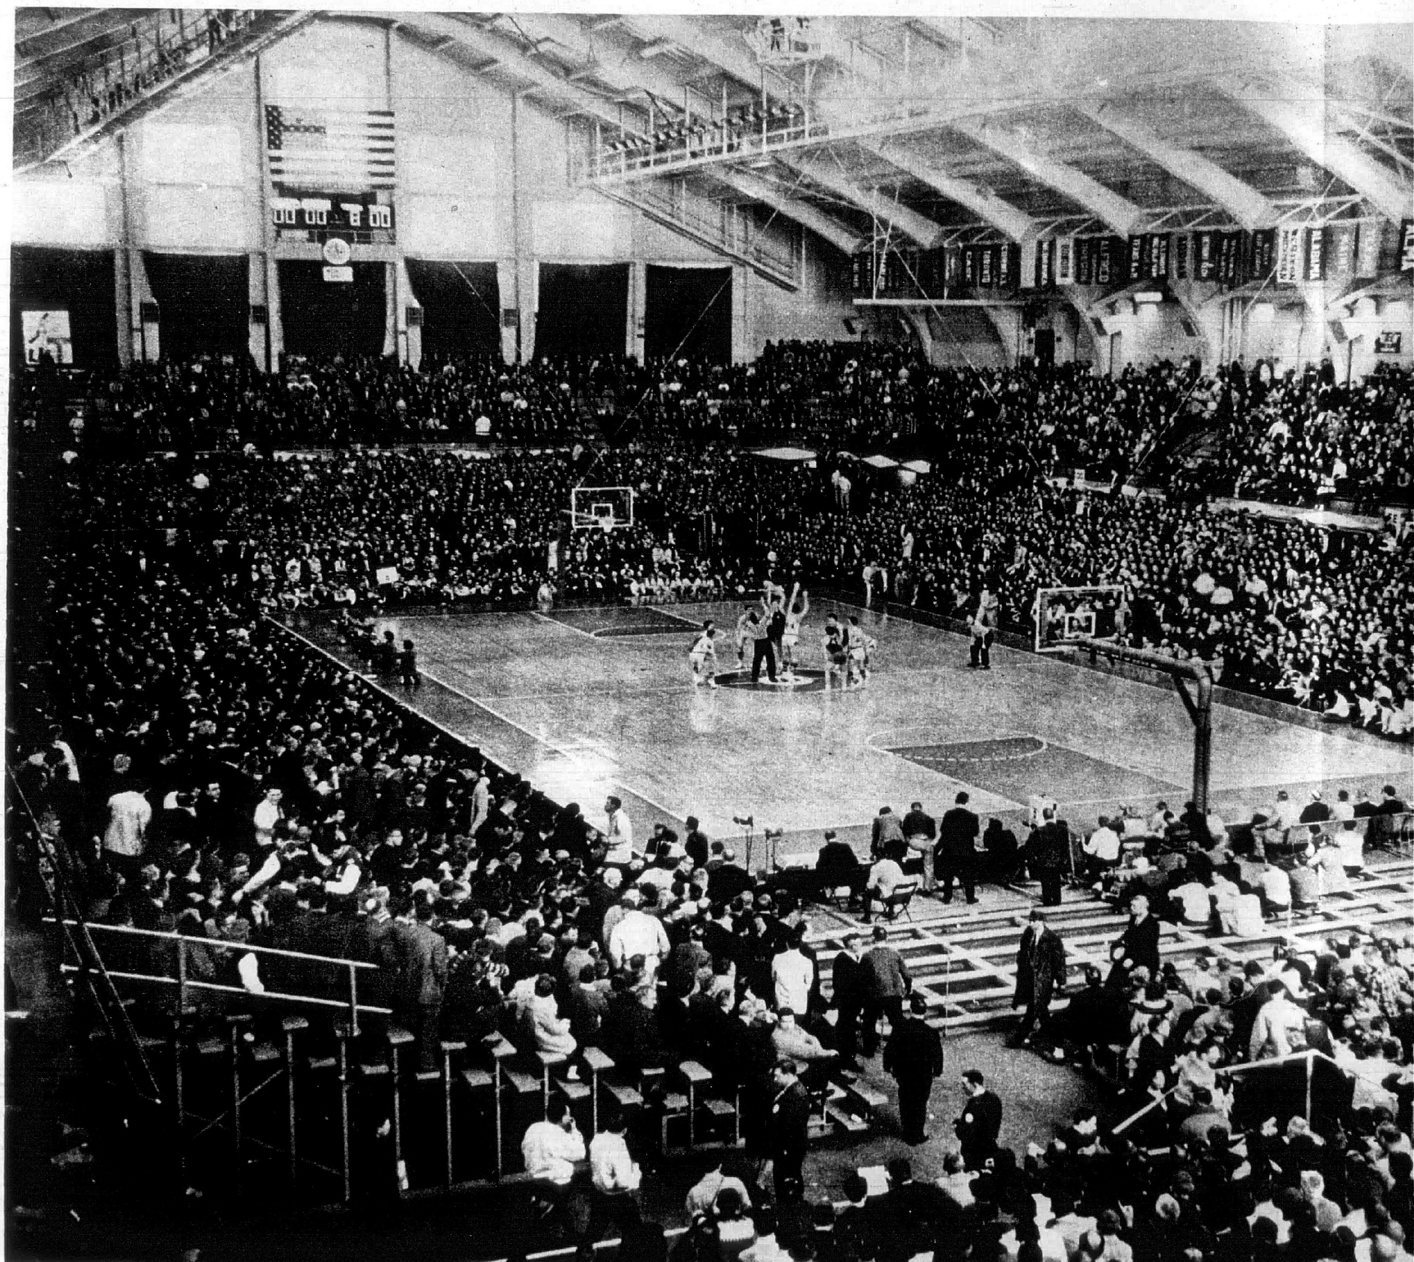

ABOVE -- Ken Southwell, burly 6'4" senior forward, lobs in a free toss in the semi-final win over Brethren. Ken's action was limited in the fray because of a touch of flu, but he gave everything he had when called on by Coach Hamilton.

Hustle, Teamwork Turns Tide

In its semi-final test, Britton-Macon passed with flying colors. Playing a well-paced game, the Tories nipped Brethren Norman-Dickson, a tiny school located near Manistee, 67-51. Tory height was a factor as the Britton crew snagged 49 rebounds to 30 for Brethren, but it was Britton's hustle and team work that turned the tide. Senior Ken Southwell, although dogged with the flu bug, turned in some fine action, netted eight of 10 free throw tosses. Phil Benedict led the scorers with 24, Southwell had 13 and Tom Komon 11.

AT LEFT -- Tom Komon had a tremendous night against Brethren and this was one of his scoring efforts during the semi-final action Friday.

Michigan State Un

THE BIG ONE

Playing in giant Michigan State's Jenison Field House before 12,375 screaming spectators, mighty Britton-Macon captured the first state basketball championship in school history by stopping gallant Negaunee St. Paul, 59-58. The Tories had to over-come a variety of bad breaks — including four personal fouls on star Phil Benedict before the half — but they never stopped hustling. It was a great team victory as seven Tories played key roles. Clutch baskets in the final seconds by Fred McCrate and Benedict, topped with a free throw by Tom Komon, brought the giant gold trophy and state tourney title to Britton.

Kathy Bailey's anguish was mirrored by several thousand Tory fans.

Oh How They Cheered

They lived and died with every bit of action on the floor, those lovely Tory cheer leaders. Their bright red sweaters and plaid skirts added a flash of sideline color to every game. When the last contest was over, they dashed onto the Jenison Field House court to hug their newly-crowned state champions.

Judy Rohrback prays that Pepper Grienwahn's free toss will drop, then peeks to see it click.

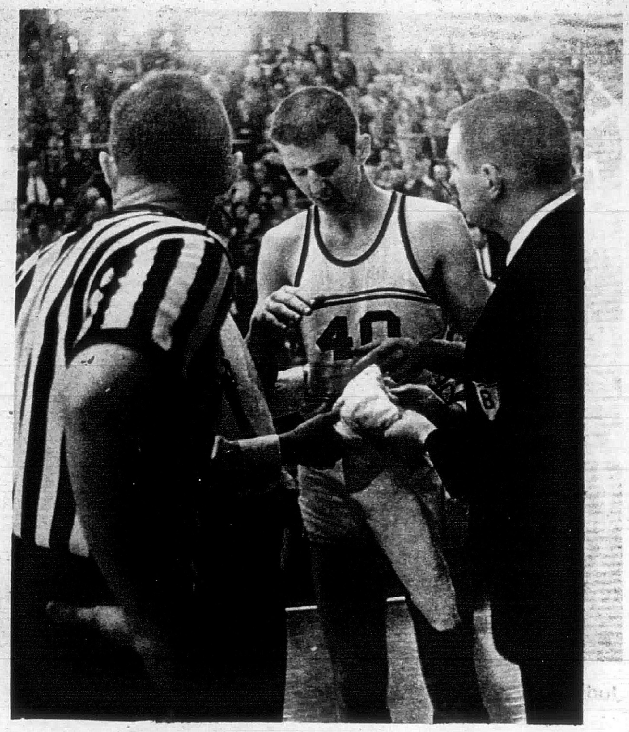

With 1:13 left to go and the Tories down by two, can you blame Connie Godzina and Diane Bailey for being concerned?

AT RIGHT
There were only a few seconds to play when Britton's Tom Komon took an elbow in the face. Coach Hamilton (behind referee) and his assistant, John Korican (right) hustled to Tom's aid.

AT LEFT
Diane Bailey is happy with referee's decision, while the coach does a steady pace in front of the Tory bench.

A split second after the siren sounded, the gals were the first to congratulate the 1963 Class D title-winners.

It Was a Wet Finish

After weeks of tournament tension, the final soaking in Michigan State's varsity basketball shower room was relaxing. Ahead was a fabulous welcome celebration in the old home town.

Coach Hamilton should be used to those dunkings following tourney wins and he certainly enjoyed this one, right after the victory over spunky little Negaunee St. Paul.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

In one of those treasured moments of life, a dad took a Sunday afternoon walk into the country with his 11-year-old son.

There was a mist in the air, but neither minded. Nor did the chubby springer spaniel which galloped along with them.

They came to what, only a few weeks ago, had been a dry marsh and discovered it was under nearly a foot of water.

The boy looked for frogs. The dog, by nature a hunter, dug into muskrat holes near the pond's edge, then soon was half submerged in the water, paddling happily about as if to say, "Spring! Ah, spring."

Warm in an old Air Force surplus jacket, the dad stood silently nearby. This was an afternoon he knew he would want to remember.

When the boy had grown and become a father himself, when the dog had long-since been buried, the afternoon would vividly come to life in the mind of the dad. When the rain would come in mists, he would remember.

As the dad daydreamed, he glanced skyward. Two ducks were circling the pond from about 200 feet.

"Look, son, those ducks are checking out the pond. Maybe they're scouts for a whole flight."

When the dad spoke there was excitement in his voice.

The birds, their wings stroking gracefully, made a broad turn, then headed straight north. Maybe they're going on, the dad thought forelornly to himself.

The boy was looking for long twigs, which suddenly turned into spears. He was hurling them into the pond at imaginary targets.

"We'd better get back," the father announced, but the youth was engrossed in his play.

The dad took a few steps homeward, then paused. As he did his eyes were drawn across the pond by two objects—the ducks, they had flown about half a mile, swung back around the grove of trees west of the pond and now were coming in for a landing.

Their pattern of descent engrossed the dad, who called hoarsely to the boys. "The ducks, the ducks. They're back and they're going to land. Watch 'em come in boy. Aren't they beautiful."

The landing was perfection itself, webbed feet extending stiffly, slapping the water in unison.

Frogs croaked as darkness started to drop over the scene like a curtain. Two men—one young, one old—and a dog began to climb the hill leading from the pond.

In the corn field, which started at the top, there was a sudden rustle of wings, a pheasant took off 50 yards away and flew high into a tree at the edge of the field.

The dad led them towards the tree for a closer look, although the fading light had turned everything into silhouettes. The boy insisted bravely that he would try to capture the bird.

They didn't even get close when the bird retraced its jaunt of moments before, flying back into the middle of the corn. But even this brief view of the pheasant was rewarding.

Once back in the warmth of their home, the hikers became immersed in the Sunday papers and television.

But the dad was only half paying attention. He knew even then that the afternoon with his son would be a memory to treasure.

Presbyterians To Celebrate 135th Anniversary

Sunday, April 7, the 135th anniversary of the organizing of the First Presbyterian Church in Tecumseh, will be observed during the 11 a.m. worship service.

The service will be longer than usual with the observation of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper and a guest speaker.

Dr. Samuel Weir, executive secretary of the Synod of Michigan, has been invited to participate in the communion service and to deliver the morning sermon.

Dr. Weir has held both the highest and second highest elective offices in the Presbyterian Church.

Moderator of the General Assembly in 1953-54, he was vice-moderator prior to that time. In 1948-49 he served as chairman of the Special Committee on Consolidation during the merger of the Presbyterian Church, USA and the United Presbyterian Church of North America.

He was the organizing pastor of the Littlefield Boulevard United Presbyterian Church, Dearborn, and served that congregation 31 years before coming executive secretary for the Synod of Michigan.

Following the worship service, there will be a dinner, by reservation only, in the Fellowship Center of the church.

Presbyterianism came to Tecumseh in the fall of 1825 with the arrival of the Reverend Noah M. Wells, who conducted the first worship service in the newly created town.

In the fall of 1826, the Rev. Alanson Darwin began regular services, and action was initiated with the Home Missionary Board to formally organize into a congregation.

This arrangement was made and April 6, 1828, a religious society was incorporated with the title, "First Presbyterian Church."

The first building used by the new congregation was called the Session House.

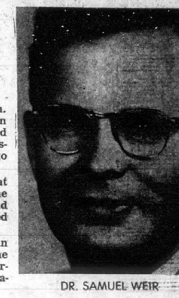

Located on the northwest corner of Chicago Blvd. and Maumee St. behind the present City Hall, construction was started in 1833. The building was dedicated in 1837.

By the time this building was completed, plans had already been made for a new church. Work began in 1837 on a church building that was similar in appearance and arrangement to old St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Completed and dedicated in 1840 this building was located on the same ground as the Session House, and faced Chicago Blvd.

In 1863 the present site at Chicago Blvd. and Maiden Lane was purchased. The present and sanctuary building completed and dedicated in 1869.

The pastor, the Rev. Julian Gresham invites friends of the church to participate in this service of communion and observation.

DALE GRANGER (THIRD FROM LEFT) CONFERS WITH WATERSHED SURVEY COMMITTEEMEN

Officials Tour Watershed

Six Michigan officials representing as many state boards and commissions, toured the River Raisin watershed last week.

Their job is to analyze the entire waterway and come up with findings and recommendations regarding the proposed reclamation program.

Heading up the survey team is Dale Granger, a hydraulic engineer for the Water Resources Commission.

The six-man group, officially called the Watershed Technical Review Committee, is acting in behalf of the State Soil Conservation Commission.

☆

MR. GRANGER led the sextet on a two-day junket, which started Thursday in Adrian, where the south branch of the watershed, Bear and Black Creeks were examined.

Then they toured the main part of the Raisin, all the way to Monroe, coming back up the Saline River area and Macon Creek.

Friday morning they held hearings in Adrian and Tecumseh, then resumed the river inspection, going from Tecumseh to Palmyra, then up through Clinton and into Manchester.

At the gatherings and all along the Raisin they chatted with citizens, trying to size up the interest in a major undertaking, which would provide a series of man-man lakes by damming the Raisin at a variety of points — maybe as high as 30.

They have to take into consideration the effect the project would have on existing land rights, water tables and possible flood control.

The committeemen returned to Lansing Friday afternoon and are currently engaged in a series of meetings. They expect to have preliminary recomendations about the middle of April.

☆

OTHER members include:

► Bill Cutler, drainage engineer from the Michigan State University Agriculture Engineering Dept.

► Earl Fenton, assistant state conservationist, U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

► Russ Hill, executive secretary State Soil Conservation Committee, who is acting for Gov. Romney.

► Hathaway Hanes, engineer with the Conservation Dept.

► Stan Quackenbush, drainage engineer for the Department of Agriculture.

There's no charge for the city pick-up service, or for use of the city dump for trash only. The dump's open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Market Refuses To Close

Enforcement of the state's new closing hours for retailers came under security Tuesday night at Council when Joe Mannino, owner of Joe's Market, asked city officials their position in regard to the new law.

Large retailers, such as Country Market, Inc. and the one mentioned at the meeting, must close one day a week, according to the new law.

Police Chief Murell Clark said Country Market, Inc. stayed open Sunday and had informed the police of its intentions prior to Sunday. According to Chief Clark, Country Market planned to make it a contested case.

Councilman Carl Lamb also asked about enforcement of the new law.

Attorney James Beardsley asked to investigate the problem and report his findings at the next meeting.

IN OTHER action, Council:

Hamilton Polls 929 Votes, Tops in Council Race

Puffer	198	255	241	694
McCombs	176	255	228	659

Two incumbents a former councilman and a newcomer—were elected to Tecumseh City Council Monday in only a fair turnout of voters.

John Hamilton and Robert Bonner were returned to Council for two-year terms. Ex-councilman George McCombs received a one-year term.

Raymond Puffer, in his first try for public office, gained a seat on Council for two years.

Royal Welch, incumbent, lost as did Robert Wood.

Local interest in the Council race, plus the new Constitution undoubtedly accounted for 1,268 voting, not as large as general state and national elections, but larger than some past turnouts.

Tecumseh voters approved the new Constitution 812 to 347.

Ernie Oliver unopposed for Justice of Peace, polled 864 votes.

The election cost the city about $700, or about 55c per vote.

If patience is rewarded, Terry Packard would surely be a winner Terry, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Packard, 511 S. Evans St., stopped at the Herald office every afternoon for the past month to inquire about new highway maps.

Friday, he was met by the office girl with a "yes" instead of the usual head-shake to inform him the maps were not in yet.

City Property Valuation Climbs $614,100

By JIM LINCOLN

New city evaluations for personal property and real estate for 1963 have increased within the city limits by $614,100.

T. J. Wagner, city assessor, reported the change by letter to Council Tuesday night.

Most of the increase resulted from the construction of the Faraday plant, six new houses and the new medical building near the hospital.

Although the city hall will definitely benefit from the change, school officials have their fingers crossed as to what they will receive.

City Manager Cal Zorn said the city will receive an additional $6,700, based on 11 mills.

☆

THE SCHOOLS will be helped—but possibly by lessening a loss of $17,000 or $18,000 to $15,000.

Norval Bovee, school business manager, says the increase also could increase school revenue by $10,000 for operating and about $5,000 for bond indebtedness.

Townships have indicated taking more millage this year as has the County superintendent's office. This coupled with a disallowance in the differential of this lost millage—townships and superintendent's office — could cost the schools $15,000, or about $3,000 less, without the city evaluation increase.

☆

IF EVERYTHING remains the same, the schools would get more money, with the library netting about $200, or about $465 if the 6 mill is passed in June.

Mr. Bovee says the schools will not know exactly what the increase will do until after the County Allocation Board meets, later this month, and after state equalized evaluation figures are released.

Faraday Sale Is Now Official

Officially, the name is now Faraday, Division of The Gray Manufacturing Co.

That became the case Monday when the sale of all Faraday, Inc. assets to Gray for $900,000 was approved by Judge Alfred L. Lunongo in Federal district court at Philadelphia.

The sale had been conditionally OKed Feb. 19 by the court.

James E. Ashman, board chairman of Gray, said "We see substantial mutual advantages to both Gray and Faraday in this new relationship.

"Both are old, well established names in the electro-mechanical field — Faraday specializing in signals and systems since 1875 and Gray in communications equipment and dictating machines dating back to 1888.

"Both product lines make use of similar production facilities and use comparable manufacturing and assembly techniques and both companies have become increasingly identified with electronics in their recent product development.

"We intend to maintain both product lines and, at least for the present, both manufacturing facilities in Hartford and Tecumseh," Mr. Ashman said.

"One of the major advantages of acquiring Faraday will be gained in fuller utilization of their fine new manufacturing plant in Tecumseh," he added.

Faraday management remains in charge of the Tecumseh plant and will be responsible to Albert H. Caesar, Gray vice president in charge of operations.

Frederick J. Worden will continue as Faraday general manager and Roy Olson as controller.

Farmers Will Grow Peas This Spring

BRITTON—Peas will be an important crop this spring to 10 area farmers this spring.

They have been contracted by the Lake Odessa Canning Co. to plan 900 bushels of seeds over about 300 acres on the various farms.

Lee Taylor trucked in the bags of seeds Monday and they'll soon be going into the ground for June harvesting.

☆

LAKE ODESSA Canning, located on M-50, about 100 miles northwest, has 3,000 acres of land slated for pea planting on farms near that community. Company officials are working south in hopes of picking up about a week in growing time.

The peas will be harvested by special rigs, owned by the company, then placed in tank trucks and taken to Lake Odessa for processing.

Dale Shetterly, a representative of the canning company, said the peas are going to be frozen into 1,300-pound pallets and then sold to Campbell Soup Co.

The certified seed was bagged in Moscow, Idaho.

Bids for Post Office Building Being Asked

The Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease the new post office at Tecumseh, Postmaster General J. Edward Day announced today.

Under the Department's lease-construction program, the site selected on the southwest corner of Chicago Blvd. and Maumee St. will be assigned to the successful bidder.

The firm must purchase the property, construct the building according to departmental specifications and lease it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of 20 years, with options to renew the lease for an additional 20 years.

Because Tecumseh is located in a redevelopment area eligible to take part in the new Area Redevelopment Administration's program, Mr. Day said, the project will be of particular value.

It will provide needed employment during the construction phase. It will also add to Tecumseh's modernization efforts to attract new industry, he said.

THE DEPARTMENT'S capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents will be available on or about April 1, 1963.

They may be obtained from John Jehowski, Real Estate Officer, Post Office Department, Room 912, General Post Office Building, Detroit 32, Mich.

The real estate officer will supply bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other information.

Bids must be submitted to the Real Estate Officer by May 15, 1963.

Baptist Youths To Be Dedicated at Sunday Service

A feature of the 11 a.m. service Sunday at the First Baptist Church will be the dedication of children and special music by the choir, directed by Prof. Blaine Ballard.

The sermon topic will be, "An Unavoidable Choice Faces Our Jerusalem Too."

In the 9th Chapter of Luke's Gospel at the 51st verse we read, "He set his face to go to Jerusalem." As the Lord came to this City, several people were forced to make decisions either for or against Him.

"I should think Pilate showed kinship to us as he tried to side-step the issue before him," said the Rev. B. O. Bashore Tuesday.

"Jesus once said, 'he that is not with me is against me,' Palm Sunday dramatizes the impossibility of neutrality on lifes great issues," continued Mr. Bashore.

"God's moral law demands of each of us that we throw our life either with Righteousness or indecision and failure.

"Hold any theory about Christ you wish, still there He stands announcing a way of life that men have proved to be good and right," said Mr. Bashore.

"Zachaeus, the tax collector, as he came face to face with Jesus, was forced to make the choice. Nicodemus, the young ruler, made his choice too."

"Before this world finds peace and happiness, the cry that welcomed our Lord to the city gates must swell to such unanimous accord that all opposing cries are drowned in its greeting," stated Mr. Bashore and added.

"Join us Sunday as we say, 'Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the highest!'"

Extension of Service Considered

A public hearing for a proposed extended area service for General Telephone subscribers in the Tecumseh, Tipton and Adrian sections has been scheduled by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The hearing will be in the commission's Lansing offices on April 15 at 10:30 a.m.

According to the release read to Council Monday night, Tecumseh and Adrian subscribers' rates would not be increased—at least not at this time.

However, Tipton subscribers would move into a different phone classification and a rate increase would be made.

The new service, if approved, would enable subscribers in the three areas to place calls on a local instead of long distance classification.

Tipton phone patrons were to receive notices April 4, of General Telephone's intentions.

School Note

Tecumseh Public Schools will close after school Thursday, April 11, for a spring vacation.

Classes will be resumed Monday, April 22.

The curtains make it possible for film strips to be shown for workshops and neighborhood meetings of the Irish Hills Girls Scout Council.

Several troops contributed toward the purchase of the material.

Bicycle inspections for tagging and licensing will be held this Saturday at Meadowridge Dairy by the Tecumseh police and the Kiwanis Club.

According to city ordinance, the bikes must be inspected and licensed. Fee is 50c.

Catholic high school students recently completed a three-day retreat.

The retreat is often described as an opportunity to take time for a good look at one's self.

Analysis of faults and determination of future self-improvement are the main considerations.

The Rev. Father John George, a priest specializing in work with crippled children, conducted the retreat in which 103 students took part.

An interesting sideline developed after the retreat when suggestion cards were turned in.

The students expressed wishes for this to be an annual event and suggested that it also be held for parents.

How Politicians Think

Some months ago, we editorialized that the reason the Democrats were so intent in defeating the proposed new state constitution was actually a matter of polical logic.

The situation had evolved to this simple formula:

1. Romney helped write New-Con.
2. Romney can devil Democratic party in 1968 presidential election, if he continues to gain stature with state and nation.
3. A vote for New-Con is a plug for Romney.
4. Defeat New-Con and you rap Romney.
5. A battered Romney won't make too many troubles in '68.

Democratic leaders knew they were gambling big on this one. For what if New-Con won?

As we now know, the issue was approved. The margin was oh-so-slim, but in election like sports, it matters not the score, but who has the biggest total.

Now the Republican logic takes over:

1. A New-Con victory enhances the Romney image.
2. Romney is spured on to bigger things.
3. The Romney image glimmers and sparkles.
4. Romney for sure in '68 on the presidential scene.

If the breaks keep coming his way—and most of the breaks are his making by dint of hard work and intelligent planning—we shouldn't be too surprised if No. 4 in Republican logic comes true.

Junior High Schedule Changed

The Junior High School which has operated on a shorter schedule of one hour per day for the last two years because of lack of funds to operate all programs will return to a full six-hour day for 1963-64.

The Junior and Senior High Schools will have the same length of day, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

School Hours — 1963-64

Macon, Tipton and Ridgeway
8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m.
12 noon-2 p.m.

Tecumseh Acres, Patterson, Herrick Park and West Branch
8:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m.
12:30 p.m.-2:30 p.m.

Junior and Senior High
8 a.m.-12 noon
1:15 p.m.-3:15 p.m.

Kindergarten-Ridgeway
8:30 a.m.-11 a.m.
11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.

Kindergarten-Tecumseh Acres, Herrick Park and Patterson
8:30 a.m.-11 a.m.

Changes in curriculum of Tecumseh Junior High School approved by the school board involve moving the Michigan and U. S. History course from the 7th to the 8th grade.

Shop and Home and Family Living course will drop 8th to the 7th grade.

Group Guidance in the 7th grade has been replaced by World Geography. 10 weeks exploratory foreign language has been added to the 7th grade.

The 8th grade will have one elective class from the following: band, foreign language, boys industrial arts, girls homemaking, art and chorus.

Special provision will be made for band students wishing to elect a foreign language.

The Board of Education has decided to purchase only enough busses to keep the fleet at 16 busses with one spare.

Since it is impossible to transport all children at once, staggered schedules will enable all students to reach school.

The Administrative Council of schools presented the plan to the Board of Education for the new year although some minor changes will be necessary in the fall.

Macon, Ridgeway and Tipton schools will shorten lunch periods to one-half hour since few children walk to these schools.

Tecumseh Acres, Herrick Park, Patterson and West Branch schools, all having bus pupils enrolled, will take an hour for lunch.

Children living within seven tenth of a mile will walk home for lunch.

The kindergarten schedules eliminate special bus trips necessary at the present time to pick up students in the morning and to take them home at night. These pupils will ride the regular elementary busses.

The Board hopes that savings in operating funds will be enabled by these changes.

1600 pupils must be transported economically over 90 square miles of school district on 16 busses.

Individual bus schedules will be issued to parents and pupils before school opens in the fall.

Tips in Coaching Young Baseball Players Given

ANN ARBOR — The man who undertakes to coach pre-teen boys in the finer points of Little League baseball should expect some athletic deficiencies, a University of Michigan educator says.

Associate Prof. Nelson G. Lehsten, head of physical education and himself a sometime boys' baseball coach, cites three observations from his own experience:

► Many boys at this age do not run well—not in terms of speed but pure mechanics of efficient movement.

► A majority of the boys at this level do not throw well.

► Some of the boys do not have the alertness and power of concentration to focus attention on what they are doing.

Mr. Lehsten recalls a typical remark by one of the fathers: "This is a fine experience for my boy, but do you know that he never tried to throw or bat a baseball until last weekend when he coaxed me out into the yard for a lesson after he had been assigned to the team."

☆

THE U OF M educator describes one approach he found successful: "In working with the boys throughout the season, we tried to help them with basic skills of baseball.

"Effort was directed at helping them develop certain attitudes reflecting their awareness of their roles as members of a team, their assumption of pride and satisfaction in performance at a level in keeping with their maturity, and recognition of responsibilities in the care and proper use of their own and team equipment.

"At this stage we did not believe it desirable to work at the technical stages or strategies of the game—other than to emphasize a few pointers designed to minimize the injury potential.

"Needless to say, I was treated to quite a surprise by the execution of the 'hidden ball trick' and a 'pick-off' of a baserunner who had rounded first.

"Our philosophy of playing encouraged that the boys should play to win, but that in so doing, they play within the rules.

"We endeavored to insure reasonable participation at intervals where in such changes would not detract from the group effort in a manner which might shift undue focus or pressure upon an individual who might enter the game."

☆

THE READINESS of a boy of 9 or 10 "is not so much of a physical concern as it is mental,,, Mr. Lehsten adds.

"He must have the maturity to remain alert on the field or at bat. He must be able to focus attention on the activity and not become involved in looking for four-leaf clovers in the outfield or identifying aircraft overhead as he awaits the next pitch in the batter's box or on the base paths."

Mr. Lehsten differentiates between the opportunity for team membership and the right of participation.

"Simply satisfying an age requirement for team membership does not necessarily insure readiness for participation," he points out.

"As adults, we may do an injustice to a boy who can profit from membership within a group or on a team, but who may not be ready physically or psychologically to perform at the minimal ability level of the group Some boys are not ready and they know it as well as do their peers.

"For them it is the belonging—not the playing—that is important at that time."

Tennessee Wants Meyers Aircraft To Move There

Now Elizabeth, Tenn. has contacted Al Meyers in the hopes he might move his Tecumseh aircraft plant south.

In a letter from G. A. Bentley, industrial commissioner of the Tennessee city, Mr. Meyers was asked:

"Would your industry be interested in lower cost manufacturing and increased production, then please be advised that is the history of the new industries that have located a plant in the Elizabethton area of Tennessee.

"I wish to state for any industry so approved by my Directors, we can provide a strictly modern streamlined plant for your operations. Also, new modern machinery and plant equipment as well.

"Elizabethton is located in one of the best manufacturing sections of the State of Tennessee. Some of the nation's leading industries have plants in this area.

"We are establishing an Industrial Park here, one that will have an airstrip where planes can be brought up to the door of the new industry. We have most unusual rail and trucking facilities."

He concludes "The writer will be in the State of Michigan the entire week of April 8 and will be glad to call at your office without any obligation on your part whatsoever if requested to do so. "At that time I can fully advise on the proposition that we have to offer, also give you a copy of our General Industrial Survey Brochure which will give you full facts on the Elizabethton area of Tennessee.

Earlier, two Michigan cities, Alpena and Kalamazoo, made relocation pitches to Mr. Meyers.

HERALD HOBBY CORNER

She Weaves, He Woodworks

(Editor's note—this is the second in a series of Herald hobby stories. If you have an unusual hobby, or know someone who does, please call us.)

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"I got the bug 35 years before I got the loom" said Mrs. Don Hunt of Tipton as we talked of the weaving and woodworking hobbies she and her husband enjoy.

With members of the family, Mrs. Hunt went to Gatlinsburg. Tenn. in the Smoky Mts. where they saw beautiful hand woven draperies.

Mrs. Hunt continued, "Mountain women there weave in the winter and sell in the summer. It is fascinating.

When you see the things that can be made on a loom, you go wild about it."

After raising a family of four, the Hunts decided to move to the Smokies in pursuit of the fascinating weaving.

In 1955 they went to Topton, N. C., where they purchased the coveted loom from the man who had made it.

This same gentleman assisted Mr. Hunt with wood-working, an interest which he had always wanted to further.

After watching a wooden top spinning crazily, he made up his mind that he could do better than that.

He did, and now he makes them by the dozen, turning them out on two lathes in his workshop.

☆

The Hunts stayed only one year in the Smokies. When asked why, Mr. Hunt simply replied plaintively, "The kids were all here."

The Hunts are the parents of Ivan Hunt, sole owner of Frontier City located on M-50; Mrs. Robert N. Wright of 6536 N. Adrian Hwy., Mrs. Stanley Miller, 205 W. Russell Rd. and Mrs. Corleone Gore who lives at the Hunt residence.

They have 11 grandchildren. "Strange they didn't stay in the south". mused this Herald gal.

Back in Michigan, Mr. Hunt made two 36 inch looms and one 18 inch one for his wife, using the one they purchased as a pattern.

☆

Mrs. Hunt makes a variety of lovely materials using cotton, silk, wool, linen and synthetics to produce stoles, purses, place mats, aprons, dresses, table covers and many other articles.

Mr. Hunt, with a little experimentation, soon learned that he could use the looms for making rugs. So it is that frequently both looms are flying back and forth in the crafts room.

Mrs. Hunt has taken a few lessons in weaving from the Campbell Folk School in Brasstown N. C., also at Baldwin, N.C. and some in Dearborn.

As we watched, Mrs. Hunt gave us a demonstration of tabby weaving having 24 threads to the inch.

She uses a number of patterns including some called overshot, crackle and twills.

Last summer she made a dress in orange and black patterns and when a lady came along who looked better in it than Mrs. Hunt thought she did, she sold it for $10. Certainly this was the bargain to end all bargains.

☆

Besides his tops, Mr. Hunt makes ashtrays, salad bowls and other wooden items with his lathes, radial arm saw and a 12 inch planer.

As soon as the weather is a bit better he plans to take time out to complete a storm shelter on the porch of his daughter's home here in the city.

We became more convinced after a visit at the Hunt residence that hobbies are a definite must for the senior citizens as well as the younger people.

Brownies 'Fly-Up' in Tipton

In a "Fly-Up" ceremony March 25 Troops No. 156 and No. 358 held a combined ceremony in the Tipton Church social rooms.

The Flag ceremony was put on by Mrs. Douglas Murdoch's Intermediate troop of Tecumseh, who came out to "Fly-Up" the Brownies.

The Brownies sang the Hell-o song to the guests after which a candle ceremony was given, with Mrs. Richard Van Sickle lighting the large candle representing the Spirit of Scouting. The three candles representing the 3 points of the Girl Scout Promise were lit by Mrs. Wallace Wilkin, Mrs. Raymond Stockinger and Mrs. Dean Cook. Candles representing the 10 Girl Scout Laws were each lit by a Brownie.

The Tecumseh troop led each Brownie across a bridge and gave them their "Wings". The Pins were then presented by Mrs. Raymond Stockinger to her nine members of Troop No 156 and by Mrs. Dean Cook to the nine Brownies of her troop No. 358.

The program ended with all the Scouts singing "Girl Scouts Together" after which the Tipton Scouts sang their song.

Refreshments were served to the guests and mothers from a tea table centered with a replica of a Girl Scout, made by Mrs. Wallace Wilkin, flanked by yellow candles.

As the Scouts were dismissed from their "Friend-ship" circle each Scout was presented with a yellow daisy.

"I've never seen a father so proud and excited!"

THROUGH MY WINDOW

JEEPERS CREEPERS

Sincerest apologies — I realize this title is a terrible play-on-words. My only excuse is lack of will power. It is the safest bet in the world that when brown creepers are being discussed, sooner or later I am going to bring groans from the crowd by exclaiming "Jeepers Creepers."

Since it was bound to happen, I figured we might just as well get it out of the way right off the bat. Now perhaps we can settle down to business.

These little birds, barely over five inches from end-of-tail to tip-of-bill, could well be listed with our non-feeder visitors. Much as they love suet, not once this year have we seen one venture to the feeding station for a bite.

But, just let us take a shallow can-cover, fill it with melted suet and when hard, nail it to a tree —you can guess who the first customer is? A brown creeper. Not only is he the first but, as the food holds out, he is a regular and freqdent visitor.

It hardly seems there should be that much difference between suet on a tree trunk and suet on a feeder, does there? (The woodpeckers don't think so either.)

☆

THIS IS the age of specialization and our shy friend is a perfect example of specific adaption.

He is almost the ultimate in protective coloration — so unbelievably well does he match the color of a tree trunk that to see him one has to be looking right at him when he moves. A casual glance will never reveal his presence.

When they speak of blending in with a background, they are speaking of a brown creeper and a tree trunk.

The bird's fairly long bill is another highly efficient 'tool.' It is slender and de-curved, perfectly suited for probing in the crevices, cracks and grooves.

The creeper has little strength in his bill; he doesn't need it. The mainstays of his diet are the tiny insects and eggs he finds in rough tree bark—he doesn't bore or chip into the wood but instead, uses his bill to pick them from their hiding places.

Even the choice of nesting does not require a strong, wood-chiseling bill.

Come spring and family-raising time, the creepers fly off to some woodlot where dead trees are available.

There, occasionally in an old woodpecker's hole, but more often in a nest tucked beneath a large strip of hanging bark, the brown ones rear their young.

☆

THE BROWN creeper's tail deserves a little attention here because it, too, is designed for a special use. It is rather long, tapered and extremely stiff.

He uses it as a prop, literally sits on it and what a great help it must be as he clamors up the rough bark.

By the way, some books go so far as to say this little bird always climbs up a tree trunk. I dispute the always—usually, yes, but we have seen them come down occasionally.

Unlike a nuthatch who comes down head-first, the creeper backs down.

As a last good example, what bird is more aptly named? As mentioned before, he is brown in color and anyone who has watched him spiral up, or down, will, I am sure, label his gait creeping.

As he hitches along stopping now and then to extract a tasty tidbit, he simply has to be called a brown creeper.

So it is that our discussion of the little brown ones ends—may I be forgiven one last, "Jeepers Creepers!"

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Psychologically Speaking. Are you lower than low, uncomfortable, unhappy, unloved . . . uneverything? Well, if so, don't flit up to the attic and hang yourself . . . it is caused by your happiness cycle. You didn't know you had one? Well, neither did we until we read about it recently.

It seems our moods go in cycles ranging from top drawer to cellar stairs. The only thing to do is not to worry about it; make no important decisions while at the low ebb because anytime you will pull out and be on top of the world where nothing can touch you.

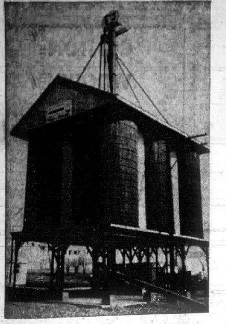

These cycles are supposed to last about six weeks, so why not make a test? Just make a note of the day everything goes wrong like when the plumbing springs a leak, the kids drive you crazy, you break a shoelace first thing, the boss turns down your pet idea and if you are a woman . . . your best friend says, "WHERE did you get that hat?"

Then watch closely and you will find in a few days things begin to change. The butcher gives you some extra suet, the boss's wife asks you to dinner, you par the golf hole that always gave you trouble, and again if you are a woman, junior want to know what the man next door meant when he said you were whistle bait. It is a nice world after all.

In the meantime, while you are coming and going out of this slump, we would suggest that you be prepared for the best and the worst by giving some serious thought to your spring wardrobe. No woman can be too depressed when she is well dressed and most men know it pays to dress right.

We have so many things to show you to brighten up your wardrobe as well as your spirits. Take a few moments and come over and browse. Whether you like your casual clothes ready-made or prefer to make your own we can serve you.

Psychologically speaking . . . we would say, "keep thyself well dressed and anything can happen!" We can help you with this and hope to be seeing you at Clinton Woolen.

BRITTON — Oliver and Robert Mueller of Mueller's Inc. 284 Osborne St., are holding open house this week. Being shown are new facilities including office, bagged fertilizer and farm chemicals, overhead bulk fertilizer storage. Overhead storage is for fast and easy loading.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: My 37-year-old husband was hurt in an accident a year ago. Before the accident he worked 12 years under social security. He hasn't looked into social security because he kept thinking he would be going back to work. Now it looks like he will never be able to work again. I want him to apply for social security disability insurance benefits but he has received conflicting advice. Some friends say he has to be 50 years old. Others tell him he can't get anything because we don't have any children. Just where does he stand?

ANSWER: Your husband should get in touch with the nearest social security district office as soon as possible. He does not have to be 50 years old, nor does he have to be father of a child. He must have worked under social security for a sufficient length of time and be unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity because of illness or disability. More facts would have to be available to give a more complete answer; but based upon the brief information given, your husband's situation is one that should be brought to the attention of the social security office without delay.

QUESTION' I have heard you must work under social security for a certain length of time to qualify for disability insurance benefits. What is the required length of time?

ANSWER: To be eligible, you must have worked under social security for at least 5 years, or, since social security credits are counted in units of calendar quarters of the year, in at least 20 calendar quarters. The 20 calendar quarters need not be consecutive, but they must generally speaking have been during a 10-year period ending in or after the calendar quarter in which you became disabled.

QUESTION: My uncle could probably qualify for disability benefits but he is bedfast and there is no social security office in the town where we live. How can I make sure he gets started toward applying for disability insurance payments?

ANSWER: You should ask at your local post office for the address of the social security district office serving your town. You or your uncle should then write or telephone the social security office and indicate he is disabled and interested in applying for social security disability insurance benefits. The district office will take whatever steps are necessary. It is not necessary that your uncle personally visit the social security office. You or some other friend or relative can do it for him if he is too ill.

QUESTION. Does social security pay anything for short-term illnesses, say 2 or 3 months?

ANSWER: Monthly disability insurance benefits are not payable if the illness is a temporary one and is expected to improve with time or futher medical treatment. A 2 or 3-month illness does not qualify one for monthly Federal disability benefits.

After the nine-week course is over, each group elects a representative to the Leadership Olympics.

At the Olympics each representative is alloted two minutes for a speech written and delivered by himself. Judges then decide who is the top of the three speakers.

Twenty-seven groups in all participated in the exercises.

Tory Athletes Honored

BRITTON — More praise was heaped on the state championship Tory basketball squad in the past few days.

There was the annual all-sports banquet Sunday, followed with a lavish parade and assembly Monday.

The march was staged by the members of the River Raisin League and included bands from the various schools.

Tory coaches, players and cheerleaders rode in cars furnished for the occasion by area auto dealers.

Following the parade, which started at the Congregational Church and wended its way down M-50 to the school, guests and student body jammed the high school gym for the program.

☆

A DAY PREVIOUS, the same gym was the scene of the annual athletic gathering, attended by 350.

High point of the affair was awarding of most valuable trophies to Phil Benedict in basketball and Joe Prochaska in football.

Coach Sam Hamilton lauded his players, who nine days before had accomplished something no Lenawee County school had ever been able to do—win a state basketball title.

He also praised the cheerleaders, faculty and fans.

Football Coach John Korican, who was in charge of the banquet, introduced his grid squad and present Halfback Prochaska with his most-valuable award.

Mrs. Korican reported on girls basketball, which she and Nancy Pippitt coached. Larry Wagner was master of ceremonies.

Surprise trophies, purchased by Britton businessmen, were given to each yell leader.

☆

GUEST SPEAKER, Tom Riordan, kidded each of the players, managers left the championship stories—some fact, some fiction.

He related how one of the managers left the hamcpionship game with four minutes to play. Later when asked how come, he explained he had to get the showers going, adding, "Coach Hamilton likes to have the water nice and warm when the boys throw him in."

Mr. Riordan had cheerleaders present each of the players' mothers and coaches, wives with a long-stemmed "Tory Red Rose," a gift of The Tecumseh Herald.

Mr. Hamilton announced that Ray Herrick is purchasing gold basketballs for each player and a copy of the championship game film for the school.

The gathering closed with the school quartet of Connie Godzina, Carol Roberts, Tom Komon and Ron Miller, accompanied by Ginger Frazier, singing several numbers with original words pertaining to the recent athletic triumph.

MOST VALUABLE—Joe Prochaska won the honor in football and Phil Benedict in basketball. They were selected by vote of their team mates.

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 27 TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1963 16 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

One of the real joys of newspapering — in my opinion — is being able to write a column like this.

Subject matter can spin all across the map. Last week, there was the off-beat item of a father and son taking a Sunday afternoon walk in the country.

Few efforts of recent years have brought so many kind comments, even a couple of pieces of out-of-town mail. Such reaction makes a fellow want to plug away all the harder.

A clipping sits atop my desk as this is written, pertaining to the newspaper strikes in New York and Cleveland.

Between them, they left folks in two major cities without regular dailies a total of 244 days. It seems almost too much to believe.

Being unable to have favorite daily papers for only a day or two can make a person grumpy and unhappy—worst of all, badly informed about world situations. What must it be like for over three months?

Television and radio aren't able to do the job. Newsprint in the hand can never be replaced.

If a daily newspaper were priced on the basis of its true value to the reader, $1 a copy wouldn't be out of line at all, maybe even more.

Dispositions of New Yorkers and Clevelandites should be vastly improved this week now that the presses are rolling again.

While speaking of big newspaper business, keep watch on Fred Flox, editor and publisher of the Dundee Reporter.

Fred is fast becoming the William Randolph Hearst of Monroe County, having just added a second paper to his "chain".

Fred recently acquired the Petersburg Sun. One of these days, he'll probably be taking over the Monroe Evening News.

This week The Herald carries a review of Tony Spina's recently-published book, "Making of a Pope."

It combines breath-taking pictures the popular Free Press chief photographer made on several visits to Rome with interesting text.

When Tony had his history-making audience with Pope John, the Pontiff kidded the lensman, saying, "Everyone takes my pictures, but nobody sends me any."

Mr. Spina promised he would. Once back in Detroit, Tony made a complete set of enlargements, both black and white and color, mounted them in a white-leather covered book and shipped to Rome.

The Pope was so pleased, he ordered a batch of prints for his own use, later autographed one and sent to Tony, via the Detroit Archdiocese office.

With great reluctance, Church officials turned the gift over to Tony, one priest telling him that even the chancery didn't have an autographed picture of the Holy Father.

Harold Easton was again selected Tecumseh's mayor by fellow councilmen Monday evening. This marks the fourth one-year term for the service station operator. New Council members, George McCombs and Ray Puffer, along with re-elected John Hamilton and Bob Bonner, were officially sworn in at the session. Mr. Hamilton was selected mayor pro-tem.

Market Faces 4 Court Dates

Is Michigan's new weekend closing law unconstitutional?

Owners of Country Markets, Inc. want to find out and they hope to force the issue in legal action.

So far, they have four court dates in which to mull over the legislation that states business places over 4,000-square-feet in size can stay open on Saturdays or Sunday, but not both days.

Joseph Busch of Clinton and one of the chain owners states he feels the law is unfair and legislates against a segment of business.

On both the past two Sundays, Country Markets' stores in Tecumseh and Clinton, remained in operation. In each community, store officials notified police that the law would be broken.

☆

THE FIRST WEEK, State Police issued a summons in Clinton, but nothing was done in Tecumseh.

Last Sunday, State Police took similar action in Clinton and here Police Chief Murell Clark did the same.

This means that dates for hearing and trials will be set for both communities in respective justice of peace courts.

Lenawee County Prosecutor Harvey Koselka will personally try the cases.

"I think this is really serious," Mr. Koselka told The Herald in a telephone interview, "Country Markets are running a risk."

He said that a fine of up to $100 can be imposed and there is a possibility the license to operate may be temporarily revoked.

Justice Leon J. Van Duesen will hear the Clinton cases and Justice Ernie Oliver the one in Tecumseh.

☆

IN ADDITION to these, Country Markets' attorney, Melvin Smith of Ann Arbor, has inetiated action in the Circuit Court.

Judge Rex Martin has set a hearing for April 15 at 1:30 p.m. to consider issuing an injunction against enforcement of the new law as sought by attorney Smith.

Mr. Smith had requested an immediate injunction when the new legislation was to go in force, but Judge Martin refused to do this until a hearing in his court had been scheduled.

Besides its stores in Tecumseh and Clinton, Country Markets owns outlets in Saline, Manchester and Milan, in counties where compliance to the law is not required.

The chain's Adrian store was recently merged with a string of Saginaw Country markets owned by Nick and Lou Vescio. These are closed Sundays.

The Rev. Raymond Heine, pastor of Monroe's Christ Lutheran Church, also participated. He is dean of the southern district of the Michigan Synod.

Robert Robinson, lay-assistant to the Synod president, spoke briefly, comparing the construction of the building, which will bond various portions of the structure together, to the bonding together of Gloria Dei's congregation with the community.

Mrs. Steve Illeck directed the choir and Nancy Ehlert, organist, played the accompaniment.

☆

DR. GERO turned the first piece of turf with a silver-plated shovel, then invited others to join him in this traditional ceremony.

Dean Hamilton, vice-president of the congregation, was one of the first. Mr. Hamilton's immediate predecessor in the top lay position in the parish, Harry Farrell, now of Marion, O., was on hand for the program.

Construction of the church will begin next week. The corner stone will be laid the later part of June, Dr. Gero states.

Work is expected to be finished in early fall.

With a seating capacity of 225, the new church will face Evans St. and be located about 20 yards southeast of the present facility, which will be used for educational purposes.

Three bids received were:

- Schneiders—$2,772.88
- Tecumseh Motors- $3,350.
- Tecumseh Equipment—$3,-550

Louis Schneider, local dealer, asked the board to give all dealers at least three weeks notice the next time, since it takes some time to get bid assistance from the factory.

☆

ROUTINE reports and business were conducted for the balance of the meeting.

Supt. James McDowell reported that PTAs would be asked to help take the kindergarten census, a report sent to the state for which primary monies are received.

Business Manager Norval Bovee reported that the government has reduced purchases of surplus food for the cafeterias.

He said that the government is now allowing one extra cent for lunches served, but it fails to make up the difference in savings obtained through buying surplus food.

However, Tecumseh cafeterias are still operating in the black, according to the business manager.

☆

A REQUEST to adjust salaries for 15 teachers costing about $3,-800, was deferred to next year.

Board members said the adjustment was not planned, not in the budget, and would conflict with their promises made to the electors last year when they sought and received additional millage.

President Aden Mead appointed members Robert Moore, Ralph Comfort and Orville Bishop, and Mr. Bovee to study the bus transportation system and report back at the next meeting.

The national average for plant investment per employee is approximately $20,000 for manufacturing concerns.

The statistic is revealed through computation with the fresh figures in Gen Tel's annual report for 1962, just released.

The company's plant investment, the report shows, is at an all time high of $127,997,573, up from $118,000,000 in 1961.

Revenues totaled $32,900,748 for 1962, rising from $27,707,839 a year earlier.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Prove by Improving

Michigan Week Will be May 19 to May 26.

Michigan Week has a special significance to Tecumseh this year due to the adoption of the following resolution by the Tecumseh City Council February 18, 1963.

WHEREAS Mr. R. W. Herrick's pride and generousity in Tecumseh has benefited every one in the community; and

WHEREAS everyone of us is equally proud of our city and grateful to Mr. Herrick; and

WHEREAS we think an appropriate way of showing our appreciation to Mr. Herrick would be improving his and our pride in Tecumseh, and

WHEREAS individually or collectively we could join together our energies in making Tecumseh a better place in which to live by improving our home grounds, our schools, our municipal buildings, our commercial sections, city approaches and parks.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

That Tecumseh dedicate Michigan Week 1963 in honor and appreciation of Mr. R. W. Herrick and all residents join together in allied effort to improve our city.

For this to be meaningful every citizen should look, think and act as only he can. No job accomplished is too small or too big to be appreciated.

Since this is to be a tribute of deeds rather than ceremonial words all members of the community are urged to let any of the committee or committee chairmen know what they are doing.

Committee members would like an up-to-date record for a special Michigan Week in Tecumseh feature in The Herald every week prior to Michigan Week.

Let's share our inspirations and with accent on the positive prove by improving that Tecumseh is the best place in Michigan to live.

Products Building Laboratory

ANN ARBOR—Tecumseh Products Co. will locate a major research laboratory in Ann Arbor's Research Park under a plan calling for close co-operation and utilization of the staff and resources of the University of Michigan.

The announcement of the second industry to move into Ann Arbor's community developed industrial subdivision was made today by Joseph Layton President of Tecumseh Products.

Mr. Layton said the company has purchased a three-acre site on which a 20,000-square-foot laboratory will be constructed. An adjoining 2½ acre lot is under option by the firm. The sites are directly across Research Park Dr. from the newly-dedicated Federal-Mogul Division Laboratory.

Tecumseh Products will negotiate a contractual relationship with the University of Michigan utilizing personnel and facilities in an expanded program of research and development.

☆

"WE PLAN to expand our research program in the new Research Center to investigate additional applications for our present products," according to Ray W. Herrick, founder and chairman of the board of the company.

"We will also conduct research in basic materials in which the company can broaden its manufacturing capabilities. Presently our research program is about $2,000,000 a year," he said.

Tecumseh Products Co. manufactures refrigeration compressors, condensing units, gasoline engines, semiconductor materials, and high purity compounds. Sales in 1962 exceeded $180,000,000.

Carl B. Marr of Detroit is the architect for the limestone structure. Construction is expected to begin this summer, Mr. Layton said. He expects the laboratory will employ 35 to 40 persons in the first stage of this operation.

☆

"THE UNIVERSITY welcomes this opportunity to cooperate with Tecumseh Products," Harlan Hatcher, president of the University said.

"It is gratifying to see an energetic Michigan firm with the vision today to search for its future effectiveness and contribution through research. We are proud to assist them in their mission."

Mr. Hatcher was credited by Joseph B. Foster, president of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce, with convincing Tecumseh Products to locate the laboratory in Ann Arbor.

"President Hatcher took the lead in demonstrating the wisdom of expanding Tecumseh's research efforts near the University in Research Park. It is additional evidence of the University's whole hearted support and active promotion of Ann Arbor and the Research Center of the Midwest."

☆

GOVERNOR George Romney praised Tecumseh's action. "I am proud that this is Michigan industry taking advantage of what Michigan offers in research opportunities in its great University. This combination is bound to produce more jobs for Michigan people and continue to strengthen our economy.

"Just over a month ago I had the honor to dedicate the first laboratory in Ann Arbor's Research Park—the Federal-Mogul Division laboratory—another dynamic Michigan industry" the Governor said.

"I'm convinced that industry here in Michigan is getting the message of what research has to offer, and particularly the broad opportunity awating them in assistance from University research faculties and facilities."

Ann Arbor's Mayor Cecil O. Creal said the city will assist Tecumseh Products in every way in locating its facility and personnel in Ann Arbor.

"This is a source of personal pride to me to see the Research Park really getting under way. It took a lot of farsightedness on the part of the City to make the investment in streets, water and sewer utilities in the Park. It is paying off. This proves that the original premise is correct, that research type industry is good for Ann Arbor and the State of Michigan."

☆

"THE TECUMSEH Research Center is just a start for this year," according to Walter Holcomb, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Committee. Our committee expects that at least one more research building will be started in the Park this year."

"We are delighted to learn that Tecumseh Products is planning to become our neighbor in Research Park," said Guy Peppiatt, president of Federal-Mogul-Bower Bearings, Inc.

"We have known the Tecumseh organization and its people for many years and have always had a very high regard for them. Their decision to locate their research headquarters here is an excellent tribute to the fundamental soundness of the Research Park concept."

Bible Lesson is entitled, "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

Related readings include passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

Niece Is Guest Speaker

Jean Dimond, pastor of the Hamtramck United Presbyterian Church, Detroit will be the speaker Wed., April 17, for the local Presbyterian Women's Association.

Miss Dimond is a niece of Mrs. Leon Rosecrans and Mr. and Mrs. George Adamson.

She has been the pastor of her present church for about a year and a half.

Hers is probably one of the most difficult and perhaps rewarding kind of pastorates that there is. Her church is a store front church on Joseph Campau St. and is a far cry from the usual beautiful sanctuary with stained glass windows, cushioned pews, candelabra and altar flowers.

There is no steeple, no bell, only a mission to the people who live around it to portray the love of God for the world as it is.

An effective and intensive church school program is presented with consistent teaching both winter and summer. Sometimes parents become curious to see what their children find so meaningful there and come to see for themselves.

Miss Dimond, a forceful young lady with horn rimmed glasses and a mighty voice, was a medical research assistant in Rochester, N. Y. before deciding to enter the ministry.

She graduated from the McCormick Theological Seminary before her ordination.

She is one of the three women, ordained Presbyterian ministers in Michigan.

Members of the Women's Association cordially invite the public to see and hear her story of the work in the inner-city church.

The meeting will be held in Fellowship Center.

Mike Rohrer Helps U of M Drill Unit Win National Title

A Tecumseh youth helped the University of Michigan Pershing Rifles' Drill team win the National Championship in Washington, D.C. over the weekend.

Mike Rohrer, a member of Company D, Third Regiment of the National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles, march with the winning unit which participated in the Cherry Blossom Festival Drill Championships.

Attending the meet were the top 53 teams in the country.

The Michigan team, which is run entirely by student cadets and midshipmen, drills two hours at a time, twice a week.

The success of this year's entry is attributed to the strict discipline within the unit the silent eight minute sequence which is considered the best in the country, and the four rifle tosses, not even attempted by any other team in the nation.

Besides the National Championship, the University of Michigan Pershing Rifles won two other drill meets, the University of Pittsburgh Invitational and the University of Illinois Invitational Meet.

On April 20, the 'M' drill squad will compete in the Third Regimental Meet at Purdue and the following weekend in the Michigan State Invitational Drill Meet at East Lansing.

Three Directors Named to Board of City Chamber

Three new directors were elected last week to the Chamber of Commerce board.

Clarence Beach, Jack Osburn and Gerald Roberts were picked to succeed William Powell, Roy Welch and Jim Lincoln. Terms are for three years.

Paul Clauda, Chamber president, says an organizational meeting will be held next week with the directors electing new officers for 1963.

There are about 65 members in the Chamber, which set dues at $25 per member for the current year.

Bad Checks Cost Stores $42,000,000

Nearly $42 million worth of bad checks are passed annually in Michigan, Sgt. Fred Kelly of the State Police told Rotary Club members Tuesday.

Sgt. Kelly, chief of the fraudulent check division and based in East Lansing, showed Rotarians slide pictures of "rubber paper."

He pointed out common errors in bad checks such as doctored figures, written amounts that don't jibe with the figures, misspelled words in printed portions.

The bad check expert warned those who cash checks to make a careful appraisal to discover obvious flaws.

Another guest at the Tuesday dinner meeting was Larry Burkhardt, of Flint, representing the National Vehicle Safety-Check program, who told of the 1963 event.

Also on hand were Coach Sam Hamilton and his championship Briton-Macon basketball squad.

Following this two Michigan conservation films were shown of the copper mines in the north and Faceting and Cabbing Michigan Gemstones."

Dundee Publisher Buys Petersburg Sun

Harry Faling, editor-publisher of the Petersburg Sun, announced that he had sold the weekly newspaper to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flox, publishers of the Dundee Reporter.

The paper had been in the Faling family since 1892 when A. P. Faling purchased it from Ira Boardman.

It was established in 1880 under another name. Harry succeeded as publisher on his father's death in 1934, and has published the weekly continuously since.

Harry Faling has a son in Tecumseh, Dave, who is in the bulk oil business and resides at 322 Park St.

No mechanical equipment was included in the sale, and Mr. Faling will continue a commercial printing business in the same location under the firm name of Sun Printing Co.

A business office will be maintained in Petersburg, but the newspaper will be printed in Mr Flox' Dundee plant.

He has just moved into a new building, and purchased a new press.

NEWCOMERS
Who Have Moved to Tecumseh

Dr. Russell J. Wood and his wife, Alma, and three children are new residents of the city.

The family moved to 503 Murray Dr. from Dundee about the middle of March.

Billy, 5, is the oldest followed by Tommy, 4, and little Debbie, 15 months.

Dr. Wood is a graduate of Britton-Macon High School. He attended medical school at the University of Texas where he received his M.D. in 1961. He interned at Wayne University.

His offices are located in Dundee.

Mrs. Wood is a registered nurse and received a bachelor of science degree from the Sacred Heart Dominican College in Texas.

She plans to accept a part-time position in a few months. She says that members of the family appreciate each other more when Mom isn't at home all day every day.

Some day she would like to dive into photography as a hobby when the kiddies are a bit older.

At present, Mrs. Wood says that her husband's hobby is anything that he can do with the children.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The leading citizen of a small southern city is the president of a toy manufacturing company. He designs his own toys—two or three new items each year. He has a well organized plant.

Envious and ambitious visitors from neighboring towns often ask: "What kind of royalty would you charge for the use of your designs?"

The manufacturer responds: "Not a thing. I'll give you some models. They aren't patented. They are easy to copy. And good luck, I hope you can get a plant started in your town."

This has happened dozens of times. But no competition has arisen in neighboring cities, because the would-be manufacturers overlook a key factor. Idea and production are relatively easy. The critical test is one of salesmanship.

"They can not understand that advertising and promotion calls for more ingenuity, imagination and expense than production. My company would die within a year if I weren't first a good advertising man.

"In fact," he continued, "Our whole town would dry up if the merchants weren't aware that prosperity is a result of a continuous promotion effort. No one is compelled to trade in any store in any town. Somehow, buyers have to be sold on the idea of buying here."

Library Has New Hours

New hours at Hall Memorial Library in Ridgeway are announced this week.

Beginning April 1, the library will be open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m.

Saturdays the building will be open from 2 until 5 p.m.

The Library Board has been notified that unless there is an increase in patronage the library is in danger of losing its affiliation with the county library system.

Bernard Bishop, president of the board, urges that residents make use of the facility especially since new hours are being initiated.

Tentative plans are in progress for an open house to be held May 18 when people may become familiar with material available.

Pellet Feed Sales Expected to Go Up

Feed companies can expect to offer more services such as custom-made rations, bulk handling and pelleting if they expect to stay in business during the future.

That's the opinion of a Michigan State University economist.

Lowell Hill, of MSU's agricultural economics department says that feed companies are realizing that many farmers do business with a particular concern on the basis of the services they offer and not the products they sell.

Pelleted feed sales are expected to make up 20% of total feed sales by 1965. Bulk feed sales will approach the 50 per cent mark, an increase of nearly 30 per cent since 1959.

Poultry and turkey feeds account for nearly half of all feed sales within the state. Dairy feeds make up 21% of the total. Hog and beef cattle feeds follow with 16 and 10 per cent respectively. The remainder of the commercial feeds are specialties or fed to sheep.

☆

"POULTRY FEEDS top the list for complete mixed feeds because of high concentrate requirements and industry specialization," says Mr. Hill. Feed sold by major manufacturers is largely protein supplement and not a complete feed.

"Since three-quarters of these feed companies are located outside of Michigan, transportation costs place them at a marketing disadvantage. Local plants using grains from farmers can handle bulky feeds more cheaply in their own areas," he adds.

About 35% of the feeds sold within the state are sold as complete rations. Some 470 feed companies sell more than 500,000 tons of commercial feeds annually to Michigan farmers.

The feed manufacturing industry has a two-fold stake in Michigan agriculture. Besides selling some $66 million in feed products to the state's farmers each year, manufacturers also purchase a large percentage of the ingredients from Michigan crop farms.

Pope John Illustrated

"You may have ten minutes with the Pope."

For the chief photographer of the Detroit Free Press, Tony Spina, who yearned for the chance to take pictures of Pope John, this was a dream come true.

This was a privilege previously accorded to no one, but the Vatican photographer.

This interview was surprisingly extended to almost two hours. The result is a collection of rare photos, both black and whites and colored, made into an unique and beautiful book, "The Making of the Pope."

Mr. Spina has combined these informal pictures of the Pope with shots of the Vatican, taken during the election proceedings, to form a vital, pictorial story.

The amazing scope of the wide—angle lens puts you right before awesome St. Peter's Square. "You are there" gazing upward at Michelangelo's ceiling masterpieces, standing before the Pieta and other works of art.

☆

SUPPLEMENTING these unusual pictures is a concise and interesting text by Dawson Taylor, who explains the history of the Papacy and its splendors.

There is a detailed account of the actual, highly secretive balloting of the cardinals, and of how this elective process evolved.

A chapter devoted to a description of Vatican City is followed by one on the most recent election. This includes pictures of the Cardinal's quarters and their method of being "sealed in," with shots of various Cardinals as they collect from all over the globe for the event.

Finally there is a short biography of Pope John XXIII and his accomplishments of the past four years.

The office of the Pope is one of the most influential in the world today. People of all races and faiths and governments listen to what he has to say.

A national magazine has proclamied the current Pope as "Man of the Year". His warm winning personality is a spark to todays new hope of more charity and better understanding — an outlook essential to further the "springtime of humanity' that was predicted by Pius XII, his predecessor.

IT HAS BEEN said that a busy man's book shelves will contain mostly history and biography. How better learn than by past events?

And how often by reading about a great person, some key to that greatness is transmitted to the reader to help shape his hopes, his life and activities.

This handsomely illustrated volume is a happy, brief and colorful combination of both. It is a book to be treasured in Catholic or non-Catholic home alike, and an essential reference work for any good community library.

Sponge Week Is Climaxed, with 'Ball'

Sponge Week, sponsored by the Student Council, was carried out Wednesday, March 20 through Friday, March 22.

Wednesday's activities included Dress-up Day and Student Teacher Day. Thursday brought old Necktie Day plus Poetry and Drama Day.

We had QUITE a variation of so-called neckties that day. Old Clothes Day, Gum and Candy Day and "Mr. Irresistible" Day monopolized the day. Ward Cornell was named "Mr. Irresistible" after collecting forty ribbons.

The climax of the week was the "Bedrock Ball" held Friday evening. The dance was held at the Community Center from 9 until 12, with the Dick Tilkin Band from Ann Arbor supplying music for dancing.

Chico Osburn was crowned Sponge king.

A crepe paper cave-like entrance led the couples into a cleverly decorated room yellow, white and brown streamers were hung from the ceiling to the floors on the sides and end. Cartoons of the Flintstones decorated the walls white marshmallows reading "Bedrock" enhanced the tables.

Thanks to everyone who helped to make this year's Sponge Week the success that it was.

Alumni Banquet May Be Dropped

The 1953 class of Tecumseh High School is in a dilemma concerning the annual alumni banquet.

Several years ago, alumni decided that the class reaching the 10-year graduation anniversary would be the committee to arrange the banquet.

Gradually the treasury has dwindled until at present it contains $13.20, not quite enough to promote much of a banquet according to class officers.

Unless a constructive suggestion is forthcoming from someone it appears that the annual banquet will be dropped.

Jack Betzoldt, president of the 1953 class, is now a resident of Colorado. Vice-President John Deming lives at 605 Russell Rd., phone 423-7076. Secretary is Mrs. Kenneth Adams, 605 Cairns St., phone 423-2433.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

This morning I receive a copy of the "1963 State Tournament Souvenir Section' of The Tecumseh Herald for Thursday, March 28, 1963.

The copy of the paper was forwarded to me by Britton-Macon High School and I certainly want to congratulate The Tecumseh Herald on the excellent coverage and generous tribute that it has paid to Britton-Macon High School for its achievement in winning the Class D State Basketball Tournament Title this year.

The photography is outstanding and excellent in every way. Whoever did that work is to be commended most highly for a real job because it is so complete and so well done.

I think also The Tecumseh Herald is to be commended for its interest in one of the towns in the area which it serves by having paid it this tribute.

Again, I am glad that this publication was forwarded to this office and I want those responsible for it to know that we feel it is one of the finest, if not the finest, tribute of its type that has been paid any Michigan high school.

Yours sincerely,
Charles E. Forsythe
Michigan Department of Public Instruction

TO THE EDITORS:

We the Senior Class of Britton High School wish to take this opportunity to thank you for all you have done to help us make our senior trip to Washington, D.C., possible. You gave us the opportunity and privilege of selling subscriptions of your paper, The Tecumseh Herald.

It wouldn't have been possible to have such a successful drive without your fine publicity and help throughout the campaign.

Sincerely yours,
Sandra Beal
Secretary of the Class of 1963

THROUGH MY WINDOW

THE TIMBER-DOODLE

We have devoted much time lately to the discussion of out-of-the-ordinary birds who have and who have not come to our feeding station. Well, just let me tell you about the latest visitor.

He did not come of his own accord, but even so he was there. Who? A wood-cock or a more fun name, a timber-doodle.

The adventure started with a telephone call from across-the-creek neighbor, Orville Laidlaw. He wondered if we wanted to see something—naturally, we did.

Our curiosity grew when we saw him crossing Doctor's bridge, holding the "something' in a white plastic pail. Soon he was outside the window gently putting a bird on the feeder.

Wow. It was the first time I had ever seen the timber-doodle. What an odd-looking creature it was.

☆

A RATHER large bird, about 11 inches long, it was round—almost no neck and a very short, square tail. Color-wise it was a pretty blending of browns.

The front was light and the back an intricate mixture of light and dark bars, strips and spots. Its most outstanding characteristic however, was the bill. In pictures it is unbelieveable. First hand—well, I am at a loss for words. Long is an understatement it is enormously long.

Consider what it does, though, and that gives a slight idea of the length. Earthworms seem to be the main item on the timber-doodles' menu and they are caught as much as three inches below the surface.

The bird sticks his long slender bill into the soft mud—interestingly enough, the bill is closed as it goes into the ground but the upper mandible is flexible and works much like a finger.

Such strange birds, a bill hinged in the middle which picks earthworms out of the ground.

☆

ORVILLE explained that they had found the bird the night before. Apparently it had flown into their yard light. As we talked about the unusual find, it took a few staggering steps to the edge of the feeder then flew across the fence and lit on the creek-bank. This was the first attempt, as far as Orville knew, the bird had made to fly.

We wished he had stayed longer and thus afforded us a better look, but, of course, we were glad to see that he could fly.

As soon as the woodcock lit on the creek bank, he disappeared. So perfectly did his dead-leaf patterned back blend in that really, unless he moved, it was almost impossible to see him. Perfect camouflage.

These birds are migratory. Undoubtedly this one was headed north. They travel at night and usually alone. It is a dangerous journey. Their eyesight is probably not poor, but their vision is restricted because their eyes are placed so far back on their head, and many are injured by flying into wires, lights and other obstructions.

Hope our bird profited by experience and will be more careful in the future.

So it is that, thanks to our neighbor, we have added a new and most interesting bird to our bird list—the timber-doodle.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

We would like to share with you an article from Sunshine Magazine . . .

"Early Christians celebrated holy Easter Season with an eight-day period of thanksgiving. New Converts were baptized and on Easter morning were dressed in their white garments and joined other believers at the Holy Supper. Christians saluted each other with a kiss and the words: 'Christ is risen!'

"There was no labor on Easter Day. All places of business and public entertainment were closed, and streets and roads were deserted except by worshippers going to and from church services.

"Easter was such a time of good will that even slaves were freed, alms were given to the needy, and rich and poor alike dressed in their best attire as physical evidence of their spiritual newness of life."

We are living in a changing world; there is chaos and uncertainty in economic conditions, but it is good to note that the true celebration of Easter remains very much the same.

It is the time of hope and new beginning for any and all who will accept the challenge of the Living Faith from the One Who said . . . "Ask and ye shall receive."

To all of you . . . a very happy Easter . . . from all of us at Clinton Woolen.

Junior Play "Dear Diary" Cast Chosen

BRITTON — The Junior Class members are now practicing for their play "Dear Diary", a three act comedy.

Due to some minor troubles in getting the play selected, the date for the play has not yet been set.

"Dear Diary" is being directed by Alfrava Latham and Joanne Rasmussen, with Kathy Bailey as the student director.

The cast includes Marilyn Korican as Betty Lou Maxwell, whose diary throws the whole Maxwell family into an uproar when it is accidently read.

Sue Austin and Veril Sanch are Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell, parents who don't quite understand their three teenagers.

Linda Downing is Connie Maxwell, Betty Lou's older sister and Roger Bortel is Marvin Jones, Connie's college freshman boy friend.

Ron Mastie is Wilbur Maxwell and Ed Becker is Hercules, his side kick.

These two cause plenty of excitement among the Maxwells with their adventures.

Judy Rohrback plays Bernadine, a girl friend of Betty Lou's with a fantastic imagination.

Aunt Mary is played by Lynda McWilliams. She and Miss Murray, Betty Lou's teacher, try to solve all the problems that stem from the diary.

Priscilla Cheever is Miss Murray.

Phil Benedict plays J. C. Mallory, Mr. Maxwell's boss, and Sharon Sturtevant is Miss Lewis, his secretary.

Molly, a gum chewing, gun moll is played by Phyllis McCarty.

"Dear Diary" is hilarious and especially appealing to families with teenagers.

TECUMSEH HERALD

LENAWEE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING TECUMSEH, BRITTON, RIDGEWAY, MACON AND TIPTON

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 28 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1963 | 20 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Tecumseh may be one of the tournament sites for the annual Free Press baseball competition this summer.

It could mean playing in Tiger Stadium for some local lads.

Needed is someone who would form a local team of young men (age limit, 20 by Sept. 1, 1963) and also be willing to serve as chairman here for the two-day tournament.

Eight clubs would participate, teams probably coming from Monroe, Adrian, Milan, Blissfield, Britton and two other towns as well as Tecumseh.

There would be a two-day affair with the Free Press furnishing pay for the umpires. The Tecumseh site champion would advance to either Ann Arbor or Lansing to compete for the outstate crown.

Next would be a two-game knock-out series with the Detroit visitor, the first clash at the home diamond of the outstate champion and the second game in Tiger Stadium. The state winner would go on to compete in the nationals at Johnstown, Pa.

In addition, there will be an all-star game in the Tiger park, in which at least two players from each local tournament are chosen to participate.

It sounds to me as if some group like the American Legion might want to take over the project locally and this would go hand-in-hand with their junior baseball program.

The Legion nine could well be the one to participate in the tournament as Tecumseh's.

Interested parties can contact The Herald or write to Perry Deakin, 1415 Parker Ave., Detroit 14. Perry heads up the program for the Free Press.

He dropped in Monday to discuss the possibility of having Tecumseh host a regional affair this year.

Such an event could be staged July 5 and 6 and would tie in beautifully with the merchant's annual Moonlight Sale, which is slated for the night of July 5. This would be another attraction for bringing folks into Tecumseh that weekend.

Boy Scout first-aid training has been responsible for saving thousands of lives.

It has also probably helped inspire youngsters to go into the field of medicine.

An excellent case in point turned up this week as a story was being prepared on a recent adult Scouting award bestowed upon a Tecumseh man.

The St. George medal for Catholic Scout leaders went to Dr. Bob Laidlaw.

In getting information for the story (which appears in the second section on page two), an unusual twist popped up. Dr. Laidlaw produced a snapshot showing five Scouts in uniform, taken about 22 years ago.

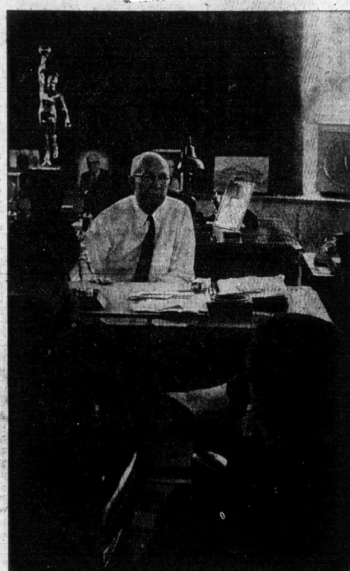

The quintet had been an outstanding Scout first-aid crew, twice winning competition in Michigan and then vying for national honors in Chicago. Once the crew finished fourth in the nation.

Makeup of the team was unique. Besides Dr. Laidlaw, there was Dick Hammel and Malcolm

Citation of Honor Going to Herrick

A coveted Citation of Honor will be bestowed upon Ray Herrick by the University of Michigan Board of Regents Thursday afternoon. He will be the 27th person so honored by the award, which was first given in 1947.

ALWAYS TIME FOR YOUTH—Ray Herrick is widely recognized for his consideration of young people and their futures. This picture was taken when he chatted with members of the state championship Britton-Macon basketball team, who visited Mr. Herrick to thank him for the gold basketballs he gave each player. He congratulated the young men, many of whom have relatives working at the Products, urged the lads to carry their fame with dignity and to be sure and continue their education.

Regent's citations of honor go to public-spirited persons who have made significent contributions to education in Michigan.

First recipient was Louis Elbel composer of Michigan's famous "The Victors."

The ceremony honoring Mr. Herrick will be held in the Clements Library on the University campus.

Erich A. Walter, U of M secretary, will read the citation, with the presentation to be made by President Harlan Hatcher. It is inscribed:

"Ray W. Herrick, philanthropist, public benefactor, advocate of the educationally underprivileged.

"In this highly gifted and devoutly religious man sound purpose and fierce determination are joined with deep faith and indomitable will.

"These characteristics have produced the guiding genius of the world's largest compressor manufacturer, Tecumseh Products Co.

"He has provided for his neighbors and his townsmen projects for the common good, including parks and schools, libraries and hospitals.

"He has built research laboratories at universities, campuses and classrooms for colleges, and has established scholarships for students at all levels, from the high school through the university.

"This man, who as a boy longed for an education that was denied him, has given spontaneously of his time and substance that every young person should be helped to achieve the best that is in him.

"To Ray W. Herrick the Regents of the University now tender their Citation of Honor and express for him their high respect and sincere admiration."

The document is signed by President Hatcher.

Budget Will Hit $544,848

By JIM LINCOLN

A city budget for the 1963-'64 fiscal year, calling for anticipated income and expenditures of $544,848, was given tentative approval by Council Monday night.

The budget, highest in Tecumseh's history, also includes a .9 mill increase, amounting to approximately $17,000 additional revenue.

If approved at a public hearing, scheduled at the next meeting, May 6, the budget will top expected expenditures for 1962-'63 fiscal year by about $22,000.

Last year's, or the 1962-'63 budget, was $502,190, a figure which is now continually being adjusted due to increased income and expenditures.

Cal Zorn, city manager, says income and expenditures for the current fiscal year will top $520,000.

Additional income from intangible taxes, sales tax, licenses, permits, etc., have enabled the city to meet all their expenses. No deficit will be incurred.

Anticipated expenditures for the interceptor sewer fund, fire department, parks and recreation, Community Center, highway department and other departments and funds have made it necessary for city officials to hike the millage from 11 to 11.9.

The city can add over eight mills state equalized without a vote from the people.

☆

AN INCREASE in city millage had been anticipated by many for over a year. The last adjustment was in 1959 when Council approved one mill for street construction.

Several close to city operations, call the city manager's budget realistic and practical, and one which should be approved.

The .9 mill will mean an increase in local taxes of 90c per $1,000 assessed evaluation, and about $5,800 surplus in auto parking, sewage and water funds at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1964.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

► Tabled to the May 6 meeting: appointment to the recreation board, appointment of marshall of the day for Memorial Day, resolution on Board of Appeals, appointments to Planning Commission.

► Approved transfer of tavern and SDM license from Joseph and Mary Ann Nykodym to Richard H. and Alberta B. Crandall, of rural Homer.

► Answered questions from Mrs. Lester Porter, 1200 Murray Dr., about city-made water drainage holes and sidewalk construction.

Kids Can Earn New Bicycles

It's Earn-A-Bike time once more for youngsters of the area.

The Tecumseh Herald's third such campaign when boys and girls will sell one-year subscriptions to this weekly—open Thursday afternoon at 1.

There is no age limit on the salesman and they may sign up anyone.

To earn a $45 deluxe bicycle, in either 24" or 26", all a youth must do is sell 15 new subscriptions to The Herald.

Another popular prize also being offered is a $25 transistor radio for the sale of 10 new subscriptions.

If a youngster doesn't reach his goal, he or she will be paid a $1 commission on the sale of each new subscription and 25c for every renewal.

Boys and girls wishing to take part in the campaign should come to The Herald office Thursday afternoon to obtain full details.

Selling may only start after this hour. The drive will be concluded Saturday, May 18.

Definition of a new subscription is one which has not been on The Herald's regular mailing list since Sept. 1, 1962.

Mr. Robert Hunt, Herald bookkeeper, will determine all questionable subscriptions from the newspaper's circulation file.

The Herald's Earn-A-Bike campaigns have always been popular with Tecumseh youths and one year 34 boys and girls acquired new bicycles, thanks to the subscription sales abilities.

10 Youths Are Victims of Dog Bites

Dog attacks on children, most of them strays or those allowed to run loose, have instigated action on the part of the local police.

Chief Murell Clark reports that 10 children already have been bitten this month, with one dog biting three youngsters before being picked up.

Chief Clark says police are going to pick up the loose dogs and arrest the owners on a misdemeanor charge: Fine ranges from $1 to $100 or 30 days in jail, or both.

On April 6, Yasbel Flores, 611 S. Pearl, was arrested for allowing his dog to run loose and was fined $25. The dog had bitten a child.

According to law, a dog having bitten a person must be tied up for 10 days.

At the end of period, police check the dog and victim for any sign of rabies.

The Good and Good Co. is contractor for the test which will go into traverse rock.

RUSSELL STEINKE has written the musical prelude. It is an original composition entitled "Bella".

Bella is the first name of Mrs. Manningham, played by Mrs. Robert Murray.

Costumes are original clothing from the late 1800's. Most of them have been lent to the Players by Laura Sisson's Antiques.

All the furniture is antique and represents the period.

☆

Character personalities are brought out in the first act which takes place in the Manningham home.

Paul Anderson with his deep sophisticated voice is extremely smooth as Mr. Manningham. He is sauve and kindly to his supposedly forgetful wife, Mrs. Robert Murray.

Her interpretation under the direction of Mrs. Gloria Jadwin is so realistic that the feeling of insanity is everpresent.

Charles Parker is the epitome of police inspectors as Detective Rough. His perseverance and constant pounding at the facts whets the audience appetite for the case to be solved.

Mrs. James Mull vividly portrays the pretty 19-year-old maid who is extremely conscious of herself.

Mrs. Charles Parker is beautifully cast as the slightly sneaky cook and housekeeper.

Mrs. Ralph Dabe is assisting Mrs. Jadwin with direction.

Richard Boyd is technical director and Ed Mengerink is in charge of the sets.

A variety of properties and lights are being handled by Mrs. Gene Earling and Dr. Richard Coak, respectively. Russell Steinke and Rik Kureth, both talented artists, work wonders with the sets and makeup.

Mrs. Irene Merx is in charge of costumes and Mrs. Richard Purkey has control of the house.

Gordon Comfort is managing the music.

Tickets, programs and publicity are all aptly handled by Howard Furry, Sydney Turner, and Mrs. Duane Steele.

Mrs. Rowley is a checker in the store. She also worked with her husband in Dundee.

CLOTHING SHOP ADDITION—Owner Harold Green has started construction work which will nearly triple the size of his present store. He stands about where the addition will end. The maize of wires, poles and signs seen here will soon vanish. Story is on page two.

Behind Page One

State Police Detective and Mrs. Leslie Wykes of 505 Nokomis St., left this week on an all-expense paid trip to California. Vacation? No, a mixture of business and pleasure. It seems Mr. Wykes is to bring back a bad check artist — female — and Mrs. Wykes has been deputized to act as matron.

Seven boys and two girls from the Junior Class of Tecumseh High School may wish they had never skipped school last Thursday and sojourned to Hidden Lake Gardens to stage a beer party. State Police from the Clinton post broke up the party when notified by an unidentified citizen. School officials were informed and the youth turned over to their parents.

Last call for a "Michigan Week in Tecumseh" slogan. Deadline is Saturday. It's worthwhile, good for $25 in script, which can be spent in any local shop. The slogan cannot exceed six words, should be catchy and inspire everyone to a bigger and better celebration of Michgan Week locally. Contest is being sponsored by the Michigan Week committee here. Entries may be submitted to The Herald office.

Paul Hohenstein wonders about the sort of players the Red Wings are using in the Stanley Cup Playoff. He noted this quote in a writeup from a nearby daily, "I don't have the least bit of resentment against the Leafs," said the little two-headed rookie.

Neighborhood kids on W. Pottawatamie St. spent all Monday morning trying to catch the Easter bunny.

Emily Manwaring spied him under a car and Bobby Reed, Bill Whiting, Larry Hartwig, Jimmy and Timmy Marcum and Darrell Beal joined in the chase.

They finally caught him after a three-hour chase.

Mr. Easter B. is large and pure white. We assume he was just too tired to get back to his home after his hectic Sunday.

This is really not Hugh Walter, president of Rotary and the driving force behind Circus Day in Tecumseh, getting his salesmen out hustling tickets. Although Hugh is almost this dashing, the chap here is 19-year-old Frenchman John Zerbini, world's youngest lion tamer, who will be here May 9 with the Mills Bros. Circus.

What happens when a grocery decides to cut prices, practically across the board? When the word came out from Kroger unit headquarters last week, Tecumseh store manager Walt Rowley and seven of his people went to work making changes. They put in 144 hours altogether to change 2,500 items. Some fun.

If every door bell in the Tecumseh trading area isn't rung at least two to six times in the next few weeks by youngsters selling Herald subscriptions, we'll be surprised. Nobody takes to selling like kids, especially when they can earn a bicycle. There will probably be about 100 youngters making the rounds.

Reminds us of an incident during a previous Earn-A-Bike campaign. A gentleman called to find out if Sonny Smith (that wasn't his name) was a bona fide salesman. We checked and said "Yes."

The chap replied, "Well, I bought a one-year subscription from him about an hour ago and he just came back to try and sell me again."

The Tulip Time Festival at Holland will be held May 15-18. This bit of informaton is especially for the unidentified caller at the Herald office Wednesday morning.

Michigan calendar of events from the Michigan Tourist Council provided the exact dates of this event and many others about the state which will be printed from time to time.

John Long needed more space to store his money and this week moved a 12 x 12 building onto the Used Car Lot near the corner of Logan and N. Evans Streets.

After the picture ad in the Herald last week told of the opening of the lot, he sold five out of his six cars.

This week he is out hustling more cars to sell. Well, if he still needs more room for that green stuff, he can always try the bank.

New Nursing Home Ground Broken

Work on the city's new $200,000 nursing home will begin within the next week.

Ground was officially broken for the facility Tuesday afternoon in a brief ceremony.

To be T-shaped and measure 184-feet long and 104 feet at the widest portion, the structure will be located immediately behind Herrick Memorial Hospital, connected to it by a 120-foot covered walkway.

A cash gift to the hospital from a local citizen is making the building possible.

Dr. Archie O'Connor, present chief of staff, also dug soil as did Ray Herrick, Dr. R. G. B. Marsh and Mrs. Lavern Moll, who is director of nursing at the hospital.

Both Dr. Marsh and R. W. Herrick were present for the original hospital ground breaking in 1937.

It will be entirely air conditioned.

Architect Carl Marr designed the building. Construction will be by Krieghoff-Lenawee Co.

Long and Short

Bagshaw, now both physicians; Jim Smith, an architect; and Hugh DesErmia, a furniture store owner in Milan and active as a Scout leader in Tecumseh.

Inspiration of these young men was the late John "Cap" Larson, who at that time was manager of the Quaker Oats plant here and their leader.

Cap was a stickler on first aid and he really kept the boys hopping. But they loved every moment of their work, which ran several hours daily over a period of weeks as they prepared for the tournaments. These were run much like the state basketball action.

"Those were wonderful times," Mr. Smith recalled when the subject was brought up over coffee the other day.

He explained that in the nationals, the various teams were arranged in groups around the ballroom of a Chicago hotel. Each crew would be approached by a Scout executive, who would tap one and say, "You're the leader. Here's your problem."

The boys never knew what the situation would be. There might be an auto accident. Three of the team would be victims with assorted injuries. Two would have to work on them.

Then one would be a victim and the four would administer first aid.

Jim pointed out that of vital concern was the first thing that was done. It must be correct and had to attack the most serious aspect.

For instance if the victim was "bleeding" from a slashed artery in his arm and also had a leg fracture, the team must stop the flow of blood first, not start to set the leg.

This may seem simple, looking at it in print, but faced with such an alternative "under wire" may be quite another thing. The Tecumseh team always managed to come up with the right answer.

This, of course, was a direct reflection on the leadership of Mr. Larson and helps point up how vital adult guidance is to all Scouting programs.

The wonderful dedicated moms and dads who give hundreds of hours of their time to guide Boy and Girl Scouts can well take heart in seeing how the labor of one leader paid handsome dividends and made such lasting imprints on his charges.

Ground-Breaking Remarks

(Editor's note — When ground was officially broken Tuesday for Tecumseh's $200,000 convalescent home, the Rev. Julian Gresham of the Presbyterian Church made the following remarks.)

From time immemorial, man has dealt with ill health. He has both experienced it and tried to solve it.

And from its very beginning, the Judiac-Christian community has been concerned with ministering to those who were both elderly and ill.

From its beginning, the Jewish community was told to honor parents. This commandment has resulted in a community that has, for over 3,500 years, seen its youth respect and minister to the older generation.

In His ministry, Jesus was concerned with the physical welfare of the individuals who came to Him. He healed them. On some occasions He went to them.

☆

THE GOSPEL of John records the story of Jesus ministering to the man who had tried unsuccessfully to enter the pool at Bethesda that he might be cured. Over and over, the gospel records Jesus ministering to and healing those with physical disease, as well as to their spiritual illness.

At His instigation, the church has concerned itself with the ill. Religious groups have founded hospitals.

Individuals, through the Christian faith, have been inspired to give to facilities in which healing can take place. The long history of the Judiac-Christian faith is one of concern and care for the elderly and the ill.

☆

TODAY, illness is being coupled with longevity to challenge man in his ministry to those in need. It is fitting that homes be established for senior citizens who need such homes.

It is within the best traditions of the religious community to encourage and support such efforts.

Tecumseh is fortunate to have this building, that is about to be constructed, and those inspired to give it. It will offer the opportunity for care for the ill, and ministry by the healthy, thus continuing the traditions of the religious community to care about and to care for, those in need.

Clothing Shop Will Expand

First major remodeling and expansion of any downtown Tecumseh business in recent years is under way with Green's Clothing constructing an addition which will nearly triple the size of the present store.

Harold Green, owner and retailer here since 1947 is enlarging his men and boys shop with a 53x20-foot addition at the rear of his present shop.

The new store, when completed late in June, will have over 3,400 square feet and have a total length to 118 feet.

It will be one of the largest men and boys' shop in southern Michigan.

Along with the new addition, the present shop will be remodeled with a pointed ceiling, new lights, shelving and fixtures.

Entry to the basement shop for boys wear and work clothes will be a stairway located about where the present office is situated.

☆

A NEW REAR entrance will consist largely of cedar paneling and glass, with the rear door opening into a foyer.

With the expansion, Mr. Green will also expand his clothing lines for men and boys, plus a larger shoe department.

Since coming to Tecumseh in February 1947, Mr. Green has continually enlarged his store.

Starting in what is now the west section of the United Savings Bank, he bought and remodeled the present building in January 1952. The store was then occupied by Forrest Abner and George Derby as an electrical retail store.

What a marvelous birthday anniversary Mrs. Richard Limes had Thursday.

Her youngest sons, Kevin and Dickie, went shopping at Woolworth's Wednesday afternoon to purchase a birthday present for their Mom.

Before they returned to their home on N. Union St., they had planned a surprise party.

Dean McKenzie and Dale Stoner accompanied the boys and helped with the plans. The youngsters range in age from 9 to 11.

Dickie, 10, told Mrs. Robert Ferguson, next door neighbor, of the plans and she quickly volunteered to make the cake.

Mrs. Journey Stoner and Mrs. Joyce Vehmeier made gelatine desserts.

When Mrs. Vehmeier arrived with her daughter, Connie, and the McKenzie children, Sandy and Cheryl and Dean, Mrs. Limes didn't think too much of it.

But when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Puffer and Mr. and Mrs. George Heeman, Mrs. Stoner and the Fergusons walked in she was quite amazed.

Paul Kenneth Limes, eldest son of Mrs. Limes, was a bit taken aback, too, when he arrived home from the senior trip Thursday morning to learn the plans of his younger brothers.

She modeled her coral and white striped silk shirtwaist dress at the Lenawee County Dress Revue in Adrian April 6.

Three of the members were selected to the Junior Miss honor group at the Spring Round-up held at the Products Union Hall recently.

☆

A MEETING of the 11 members was held April 9 at the home of the leader, Mrs. Roger Williams, to re-evaluate the work after the garments had been judged.

Mrs. Williams was pleased that four of the 11 were selected to honors groups, but she said all of the girls did fine work and received good comments on their garments from the judges.

She remarked that much of the credit should go to the cooperation received from the mothers.

She said that the ratings will be announced at the Lenawee County Fair, but there will be no further judging.

There will be no more sewing meetings until fall and the first of the cooking meetings will be held in May.

HERALD HOBBY CORNER

Youngsters Do Baking for This Family

(Editor's note — This is another in the series on hobbies of area residents. Cooking isn't so unusual, but when two young ones go at it on their own, it becomes unique. If you know of an interesting hobby please call 423-2174.)

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Two little Tecumseh girls have succeeded in fashioning a strange story book recipe, all their own, to the delight of their mother who doesn't like to cook.

Jeanne, 7, and Kathryn, 8, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gendzwill, came up with a food, delicious as an appetizer or an accompaniment to a fruit salad, on their latest excursion in the kitchen.

A similiar recipe in a storybook gave them the idea and they sought permission from their mother to try some experimentation in the Gendzwill kitchen at 217 Burt St.

Working on the theory that "out of all these children (they have seven) there should be some who can cook," Mrs. G. quickly gave consent.

Printed elswhere on this page are the Jum-Jills that the little gourmets concocted.

Jum-Jills in the story of "Bo Bo and the Funny Thing" are used to entice a naughty dragon away from the habit of eating little girl's dolls.

☆

IT WILL probably be some years before the Gendzwill girls realize the marvelous opportunity that they have been given by their mother.

Not many so young are allowed to create in their mother's kitchen.

Mrs. Gendzwill does confine her two oldest youngsters to oven cookery since they are not tall enough to do top-of-stove work.

She also encourages them to make salads. She adds that they are real good dish washers.

The children have a simplified recipe for chocolate cake which they entitle "Crazy Cake" because it requires no eggs.

Kathryn can make this one all by herself. Perhaps there are other area children who with their mother's permission would like to try it. Readers may find it in another column on this page.

☆

OTHER children in the Gendzwill family are Teresa, 6; Laura, 5; Matthew, 3½; Margaret, 2 and Andrew, 1.

Mrs. Gendzwill said Monday that her husband is an excellent cook. He likes to, and frequently does, bake bread and start dinner, especially on Sunday.

Mr. Gendzwill is the coach at Boysville. He came to Macon from Manchester in Sept. 1958. The family has been living on Burt St. for the past three years.

Besides baking bread and coaching, Mr. G. shears sheep, paints barns and houses and is working toward a master's degree at Siena Heights College.

Mrs. G. may not like to cook, but she [illegible] to sew and makes most of the girl's dresses. She also likes to paint with oils.

Only occasionally does Mrs. G. get perturbed with the confusion in her kitchen. It's then that she tells her hubby that he ought to go fishing rather than try the culinary arts.

JEANNE AND KATHRYN GENDZWILL PREPARE TO BAKE SOME OF THEIR YUMMY JUM-JILLS

Crazy Cake

1. Set oven heat control at 350 degrees.
2. Get out the things you'll need:
   - flour
   - cocoa
   - sugar, granulated
   - salt
   - baking soda
   - salad oil
   - vinegar
   - milk
   - big mixing bowl
   - big mixing spoon
   - flour sifter
   - measuring cup
   - measuring spoons
   - large flat cake pan
   - paper napkin
   - pot holders
3. Grease the cake pan, using the paper napkin and a little oil. Put one small spoonful of flour into pan and shake it around so bottom of pan is covered with flour.
4. Set sifter in mixing bowl. Into sifter put:
   - 3 cups flour
   - 6 tablespoons cocoa
   - 2 cups sugar
   - 1 teaspoon salt
   - 2 teaspoons soda

   Sift all into bowl.
5. Pour 2/3 cups of oil into bowl.
6. Into the big bowl put two tablespoons vinegar and two cups of milk. Stir this all up and keep stirring until it looks smooth. Pour batter into 11½ x 13" cake pan. Bake cake for about ½ hour.

   The cake is done when it has shrunk away from the sides of the pan and the top bounces back when you tap it with your finger. Stick a toothpick in the center and if it comes out dry, the cake is done.
7. Take the cake out of the oven. Frost with your favorite frosting.

Kroger Offers Scholarships to Colleges

A total of 66 Kroger scholarships for freshman students in agriculture and home economics will again be offered at land-grant colleges in 23 states, for the 1963-1964 school year, it was announced today by Jack W. Davis, vice-president of the Toledo division of The Kroger Co., which operates stores in this area.

Two new schools were added this year, Mr. Davis said. They are the University of Minnesota and the University of Maryland.

The scholarships, which are for $250, are available at land-grant colleges in midwestern and southern states where there are Kroger stores and in California and Florida where Kroger fruit and vegetable buying offices are located.

Eight such scholarships are offered for students in the Toledo area at Ohio State University and Michigan State University.

Any graduate of an accredited high school is eligible. Application should be made directly to the college. Scholarship winners are selected by the sholarship committee at each college and the school will notify winners by mail.

Kroger scholarship awards will be made on the basis of scholastic stading in high school as well as leadership in school, church, or youth groups. Financial need may also be considered.

DR. ROBERT LAIDLAW

St. George Award Given Dr. Laidlaw

Dr. Robert Laidlaw was one of 10 Catholic Scout leaders to win the coveted St. George medal during 1962.

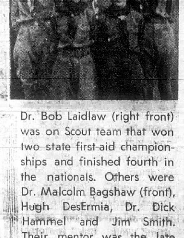

It was bestowed by the Archdiocese of Detroit to the local dentist and nine other Michigan men "for outstanding contributions to Scouting and community service."

Dr. Laidlaw accepted the medal at a ceremony last week in St. Elizabeth School from Richard Duffin, who substituted for the Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Collins, called away at the last moment.

A major factor for the honor to Dr. Laidlaw was his work in helping to keep Tecumseh Troop 4 functioning in recent years.

This is one of the city's oldest Scout organizations and the one to which Dr. Laidlaw belonged as a youth when he gained the high stature of Eagle Scout.

All told Dr. Laidlaw was a Scout four years and served in leadership capacities the past eight, the last two as Cubmaster of Cub Scout Pack 4.

Dr. Bob Laidlaw (right front) was on Scout team that won two state first-aid championships and finished fourth in the nationals. Others were Dr. Malcolm Bagshaw (front), Hugh DesErmia, Dr. Dick Hammel and Jim Smith. Their mentor was the late John "Cap" Larson, one-time manager of the Quaker Oats plant here. One of Mr. Larson's death-bed requests was to have his former Scouts serve as pall bearers at his funeral.

Girl Competes for Beauty Title in Dairy Contest

Linda Lee Dean is among 13 candidates competing for 1963 Lenawee County Dairy Princess Saturday, April 20 in Adrian.

Linda, 19, daughter of Mrs. Dale Dean and the late Mr. Dean, is being sponsored by Tecumseh Grange.

A short personal interview has been arranged with contest judges at 10:30 a.m. at St. John's Lutheran School, 430 East Church Street.

Following the noon luncheon each candidate will make a two to four minute presentation.

Judging will be based on:

Dairy farm background and activities
Appearance and poise
Personality
Intelligence
Ability to speak

The evening banquet is to be held at Producers Dairy Building, 1336 E. Maumee Street at 7 p.m.

During the evening, the 1963 Lenawee County Dairy Princess will be announced and crowned by Gail Priddy, 1962 Michigan State Dairy Princess.

The public is invited to attend the evening banquet. Tickets are available from Dorman Stout, Donald Beebe and the Co-operative Extension Service at the Court House in Adrian.

He's Commander

RIDGEWAY—Howard Wilson Sr. has been elected Eminent Commander of the Knight Templars, Adrian Commandery No. 4.

Ex-Tecumseh Coach New Superintendent of Jackson System

Dr. Elven Duvall, former Tecumseh High School coach, was named superintendent of the Jackson school system Monday.

Dr. Duvall has been assistant superintendent of the Grosse Pointe schools since February of 1961.

He will assume his new duties in the fall, replacing Dr. Ralph McCleary who is retiring from the $21,000-a-year-post.

Dr. Duvall at 41 will be the youngest man to hold the top post in the state's 14th largest school system.

Dr. Duvall and his wife, Jane, have five children. He was physical education instructor in the Tecumseh system from 1949 to 1951.

Mrs. Duvall was president of the Tecumseh Girl Scout Association in 1950 and was instrumental in strengthening the program extensively while the Duvalls lived in Tecumseh.

WHEN THEY moved to Addison she organized Scouting there and has remained a friend of the program wherever they have lived.

Dr. Duvall was high school principal and later superintendent at Addison, leaving there in 1956 when he accepted a position on the faculty of Western Michigan University.

He received his doctorate at the Columbia University in New York.

Plant Corn Early

Early corn planting really pays off.

Research shows much higher yields on fields planted before May 10.

"During the past 13 years, Michigan corn yields have averaged 13% more when the corn was planted May 1 to 10 than when planted May 15 to 20,' reports E. C. Rossman, who conducted date-of-planting research for the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Yields were up to 30 per cent higher with the early seedings than with May 25-30 plantings."

Besides higher yields, the Michigan State University farm crops researcher lists several other merits of early corn planting.

These are:

- ► More mature corn,
- ► Lower moisture
- ► Easier and cleaner harvest
- ► Better quality corn with no major lodging or weed control problems.

"The basic explanation for higher corn yields with early planting is associated with available moisture,' Rossman contends. "In Michigan, there is generally a dry period of some length during late July and early August. Early planting gets the corn tasseled and silked with larger, deeper root systems and better developed ears before this limited moisture time.

☆

"THE DIFFERENCES in favor of early planting in the East Lansing area were very striking last year,' Rossman asserts. "Rainfall was nine inches below normal from April to September.

"Our test plots showed early planting (April 26-May 7) averaged 33 bushels or 57% higher yields than May 17 seedings, 40 bushels or 79% more than May 24 planting, and 51 bushel or 119% more than May 31 plantings."

Mr. Rossman also points out that the quality of most hybrid seed corn today is much superior to that of 15 years ago—a factor which makes it possible to obtain good stands even with late April planting.

See corn does not germinate until the soil has warmed up to about 50 degrees. Rossman advised that seed population be 20% higher than desired plant population to allow for loss.

Such losses can come from low germination, seed insects and rodents and destruction of plants in cultivation.

He also notes that germination reported by seed companies are usually computed under optimum conditions of moisture and termperature rather than those that exist under field conditions.

☆

A SIMPLE cold germination test can help farmers check on seed for early planting. Here's how it works:

Soak a doubled piece of newspaper; sprinkle a one-half inch layer of soil (preferably from a previous cornfield) on the paper; space 100 seeds on it; roll and tie loosely; put in an open fruit jar; place in the refrigerator (usually 45-50 degrees) for 10 days; remove to a 70-degree room for five to seven days, keeping it moist; and count the number of healthy seedlings.

"Even if the weather should be cold and wet after planting, high quality seed corn is capable of standing two-three weeks of adverse weather and still provide a good stand in the field," says Mr. Rossman.

That's because the seed corn is carefully harvested, dried, processed, treated with a fungicide to control soil and seedborne organisms, and it is stored under optimum conditions.'

Mr. Rossman tells farmers not to become alarmed when spring frosts kill some or all of the corn's above-ground leaves after early planting and seedling emergence.

"During a spring frost,' he explains, "the soil temperature is likely to be above the air temperature. Unless the soil temperature also drops to freezing or below, the plants will not be killed.

"Pull some plants. If the below-soil plant issue looks alive, do not rip up the field; leave it alone for three to four days, and it will probably begin to show green leaves.

"Under these circumstances, the plants will generally recover and will still be ahead of replanted corn," Mr. Rossman contends.

"A pre-emergence herbicide should be used on early planted corn to provide weed control," concludes Mr. Roesman. "If sprayed pre-emergence, there should be no unusual problems of weed control when comparing early with late planting."

Asphalt Plant Soon to Employ Up to 40 Men

Plans to employ up to 40 men during the summer road-building season are being engineered by the new owners of Ayling-Cunningham Asphalt, Paving Co.

Now entirely based in Tecumseh on Green Hwy., Ayling-Cunningham is under the direction of Dean Cunningham of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Cunningham, a 1954 graduate of Michigan State University, has been close to the asphalt paving business from age 11, when he spent much of his spare time at an operation his uncle ran.

Before acquiring the local firm, he was general superintendent and a stockholder in the Washtenaw Asphalt Co.

Another key man in Ayling-Cunningham is Bill Schlanderer, a University of Michigan civil engineering graduate, who serves as superintendent.

He formerly had been employed by the State Highway Department.

☆

MR. CUNNINGHAM is enthulastic about the potential of the business here and has already landed four jobs.

His company will do paving at the new State Highway maintenance garage on M-52, across from the Girls Training School.

It will also pave US-12 through the Village of Clinton, a distance of about one and one-half miles.

Ayling-Cunningham is scheduled to resurface two Clinton streets.

A fourth contract calls for resurfacing and widening of M-52 from the southern end of Adrian to the state line a distance of approximately eight miles.

Mr. Cunningham hopes to bid on proposed paving jobs within Tecumseh this spring.

During previous company ownership peak employment reached about 20. This figure is expected to grow to between 30 and 40 during the paving season which usually begins in mid-April and continues until the last of November, explains Mr. Cunningham.

Principal pieces of equipment are the two asphalt-making plants — one stationary, the other portable.

Both are capable of producing 120 tons of mix an hour about 1,000 tons per day. The portable plant, which can be moved anywhere, is made up in sections on wheels. It was only used on one job previously.

Mr. Cunningham has his mechanics busy putting it into working order and hopes to utilize it for jobs all over the state. When the portable plant moves, local employees will accompany it.

IN OTHER equipment, the company has two pavers, four rollers and grading gear. Its trucks are being leased.

Ayling-Cunningham is a Michigan Highway Dept. specification plant and Mr. Cunningham can bid on all state jobs within the firm's capacity.

"We want to do state, county and municipal paving, as well as large parking lots," Mr. Cunningham stated. "We also would like to service smaller contractors with materials."

Seabees Seeking Members

The Navy's famous World War II Seabees (or Construction Battalions) have recently reaffirmed their program which will allow young men to enlist in the Naval Reserve at a pay rate comparable with your civilian experience and employment.

Naval Reserve Construction Battalion Division 9-58 meets each Thursday evening at the Jackson Naval Reserve Training Center, 1199 North West St. — just south of the Lansing (US-127) turnoff from I-94.

The Division, which has several veterans, is interested in men with mechanical, equipment operating, or building trades (carpenters, plumbers, electricians, steel workers, sheet metal workers, etc.), surveying and drafting training and experience.

Men without previous military experience may qualify up to age 39. Veterans may enlist up to age 42. All groups may qualify for retirement money.

There is also a worth-while program for young men of ages 17 to 26. They may plan to learn a trade during their delayed two year active duty tour, or plan to work toward admittance to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Active duty service may be delayed as much as 15 months or as long as one is still in high school or college. When the men do go on active duty, their advanced pay grade entitles them to their choice of occupation.

For further details, stop in at the Jackson Naval Reserve Training Center any Thursday evening, or call ST 3-5180 during normal working hours.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

A DREARY, BUT BUSY APRIL THE 8TH

Is there anything any busier than a busy spring morning? So far I have avoided too much discussion about springtime happenings because well, the wonderful season moves so fast and things happen so quickly that it is impossible to keep up to date.

One week the ground is covered with snow and the next, the grass is green. Our crocuses are up and gone and a few early tulips are in bloom.

Weeks ago the pussy-willows popped, and the forsythia is just on the verge of exploding into bloom. By the time you read this, the big red buds on the maple trees will be replaced by the lacy green mist of new leaves. Yet today is so busy that I must try to share at least part of it.

Weatherwise, April 8th is nothing.

It is cold, dark and dreary, a raw wind is blowing quite briskly and the spatter of rain often hits the window. We need the rain the creek is alarmingly low for so early in the spring; but I fear this is not the type of rain which will help much.

The birds are not minding the dull morning, their spirits are not dampened a bit.

☆

EVEN WITH the house shut up tight and all the storm windows and doors stil lon, we can hear the bird chorus, it comes on, as the saying goes, loud and clear.

Mama and Papa Cardinal have the leads, above all the other singers it is easy to pick out their whistles. There is a special quality to a spring morning serenade—happy and joyous are hardly strong enough to describe it.

A jarring discord to the pretty bird music is coming from somewhere across the creek. An irate bluejay is screaming his displeasure at something.

I can't see him but from the sound it is not hard to picture the action—he is literally jumping up and down with rage. Maybe there has been a lover's quarrel.

Awhile ago two jays were sitting close together, 'necking'; spring is really here when we notice bluejays getting this friendly.

☆

A SQUIRREL has just taken possession of the corn-tree. The rain does nothing for his fur, nothing good, at least. He must be still shedding his winter suit and my, but he is scrawny-looking.

A host of grackles and several doves are sitting in the wren-tree patiently waiting. When the squirrel leaves, they will swoop down and feast upon the corn he drops to the ground.

Because of the rain we did not replenish the supply of scratch-feed on the feeder, somehow the birds don't care for a wet breakfast and who can blame them.

The big piece of suet is attracting much business however. It must be good even though damp. Cocky chick-a-dees, perky tufted titmice and the dowdiest female downy woodpecker you ever saw are having a grand time.

☆

HANDSOME Hairy Woodpecker is across the creek and over at Marshes I see a flicker, but I'll bet they won't be over for a suet breakfast—darn 'em.

Oh, oh—the chorus just underwent a change, the two soloists left. Mama and Papa Cardinal are now hopping around on the bright, green grass of Doctor's yard. In fact, he just fed her so you see, it really is spring.

Mrs. Towhee is still around, she is maybe embarrassed by the cardinals because as soon as they started "kissing", she left.

Off and on all morning she has been interested in the clump of barberry bushes—wonder if she is house-hunting?

So it is that our morning has been quite active—thanks for letting me share with you part of a dreary, but busy, April the 8th.

NEXT WEEK—

New Rumpf Warehouse Almost Done

New warehouse for Rumpf Truck Line located at Carpenter Rd. on US-23 is about half completed.

The 110' x 40' building will replace a warehouse completely razed by fire Feb. 15.

W. J. Rumpf, president of the company, said that the roof had been put on Monday and in two weeks, the building will be ready for occupancy.

An explosion fed by a broken high-pressure gas line demolished the old building, two lift trucks worth $6,000 each, a machine worth $4,000, tractors trucks and freight on the dock.

What's the Matter with Gram?

(Editor's note—One of the funniest weekly newspaper columnists in Michigan is Dave Rood, co-publisher of the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune. This recent offering by Dave is too good to keep to ourselves, so we'd like to share it with our readers.)

What's the matter with grandma these days? If you'll pardon the expression, she's off her rocker and is going, going, gone.

This musing was prompted by a letter from my dear old sweet little grey-haired mother, who will be 66 next month.

Sapphire wrote about three pages of exultant prose telling of her summer plans to jet over to London, tour England, visit six countries on the continent and jet back in time to start knocking student heads together this fall at Okemos High School.

Her plans didn't surprise me too much, as my mother has moved at a pretty fast pace for most of her 66 years, and the only thing that has slowed her down at all lately was when she fell into the septic tank while playing badminton last summer and sprained her ankle.

I can see her now, starting out on a walking tour through the English countryside, bound from London to Leeds and armed with a six-foot pole to ward off thugs, footpads and uppity Cockneys.

☆

MY WIFE'S mother is no slouch either. Little Nell is about 10 years older than my mother, and a great-grandmother as well, but right now she and her sister are gadding around Florida, and if her next letter reported that they won the daily double at Hialeah, I wouldn't be too surprised.

The mother of a friend of ours, who is also on the far side of 60, is another case in point.

From the way she plays golf, she must be the one who taught Ben Hogan and Sam Snead the fundamentals of the game, and after a good 18 holes in the middle 80's she enjoys nothing better than taking her shoes off and resting on the clubhouse veranda with a double hooker of Cutty Sark.

All of this can be most confusing to the person who was brought up to regard Grandma as a dear little thing sitting placidly in her rocker with the Afghan over her shoulder, crocheting doilies and reciting the Psalms.

Times change, of course. Our youngsters are marrying younger today—the average bride is about 19 years old, I think the statistics say — and the inevitable result of this is that mothers are becoming grandmothers sooner than before.

☆

LIFE BEGINS at 40 used to be a popular saying about 20 years ago, but nowadays it's not unusual to find a 40 year old grandmother as chic and as smart looking as her young married daughter.

Cosmetics and corsets get some of the credit, but so does the youthful outlook that so many of our Senior Citizens enjoy.

I am constantly amazed when I see people of retirement age seeking new challenges and new worlds to conquer.

Perhaps it's because for the past 20 years or so people have had more leisure time to develop new interests and attitudes.

During the years of the Great Depression there was no time or opportunity for many people to travel and meet new faces and new ideas or develop their hidden talents and secret yearnings.

It was a question then of survival of the fittest and the divil take the hindmost and forget about the finger painting and flower arrangements.

A dollar won't do as much for you today as it did 20 years ago, it's been said, but then, you don't do as much today for a dollar, either.

Automation and labor saving devices, both in business and industry and in the home, have created vast spaces of leisure time for the average person.

☆

TODAY IT'S probably more accurate to change the saying to Life Begins at 65, for by that time our Grandmas and Grandpas can sit back, start cashing their Social Security checks, and enjoying themselves.

Not in idleness, but in travels and hobbies and interests and challenges that would have been impossible several decades ago.

I say more power to them. If my mother wants to ram all over the continent; if my wife's mother wants to lolly gag on the chaise lounge and eat bon bons in the Florida sun; if my friend's mother wants to beat the socks off a nine-handicap golfer, my hat is off to them.

After all, you're only old once..

Agriculture in Action

By M. L. WOELL

Michigan Farm Bureau

"Farm problems belong to city people too," says peppy Orville Walker, District Extension Agent in Marketing, who is one of the nation's top salesmen for improved farm public relations.

Mr. Walker his friends call him "Shorty"—has taken the story of the importance of agricultural understanding to all of the states in the Union, and to much of the world.

Everywhere in his travels as former president of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (1959) and as a District Governor in Rotary International, Shorty has found farming to be "the biggest industry in the world."

"Since it is, and since many people don't realize this to be true, I consider it my job to tell them," he says.

Walker suggests that farm public-relations is a full-time job, every day. A job important enough, he feels, that much more time, effort and money should be spent in this direction.

☆

TO STIMULATE such thinking, he points out that "he who controls the power of food, controls the world,"—and adds that two-thirds of the people of the world are so desperately hungry that it is not a figure of speech when they pray, "Give us this day our daily bread . . . "

He tells of a population increase that in the United States includes 8,000 additional people per day, and 100,000 new babies born each day in the world. He looks ahead to the year 2,000 when there will be 400 million people in the U.S., and worldwide — about one-half acre of land per person "counting the Antarctic, the Sahara desert and Mt. Everest."

All of which, in Walker's estimation, adds up to more need for basic farm research,—a sensitive spot among some who look at sky-high surpluses and suggest that the answer is less, not more.

"You can't turn research on and off like a faucet" Shorty says, "— and remember, not enough food is disaster—famine. We talk about the missile-gap. —Just think how much more serious it would be if we had a food-gap."

Such visionary thinking is the kind that keeps American agriculture out of the low-production ruts into which it has fallen in much of the world. Further, such thinking has earned Shorty Walker many unsought titles, among them the award for "Distinguished Service to Agriculture" presented by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Name Chosen for Restaurant

The new eating place on N. Pearl St. recently opened by Simon Hernandez now has a name — LaVencedora Mexican Restaurant.

Mr. Hernandez, a resident of Ida, is specializing in Mexican foods including tacos, tamales, enchiladas and other south-of-the-border dishes.

NAMED TO BOARD—Ken Herrick (left) receives congratulations from T. A. Saunders, president of General Telephone Co., after being named to the firm's board of directors. Mr. Herrick, a Tecumseh Products Co. vice-president, succeeds his father, R. W. Herrick, who served on the phone company board for 16 years. Since the senior Herrick was first elected to Gen Tel's board, the company has grown from a few scattered telephone exchanges into a corporation with over $128 million invested in telephone plant, serving 280,500 phones in 55 of Michigan's 83 counties. Mr. Saunders said, "We are very pleased to have continuity of leadership from the Herrick family. The past growth and expansion of this company has been due, in large part, to the sound guidance provided by R. W. Herrick. We look forward to future corporate development with Kenneth Herrick as a member of our board.

Can Cause Skin Irritation

The National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers has received several reports from large cities in the United States of skin reactions attributed to a product called "Flubber."

It is manufactured by Hassenfeld Brothers, Central Falls, Rhode Island and is sold as a play item for children.

It has been described as a stretchy, rubberized product which can be molded into various shapes and has "a lot of bounce."

This product has been reported to consist of about 70% butadiene polymer and 30% mineral oil and has been implicated in causing dermatitis, often referred to as "Flubberitis."

At the present time we do not have a clear clinical description of this rash. One area that has encountered a number of these cases reports that they have responded well to avoidance of contact of Flubber and the use of a mild soothing lotion.

Although the Lenawee County Health Dept. has received this information from widely dispersed areas, it can only be speculated that Flubber is involved as causing this skin condition.

Doctors are asked to contact the county office when any skin reactions are noted in which this product has been implicated.

12-Mile Section Closed

A 12-mile section of M-52 between Adrian and the Michigan-Ohio state line has been closed to traffic to allow construction work on a $1.7 million project to modernize the highway.

Highway Department officials said traffic will be detoured to avoid construction work.

The detour for automobiles starts at M-52 and M-34 in Adrian, then east on M-34 one mile to Treat Rd., then south to the junction of Ohio 120 and 109. It is four miles longer than the regular route.

Truck traffic will be detoured on a different route because of weight restrictions on bridges on Treat Rd., which are limited to a carrying load of seven tons.

Truck traffic will be detoured starting at the junction of M-34 and M-52 in Adrian west on M-34 to M-156, then south to M-120 and east to the junction of Ohio 120 and 109.

The detours are expected to be in effect all summer.

This Is How Joyce Will Look in Film

Tecumseh's own Joyce Wilbar—now known as Julie Parrish—plays a college student in the coming Jerry Lewis film, "The Nutty Professor," which will be released this summer. Paramount Pictures' publicity department released these photos to The Herald, showing Joyce as she'll appear in the movie. In "The Nutty Professor" Jerry portrays two roles, a mild and gently eccentric college chemistry prof and a life-of-the-party at a questionable off-campus hangout. Jerry turns up as an infant professor and also a ruthless gang lord, as he imagines himself to be during a fantasy sequel. Paramount's "production and synopsis" fact sheet, which came with the photos, states that the prom sequence gave Joyce and Nicky Blair an unique opportunity to go steady for a solid week—and be paid for the pleasure. Already a Hollywood romance item, Julie and Nicky spent the week dancing together before the camera.

GI from Ridgeway Warns Population of His Return

Mr. and Mrs. William Merrick of Ridgeway received an unusual notification of their son's discharge from the armed forces.

A humorous and lengthy description of his adjustment to civilian life, it reads in part:

"Issued in solemn warning, this 11th day April 63, to the family, neighbors and relatives, and acquaintances of Lee Merrick.

"Very soon the undersigned will once again be in your midst, dehydrated, demoralized and demolished, ready to take his place as a human being with freedom and justice for all, engaged in life, liberty and the somewhat belated pursuit of happiness.

"In making your joyous preparations to welcome him back into society, you must make a few allowances for the very crude surroundings which has been his home for the past 13 months.

"In other words he may be a little oriental, suffering from Koreanitis and must be handled with extreme care. Don't let him shock you if when answering the phone, he says 'Yobosayo' instead of hello, and 'Sayonara' instead of goodby.

"Treat him with kindness and tolerance and you will be able to rehabilitate that which is now but the hollow shell of the once proud civilian you once knew.

"Send no more mail in care of APO 20 after April 18, get all the streets clear of kids. Lee is coming home. Hallejujah!"

VOICE OF THE HERALD

The Vanishing Man

(Editor's Note — Dr. Arthur Brown, local dentist, was impressed with the editorial in the recent issue of the Journal of the Michigan State Dental Association. He recommended that it be printed in The Herald and we are happy to comply with the request. The article was written by William E. Brown, Jr., DDS, of Ann Arbor.)

What has happened to the "rugged individualist?" Although he is not extinct as yet, it appears that he is well on his way to being wiped off the face of the earth.

The secret to success is to be popular — to be liked — to avoid offending anyone — to go along with the crowd — to work for the good of the organization.

Whereas these phrases are appropriate to describe the workings of our society, they tend often to work against the person who thinks independently, who has new ideas, who speaks out when he thinks he is right, and who has a passion to achieve excellence. The pupil who studies at night intead of making the rounds with the gang or who asks too many questions in class often is left off the invitation list for parties.

The young politician who opposes the old party line usually is defeated in the primaries. The young executive who expresses ideas contrary to the ruling dynasty often must find a position with another company.

To be different, just to be different, is as wrong as to be a sheep. Moreover, the young man who grows a beard, lets his hair grow long, and wears sloppy dress just to display his independence often finds himself in a large group with each member doing the same thing.

Hence, he is hardly an example of the "rugged individualist" but rather represents conformity at its worst. To speak out, just to be heard, without complete knowledge of a subject, risks embarrassment and censure and discourages the qualified person from exerting himself.

The person who does more than is expected of him in his job often is castigated by his co-workers as one who is seeking favors. To be a "true individual" then is a difficult task.

That this country was founded by strong individuals and has become mighty because enough people had the courage to move ahead without fear or favor — is a statement which many consider to be provincial and behind the times. It may be too late to recapture the vitality that this country once knew. Hopefully, enough people believe in this ideal to justify these editorial comments.

To produce a significant impact on society the "true individual" must be informed and well-educated; he must have the ability to communicate and make use of that ability without fear. He must have principles which he understands and by which he lives. He must have a sense of responsibility for his family, his community and his country. He must have political savy so that he may use his ability. Above all else he must have a burning desire to use his skills to the fullest.

In a practical sense, how can the "true individual" be developed and encouraged? The obvious answer is for parents to motivate their children in this direction, i.e., to accept responsibility, to work up to capacity, and to do for themselves instead of depending on other people or agencies.

Moreover, professional societies might do well to encourage more frequently the individual, or at least not stifle serious ambition. Dentistry is one of the last remaining strongholds for individual initiative and independence.

Let the profession conduct itself in a manner befitting of its high position and responsibilities.

Is Each Vote Important?

The cliff-hanging finish to the vote on the Constitutional proposal seems to prove once again that every vote counts in Michigan.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, in releasing the unofficial final tally on the Constitutional contest, pointed out that the proposal won by a mere 7,766 votes.

The 83 county roundup showed 811,035 "Yes" votes to 803,269 "No" votes.

"Close as the vote on acceptance of the new basic document was, it was by no means one of the closest elections in Michigan," Hare reminded. "We have had many with smaller margins to prove that in Michigan elections every vote counts."

In the 1950 General Election, the final tally in the gubernatorial contest showed G. Mennen Williams a mere 1154 ahead of Harry F. Kelly. Had 600 switched, Kelly would have been in.

Lieut. Governor T. John Lesinski won in 1962 with a 2,017 vote advantage over Clarence A. Reid.

In spite of the fact that there were many donors for the hunt, there were only 1500 eggs instead of the anticipated 5,000, leaving some disappointed youngsters.

The event was attended by hundreds of children.

Owls Come in Variety of Shapes

Mrs. Gayle Fisher, past president of the State PEO, Mrs. Archie Dunsmore and Mrs. C. O. Baily are attending the PEO state convention in Dearborn from Tuesday to Thursday this week.

April 9 Chapter AJ PEO members entertained their husbands for dinner at the Grange Hall when Mrs. Albert Wright was the speaker.

Mrs. Wright of Chapter CJ PEO, Dearborn presented a talk on and displays of "Owls".

She told of the importance of owls in the destruction of rodents, since they eat only meat.

She also stated that there is no place in the world where owls of some description are not found and that there are over 300 kinds of owls in the world.

Thirty-three attending viewed owls of all descriptions including stuffed and ceramic, aprons, earrings, pins, clocks and many others. She has been collecting owls for 15 years.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITORS:

I would like to congratulate the people of the various churches who presented the Hidden Lake Easter sunrise service.

This year the weather was about perfect and the attendance indeed remarkable.

The program and setting were well planned and thanks to hard work by a large committee, it turned out perfectly.

A few years ago we were privileged to attend the Easter service at Grand Canyon. This is held on the west side of the branch canyon, west of Canyon Village, down which the "Mule Trail" descends to the river.

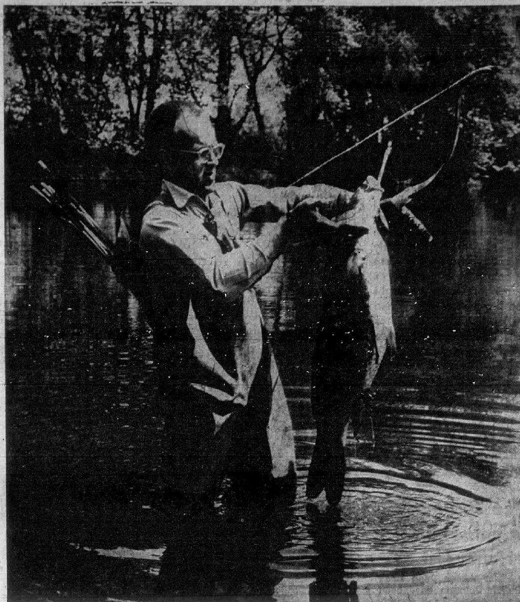

The sun rises over the main canyon and the setting is truly impressive.

The program is presented by choirs and speakers from Flagstaff, Williams and other towns, some of them 75 miles or more from the Canyon.

Our program at Hidden Lake was ust as good as they have there. We do not have the professionals who participate at the Hollywood Bowl, but I am proud of our community.

Thanks a Lot,

Track Squads Take Second

Running without seniors—who were on the annual Washington trip Tecumseh finished second in a triangular track meet Wednesday of last week against Saline and Monroe Jefferson.

One-tenth of a point separated the Indians from front-running Saline, who edged Tecumseh's 880-relay team by just two-tenths of a second in the final event.

Losing out in events where they are the strongest, the Indians would have won the triangular meet easily with the seniors participating.

Coach Don Brazee's thinclads won five first places and five seconds. They were not shut out in any event. Box score is:

Shot Put—Bill Thomas (T), Maus (MJ), Schader (S), John Oberlin (T). 45'8".

Broad jump—Jay Osburn (T), Johnson (S), Chapman (MJ), Kirk Lucas (T). 18'2".

High jump — O'Dell (MJ), Johnson (S), Harvey (S), tie for fourth. Steve Derby and Jim Baker of Tecumseh and one each from Saline and Monroe Jefferson. 5'7".

Pole vault—Davis (S), Doug Goldsberry (T) and O'Dell (MJ), Lucas (T). 10'6".

120-yd. high hurdles — Davis (S), Osburn (T), Baker (T), Miller (S). 16.7.

100-yd. dash — Schrader (S), Tim Collins (T), Armbruster (S), Mike Wilson (T). 10.9.

880—Sanders (MJ), Hochradel (MJ), Jim Brown (T), Strait (S). 2:15.

440—Dave Lemerand (T), Burhart (S), Lake (S) and Girbach (S) tie. 54.8.

180-yd. low hurdles — Davis (S), Derby (T), Bartenslager (T), Maus (MJ). 22.6.

It's Registration Time for Owners of Boats

If you are one of the three out of five watercraft owners who have not re-registered your motorboat this year, you'd better act soon if you want to enjoy Michigan waters this May or June.

Since the current three-year registration period started, on Jan. 1, 1963, the Department of State has registered 150,000 watercraft, or about 38 percent of the estimated 400,000 or more motorboat owners in Michigan.

According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, the unit which handles applications completes the process and gets the papers in the mail to the owner in about one week.

"If hot weather comes along and we are deluged with applications, it may slow up this present smooth flowing schedule," Hare said. "For that reason, I'd like to urge all motorboat owners to get their applications in now. If they wait until Memorial Day, they'll catch us in the big crush."

The new registration, which costs $3, is good for three years, from January 1, 1963 to December 31, 1965.

☆

TO ENABLE boat owners to retain the MC numbers they already carry on their watercraft, prepared applications to all boat owners whose craft had previously been registered were sent out.

All persons who received these prepared registration applications early this year were asked to return them at once with their $3 fee so that they could retain their present boat numbers.

Mr. Hare suggested that motorboat owners check their application card to see if description of the watercraft, the boat registration number, and the owner's name is correct.

Upon receipt of the signed card and the registration fee, the Michigan Department of State mails two 3 x 2½ inch black and white decals and a registration certificate, good until the end of 1965.

The decals are to be fixed to the boat as visual evidence that the 1963-65 fee has been paid.

The receipts go into the Watercraft Law Enforcement Fund and are asked for the administration of the law and in grants to counties in setting up enforcement programs.

The State matches on a two-for-one basis, up to a maximum State contribution of $20,000, the money appropriated by counties for watercraft policies and regulating purposes.

Language Class Begins Next Week

Spanish class for children will begin Tuesday, April 23 at the Tecumseh Public Library from 7 to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Leslie Calhoun will instruct the ten-week class.

Interested parties may register at the library before Tuesday. A $5 fee will cover the cost of class.

Herrick Memorial Landscape Plans Are Now Complete

Herrick Memorial Hospital landscape plans made by Andrew Smith Tecumseh architect, and sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary are complete. They have met with the approval of the Hospital Board and City Council.

Work on the first unit, the main entrance, will begin this spring.

Since the hospital serves so many in the area the auxiliary has composed a ten minute program of slides showing the hospital, present and future.

Any interested groups in Tecumseh or surrounding communities are invited to call Mrs. Carlos Knisely, 423-2911, to arrange a date.

The plan is designed to make the hospital a better place for patients through effective use of shade, screening, appealing views from windows and the addition of outdoor exercise areas.

It will provide improved traffic for visitors and staff. Service areas will be safe, convenient and attractive.

Low maintenance and a function for every planting, sidewalk and drive were of prime importance in the plan.

The project has been entered in the Sears Roebuck and Company Civic Improvement Contest through the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan by the Little Garden Club of Tecumseh.

An award of $250 will be presented to the best civic improvement in each of the seven districts in Michigan.

Winners will be announced June 11, 1963.

Since the whole community is involved with the hospital and benefits by the improvement the Auxiliary is providing a plan whereby any interested group or individual can support the project.

Local citizens can help:

► By telling others about the plan. Auxiliary members will answer questions and welcome suggestions.

► With donations from a dollar up from individuals or groups.

A special Herrick Memorial Hospital landscaping savings account has been established at the United Savings Bank for this purpose.

Anyone may directly deposit the donation into this account.

No amounts will be recorded or published other than bank records.

An acknowledgement will be sent to the donor for his contribution, which is tax deductible.

Names of donors will be recorded in a landscape dedication book at the hospital.

Names of donors will be listed in the Tecumseh Herald, unless otherwise requested.

► With Memorial donations.

Memorial envelopes will be available at all funeral homes in the area and at the hospital. They are stamped and self-addressed to Herrick Memorial landscaping savings account.

Remembrance cards with the hospital on the cover will be sent by the auxiliary to the family of the deceased, with the name of the person honored and name of the donor.

The name of the person honored will be entered in the landscape dedication book and donor will receive an acknowledgement of his gift.

Since landscaping often outlives buildings this will be an enduring memorial to all who contribute said Mrs. C. L. Cook, chairman.

All contributions will be used for landscaping the grounds of the existing hospital and additions. This includes the nursing home soon to be constructed.

Irene Circle Views Slides of Holy Land

Mrs. Duaine Steele was hostess Monday evening for ten members of the Irene Circle and three guests, Mrs. Paul Maves, Mrs. Edward Beal and Mrs. F. J. Braggs of Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Glenn Work, chairman, announced that the Girl Scout Troop sponsored by the Circle will be guests next month. Mrs. Luther Wood is council woman.

Mrs. Howard Kronberg gave Easter devotions.

Mrs. Robert Bonner asked anyone interested in changing to afternoon circles to contact her.

Mrs. Beal of the Mary Foster Circle distributed questionaires concerning circles and WSCS meetings for next year.

Mrs. Bob Cheers, program chairman, presented Mrs. Maves who showed slides of the Holy Land taken during her visit last Easter.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Donald Long and Mrs. Harley McConnell.

Handicraft Work Being Displayed

The display case at the Tecumseh Public Library will be filled with handicraft work this week from the classes of Mrs. Keith Swain and Doris Heckert at the Patterson School.

Mrs. Swain's students are fourth graders and Miss Heckert's are in the sixth grade.

The engagement of Nancy Ann Pippitt to Robert C. Miller is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Pippett of Mendon. Miss Pippitt is a graduate of Michigan State University and her fiance is an Adrian College graduate. He is the son of Mrs. Merle Bowers of Sand Creek and Robert S. Miller of Hudson. Both young people are teachers in the Britton-Macon School system. She teaches seventh grade and he is a science teacher in the high school. The wedding date has been set for June 2.

Bertrand Russell, the famed British philosopher and critic, has very definite views on most everything, and he has never hesitated to present them.

For more than 50 years, he has been writing on a wide variety of subjects [illegible] politics, education, religion, ethics, and marriage.

Some time ago, we ran across one of his comments on fashion, In substance, he says that women in supposedly civilized sections of the world often wear decollete gowns, low cut, off-shoulder garments, to attract the attention of the opposite sex. But among the savage tribes where nudeness is a common thing, they put ON clothes to enhance their charms and get the approval of men!

Which all goes to show, it is merely a matter of custom.

Right now we are hoping the women of this country, and especially in this area will want to put on clothes, since we have so many things to show you. Just as sure as spring follows the winter, summer will follow the spring, and you will want new casuals and warm weather play clothes.

For instance . . . we suggest cotton knits by Jeannie, this group includes a wide range of separates, a play suit with a matching wrap skirt if desired and a three piece knit suit at only $17.95.

Despite the recent chilly weather it will be soon time for the beach and pool. Our swimwear collection is growing each day. Wonders of wonders, prices are lower or the same as last year.

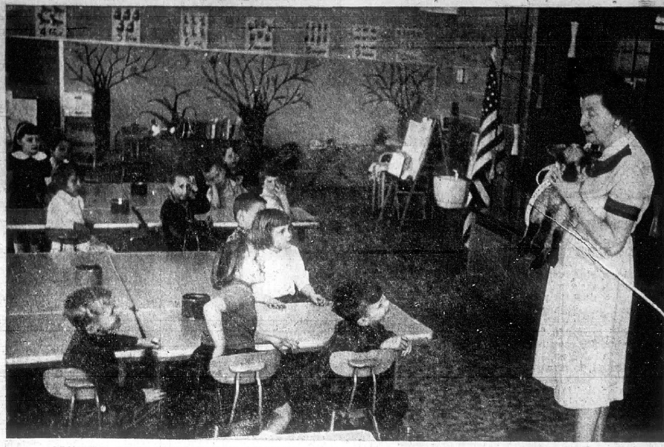

We have held ourself in check from writing about Michigan's Week End Closing law. Our strongest feeling is one of sorrow that this type of law could come into being in our state.

Our sorrow extends to the many people that we conned into thinking it was good and for their benefit, to the general public and to the countless people that it will injure.

However, as long as it is the law we will abide by it.

Our store hours will be: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday 9:30 to 5:30. Thursday 9:30 to 9, Sunday 11 to 5. Closed Saturdays.

TECUMSEH ACRES KINDERGARTEN STUDENTS WERE THRILLED WHEN MRS. LEFEVRE SHOWED LAMB

Lamb Visits School

There was a special visitor in the kindergarten of Mrs. Joseph LeFevre at Tecumseh Acres School the other day. The youngsters had been learning the verse of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and what would be more appropriate than to meet Mary's pet? When Mrs. LeFevre brought out the tiny ball of fur, loaned for the occasion by Dave Squires of Macon, the youngsters were thrilled. Some were shy and a trifle afraid. The boys and girls made a circle and the lamb scrambled about, to the excited laughter of the class. Mrs. LeFevre had no problem getting volunteers to feed the visitor milk from a Coke bottle and then rock him.

A DELICATE BUSINESS—Feeding a baby lamb milk from a Coke bottle takes considerable skill as Connie Petee learned. First of all, the animal must be held securely, then the bottle tilted at the correct angle—all in a matter of split seconds as little lambs seem to be forever hungry.

MAY I HOLD HIM?—Many volunteers were ready, from left, Steven Walker, Ricky Butler, Debbie Creger, Tom Cook, Walter Nelson, Janice Racey and Vici Ely.

County OES To Assemble

Lenawee-Monroe County Association OES will meet April 20 at 2 p.m. for the spring meeting.

The assembly will be held at Stair gymnasium on Summit St. in Morenci.

Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. with the evening session beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A memorial entitled "The Lord's Prayer by Candlelight" will be presented by chapter chaplains in the evening.

Irish Hills Sweet Adeline's and Rebecca Parent of the Eastern Star Villa in Adrian will be featured in the afternoon program.

The meeting will be called "Singing Heart Session."

Repairing Errors in Sewing Is 4-H Discussion

"Ways of Better Sewing" was topic of the North Franklin Maidens 4-H Club at the recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Roger Williams.

How to repair errors in garments was discussed.

Debbie Black was chosen to the honor group at the 4-H Club Senior dress review.

Carol Davenport and Cheryl Aebersold modeled their garments the same evening.

Thin Mints Help Send Kids to Camp

Nice long boxes of thin mints are appearing from out of nowhere, it seems, these days in Tecumseh.

The Earn Your Way to Camp sale has begun and will continue until Saturday, April 20.

Children desiring to go to the YMCA day camp may sell the candy to earn money for their expenses.

During summer vacation, buses take the children to Grand Lake, loading at Wright's Drug Store Corner each morning.

More information concerning the camp and the candy may be had by calling Mrs. Douglas Hall, 423-3810.

Three Tecumseh Students at EMU on Honor List

Mrs. Gary Abner, Jean Hoag and Ronald Johnson have been named to the 1962-63 fall semester honors list at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoag, 310 S. Maiden Lane. She maintained an average of 3.41 out of a possible four.

Mrs. Abner is the former Nancy Day. She had a 3.64 average.

Ronald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Johnson of rural Tecumseh. His average was 3.53.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Two great men were publicly lauded last week.

There is unusual similarity in the long and productive careers of this pair.

Both Dr. Wilbur Claxton and Ray Herrick are common men, unimpressed by themselves and their accomplishments.

They look not so much at the past, but into the future, hoping to do yet more for their fellow men.

Dr. Claxton is 66, Mr. Herrick 72.

They began their adult lives struggling—one a country school teacher, the other a tool and die apprentice.

But the two men possessed a similar spark, a drive, a determination to reach an objective.

Dr. Claxton could have stayed in teaching and no doubt been a success. But he wanted to become a physician.

Mr. Herrick likely could have become a shop expert and lived a happy, comfortable life. But he wanted to run his own industrial plant.

Fortunately for them, they were born in a land of free enterprise, where a man with a dream can make it come true by hard work and sheer determination.

Each has always been known for a willingness to put in endless hours of labor in his chosen field.

By coincidence, the honors afforded them last week came but two days apart.

Dr. Claxton was given a testimonial dinner Saturday evening by fellow Britton townspeople, whom he has served faithfully for 35 years.

Mr. Herrick's honor came two days earlier when the University of Michigan tendered him a Citation of Honor for contributions to education in the state.

In accepting these plaudits, the two gentlemen were modest and unassuming. One could almost peer into their minds and see them thinking, "God has indeed been good to me."

Each has long displayed a similar trait, the desire to be of genuine help to his fellow man. Both have given freely of themselves and their earthly possessions in the pursuit of this aim.

An ever-widening circle of effects, started by their thoughtful and dedicated deeds, can never be measured. These will continue to grow and to expand for years to come.

A community, a state, nation are immensely more vibrant because of them.

Britton Doctor Lauded

Nearly 400 attended the testimonial dinner Saturday evening honoring Dr. William T. Claxton, Britton physician for the past 35 years.

Three heart-warming presentations were made:

► A bronze plaque from the Village of Britton, which read, "Presented to W. T. Claxton, MD, for dedicated and unselfish service to his community. April 20, 1963."

► An engraved key chain from all of Dr. Claxton's office girls.

► A plaque, which will be placed on the door of a new chapel at the hospital.

With each one, Dr. Claxton was visibly moved, especially by the chapel-door plaque, which states: "This room is dedicated to W. T. Claxton, MD, in appreciation for his many years of devoted service to this hospital and community."

Dr. Archie O'Connor, chief of staff, told Dr. Claxton of the honor, this being the first the Britton physician had learned of it.

☆

STAFF DOCTORS and the hospital board combined to fashion the chapel, which is on the main floor, next to the office of Administrator Orrie Gilbert.

It is carpeted, has drapes, a crucifix and kneelers. The chapel will be available for patients, visitors and especially for the medical staff to use when word of serious illness or death must be given to members of the immediate family.

Office help, past and present, combined on the silver key chain, the first name of each being engraved on circular ornaments.

These included:
Mrs. Patrick Connors
Mrs. George McCombs
Mrs. William Sturgeon
Mrs. Maxine Henry
Mrs. Raymond Lidster
Mrs. Carl Wagner.

☆

SEVERAL vocal numbers were presented by the Britton-Macon High School quartet, including a parody of "Daisy, Daisy", coauthored by Drs. Carlton L. Cook and Richard Coak.

An outstanding job as toastmaster was done by L. P. Cushman of Lexington, Ky., superintendent of Britton schools 23 years ago.

He related anecdotes from bygone years involving the Claxtons, paid high tribute to the doctor's devoted wife.

Daughters of the Claxtons and their families were introduced by the toastmaster.

Most of the guests surged forward after the program to congratulate the long-time community servant and his wife.

'Angel Street' Takes Reviewer Back 30 Years

(Editor's note—Duane DeLoach, editor and publisher of The Blissfield Advance, was invited by The Herald to review the current Tecumseh Players' production of "Angel Street.")

By DUANE DELOACH

Seeing the costumes of Tecumseh Players for their presentation of "Angel Street" last Friday night in the Tecumseh Community Center and the exquisite set designed by Russ Steinke brought back a flood of memories.

It was not quite 30 years ago that my wife, Mary Magdaline, and I, young newlyweds then, were active in the Twin City Players, composed of some 300 members from Benton Harbor and St. Joseph. One did many chores other than acting, but in this costume piece I was fortunate enough to have a part.

The night before our dress rehearsal, Margaret, our first-born, decided to arrive. So I spent a part of that evening at Mercy Hospital.

After the rehearsal the next night, in which I recited my lines "with vigah" (as JFK says) because I was anxious not to miss visiting hours, the whole cast — in costume, makeup and the whole works—decided to accompany me.

☆

IT WAS Mary Magdaline, sitting beside the two youngest of our seven who were entranced as the lights went up to end the first act in Tecumseh's magnificent playhouse, who leaned over to me and said: "Do you remember . . . ?" and I did.

As I recall, there were 14 of us who trooped into her room at the hospital. The recollection makes it seem all the more remarkable that only five actors and actresses carry along the action in "Angel Street" so smoothly in the Tecumseh production.

Privately, I've been putting the word in every ear that would listen to my raves over "Angel Street," urging folks to see it this Thursday, Friday or Saturday during the second and final week of the production. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

☆

YOU KNOW how intensely real a stage production can be to an eight-year-old. Especially if his mama is one of the stars in the play.

Mrs. Robert Murray was telling us after the show how the youngest of her four boys rushed up, threw his arms around her, and nearly smothered her with kisses after the first night performance. He was so glad that she survived it safely.

Not to give the plot away, but you see in the third act she was nearly throttled, and it was almost more than the boy could stand.

☆

I HAVE always admired the quiet restraint with which some actors can handle a role, underplaying the scene in such a way that each simple action is electrically charged with drama.

I could not offer a finer accolade to Paul Anderson's performance. If I still tingle at the thought of a husband trying deliberately to drive his wife mad, it is because Mr. Anderson was so completely in command of the role he played.

Against the emotional tantrums of Mrs. Maningham, played by Mrs. Murray, the role of a detective was admirably done by Charles Parker, also in a low key.

The exaggerated mannerisms he employed seemed so perfectly in the Sherlock Holmes tradition that it belonged, albeit heightening the drama as each bit of evidence unfolded.

☆

IN THE supporting cast, Charlotte Parker as the housekeeper couldn't possibly outshine her husband, because the part wasn't written that way, but she certainly made the role believable.

It is to Mrs. Jim Mull that I'll take my hat off to for her characterization of the demure impertinence of the downstairs maid. It's the sauciest bit of cheek I've seen in many a day.

No review would be complete without mention, again, of Russ Steinke. He composed the original music for the play, and played it, as well as the artistic rightness of the set.

Having just come from Don's Beef Buffet, where we dropped in for dinner and admired some of his paintings, I wondered how one man could possibly have so many talents.

With Humility

Humbly accepting one of the most impressive honors given Michigan residents, Ray W. Herrick, told 100 friends and associates of his boyhood dreams to run a manufacturing concern.

His informal comments came after he had accepted a coveted University of Michigan Citation of Honor Thursday afternoon.

The ceremony took place in stately Clements Library on the campus with Mr. Herrick, members of the University's Board of Regents and special guests garbed in mortar boards and flowing academic robes.

The Regents present the citation to state residents "who have made significant contributions to education in Michigan."

Mr. Herrick related to the audience that he had been able to attend only eight grades of school, then went into the tool and die trade.

He always harbored a dream—which was [illegible] true—of becoming an industrialist.

☆

WHEN HE and associates in Hillsdale Machine & Tool Co. became involved in the manufacture of refrigeration compressors, along with their auto parts business, they needed roomier facilities.

The Community of Hillsdale wasn't interested in helping, but industry-starved Tecumseh was. A kitty of $5,000 was raised by townspeople to move the small firm here in 1934.

Thus began the saga of Tecumseh Products Co., now the world's largest manufacturer of refrigeration compressors, and of its helmsman, Ray Herrick.

☆

DURING RECENT years, Mr. Herrick has devoted much of his efforts towards building and bettering institutions of learning and aiding deserving youngsters with college scholarships.

One of the schools so aided, Adrian College, "is a great institution and growing greater every day, almost primarily through the efforts of Mr. Herrick," Dr. John Dawson, its president, told the guests at the ceremony Thursday.

He added that the 72-year-old Tecumseh industrialist "has no peer in the history of American philanthrophy."

Howe Military Academy is another example and its commander, Col. B. B. Bouton, was on hand to recount the resurgence of Howe, thanks to Mr. Herrick's gifts of 11 new buildings and six faculty homes.

☆

EDUCATION is, of course, just one of the areas which has felt the benevolence of Mr. Herrick. Churches, hospitals, libraries and recreation centers have been erected and enlarged with gifts from his Herrick Foundation, in amounts running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

As Dr. Dawson pointed out, Mr. Herrick doesn't "give by committee," but personally evaluates each situtions before making his decision.

Mr. Herrick's Citation of Honor was the 27th given by the regents since they instituted the honor in 1947.

Book Lovers Couldn't Wait

They just couldn't wait.

Children and adults, who use Tecumseh Public Library, already are enjoying some of the books purchased through the "Save Historic St. Peter's" fund, even before official book plates have been added.

Library board members had discussed putting the books on display in the library, but some of the volumes have been on the "wanted" list so long that it was decided to put them into circulation as soon as they arrived.

The special plates, marking them as commemorative books, will be added as the books come back from readers.

The books cover a range of subjects from religion and history to literature and the fine arts. All are books of permanent value, well suited to be labeled as coming from the St. Peter's fund.

Nine hundred dollars, collected dollar by dollar from hundreds of persons who wished the old St. Peter's Episcopal Church could be saved, were turned over to the library when the drive proved unsuccessful.

The library officers pledged that they would keep this money in a separate fund despite the shortage of library operating funds, and use it only for books which could properly wear the commemorative label, which includes a picture of the historic church.

☆

A FEW are reference works, to be kept in the library for research, but most of them are to be put into circulation.

One particularly good buy in the librarian's opinion, was a set of some 45 volumes, "Twentieth Century Views," including biographies and critical analyses of the works of that many major authors.

The library was able to take advantage of a pre-publication offer by the publisher to purchase the books at about one-half the retail cost.

Other biographies added with the fund money will go into the children's section. They concern the lives of famous persons.

Two books which had been requested for many years but which were never purchased from regular library budgets because of their high cost, have been added through this donation. They are the 12-volume "Interpreter's Bible" and Butler's "Lives of the Saints."

In all, some $325 of the $900

As our friend Charlie Haun, photo editor of the Free Press, says, pictures have 100% readership. Everyone who looks at a paper sees the photos, will usually glance at the caption or read it carefully. This means that a local picture is the best possible way to draw a person into the reading matter.

Fast becoming the Vic Tanny of Tecumseh is Tom Corkery, who has a steam bath, stationary bicycle, weights and the entire exercise bit.

One mother in our block got fed up with having those tiny model auto parts strewn all over the house, carefully flipped them into a carton and dumped it into the trash can. But the story has a sad ending. My kid spied the treasure trove and now the whole mess is at our home.

If you like sports and human emotions, go out to Ed Nelson field Saturday morning and watch boys try out for Cub League teams. There won't be any games, but hope and determination will shine through the eyes of the lads like beacons. Talent will range from the awkward to the highly-skilled.

What about contributing "Behind Page One" items? Our goal each week is to fill columns one and two from top to bottom. You could help with some off-beat stuff. Call 423-2174 and say, "Here's one for 'Behind Page One.'

Library Board Members Will Tell Organizations of Needs for Tax Help

Between now and June 10, when the Tecumseh Library Board will ask voters to approve six-tenths of a mill for operating expenses, board members want to reach as many persons as possible, to tell them why the money is being requested.

Members have arranged to appear before nearly a score of civic, social, service, farm and professional organizations.

Because Parent-Teacher associations have no business meetings in May, these will be missed.

☆

BUT THE library officers have received offers of support from several of the PTA's, which will inform their membership of the library's needs.

Any organization which has not been contacted and wishes to have a library board member speak at a meeting is invited to call the library with the request.

The talks can be limited to five minutes and include only the financial problems. They also can be longer and include some of the library's history and services it offers.

Your Health . . .

Are You Singing The Migraine Blues?

"Migraine" (sick headache) has its origin in the nervous system and many suffer untold agony with this incoordination. Chiropractic research through the years has convinced chiropractic authorities that migraine headaches would not be possible without interference to the normal flow of life force through the spinal cord and nerves. Of the hundreds of cases of this type cared for by chiropractors, not one case has failed to show a definite pattern of interference to the normal life force flow when scientifically checked by chiropractors to determine if nerve interference exists.

It is logical that the individual suffering from the incoordination called migraine should seek out the cause of his condition and have it corrected.

Chiropractic care is the most reliable means of removing the cause of sick headache. This fact is attested to by thousands of testimonial letters written by grateful people who now enjoy complete freedom from the incoordination: migraine.

If you are suffering from this condition, seek out the cause and have it corrected. Ask a chiropractor to help you.

This regular educational feature is presented in the public interest.

Beat Adrian, Dundee Teams; Face Tough GI

Tecumseh's most serious threat to the Huron League track crown will be encountered this Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the Grosse Ile Red Devils meet the Indians.

Coach Don Brazee's tracksters, winners over Adrian and Dundee during the past week, have been improving and should be slight favorites over the visitors.

Depth could easily be the factor for the winners—and Tecumseh has it. GI should take the sprints but will have trouble in the longer races and field events.

Wednesday of last week, the Indians won every event except two to wallop Dundee, 77-32.

Friday at Adrian, Tecumseh did nearly as well, winning firsts in 10 of 13 events while rolling to an easy 66 1/3-42 1/3 victory.

National Music Week in Tecumseh, May 5 through 12, has been proclaimed by Mayor Harold Easton.

The theme will be "Let the World Rejoice with Music."

And whereas music is the language of all peoples and one of the greatest forces in creating peace and harmony; and whereas the National Federation of Music Clubs—dedicated to encouraging young musicians, to increasing musical knowledge, and to advancing American music—and its cooperating organizations join forces to direct attention to the dynamic influence of music in everyday living;

Bond Drive Opens May 1

May 1 marks the kick-off of the Treasury's 1963 Freedom Bond Drive an intensive nationwide effort to stimulate systematic purchasing of savings bonds in all American households.

As a part of the national campaign, every family in the county is being asked to buy at least one savings bond before July 4.

Leading civic, fraternal, business, labor, veterans', women's and professional organizations in the county are joining in the effort, according to H. Dale Garnner, Chairman of the Lenawee County Savings Bonds Committee.

He explained that if the families of 50 per cent or more of the members buy at least one bond during the drive period, the organization or club qualifies for a colorful Treasury citation.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

MR. AND MRS. CHICK-A-DEE AT HOME

The plot thickens, the mystery heightens, or something. A week ago I thought the story of Mr. and Mrs. Chick-a-dee at home was down pat. Now, I'm not so sure.

It all started when Dad, puttering around the top of the creek bank, noticed a most unusual amount of bird activity. Two tiny chick-a-dees were just more than busy.

They were centering their efforts upon an old stump fairly well down near the water's edge. I believe it was a box-elder tree —not very large, which had either . . . Well, I'm not sure what did happen but a 2½ or 3 foot stump stands there now.

(A guess as to the tree's fate would not be too hard. Dad and his axe seem to have a way of doing away with small box-elders.)

☆

BOTH BIRDS were, as we said before, extremely busy. They were taking turns at darting into and exploding out of a cavity in the top of the old stump.

No sooner would one leave than the other was there to take his place. Their visits inside were not long and Chick-a-dees are so small and so quick that it was impossible to see whether they were carrying anything either in or out.

Were they building a nest or had the family already arrived and were we watching the always fun feeding routine?

As we were watching, practically the whole neighborhood started Chick-a-dee watching. The Marshes had an excellent viewing spot in their yard and we were happy to find that the porch afforded us good looking.

Using binoculars we could visually eavesdrop and never disturb the birds a bit. The weather did not permit me to be out much, but every one kept me well posted on what was going on.

ONE THING I could see from inside, and the outside lookers confirmed it, was that like most other birds, the Chick-a-dees were not eager to show their home-site. When I saw either Mr. or Mrs. snacking on the feeder they never went straight home.

It was into a tree, down to the fence and a flutter from one branch to another until finally bang, into the stump.

This was the casual approach. Until the dive home nothing would indicate the bird had anything particular on his mind. What a fine way of protecting a nest.

After several days curiosity got the best of me and I had to know what was going on in that stump. Besides, I had read something about Chick-a-dees which I was sure Dad did not know and just maybe, I could play a little trick.

I asked him to go down and check.

WAS THERE really a Chick-a-dees nest there? "Birds of America" had described the trick these birds use against trespassers.

Mrs. Chick-a-dee tolerates just so much, then she inhales a large breath and suddenly exhales—the sound is much like an escaping jet of steam. It's quick, loud and very unexpected. Wouldn't Dad be surprised at such a greeting.

The laugh was on me. He couldn't see a thing in the stump and now we are wondering what happened. Could the birds have changed their minds, surely the family could not be grown up and have left home so soon, or could they?

So it is that mystery surrounds Mr. and Mrs. Chick-a-dee at home.

$200,000 Bond Issue on Ballot

BRITTON—Voters of the Britton-Macon Area School District will go to the polls on Monday, May 13 to decide on a proposed $200,000 building program.

It would include:

► Erecting seven elementary classrooms.

► Converting two of the elementary classrooms into a science laboratory.

► Remodeling the kindergarten room so it can be used as a library for the high school and elementary.

► Enlarging the office space in the high school.

The bond issue, if passed, would run for 16 years at approximately 4% interest. The average tax levy for the 16 year period would be $17,787 per year or 2.32 mills on state equalized valuation.

☆

THE 1951 BOND issue will be paid off on April 1, 1964. The district will only have to levy approximately $10,000 — which will amount to 1.35 mills to retire this issue.

The 1955 bond issue runs till 1981 and has a premium payment of $10,000 per year plus 3% interest. This requires a two-mill levy on present valuation.

The new proposal would require a levy of 1.05 mills to pay the interest for the first year. The total debt retirement levy on the 1963 taxes would then be 4.4 mills. A total of 4.3 mills would take care of the 1951 and 1955 issues.

Thus, after the 1951 issue is retired, the levy would be no more than 4.4 mills per year. This means that the taxpayer would pay no more in the future for debt retirement than he is paying now, explains Supt. Bill Saxton.

☆

THE PROPOSED science laboratory would provide adequate space for instruction in chemistry, physics and biology. The present science room is too small and inadequate for laboratory instruction, the superintendent states.

The high school library is now located in a corner of the study hall. It provides rather meager facilities for the high school and none for the elementary classes.

Britton-Macon High School is accredited by the University of Michigan on a temporary basis for the 1962-63 school year.

"The school will again be visited this fall and it is felt that unless improvements are made, or are in progress, it is doubtful that the school will remain accredited by the University," according to Mr. Saxton.

There will be a meeting open to public on Tuesday, April 30 in the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. for persons desiring additional information concerning the building program.

UNLOADING SEED—As Lake Odessa Canning Co. official William Allen checks off sacks of pea seeds, Doug Steinman and Barry Brablec, unload truck of Lee Taylor (left). Doug and Barry are two of the farmers in Britton who will be growing the crop on contract for the canning firm The 300 acres of peas on 10 local farms will b e delivered in June. The company is working south from the 3,000 acres near Lake Odess i n hopes of an earlier harvest.

Intensive Traffic Survey Starts

A three-man team of traffic-engineering specialists is slated to move into Tecumseh next week to begin a full-scale study of local traffic problems, according to Automobile Club of Michigan's Tecumseh-area division manager, Walter Fowler.

The AAA research team will be headed by Charles Gordon, Club traffic research supervisor. Its members will start diagnosing the city's traffic ills Monday. All told, about six weeks will be needed to complete the public service survey.

The Tecumseh City Council requested the study in November, 1962, because of a concern about changing traffic patterns resulting from local population increases.

☆

COMMENTING on the need for a traffic survey in a special letter sent to the Auto Club, Tecumseh Police Chief Murell Clark said that, due to new industry coming into the city, the on-street parking program is becoming a big problem.

Chief Clark also noted that, "At the present time, our parking, speed control, and one-way street signs are not adequate either."

Working in co-operation with local civic and police officials, the team will spend about three weeks making on-the-scene checks of traffic volumes, flows and intersection counts with the aid of mechanical traffic computers.

The Auto Club traffic experts also intend to make a full determination of the effectiveness of Tecumseh's traffic control devices, and to conduct a special study of parking problems in the central shopping district.

☆

AFTER the on-the-scene phase of the study is completed, the team will move indoors for three more wee[illegible] [illegible]mpile and a[illegible] the records of all vehicle accidents which occurred in the city last year.

This will enable them to pinpoint haza[illegible] intersections, the most frequent types of accidents, the peak months, day and hours during which they occur.

A complete report of the survey's findings, together with suggestions and recommendations for improvements, will be printed and presented to local officials and interested townspeople this fall.

Other members of the Auto Club's research staff who will be at work in Tecumseh are Harvey Sainsbury and Ervin Simsick.

The Detroit traffic engineering firm of Gibson and Associates will also send representatives to Tecumseh to serve as consultants on several phases of the project.

The traffic survey is expected to cost about $4,000. It will be conducted at no cost to the city as a civic contribution from the Auto Club. This will bring to 112 the number of traffic surveys done by Auto Club in cities throughout the state during the past 26 years.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

If your husband happens to grab you same morning and very unexpectedly gives you a big, five-minute hug, don't drop over; he is only following doctor's orders.

Dr. David Misner, head of the health and physical education department of George Williams College, addressed business leaders at an excutive health forum held in Chicago recently.

He says a five-minute hug helps tone the chest muscles. He also prescribed other exercises an excutive can perform without ever getting up out of his chair.

Dr. Misner suggest that if a wife is too busy or not in the mood for "chest muscling", any one else will do, since it is all in the name of good health. What about it fellows . . . beats that fifty mile hike . . . wouldn't you say?

Well, girls, we have a suggestion or two that will give you that younger-than springtime feeling and will make HIM want to hug you just for the fun of it!

Stretch pants in the summer fabrics and colors as a starter. Not only will he like you in these but you will like yourself and oh so comfortable.

Cotton knit one piece playsuits are both flattering and practical . . . add a wrap skirt and you are ready to go shopping.

If you have not pulled his nose out of the morning paper by this time, we highly recomend a new Marina-del-Mar swim suit. Propably not quite the thing to serve coffee in but they are so pretty . . . and a style for every figure that you will not be able to wait for the beach to wear it.

Remember we are closed Saturdays, but open on Sundays and Thursday evening besides our regular hours on the week days.

Four-Hour Search Ends at 3:12 a.m.

Finally, at 3:12 a.m.

That's when Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conway, 709 Ternes Rd., found their 10-year-old son, Larry, Thursday.

The youngster left home at 5 p.m. to play and did not return.

At 11:20 p.m. his parents called Tecumseh Police and a four-hour search ensued.

Mrs. Conway had been working at the hospital and the boy's father was attending an evening meeting.

Larry is extremely fond of horses and on a hunch, police and sheriff's officers called Harold Gove, 2406 East Monroe Rd., who keeps horses.

It was learned that Larry was spending the night at the Gove's, but without his parent's knowledge.

The Gove's accompanied Larry to his home in the early morning hours.

Work will start on the project as soon as bids are in this week.

Cats Eat 120 Pounds of Raw Meat Each Day

A 19-year-old Frenchman who pals around with seven roaring lions and daily puts his head into the mouth of one of his jungle-bred buddies is coming to Tecumseh May 9.

He is John Charles Zerbini, recently of Bordeaux, France, and scion of a French family that has been taming lions for seven generations.

Mr. Zerbini is a featured attraction with the Mills Bros. Three-Ring Circus being sponsored here by the United Service Clubs of Tecumseh to aid the "Operation Kitchen" Fund.

Mr. Zerbini uses only jungle-bred cats in his act. "They are more difficult to train," he says, "but they retain their native cunning and ferocity and constant danger is what thrills an audience."

One of his charges is "Pasha," a seven-year-old black-maned nubian giant, who weighs more than 1,000 pounds. "He hates me," says Zerbini nonchalantly. "but he knows I am his master and he only roars to show his defiance."

☆

FEEDING HIS PETS is somewhat of a problem, he explains. "They eat well," he adds, "About 120 pounds of raw meat a day." He feeds them two days in a row and then misses a day.

"That keeps them fit and trim. They work better when they are hungry. Maybe it's because they would like to eat me," he adds laconically.

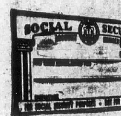

Mr. Zebini's act is an action packed thriller as he puts the hungry beasts through stunts inside a steel arena. Armed only with a whip and a blank pistol, he directs the giant cats in a lightning paced routine.

During a peak of the act, the Frenchman plants a loving kiss on the lips of one of the lions in a manner which would please his romantic countrymen.

The 24th annual edition of Mills Bros. Circus also headlines the famous elephant ballet, liberty horses, camels, llamas, chimpanzees, dogs and ponies plus scores of outstanding domestic and imported circus lots of every description.

The circus will be here one day only, May 9, with afternoon and evening performances under the big top at the Airport.

Advance tickets, at special reduced prices, on sale now at Eberhardt's Insurance office.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: If I work after I start receiving my social security, will I still have to pay taxes on my earnings?

ANSWER: Yes. As long as you have earnings covered by social security, you must pay the tax.

√

QUESTION: What should I take with me when I go to apply for my social security? I will be 62 in April.

ANSWER: When you come in, be sure to bring your social security card, some record to prove your age, and a copy of your 1962 tax return.

√

QUESTION: I read that the new law lets people get retirement checks for less work under social security. How much time does a woman need to get checks if she will be 62 this year? Also, what about a man who will be 62 next year?

ANSWER: A woman reaching age 62 this year needs credit for only 12 quarters of social security coverage (about 3 years work). A man who will be 62 in 1964 will need credit for 16 quarters (4 years of work). All work under social security, even as far back as 1937, can be used to make up these work credits.

√

QUESTION: What do I need to prove my age?

ANSWER: Usually any public record, made a number of years ago, will be satisfactory proof. A birth record is best, but other records — census or baptismal records, voters registration, marriage records and family Bible records—may be acceptable.

Unclaimed Books Shipped Around Free World

The Post Office Dept. is cooperating with the U.S. Information Agency in making available books accumulating in the nation's Dead Parcel Centers for worldwide distribution to book-starved nation's outside the Iron Curtain.

A joint announcement by Postmaster General J. Edward Day and USIA Director Edward R. Murrow said an estimated 60,000 volumes annually will be forwarded from Department's 15 Dead Parcel Centers to a USIA warehouse in Brooklyn, where they will be screened and shipped overseas.

Ranging from reference and text books to current fiction, the books will be distributed to schools, libraries, research centers, institutions and individuals. In the past, such books were auctioned off for nominal sums at varying intervals, depending on the number on hand.

"During the current Year," said USIA Director Murrow," we are moving abroad over eight million books, but even this effort cannot meet the demand. We very much welcome any assistance we can get to increase the flow of reading material to foreign lands."

"The communist bloc publishes and distributes some 40 million books a year in the Free World. We are countering this offensive through our own libraries and as broad a distribution as possible."

Under postal procedures mailed books which are undeliverable are forwarded by local post offices to Dead Parcel Centers where they are held for 90 days, after that holding period they will be shipped to the USIA warehouse.

Through the library, Spanish classes are being offered to children throughout the Tecumseh area. They are being taught by Mrs. Leslie Calhoun, who also has taught language on the college level, and has held private classes.

Because of a lack of funds, the library is not attempting to underwrite any of the cost of the lessons. It is, however, providing the meeting place.

'Ringing of the Bells'

Gov. George Romney endorses a statewide "ringing of the bells" on July 4 to commemorate the nation's founding.

He urges every citizen and organization to participate in this historic ceremony.

In a proclamation issued on the anniversary of Paul Revere's famous ride, Gov. Romney would like ringing of bells in every community for four minutes at 1 p.m. on July 4th "as a solemn tribute to our country's founders and as a rededication to our national unity and our undying devotion to our country and for what it stands."

Gov. Romney pledged his wholehearted support of the nationwide program initiated by two Connecticut men who were concerned that the Fourth of July had evolved more into a summer holiday than a patriotic festival.

"The sound of the bells will come as a thrilling reminder of what the Fourth of July stands for, challenging each of us to remember the heroic resolve formed by the men who pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor 187 years ago," Gov. Romney said.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

There was this television program billed as "a tribute to the small town editor and to the thousands of newspapers which serve the rural communities of America."

Called, "A Vanishing Breed: Portrait of a Country Editor," the 30-minute show provided a hat full of tongue-in-check chuckles.

Less anyone hasten to make a comparison with the paper and town shown — that being in Kentucky — and your favorite weekly and Tecumseh, don't.

The paper told about on TV is a good one and the editor is turning in a dedicated job. However, he works against great odds — namely a poor business row.

As has been written here many times before, a community newspaper can prosper editorially and financially only if there is solid retail business locally.

The majority of merchants must promote and merchandise, they must utilize the advertising columns of their own paper.

With money coming in, papers can spend it on competent help and good equipment. Management isn't forced to tie ends together by spending much of the time selling and producing job printing, along with other backshop chores.

Down in that Kentucky town, from what I saw in the view of its business row during the TV show, there wasn't much to cheer about.

The editor had been doing his darndest for 16 years and will probably go on another dozen or two trying to help his town.

What brought the chuckles, along with a tear, were the local folks the TV crew had interviewed.

Those who ended up on the screen numbered only about six. All but one seemed to have some sort of a grudge against the poor editor.

They really took pop shots at him, all the same going out and getting the next issue to make sure they knew what he had to say.

Actually, my guess would be that the show badly over-played this side of the picture. However, seeing a verbal swing delivered is more fun than viewing a quiet comment from a person well pleased with his hometown paper.

Then, you flip the coin and see yet another side, as depicted in a story that runs in the March issue of Mademoiselle, The Journalism of Tomorrow."

You bet, it tells about the fabulous weekly field and how much fun there is to be had and the bright future — especially for young women.

Since this story was aimed primarily at gals' chances in the business, it deals mainly with success stories of small paper feminine journalists. But wrapped up in this are equally happy facts of vigorous community papers.

Folks living in a suburban area or a small town all by itself usually enjoy knowing what goes with local government, schools and business.

About the only place to find this information, written in detail, is the community weekly.

So, contrary, to the television version, which had the small country paper all but down the drain, the magazine piece predicts long and healthy lives for weeklies.

It's true, some papers will die, just as the towns in which they serve are dying. But where there is a community which cares, no matter how small, you'll probably find a going weekly.

In the meantime, some newspaper guy should start work on an article called, "The Vanishing Breed: Documentary TV Shows."

BENEFIT: OPERATION KITCHEN

Circus Coming to Town Next Week

Roaring lions and trumpeting elephants will signal circus day in Tecumseh next week.

A gaily-painted fleet of nearly 100 trucks and cars will roll into town shortly after dawn May 9 and transform Meyers Airport into a fantasy-land of billowing white canvas.

Performances will be that afternoon at 3:30 and in the evening at 8.

Besides the lions and elephants there will be llamas, camels and other exotic animals.

The Mills Bros. three-ring circus is being brought here by Tecumseh service organizations to raise money for Operation Kitchen. All locally-earned ticket commissions will be used to start a kitchen in the Community Center.

☆

THE FUND will ge 50% of the proceeds from advance sales, with pre-show adult tickets priced at $1.30 and children $1. These go up 60c the day of the two performances and the local sponsors only net 10% of the total price.

Tickets can now be obtained at Elmer Eberhardt's insurance office.

They also may be purchased from any members of Rotary, Kiwanis, Jaycees, Eastern Stars, Exchange, Masonic Lodge, Business and Professional Women, Eagles, Knights of Pythias, American Legion, Tecumseh Players, Pythian Sisters, VFW and Cub League managers.

Tickets are on sale in Adrian at Berndt's and Maurice's, at Blank's in Hudson, Shirey's and Phillip's in Milan and Saline Reporter in Saline.

☆

AT THE matinee performance hundreds of area boys and girls, whose tickets have been purchased in blocks by local people and organizations, will attend.

Children being treated are students of Sutton School, St. Elizabeth School and Boysville, and residents of Adrian Youth Center and the Eastern Star Villa.

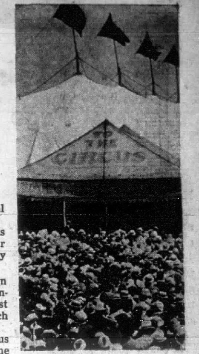

☆

HIGHLIGHTING the two performances here will be the opening spectacle "Arabian Nights"; John Zerbini's steel bound arena of jungle-bred lions; the celebrated Mills Bros. elephant herd; a mixed group of camels, llamas and pony and an all-girl aerial ballet.

Although the Great Wallendas recently lost a member of their troop in a fatal accident, they will be a featured act.

Others include a musical clown from Germany; Margarita Steininger, Austrian trapeze artist and the Alexanders, a French rolling globe trio.

Most of the acts of this circus are regular performers with the Shrine Circus

Government Deal Shakes City Brass

A proposal to turn the off-street parking lot behind Adrian Federal and Easton's service station over to the Tecumseh schools, free-of-charge, has instigated action from city officials.

In a letter to the schools from the Federal Surplus Property Section, Department of Administration, State of Michigan, the schools were offered the property with the stipulation that it be used for educational or health purposes.

The proposal has somewhat shocked city officials who have been led to believe by the General Service Administration in Washington, D.C., that the city would have an opportunity to buy or bid on the property since the city agreed to sell the Federal Postal Department the Adams Park site for a new post office building.

Some school officials feel that the lot should belong to the city, but also feel that the schools would be foolish not to acquire the property, if it were free and offered to them.

They also feel that some arrangement could be reached with the city so as not to interfere with the present parking situation.

Since Lee Purkey & Sons have severed school bus maintenance and service relations with the schools, a possibility projected would be for the school busses to be parked on the lot with Ed's Garage, adjoining the lot, maintaining and servicing the vehicles.

According to several city officials, this plan would certainly be vetoed by Council, which feels the lot should belong to the city and used for off-street parking for the merchants.

A meeting scheduled next Wednesday at the school board office with a representative of the Federal Surplus Property Section, school business manager Norval Bovee and Cal Zorn, city manager, may determine the final disposition of the lot.

No school board action has been taken, and none is expected within the next week.

If the local schools decide not to apply for the lot, the city still faces the possibility that the Seven Day Adventist Benedict

School Bus Agreement Is Dropped

By JIM LINCOLN

A 15-year working agreement between the Tecumseh Schools and Lee Purkey & Sons garage ended Tuesday when the schools assumed complete control of the bus transportation system.

Dick Purkey notified Norval Bovee, school business manager, last Thursday that the garage would no longer supervise the busses, starting May 1, but would maintain them with school work orders.

He issued a similar statement to the Board of Education Friday and that evening at a special board meeting, the board accepted the termination of the agreement.

A statement released by board said:

"The Tecumseh Schools' goal is to provide the safest transportation possible, delivering students to school and home again punctually, and at a cost which is as economical as is feasible.

"Anytime any parent feels we deviate from this goal, a personal visit would be welcomed."

☆

PURKEY'S was responsible for repairing and servicing all 16 school busses, plus five special education vehicles; supervising of the routes; employing and dismissing bus drivers, and scheduling of routes, all of which were worked out and approved by schcool officials.

Temporarily, at least, schoolmen plan to park the busses on James St., near the Board of Education office, erect posts to prevent any bus mishaps such as sliding or rolling down the embankment there, and erect poles to light the area at night.

The only association now between the schools and Purkeys will be the pumping of gasoline. The board purchased and installed a 15,000-gallon tank on the garage premises just about one year ago.

☆

ALTHOUGH A comprehensive study of bus transportation systems, several besides Tecumseh, has been made by boardman Robert Moore, and the survey has not been released yet, it is known that Tecumseh is among the lowest in the area as to cost-per-pupil and cost-per-mile in transportation.

The local school, however, ranks at the top in total cost of transportation, a factor which might be affected through the fact that several busses make at least two trips, some three, every morning and afternoon, due to the large number of children bussed.

It is not known whether busses in other districts make double or triple runs, or such a factor was included in the total cost comparison.

☆

FOR THE 1963-'64 school term, the local schools will add two school busses, boosting their transportation fleet to 18 regular busses, one highway bus, and two metro busses and three station wagons for the county's special education classes.

School payments from last July through March to Purkey's total about 15,890. April's bill has been estimated at $2,200.

Present responsibility for managing the bus system has been given to Mr. Bovee.

2 Named Directors of Plant

At a special stockholders' meeting of the Tecumseh Corrugated Box Co. Saturday, Al Krol and Ted Pilat were elected to the board of directors.

Both were members of the original group of stockholders who organized the venture early in 1963.

Since the start of operations in February, Mr. Pilat has been the general superintendent and Mr. Krol has served as customer service manager.

Other board members are Fred Attwood, Clarence Hanthorn, James Robideau, Gerald Schuster and Andrew Quinn.

"Operations are expanding rapidly and growth is in line with projections made at the time of organization" states Mr. Attwood, the president.

"Seven large volume trailers are on the road daily, picking up sheet stock and delivering finished goods to customers," he adds.

Alumni Banquet 'Back On'

Mrs. Duaine Service conducted the April 25 meeting for 22 interested persons at the public library to discuss plans for the annual Tecumseh alumni banquet held June 8.

Another meeting was held Sunday afternoon at the city hall at the request of James Fielder a member of the Class of 1953, to send invitations.

About 450 were addressed for out-of-town graduates and it was decided that a calling committee will invite the Tecumseh area members.

A chicken barbecue is being considered for the event, but details have not been completed.

Reservations may be made until June 1, but no tickets will be sold after that date according to Mr. Fielder, chairman.

Blooper Ball League Forms

An organizational meeting for the city blooper ball league will be held Tuesday at 7:30 in the Community Center, announces Don Montague, recreation director.

Cub league tryouts for nine and 10-year-old boys will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. on Ed Nelson Field. In the event of rain, the session will be shifted Monday evening, 5 to 7.

Kids 'Dig' Old Rome with Food and Drama

(Editor's note—Time whirled back to the glories of ancient Rome last week. David Dustin and Frank Choske, who played prominent roles in the drama, give Herald readers a first-hand account.)

Through the cooperation of Tecumseh High Latin students, the glory of Rome was recreated Saturday in the form of a Roman banquet.

Toga-clad boys and stola-clad girls entered the banquet area between two white pillars. Tables resting on the floor in a gigantic U encompassed a gaily-bedecked fountain.

Already on the tables was the appetizer or "Gustus", consisting of cheese and crackers, white rolls and honey, carrots, onions, celery and wine (Kool-Aid).

☆

AFTER GRACE was given, the Roman citizens reclined around the tables—(literally as there were no chairs, only cushions — and began the feast.

Soon the "Cena" was served—delicious, golden-fried chicken and string beans cooked in butter.

As the Romans employed no eating utensils, the students used only their fingers, but this didn't stop the food from rapidly disappearing.

At 7:15 the "Secunda Mensa" was served by the Latin I slaves. This is the equivalent of dessert and consisted of apples, a profusity of purple grapes, and a variety of cakes.

☆

WHEN THE MEAL was finished a short battle was begun when Caesar's war machines, projects of the second-year class, were brought into action. Olives, grapes, and spears flew everywhere.

When a truce was declared,

Behind Page One

A little late but still sincere is this item concerning the Easter Sunrise Service. According to one early-morning worshipper, this year's service was the best attended of any, but contrary to one's first thought there was little if any congestion of traffic.

The nearly 1,200 present were escorted to parking places by Sheriff's Department officers and at the conclusion were again directed to entrances. Arrangements were made by John Hamilton, assisted by the officers. All went smooth as silk.

✓

When remodel work began at Green's clothing, the dressing room had to be removed. Harold Green has improvised—with a little wry humor. He has a shower curtain, which covers his three-sided mirror, make-shift at best. A sign greets customers, "This dressing room is ridiculous . . . but you'll love the new one."

✓

In the Pentagon there are 600 people engaged in press and public relations work, Arthur Sylvester recently told a Congressional hearing. With most of them doing their darndest to emulate the boss and "manage" as much news as possible, is it any wonder Washington seems confused?

✓

Kiwanis received a surprise gift the other day. An unsigned letter writer confessed that he had been responsible for some vandalism in the new Maumee St. park, which Kiwanis had fashioned last summer. Inclosed was a $10 bill, Kiwanis president, Dick Myers, said the money will be used to purchase some evergreens and flowers for the park.

✓

Glory be, a drive-in newspaper! The Ingham County News has announced it will start construction on a new 8,960-square-foot building, which will contain drive-in windows to handle want ads, subscriptions, commercial printing orders and news. This marks a "first" in Michigan.

✓

An artist, working over an oil painting, never took more pains then does barber Russ Garno performing on a flat-top customer.

✓

Out at the A&P store, the help now refers to manager Alton Snyder as "grandpa." Al's horse foaled last week.

✓

Speaking of animal births, Herald bookkeeper Almina Hunt is justly proud of her 18 mama sheep, who just produced 4 sets of twins, one batch of triplets and three single. During the maternity season, she invaribly shakes up the staff in the morning with, "We had twins last night," before everyone is thoroughly awake and realizes she is referring to sheep.

✓

Among experience in asphalt paving Dean Cunningham, new boss at Ayling-Cunningham, has is helping build missile launching pads during his stint in the field artillery. Concrete was used in the pad proper with asphalt for remainder, the site development and access roads.

✓

Larry Burns says that the Irish Hills Playhouse will present "classic theatre" this summer, beginning with "Othello."

✓

Sylvia Fritz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fritz of Occidental Rd., was a second place winner in the American Legion Poppy poster contest. Her name was incorrectly printed as "Fitz in last week's issue of The Herald.

✓

No names will be used to protect the innocent. A Tecumseh doctor recently visited his dentist in town. Work progressed nicely. Some cement had to be used and the patient was told it would take a few minutes to harden and the dentist stepped out of the room. After 10 minutes passed, the doctor relaxed and went to sleep. He woke with a start about 30 minutes later, looked around and found not a soul in sight. It was the middle of lunch hour so he just left. He hasn't heard from the dentist, who must have forgotten he ever had such a patient.

✓

George Wilson, Detroit Lions coach, was in town all day Saturday, but there is no truth to the rumor that he wanted to lure Tim Neill out of retirement to fill in for Alex Karras next autumn.

✓

Husky Gary Greene has a military problem and needs the help of some ex-serviceman. Gary just completed basic training at Fort Knox and is now about to ship overseas. In his order is the designation "UNOINDC." What does it mean? Call The Herald if you can help.

✓

Another baby called Beth. Perry Satterthwaite dropped into the office Monday to report the birth of a new granddaughter, mentioning her name, Mary Beth.

When office gals remarked about another namesake of Aunt Elizabeth Satterthwaite, her brother nonchalantly said, "Oh, there must be hundreds of little girls named after her."

And true it is with Beth having spent so much time in the maternity wards of the Lenawee County hospitals, that many pleased mama's have named their little ones after the beloved nurse.

Recently Beth and her sister, Geneva, were enroute home from California, when they ran into an interesting situation.

Beth was cashing a travelers check at a motel in Tulsa, Oklahoma., giving her address when a gentleman turned around from a desk and said, "I recognize that voice. My wife had a baby in Herrick Memorial Hospital in Tecumseh. Were you the nurse?"

ANOTHER BIKE WINNER — Marcia Boudrie, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boudrie, 208 Pine St., was a weekend bicycle winner in the Herald Earn-A-Bike campaign. To date 77 new subscribers have been added to Herald rolls by young salesmen. There is still time to join the sales force and earn either a bike or a transistor radio.

Friday Is Court Date

Hearing on the civil suit by Lenawee County Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Koselka against Country Markets, Inc. will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Koselka started the civil suit, asking for an injunction to halt the Tecumseh store from operating on successive Saturdays and Sundays.

The corporation, if convicted in Justice Court, is expected to appeal all the way to the Supreme Court.

Mr. Koselka said, "In the meantime the stores will operate throughout the weekend. Civil action is our only hope of stopping them."

Country Markets Inc. calls the law unconstitutional and has filed civil action against State and local law enforcement officers, asking for an injunction to prevent enforcement of the new state law.

PROPOSAL

Memorial School or the Lenawee County School Department may seek the property.

The letter received by the Tecumseh schools has the Federal Surplus Property Section also offering the property to the Benedict school and county department.

How either would be interested in the lot is puzzling, the Benedict school is located on Ives Rd., about five or six miles from Tecumseh, and the county school office in Adrian, about 11 miles away.

Besides, the lot is zoned for off-street parking and can not be used for anything else, unless the zoning is changed.

According to a source close to the situation, if the local schools and other two parties are not interested, the lot may be put for bid, and the city would then have an opportunity to buy it.

Wheat Vote May 21

Notices of 1964-crop wheat acreage allotments were mailed to all wheat farm operators.

For most wheat farms, the allotment represents the farm's share of the 1964 national allotment of 49.5 million acres.

For small farms, however — those with wheat allotments of less than 15 acres, the allotment represents the larger of:

(A)—the farm's allotment based on the national allotment, or

(B)—90% of the farm's average 1959-'61 wheat acreage, but not more than 15 acres.

Mr. Sager pointed out that all the wheat produced on a participating farm's wheat allotment acreage may be marketed free of penalty if marketing quotas are made effective for the 1964 wheat crop.

All wheat from a farm which had no wheat history in the three base years 1959-'61, however, would be subject to a marketing quota penalty.

☆

THE QUESTION of whether to use marketing quotas for the 1964 wheat crop will be decided by wheat growers in a referendum on May 21. "Small farm" operators will be eligible to cast ballots provided they register—by May 13—their intention to participate in the 1964 program as an allotment grower.

They will do this by signing in the space provided on the back of the regular allotment notice, MQ-24, and filing the notice at the ASCS County Office before the deadline.

☆

UNDER QUOTAS, a small farm operator who does not elect to participate in the wheat program as an allotment grower would be able to stay out of the program, and plant wheat up to the larger of his 1964 allotment or his 3-year base, but not more than 15 acres, without being subject to marketing quota penalties.

Penalties would apply to wheat in excess of this limit. Such a grower will not be eligible to vote in the referendum, however, and he would not be eligible for price support or diversion payments.

If at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum approve quotas for the 1964 wheat crop, price support will be available to participating growers who keep within their acreage allotment at:

(A)—$2 a bushel, national average, on certified wheat, and

(B)—$1.30 a bushel, national average, on noncertificated wheat. Diversion payments will be made to growers on acreage diverted from wheat production into a conserving use, (including the acreage reduction reflected in the farm allotment.)

☆

IF MORE than one-third of the growers voting in the referendum oppose the 1964-crop wheat quotas, price support at 50% of parity (about $1.25 a bushel) will be available to participating growers who keep within their acreage allotments.

Without quotas, no diversion program would be in effect. As in the past, the allotment will remain in effect, whether or not quotas are approved for the 1964 wheat crop.

MICHIGAN WEEK ACTIVITIES

Children Clean Grounds

All St. Elizabeth School students worked in groups to clean up the school and church grounds in preparation for Michigan Week.

They prepared soil for spring planting and helped the custodian plant shrubs.

Michigan Week posters are being prepared and the classes are doing an extensive study on Michigan and learning state songs.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Break the Subsidy Chain

This farm subsidy business has rapidly been getting out of hand. Conditions can be much worse come May 21, too.

Wheat farmers are going to vote that day on a new support program which verges on the complete take-over by government of all farming. It would be the head of the camel in the tent. Before too long the whole beast will be inside.

Beast turns out to be a pretty fair way of terming the subidy program in general. We know there must be some price supports — but not nearly as many as this country has or what our Washington moguls would like to have.

Supply-and-demand is a harsh taskmaster but it has been the American Way in business. Could it be the answer to the ever-increasing problems of modern farming? We certainly aren't qualified to answer, just ask. It would be interesting to hear from readers on this subject.

However, from the information at hand regarding the coming wheat vote, it would seem that farmers should stamp out this idea with a flurry of "nays."

Orville Freeman, secretary of agriculture, is dangling dollar bills in front of wheat growers, hoping they'll tumble into line. We hope they tumble out.

This seems an ideal time to break the subsidy chain.

We hope to stay—
But it doesn't appear
To us every day.
Some days it rains,
And some days it snows.

As it did Tuesday. But May Day brought better weather. The sun rose bright and shining and the temperature was much more spring-like.

Let's hope that last cold blast of April ended the winter of 1963.

Church To Show Film Depicting Moral Conflict

A sound-color film depicting the conflict between the Christian gospel and Godless Communism will be shown at the Grace Bible Church, M-50 at Carson Hwy. at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, May 5.

Produced in Japan the film dramatizes the true story of a Japanese young man who tried Communism to fill the emptiness of his life.

As a result, his personal problems greatly increased. When he turned back, his former "Comrades" attempted to take his life by violence.

"Sun and Shadow" was filmed in full color to show the breathtaking beauty of Japan.

It authentically reproduces many of that country's sounds, so strange to Western ears.

Track Squad Continues Its Perfect Pace

Rolling along undefeated and barely threatened, the Tecumseh track squad appears to outclass all Huron League rivals with the possible exception of Milan.

The Indians faced Milan Wednesday, May 1, on the Milan track.

Milan gave Tecumseh an indication of a close race by trouncing a Grosse Ile team by the identical score which the Indians scored a victory, 72-37.

Coach Don Brazee's team defeated GI here last Friday, and on the previous Tuesday, thrashed Blissfield 67½-41½.

Dan Greene, freatest pole vaulter in the history of the Tecumseh schools, continues to spark his teammates — and not only with his pole vaulting feats.

Greene accounted for 15 points against GI — firsts in the pole vault, high jump and mile run — and 10½ points against Blissfield, with firsts in vaulting and the mile, and a tie for third place in the high jump.

He's only been high jumping a couple of weeks and in three days practice raised his mark by four inches.

Others have turned in top performances, giving Tecumseh one of its best track teams in several years. Finest competition coming up is in the Jaycee Relays, here Saturday, May 11.

One of the top Class B teams in the state, Cranbrook from near Detroit, is entered and will probably battle the Indians for B honors.

Busy Baseball Week

This is a busy week for Coach Carl Hale and his Tecumseh High School baseball team.

The schedule calls for a quartet of games — if the weatherman co-operates.

Thursday, the Indians go to Dundee and Saturday they entertain Grosse Ile in a twin bill.

Saturday's opener is set for 10:30 with the second game to start approximately 1:30 p.m.

THS notched two wins last week, stopping Ypsilanti Lincoln, 3-1 and 19-5, in a twin bill Thursday.

☆

NORM TUCKER spun a two-hitter in the first contest. Both Ypsi blows came in the opening inning.

In the first game, Ypsi pulled a triple play. Tim Sisson and Vaillencourt singled, then pulled a double steal, putting runners on second and third with no outs. It looked like a rally.

Tucker blasted a screaming, low line drive that looked like a basehit and both runners were off. The shortstop made a shoetop catch, tagged second and threw to third to double off both basemen and end an Indian rally.

Greg Allen scattered five singles in the nightcap.

☆

TIM SISSON had a big day, banging out five hits in eight trips, including a home run with two on, as well as a double. Tim drove in five runs and also tallied a quintet.

Going into this week's action, short stop Sisson had 8-for-12, giving him a lusty .667 batting average.

Five Indians had two blows apiece in the second game — Mark aillancourt, Tucker, Don Baird and Tom Meyers.

Team batting average is .329. Following Sisson, Tucker has .455, Meyers .429 and Vaillencourt .364.

Products Golf League Winners Take Four Games

Teams captained by Clarence Champanois and Wendell Reum took top honors in the Tecumseh Products Golf League Saturday at Macon Golf Course. Both teams won 4 games.

The Champanois team consists of Virgil Tucker, Walter Morden, Max Smith and Fred Randall.

Russell Liddell, Kenneth Ringman, Gerald Creger and Ivan Gurtzweiler are captained by Wendell Reum.

The teams of William Walker, Dean Hamilton, Keith Barron, Robert Beavers, Dennis Goller, and Gerald Baker split with two wins and two losses.

Ben Gillie's and B. Crist's teams lost four games.

Eldon Walker and Robert Hoekstra shot 40 for low scores.

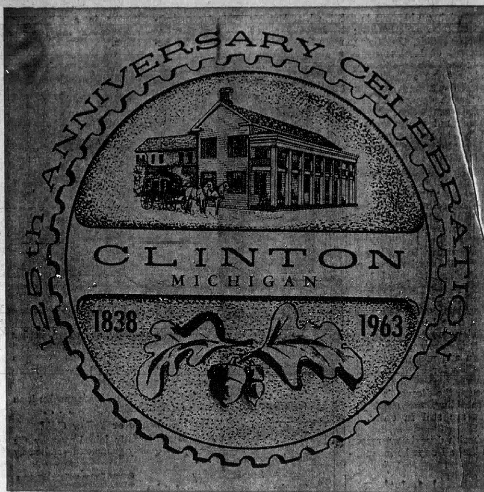

Student Runs Marathon

Herbert Gorzkiewicz, a senior at Tecumseh High School, ran 26¼ miles nonstop at the high school track. The 99 laps took him about 5½ hours.

Clinton Gearing for Celebration

ORIGINAL CELEBRATION SEAL — Jim Keehl, who operates an offset printing plant in Clinton, designed this original seal for the town's 125th anniversary festivities. The building in the upper portion is the old Clinton Inn, now located at Greenfield Village. It used to be on land which contains the village office and post office. In the lower portion, there are acorns and oak leaves in honor of the community's long-forgotten name, "Oak Openings."

CLINTON — Maurice Tuckey has a few things on his mind these days besides running his M&M Market.

Mr. Tuckey is general chairman of the high-powered birthday celebration this village is planning when it notches 125 years this summer.

So far, there are 65 committees—from Kangaroo Court to dignitaries and guests, through men's hats and ties to speakers and concessions.

Biggest item of all will be the "spectacle." It's going to be staged on the Clinton High School football field and have a cast of 250.

This highlights the celebration, which opens July 13 and continues through July 20.

☆

MR. TUCKEY, whose home is at 117 S. Oneida St. in Tecumseh, and his various chairmen have been busy making plans and preparations since early winter when a contract was signed with the John B. Rogers Producing Co.

The firm specializes in helping towns celebrate birthdays from No. 100 on up. Its personnel are expert in the items needed for such affairs.

One of the first things on the agenda is forming "Brothers of the Brush" chapters for the men and "Belles" for the ladies.

This means the male members of the population grow beards, goatees, mustaches—and in general draw the scorn of the razor blade and shaving cream industry.

☆

THE GALS don 1890 bonnets and dresses for various occasions.

To date, there are about 60 chapters, states Mr. Tuckey, and he hopes for more—from other towns as well as the immediate Clinton area.

Mr. Tuckey has already spread the gospel in Tecumseh. He and his wife appeared in full regalia at a Rebekah meeting to interest them in the Clinton festivities.

He'll be happy to attend meetings of any other local groups—naturally, in his distinctive beard, top hat and swallow-tail coat.

A wide variety of major events are being worked out for the celebration, including major parades on opening and closing days, and a youngsters' pet parade during the week.

There'll also be a kickoff ball the first evening at Clinton High.

☆

TO HELP stimulate interest, there will be caravans into other towns and a torch-light parade through Tecumseh is on the planning boards.

In June, Clinton will unleash a series of wooden nickle weeks, with the coins featuring the official seal of the celebration, which was designed by Jim Keehl, a local offset printer.

Gov. George Romney is being invited to the Clinton festivities and someone remembered Toby David, CKLW's bearded celebrity, and he'll probably be asked to take part in some way.

☆

KEY COMMITTEES and their chairmen:

Revenue — John Miller, dime store owner.

Spectacle — Mrs. Glenn Bihlmeyer and Mrs. John C. Thomas.

Spectacle tickets — Edwin Wight, school teacher.

Publicity—Mrs. Franklin Englehart, housewife.

Hospitality—Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick, real estate dealer, and Frank Gilman, retired.

Special Events—Rex Winchell, machine shop employee.

Participation — Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Ehnis, he's a druggist.

Adult Farmer Class Slates Sixth Annual Corn Growing Contest

Tecumseh adult farmer class members are ready to launch their sixth annual corn growing contest.

This year any adult farmer in the Tecumseh school district is eligible to enter. However, he must comply with the rules set up by the group.

Any farmer wishing to enter the contest this year should send a card with his name and address to Paul Burns at Tecumseh High School about the time he plants his corn.

Previous winners of the contest are:

1958 — Philip Young with 148 Bu. per acre.

1959 — Nelwin Bishop with 134 Bu. per acre.

1960 — Fred Feight with 158 Bu. per acre.

1961 — Charles Cox with 135 Bu. per acre.

1962 — Fred Feight with 185 Bu. per acre.

Since Fred Feight won the contest two years of the five he was allowed to keep the plaque showing yields and winners for the five-year period.

Each year an engraved trophy is given to the winner of the contest.

☆

RULES for this years contest as set up by the farmer class are as follows:

► Mr. Burns, local agriculture teacher, must be notified at the time the corn is planted.

► A record of expenses and practices used must be kept by the farmer.

► The contest corn must be in a one acre block.

► The whole acre must be picked, weighed and converted to 15% moisture to get the true yield.

► Two witnesses must check the picking.

► A small entry fee will be charged to pay for the awards.

There has been an average of 12 farmers in the contest over the last 5 year period.

☆

AVERAGE RESULTS of the 1962 contest entries are: Planting date, May 10; pounds fertilizer, 354; side dress Nitrogen, 103 lbs.; spacing, 12.8 inches in 40 inch rows; average yield, 141 bushels.

The county average for the year was 89 Bu. per acre.

Mr. Burns stated that during the five-year period which the contest has run, much has been learned by the group, consequently helping them to increase corn yields on their entire farm.

He hopes that this year's contest will be an improvement over those in the past.

Babies Must Be Entered by May 4

Fourteen children have been entered in the Baby Contest sponsored by the Jaycee Auxiliary.

The little king and queen chosen will be awarded $10 gift certificates from the Watkins Shop and Van-Mer's Department Store.

Mrs. Frank Sandhoff, chairman, is urging area residents to mail their entries to her at 320 N. Union St. or to Mrs. Dwight Helms at 801 Adrian St. before Saturday, May 4.

Rules for the contest appeared in the April 24 issue of the Tecumseh Herald.

'From Little Acorns' Wins Clinton Contest

Mrs. John Fox of Clinton won the $10 first prize for her entry, "From Little Acorns", in the contest to select a name for the Greater Clinton 125th anniversary celebration pageant.

Mrs. John Robinson, 1210 Shady Lane, Tecumseh, took second place and $5 with her entry, "Clinton's Golden Years."

Mrs. Theodore Keibler won the third prize of two tickets to the pageant.

Rebekahs Stage Euchre Party

Four tables of euchre were arranged for the card party Saturday night sponsored by the Rebekahs at the Odd Fellow Hall.

Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wright of Onsted, Mrs. Hollis Woerner, C. C. Richard, Roy Allshouse and Alice Collom.

Doughnuts and coffee were served by Mrs. R. C. Stauffer and committee.

CIRCUS DAY OF YEARS AGO—When Herald Society Editor Dorothy Grigg was cleaning her files recently she happened across this photo, which apparently had to do with a circus visiting Tecumseh many years ago. Itt seemed appropriate for a re-run this week since the circus will once again be heading this way next week. If any of our readers can properly identify the year of this photo, please drop in or call Mrs. Grigg.

County Line Rd. Paving Included

Bids will be opened May 8 on 41 construction projects of the State Highway Department.

Oct. 15 will be the completion date for the work.

Leave Wild Animals Alone

If little Johnny happens to get nipped on the finger by his pet hamster or rabbit, the Michigan Department of Health suggests that you wash the area thoroughly and apply an antiseptic solution—but don't send the animal to the health department laboratory for examination.

"There's not a chance in the world that an animal raised and kept in captivity could have contracted rabies," said Dr. Donald Coohon, state health department veterinarian.

A brief flare up of rabies caused public health officials some concern this spring, but it is apparently burning itself out.

However, the health department laboratory is still being deluged with specimens of animals submitted by worried parents. So far this year, 347 examinations have been made on hamsters, rabbits, mice and squirrels. All have been negative.

To determine if an animal is rabid, it is necessary to extract the brain and make microscopic examination for evidence of the rabies virus.

Although the disease is apparently subsiding, the usual precautions are still in order, he said.

The health department recommends that all dogs be immunized, and warns against approaching any animal — domestic or wild—which appears to be behaving in a peculiar manner. And above all, leave skunks alone.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Is our future one of blandness and mediocrity? Think not? Well, just take a look at advertising? Beer is lighter; bread is whiter; everything is paler, softer and safer, and sure . . . and duller!

If advertising does not fall into the above play-it-safe category it compensates by being totally confusing.

The poor housewife is anxious about eleven o'clock droop, the laxative habit and denture breath, clogged sinuses and rough red hands. No wonder, she is always screaming, "Mother, I'd rather do it myself".

What about those people in the ads? Don't you think some of them need help or a cup of strong, black coffee. For instance there is that ecstatic woman who sniffs her freshly laundered towels and then lies down and rolls herself up in her luscious new rug.

She rushes to the linen closet and caresses her two-ply double strength, facial quality, negligee-colored toilet paper that has been fluffed, brushed, and buffed.

How well, we know the chore it is to come up with a continuous stream of new ideas, words, and gimmicks. Sometimes we are sure the ad writers have flipped and can easily understand how the public has become confused, on styles and values.

Pants is a good example. While we carry them for the men we are speaking of the variety or varieties for the gals. Stretch pants, of course, are the number one style and if you have not tried them you should.

We think you will be pleasantly surprised. A new pant is the horizontal stretch both in slack and bermuda types.

Then or course there is regular slacks and taper slacks . . . in plaids, stripes and solids. Shorts still another type . . . Bermudas, Jamaicas and just plain shorts.

Last but not least are the knee length . . . these come above the knee, at the knee and below the knee and are known be a great many names.

Sizes range from 8 to 20 in almost every type of fabric.

Perhaps this is not a good ad on pants but at least you should have some idea what we have at Clinton Woolen.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

FROM ONE THING TO ANOTHER

It's been one of those days. Nothing and yet everything seemed to be wrong. My back was to the wall. The deadline for this article was at hand and I simply could not concentrate.

During Easter vacation a favorite neighborhood pastime had been hop-scotch—maybe it was contagious.

There was plenty of material available but my mind hopped from one thing to another. It just wouldn't stay put.

Spring-fever? Well, hardly. Actually, it was probably just the opposite—cold, raw weather is not too inspiring and occasional thunderstorms plus some hail and sleet do not help a bit.

Downright demoralizing was the weather-cast which told that a year ago we were basking in warm sunny 82 degree temperatures. I call that rubbing salt into open wounds.

☆

BUT, MARDA, the purpose of this column is to discuss the things of interest which you see outside your window—let's get down to business.

I could tell you about our one-legged grackle. This is his second year with us. We were glad to see he had survived the rigors of a warm winter in the South.

Seriously, we were pleased to see the old boy back. The books say that many birds return year after year to the same area—it will be interesting to see how long this fellow keeps coming back to the old "home-site".

Logically, we should now launch into a discussion of bird-banding. Qualified people are authorized by the Federal Government to place tiny aluminum bands around the legs of carefully trapped birds.

These bands are numbered and the number is registered and so, whenever the bird is re-captured, his license plate can be checked and thus much valuable information is compiled.

☆

YES, AN article could surely be written about birds returning home and bird-banding, but just as the thoughts were falling into place, Papa and Mama Cardinal flew up to the feeder.

Our big winter flock has dispersed until just one pair is left. Fortunately they are showing every sign of staying.

She is leading him a merry chase these days and what a plea[illegible] both at the feeder together. Like the good Papa C. he is, the tastiest sunflower seeds he picks up and tenderly feeds to her.

Quite a change from a few months ago when he wouldn't even let her near the banquet-board when he was there.

☆

BUT OUR attention was soon drawn away from the feeder and down to the top of the creek-bank. Five tiny goldfinches. Wow!

The three males were bedecked in their gorgeous spring finery, the dull day made their yellow seem even brighter than usual.

The two females were of course rather drab, their olive yellow is just nothing in comparison to the males' gorgeous coloring. Mother Nature was a bit ahead of herself with this springs' goldfinch appearance—last year it was a week later that we saw them.

So it is that a whole day was spent mentally hop-scotching from one thing to another.

Caution Youths about Strangers, Sergeant Warns

Because complaints involving the molestation of small children increase in the warm weather months, Sgt. Carl Anderson, commander of the Clinton State Police post, urges parents to warn their youngsters against going anywhere with strangers.

Sgt. Anderson emphasized that this warning should be occasionally repeated to keep children on guard against accepting gifts or other lures from persons they do not know.

He said that State Police last year investigated 57[illegible] offense complaints which include child molestation, throughout the state.

Sgt. Anderson observed that reluctance by parents to report child molestation incidents to the police for fear of embarrassing publicity is unwarranted.

Names of minor children involved and their parents are not used by the press, radio or television, except in situations involving abduction or murder.

He added that this reluctance conceals the actual total of molestation cases, tends to thwart preventive action by law enforcement agencies, and may even encourage the offender to strike again.

☆

SGT. ANDERSON emphasized that parents should impress their children with the importance of following cautions:

1. Don't accept any offers of money, candy or other gifts from strangers and don't go for walks or rides with them.
2. Report to your parents, police or teacher any persons acting suspiciously near you or your group.
3. Have playmates or companions with you while outdoors.
4. Don't loiter in or near public rest rooms.
5. Don't let anyone persuade you to disobey these rules.

Sgt. Anderson suggested that children can help curb the child molesting problem by getting a description of the molester, and license number of the car, if there is one.

He pointed out that persons investigated because of a child's complaint should not be offended if he has proper explanation for his activities.

Notaries Appointed for 4 Years

Statutory provisions for notaries public differ greatly throughout the nation.

Appointments to these commissions in some states are made by the governor, in others by the secretary of state, some by the courts, and in others by the chief executive with the consent of the Senate or advice of council.

Terms of office vary, too, ranging from two to ten years.

In Michigan, appointments are for four years and made by the governor. Each one is bonded for at least $1,000.

Area notaries appointed since the last year include:

Britton—Mrs. Ellis Fairbanks.

Tecumseh — Paul Lemanski, Mrs. John Long, William Mukenstrum, John Saling and Mrs. Dale Tingley.

Tipton—Margaret F. VanVorst.

Three Fire 39s as THS Golfers Win

It looks as though Coach Doug Murdoch will have another top-flight Tecumseh High School golf team this spring.

Jack Dick, Mike Rice and Jim Newell have all posted 39s so far, as the Indians fashioned early-season wins.

Tecumseh posted a pair of wins last week, stopping Jackson St. Johns, 167 to 173, and Grosse Ile, 158-170.

Last year THS won the regional.

Nurses Save Green Stamps To Get Land

In a precedent—setting campaign Michigan's women in white are turning to green stamps for a building site—the future home of the Michigan State Nurses Association.

Registered nurses throughout the state will collect 20,000 books of stamps to be traded for their state headquarters property.

A campaign quota of 24 million stamps, or three books per member, has been set. MSNA's district publicity chairmen will meet in Lansing, June 18 for an orientation workshop to help conduct the campaign within their own communities.

Kroger Employees Receive 97 Cents on Each $1 Saved

Kroger employees received 97 cents in profit sharing credits for each $1 they saved under the company's Employees' Savings and Profit Sharing plan during 1962.

Kroger contributed $3,460,913 to the fund from company profits for 1962, J. W. Davis, Toledo division vice-president, said.

A total of approximately $282,685 is shared by the 666 Kroger employees in the Toledo division area, including Tecumseh store personnel, who are members.

The plan, which is now 11½ years old, is part of the overall Kroger Employees' Profit Sharing and Retirement Income program.

James C. Howard, Tecumseh field underwriter with Mutual Of New York, participates in a panel discussion at a three-day business and educational conference in the Denver-Hilton Hotel last week for 350 members of the company's National Field Club. Club members are selected annually for distinctive achievement in the sale of life and health insurance and for high standards of service to policyholders.

Film Shows Hole-in-One, Tee to Green

Available for free showings is a 28-minute full-color, 16mm sound film of the 1962 Buick Open—the one Bill Collins won.

It is a dramatic feature for any sports promotion at country clubs and in town service clubs.

It's unusual because it contains Jerry Barber's hole-in-one, the only motion-picture sequence ever made in a national professional (PGA) tournament of a hole-in-one drive from clubhead to cup—made entirely by accident when the cameraman shot the wrong golfer because he thought it was Collins, then the likely '62 winner.

The film may be obtained quickly by writing, telegraphing or phoning:

Top Corn Growers Attend Banquet

BRITTON—One Hundred and forty FFA members attended a DeKalb corn awards banquet in Albion on April 5.

The affair honored vo-ag students with DeKalb corn projects who had made the best record on a corn growing analysis sheet supplied by DeKalb.

From Britton were Larry Henning, Dave Prill, Bob Fox and Bill Kahle.

Besides these boys, four others completed the project.

☆

IN CONTRAST to most corn contests, which are based on yield checked on a spot basis, the DeKalb project emphasizes cost, fertilizing, population and recognition of corn enemies.

The yield is computed, but project recognition is not based on top yield, but yield calculation is a factor in the top score.

Top students from Britton on total score were Dave Prill, Larry Henning, Bill Kahle and Bob Billau with a score of 100.

According to Ronald Fritch, local vo-ag teacher, each student plants two varieties of DeKalb corn. He then keeps records of all field operations and costs.

AFTER HARVEST, the young farmers determine what it cost them to produce a bushel of corn.

The eight boys had costs ranging from $.399 to $.605 per bushel.

Dave Prill had the lowest cost per bushel of $.399.

At this banquet, 30 schools from this general area were in attendance.

Tekonsha was the top school based on the best overall record of all of its entrants.

A FILM STRIP on single cross corn, which is receiving much attention from corn growers, was shown.

The film demonstrated how it was made and explained its advantages.

The DeKalb corn project includes over 1,000 schools in the top corn growing states.

It has been in operation for 10 years.

In 1930, the national corn yield was only 20 bushels per acre. Since then, in 32 years, the average has jumped to 65 bushels per acre because of extensive crossing.

17 Surprise Guests Bring Saws, Hammers and Chicken Dinner

BRITTON—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vallie were surprised last Sunday when 17 friends and relatives arrived with their carpenter tools.

They went to work on the Vallie garage and started the rough work for a new bedroom and enlargement of the living room.

Mr. Vallie, who recently underwent surgery at Herrick Memorial Hospital, had previously purchased the materials he needed for the project and begun the garage. The group sided it.

The fellows also brought the makings for a chicken barbeque dinner and all the trimmings.

Later, Mrs. Herman Bates, Mrs. Bud Fergus and Mrs. Art Sommers assisted Mrs. Vallie in serving dinner to the workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Vallie would like to take this opportunity to express their deep appreciation to these men for their hard day's work.

Included were Harley Hummel, Raymond Auten, Bud Fergus, Bob Osterhout, Bud Lorenz, Jerry Sommers, Art Sommers, Ralph Tiede, Shorty Spreeman, Frank Vallie, Herman Bates, Dean Downing, Roy Wagner, Charles Koman, Tom Komon, John Harlan and Dick Linn.

Tips on Plowing

BRITTON — The Britton Vo-Ag classes plow with offset hitch to prove the hitching of a plow is more important than where the tractor is driven.

After studying a unit on plowing, Ron Fritch, Vo-Ag instructor took a field trip to William Miller's farm on Palmer Hwy. near Britton to see if what they had studied would actually work.

The ideal hitch is a straight line from the point of resistance on the plow to the point of pull on the tractor, both horizontally and vertically.

The plow will be pulled straight, regardless where the tractor is located as long as the points are in line.

These points are easily located the point of pull on the tractor is below and to the front of the rear axel.

With the rear wheels spaced equally from the center of the tractor, it is the point where the front of the swinging drawbar hooks onto the tractor.

☆

GENERALLY the center line of draft on the plow is located at a point one-quarter the cutting width of one bottom, measured to the left of the center of the total cut of the plow, and half the distance between the front and the back of the plow.

For example if three 14-inch bottoms are used, the total cut is 42 inches. One-half of the total cut is 21 inches. This is the center of cut.

One-quarter the width of one bottom is 3½ inches. Measuring 3½ inches to the left of center of cut brings the center line of draft to 24½ inches from the furrow wall, and on the front of the middle bottom.

The most important factor in tractor plow operation is correct hitching. Draft, quality of work and ease of operation depend, to a great extent, on whether or not the hitch is made properly.

Improper hitching can result in higher fuel consumption, harder steering and poor all-around performance.

At a recent state plowing contest, which should represent the better plowing jobs in the State, it was found that 75% of the plows were not properly hitched.

The best source of information on the plow hitching will come from the operator's manual, which every machinery dealer should give the farmer when buying a plow.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Not too many fellows come down the pike like Albert A. Applegate.

Known variously as "Bert" or "Triple A," this fellow is a legend to hundreds and hundreds of newspaper, radio, TV and magazine practitioners all over this nation.

Bert is the fellow who started them on their way and not one will ever forget his fatherly assistance as he guided them through college journalism classes.

Triple A is still going strong too — at a new stand.

Bert bounced into The Herald unannounced last week on press day. Just happened to be coming through town, he smiled, that familiar Triple A twinkle in his eyes.

One doesn't guess at a fellow's age, but Bert is surely in his 70's, yet he looks much as he did when first we met in 1940, my freshman year at Michigan State.

My brother introduced us and oh how much I had heard about the famous Bert Applegate. The meeting was no disappointment and the years that followed have enriched my admiration and respect for Bert.

During those days, Triple A headed up the journalism department. Actually, Bert was the department! Gosh, how the students enjoyed him as an instructor, advisor and personal confidant.

Soft-spoken and low pressure, Bert pointed his students in the right direction, then like the mother robin teaching her young to fly, gently nudged the would-be journalist out of the nest.

Some fell sprawling. Others really took to the intoxicating new world to which Bert introduced them. When a young man or woman tumbled in the strange surroundings, Mr. A. was close by to help give a little lift. He didn't come running, always watched to see if the student could pick himself up and start anew on his own.

It took each of us years to realize how much this lone man has done for his scholastic sons and daughters.

Back in my senior year, as editor of the student daily, there were a multitude of responsibilities.

Bert was faculty advisor of the paper, but he never came stomping into the office and demanded we do this or that, that we withhold certain news or lay off the administration.

He was always available for consultation and I can't help but chuckle now at the way Bert helped his editors arrive at the right decisions. We'd trudge down the hall of the Union Annex to his office and drop heavily into a chair by his desk to exclaim, "Bert we've got a problem coming up in tomorrow's paper."

He'd ask what it was, probably knowing all the time via some magic grapevine.

After hearing the student editor state all aspects, he might ask, "What are you going to do about it?"

Then would come the possible solutions, accompanied by probable repercussions with each.

"Are you certain of all the facts?" Bert might probe again.

This prompted more soul-searching on the student editor's part and gradually the whole situation would be strung out for careful evaluation.

Bert never said, "Do this!" He has always shown great faith in the youngsters under his charge,

NEXT STOP: ARGENTINA—The Barnard Fero family might be peering into a bright future as time nears for them to take off for South America, where Mr. Fero has accepted a position in Argentina. From left, Kelly, Mrs. Fero, Mr. Fero and Tim. Mike and Pat, two other Fero sons, are both students at Michigan State University.

Off to Argentina

By TOM RIORDAN

This is one summer the Barnard Fero family is going to miss almost completely.

As warm weather moves into Tecumseh the Feros are moving out — to Argentina, where winter runs through June, July and August.

But this one item seems to bring no regrets to members of the Fero clan as they embark on what can be one of the most exciting chapters in their lives.

Mr. Fero has accepted a position with the Kaiser Jeep Corp., at its Cordaba plant. He'll head up the 260-man drop forging division in the plant which employs up to 11,000.

Mr. Fero resigned his job with the Dana Corp., Spicer Division, in Lansing to take the new assignment. He had been commuting from Tecumseh while Mrs. Fero worked here as a secretary with Tecumseh Products Co.

The Feros have lived at 105 Maple St. since 1952 and are the parents of three sons, Mike, 20, a junior at Michigan State; Tim, 18, a senior at Tecumseh High School and Kelly, 11, a fifth grader at Tecumseh Acres.

The Feros have another son, Pat, who is married to the former Mary Jo Tressler. A student at Michigan State, he and his wife will not be going to South America with the others.

Mr. Fero leaves by air for Cordaba May 30. The rest of the family will fly down the first week of July, following Tim's graduation from THS.

As a greatly-appreciated gesture, Kaiser will fly Mike back to MSU in the fall so that he can complete his degree work there.

☆

LANGUAGE appears as though it will be no barrier for the Feros, who are busy learning Spanish. Italian and Portuguese are also spoken in Argentina and they'll all probably end up getting into these once there.

The Feros are already versed on their new home.

It's the vacation area of Argentina, ringed by the Cordaba Mountains, which are foothills to the Andes. There are a bevy of lakes, and streams with Swiss-type challets scattered about, skiing good, lots of hunting and fishing.

Cordaba is reputed to be a golfers' paradise with breathtaking courses, all playable the year 'round.

The three-month winter isn't like ours. The mercury ranges from 65 to 70 degrees by day, 40 at night.

Summer temperatures rarely are over 95.

Police Pay Raise Rejected

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

However, Council Approves Another Deskman

By JIM LINCOLN

A request for another police department deskman and salary increases created a stir at Council meeting Monday night, resulting in a continuance of the public hearing on the proposed 1963-'64 budget till next Monday evening.

Council approved another man for the department, but rejected Police Chief Murell Clark's request for wage increases.

The new deskman, who will probably be employed just for the summer months, will cost the city approximately $1,400.

Chief Clark said that other police officers had requested pay raises and the amount asked from Council was for $3 a month. At the present, patrolmen get $92 a week, plus fringe benefits.

City Manager Carl Zorn called the small raise requested ridiculous and said it would not even pay for the increase in Blue Cross insurance.

He reported that employees in the street department also wanted more money, but he did not feel one or two departments should be given increases unless all were included.

The request for another deskman caused Council to up the planned millage increase from ½ to one mill, setting total city millage at 12.

Washington Will Give Help, Mayor Reports

Mayor Harold Easton told Council Monday night that with some help from Washington, D.C. and local pushing the city's chances of acquiring the off-street parking lot behind Adrian Federal were improving and encouraging.

The Tecumseh official, who attended a mayor's conference in the capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday, related discussions with Rep. George Meader and staff members in Senator Phillip Hart's office.

☆

THE CITY is now expected to work through the Federal government's General Service Administration office in Battle Creek to prevent the Federal Surplus Property Section from giving the lot to either the Tecumseh schools, Benedict Memorial School or the Lenawee County Schools.

The local schools were notified April 26 that they could have the lot if it would be used for educational or health purposes.

The Surplus Property Section apparently acquired control of the lot from the postal department, which now plans to build on the Adams Park site and no longer needs the S. Pearl St. lot.

☆

ANOTHER PROBLEM arising from the Federal government's offer to the schools and the ending of a working agreement between the schools and Lee Purkey & Sons Garage has resulted with the parking of buses on the lot.

Ed DeLisle, who operates a garage adjacent to the lot and who was present at the Council meeting, was told that he could not park the buses on the lot.

Complaints of buses parked there, coupled with Police Chief Murell Clark's remarks that buses left there were in violation of a city ordinance, prompted Council action.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Two Parties Should Get Together

Tecumseh's school board — plagued with financial troubles along with an increasing enrollment — has added another headache.

In the past, we have sympathized with boardmen and their problems. The latest one is more or less of the board's own doing and one which will attract little, if any, sympathy from the school district.

This headache, assuming complete control and supervision of the school busses, may also be a costly one. It was not necessary, in our opinion, that the schools and Lee Purkey & Sons garage break their agreement.

This agreement, although possibly lacking in some aspects of business relations, was a good one for the schools and the taxpayers.

Now school officials are searching for a site to park the busses in the future, to build a garage and to install a gasoline tank.

The question is where? And, where will the money come from for such a project?

Purkey's record for repairing, maintaining and servicing the busses was excellent. It's doubtful that the schools, without experience, can fulfill the service and responsibility to the district as cheaply and efficiently as in the past.

The schools can park the buses on their property on N. Maumee St., but, they cannot build a garage there or install a gasoline tank unless city fathers change the zoning. This is not likely.

Nor, can the schools build a garage and install a tank on their property on Munger Rd., unless the zoning is changed.

Where do they build, or rather, where do they get the money to acquire a site — possibly in the industrial area — to build a garage, equip it, and hire one or two mechanics?

The schools' educational services have been cut and many have not been restored. Teachers have asked for salary increases, something not granted since 1958. If Tecumseh becomes a Class A school next fall, where is the money coming from to operate and meet Class A standards?

It's doubtful that the taxpayers will approve more money, even a renewal of the last four mills, if the schools spend it for a garage building, site, equipment and other non-educational aspects.

We would like to see the schools and Purkey officials get together, iron out any problems, then come up with an agreement which would benefit the school district.

Unless there are some unforseen obstacles, we believe the two parties could reach such an arrangement. It, at least, s certainly worth a try.

26 in Track Meet Here Saturday

Biggest local track event of the year will be held here Saturday with 14 Class B and 12 Class C schools participating in the annual Tecumseh Jaycee Relays.

The Relays will start Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with the shot put, high jump and broad jump scheduled plus the running of preliminaries in the high hurdles and 100-yard dash.

The running events, all finals, will be held in the afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock.

One of the strongest track teams in the history of the Tecumseh schools should battle it out for top honors with Cranbrook, top ranked Class B school from the suburbs of Detroit.

The Indians, well on their way to an undefeated season in dual meets and the Huron League, should easily win a first in the pole vault with Dan Greene, Michigan's finest Class B vaulter, and possibly one or two in the relay events.

Bill Thomas could win the shot put, providing he hits 48 feet or better, a mark he's bettered twice this spring but one he failed to hit in the Albion Invitational last Saturday.

Coach Don Brazee has several fine runners for the relays and hurdles and may pick up one or two firsts, depending largely on the strength of Cranbrook.

The Indians are weak in the high jump, broad jump and the 100-yard dash, and will be lucky to score in these events.

Before the Relays are half over, the Class B race could well be one between the Indians and Cranbrook. No other Class B school is being given much chance to challenge the two track powers.

B entries are Airport, Blissfield, Chelsea, Cranbrook, Dundee, Grosse Ile, Jackson-Northwest, Jackson St. Mary, Ypsilanto-Lincoln, Milan, Saline, Willow Run, Flat Rock and Tecumseh.

☆

Class C entries are Ypsilanti Roosevelt, Whiteford, Addison, University High from Ann Arbor, Ida, Madison, Morenci, Napoleon, Pinckney, Onsted, Clinton and Britton (Class D).

Behind Page One

Has The Herald really crashed through some journalism sound barrier? See the elephant picture on pages one and six of the third secton to find out what we're talking about.

Mrs. Leland Cheever, 712 Inner Dr., is justly proud of her grandson, Stephen Clark, who placed third with his project on jet and rocket propulsion in the Spain Science Fair held recently in Madrid. After reading about local high school winners in last week's issue of The Herald, she was impelled to report the honor in her own family. The 18-year-old senior high school student is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. James B. Clark, formerly of Tecumseh, now based with the United States Air Force in Spain.

Youngsters from Ridgeway School third grade toured Van's Bakery and The Herald Tuesday morning. Split into two groups, one went to Van's, the second to our plant. Herald shop foreman overheard one lad telling his pal, "I can hardly wait until we get to the bakery. I'm hungry."

Over in Three Oaks the Jaycees are selling auto seat belts and to help advertise the project, barber chairs are currently equipped wth them. Patrons are reminded of the sale as they climb into the chair for a trim and the barber order 'em to fasten their seat belts.

Otto Baaske, 309 S. Union St. brought positive identification of the year 1936 for the circus photo printed in last week's Herald.

Mr. Baaske has two snap shots taken of the Lewis Bros. Circus here when the Big Top was set up in the old ball park on the south side of Patterson St., now filled with homes.

His pics show the big tent and an elephant.

Dan R. Harvey, former Tecumseh resident, joined Uncle Sam's army the latter part of January and is now Airman third class. He was one of those from Tecumseh High School going with the Michigan Chorale to South America in 1961. Dan's address is:

C.M.R. 2 Box 9024
Keesler Air Force Base
Biloxi, Miss.

Special recognition should be given to Fred Feight, who won the 1962 adult farmer corn growing contest for the second time. His yield was 185 bushels per acre.

Nobody but nobody supports a community project like Hugh Walter. Since the "Operation Kitchen" project began, Hugh has seemed to eat, drink and sleep money-making projects to swell the fund for the new feast fixing facility.

At the present he has Herald office employee's heads filled with Mills Bros. Circus talk, plugging the one-day stand the show will make in Tecumseh Thursday, May 9.

Wednesday morning he was so enthused about new means of selling tickets that he dashed out of Kerby's without paying for his breakfast.

Rotarian Yale Kerby probably won't let that little incident get by the next meeting on Tuesday evening without a fine.

The rack of an antelope, bagged by Dr. Ralph Helzerman with a bow and arrow in Wyoming, has officially been ranked as fifth largest in the world, according to the World Archery Cub.

Yale Kerby now provides another service for his diner customers, giving them accurate temperature reports. Every so often, he steps outside and reads from the new gadget at Adrian Federal Savings & Loan, which alternately flashes time and temperature every four seconds.

Ham is a regular at the Ted Pihl residence these days but not on the dinner table.

Mr. and Mrs. Pihl have just returned from spending the weekend at a Ham-Vention or a Ham-Fest in Dayton, O. but this had nothing to do with food either.

It seems that Mr. Pihl just completed putting up the aerial for his own radio transmitter Thursday and then Friday his renewed license arrived in the mail. The first time he had a license he was 14 years old.

His call numbers are W8EJ7.

Long & Short

figuring that with all the facts and without any shoving, a young person will make the proper decision.

These sessions with Bert, sometimes only a few minutes in length, were mentally stimulating — and after all, what is college for but to start people thinking and trying to exercise good judgment?

Unfortunately — as it turns out for Michigan State and not Bert, as at first was thought — Spartan officials got to thinking real big. They wanted a string of degrees behind the names of their department heads. They wanted vigorous young men. So Bert was asked to retire.

Triple A Fan Club members felt badly about the whole idea, but you don't fight city hall and so it seemed the end of an era.

Bert and Mrs. Applegate moved to Florida and he joined the faculty of a small college there. But no state tops Michigan as far as Bert is concerned.

Then fate stepped in and a lot of people applauded.

Hillsdale College trustees named Dr. Donald Phillips their new president and he really went to work building the small institution into a real top-notch school.

Dr. Phillips came from Michigan State and he remembered Bert Applegate, and especially the influence on young people of Triple A.

When the invitation came from the office of the president at Hillsdale, Bert was packing.

He handles half a dozen classes and advises student publications, giving Hillsdale one of the finest gentlemen in journalism this country knows.

It wouldn't be too surprising if one of these days Bert starts checking in students at Hillsdale with familiar family names — sons and daughters of kids he once taught at MSU.

Eggleston's Furnishes Watches

Eggleston's Jewelry will furnish four 21-jewel stop watches for the Tecumseh Jaycee Relays here Saturday.

The timers, valued at $350 each, are not sold but loaned throughout the country for sporting events by the Bulova Watch Co.

Eggleston's has been providing stop watches, free-of-charge, to the Jaycees for several years.

The complicated watches, parts of which are made to tolerances of four one-millionths of an inch, can time two different runners at the same time, and are certified to better than one second accuracy per day.

City Buys 100 Crab Apple Trees

City Manager Carl Zorn received Councils approval to purchase and plant 100 crab apple trees along N. Evans St., from River Raisin to the Macon Rd.

The trees, costing $219, will be purchased from Ilgenfritz Nursery in Monroe and will consist of several varieties.

They will range from five to eight feet in height, eventually growing from 20 to 25 feet.

Councilman Ray Puffer voted against the proposal feeling the city should use the money and devote its attention to improving the streets.

☆

IN OTHER action:

► Richard L. Beasley was appointed Marshal of the Day for Memorial Day.

► Awarded Ayling-Cunningham a contract for providing the city with bituminuous concrete and bituminous aggregate.

► Approved a special meeting next Monday night to complete city's plans and proposal for bidding on a new post office and for continuing the public hearing on the 1963-'64 budget.

► Approved Wes Haeussler's plan to install curb on Brook St., with Mr. Haeussler working on his own time and the city paying the cost of the concrete.

► Extended a trailer parking permit for Mrs. Harold Hicks, 714 S. Union St.

It was pointed out that the lot could not be used for anything except off-street parking regardless of whether the schools or any other party gained possession.

Argentina

Kaiser is providing a furnished home. When the furniture arrives by boat it will take about six months, the Feros have been told — they can move to an unfurnished place.

Foreign assignments like this usually call for a 50% increase in salary, Mr. Fero explains, and one-half of his pay will be banked right here in Tecumseh.

☆

THERE ARE problems. For one, milk. Although dairies in Argentina pasteurize it, Kaiser officials recommend that the Feros bring along a portable pasteurizer.

Since little clothing made from miracle fabrics or sturdy shoes at reasonable prices are available in Argentina shops the Tecumsehites have been advised to be outfitted for at least two years.

Obtaining imported appliances is almost out of the question because of towering duties. At the same time locally-manufactured ranges and refrigerators are inferior by American standards, Mr. Fero points out.

The Kaiser plant is a combined operation, with manufacture of not only the Jeep, but also the complete line of Renault and American Motor products — about 24 models — being handled in it.

☆

THE FEROS are one of 45 families from North America going to Argentina at this time, replacing other Americans who are returning to native locations after tours of duty there. All told, 63 American families reside in Cordaba.

Mr. Fero isn't certain how long he'll stay, maybe two years, maybe seven or even a lifetime.

Prior to his affiliation with Dana Corp., Mr. Fero was with the Bridgeport Brass in Adrian and Dayton Malleable Iron of Buffalo, N.Y.

Aldersgate Home Is Mother's Day

Sunday May 12, Mother's Day, the pastor of the Methodist Church, the Rev. Donald C. Porteous, will preach on the theme "The Aldersgate Home."

For three Sundays beginning May 5 he has chosen his messages to center around the word, Aldersgate, which becomes more meaningful this year because of the anniversary celebration.

"The Aldersgate Mind," 'The Aldersgate Home" and Aldersgate Experience" which are being used for sermon themes, brings to a climax this year the 225 anniversary of John Wesley's heart-warming experience.

It was May 24, 1738 at a little mission on Aldersgate Street, London, England, where John Wesley felt his heart strangely warmed within and that he did trust in Christ for the forgiveness of his sins.

From this experience came a small group known as 'Methodist Society" which later developed into the Methodist Church under the direction of John and Charles Wesley.

Sunday May 19, the pastor will preach on the theme "The Aldersgate Experience" and receive into the membership of the church the Youth Confirmation Class.

Circus Is Today

Kids of all ages went to the airport this morning to see elephants erect the monstrous tent of Mills Bros. Three Ring Circus.

Viewers from toddlers to grandparents were on hand for the spectacle.

Yesterday the set-up man arrived in town. He spent the day making preparations for the arrival of the circus today.

He ordered all the food for performers, as well as feed for the animals.

He arranged for gasoline for the caravan and oil for the light plants.

When the cook house care in last night, he helped set it up so breakfast would be ready when the circus arrived.

When the trucks pulled in this morning, bedlam seemed to break loose.

Not true, for each man had a certain job and he did it efficiently.

The big top went up like clockwork and smaller tents followed.

Exhibition housing for the lions and other animals was set up simultaneously.

The animals were then fed and performers started equipping the tent with their properties.

The entire circus is preparing for the afternoon performance to be at 3:30 and evening performance at 8.

Tickets are on sale an hour earlier at the box office—$1.90 adults and $1.60 children.

Meter Readers Will Soon Wear Blue Uniforms

There'll be a new look for Consumers Power Co. meter readers by the end of May, and homemakers in this area will probably be the first to notice it.

Consumers is dressing its army of meter readers throughout Michigan in new blue uniforms.

Heretofore, the men who visit your home to record your use of utility service have dressed, in most communities, in ordinary work clothes.

Now, they'll all be in blue.

A big Consumers symbol on the front of the shirt or jacket, which representatives will wear, says plainly, "Consumers Meter Reader."

Summer uniforms are a light blue shirt and dark blue trousers, with a light blue skier's cap. The winter uniform is all dark blue, except for the light blue shirt.

A dark blue jacket with removable lining will be worn all year, as the weather indicates.

Distribution of uniforms to the 350 Meter Readers on the Consumers System began late in April.

Memoriam

For our loving wife, mother, and grandmother, Mrs. Mary P. Jones who passed away four years ago May 12.

The dearest mother the world could hold,
The cheeriest smile, the heart of gold;
Those who knew her, all will know
How much we lost four years ago.
Always a smile instead of a frown,
Always a hand when a friend was down,
Always so jolly, thoughtful and kind;
What a wonderful memory she left behind.

Still greatly missed by husband John, son John Paul Jones and family, daughter Lee Horton and family. M9,p

Hale Wants Winning Tempo

Tecumseh Highs baseball squad goes to Flat Rock Friday, still hopeful of getting on a winning tempo.

In its past four games, Coach Carl Hales nine was able to post but one victory.

Last Thursday, the Dundee Vikings nipped THS, 8-7, when a routine infield ground ball was booted in the eighth inning, permitting the winning run to score.

Norm Tucker started on the mound for Tecumseh, but was bombed in the third, replaced by Gordon Gibson, a freshman, who performed well in scattering seven hits.

Tim Sisson nailed three hits in four times at bat, Mark Vaillencourt banged out 2-for-4.

In Saturday's double-header with Grosse Ile, Tecumseh won the opener, 9-4, then dropped the second contest, 3-2.

Greg Allen hurled the win, striking out five and walking three.

Jerry Hebb had a big day at the plate, cracking the ball over the right-field fence his first time up and then adding a double and single in four trips.

Another home-run hitter was Ron Anderson, who shot one over the left-field fence.

The second game saw Norm Tucker on the hill, whiffing five, but giving free passes to six.

Gordon Gibson broke into the lineup as a pinch hitter, taking over for a mate who had two strikes, then ramming out a base knock. He continued in the game and got another blow.

Tecumseh had the bases loaded with no outs in the sixth frame, but still couldn't push over a tally.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT — It doesn't seem possible that this strange looking creature was found along the Raisin River but it's so. Dick Mommerency, 1025 Humphrey St., Monroe came across it near the Dundee bridge over the Raisin May 1, en route to second shift work at the Tecumseh Products Co. According to the "Who's Who In the Zoo" book, the animal is an iguana found in the Galapagos islands off the coast of Ecuador. How in the world did it get up here.

Indians Wallop Milan Track Team; 2nd at Albion Meet

Last major threat to Tecumseh winning the Huron League track title was easily disposed of last Wednesday when the Indians ran away from Milan, 68-41.

Undefeated in dual meets this year, the Indians have only token opposition for the rest of their schedule. Milan, a surprisingly strong winner over Grosse Ile, had been expected to give Coach Don Brazee's team a close contest.

Tecumseh won firsts in eight of 13 events, three times swept the first two places.

Shot put—Thomas (T), Fretwell (T), Van Winkle (M). 48'½".

Broad jump — Johnson (T), Crise (M), Osburn (T). 19'10".

High jump — Trail (M), O'Donnell (M), Crise (M). 5'8".

Pole vault—Greene (T), Trail (M), Royal (M). 10'9".

120-yd. high hurdles—Derby (T), Osburn (T), O'Donnell (M). 16.6.

100—Adams (M), Collins (T), Eddy (M). 10.3.

880—Berger (M), Lemerand (T), Deaner (T). 2:09.6.

440 — Johnson (T), Wilbar (T), Tomnelien (M). 55.0.

220—Collins (T), Osburn (T), Eddy (M). 23.5.

180-yd. low hurdles — Adams (M), Derby (T), Bartenslager (T). 21.3.

Mile—Head (M), Greene (T), Biscupski (T). 4:48.2.

Mile relay — Tecumseh (Wilbar, Lucas, Brown, Lemerand). 3:45.5.

880 relay — Tecumseh (Johnson, Derby, Osburn, Collins). 1:39.

Tecumseh finished a close second in the annual Albion Invitational track meet Saturday, losing by one point to Three Rivers, 32½ to 31½.

Bangor finished third with 30 points.

Lack of depth decided the outcome with the Indians winning five firsts, more than any other school, but failed to pick up the necessary seconds and thirds.

Dan Greene set a school and Class B meet record in the pole vault with a mark of 12'6".

Steve Derby copped the 180-yard low hurdles in 22 seconds, and finished fourth in the high hurdles.

Dave Lemerand, improving with every meet, won the 880-yard run in 2:03.3 for a new Tecumseh school record.

The mile relay team—Bob Wilbar, Greene, Jim Brown and Lemerand — took first with a time of 4:40.2.

The 880 relay team of Jim Johnson, Derby, Jay Osburn and Tim Collins tied for first. Time was 1:37.

Johnson placed fourth in the 440, and Bill Thomas finished fourth in the shot put.

Thomas, who has topped 48 feet in the last two dual meets, managed to get over just 45 feet Saturday.

Dan Grene, finest pole vaulter in Tecumseh's history, will be a heavy favorite here Saturday in Jaycee Relays.

Snap The Props — Now!

Over the years — through both Republican and Democratic administrations — the Federal government has felt the way to solve any farm problems was with cash handouts.

Pay 'em for keeping pigs off the market by killing them, pay 'em for not growing wheat and corn.

The situation perpetuated itself, getting worse year by year.

Now, they want to pay 'em for not growing a crop they didn't even have in previous years. It's almost to the point of sheer lunacy.

By just closing our eyes, we can see Orville Freeman as a highwayman, sticking a derringer in the ribs of some poor slob, taking his money, then hot-footing it to give the cash to a farmer in exchange for a few of his birthrights.

Farmers aren't dummies. They know that a no-holds-barred subsidy program can breed nothing but disaster for this nation. Remember farm folks are citizens, too. The vast majority want to shoulder their fair share; they don't want dole.

It's pure and simple what Washington's high-powered farm thinkers have up their sleeves. They want more power, power, power.

A turning point might be forthcoming May 21. We certainly hope so as do hundreds of thousands of farmers and millions of non-farming John Does.

Wheat growers will inform Washington what they think of the latest subsidy program. By their votes, we would like to see farmers tell Orville to go jump in the lake.

We yearn for a decisive "No" return that would snap the props from under the whole disgraceful agriculture bribe plan, which has been nurtured and preened for so many years at the expense of the entire nation.

To farmers around this area, we say get out and defeat the plan.

From every indication, if it passes, Secretary Freeman et al will soon take over the entire farm industry.

INSTALL GEAR—Automobile Club of Michigan traffic specialists, Ervin Simsick (left), Charles Gordon and Harvey Sainsbury prepare to install one of three mechanical traffic computers which will be placed on main thoroughfares and heavily-traveled streets in Tecumseh to record traffic volume as part of Auto Club's survey. The computers are not intended as speed traps. They record only the number of cars that pass over the cable, which extends from the computer out into the street.

Are You a Square

Charles Brower, president of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, Inc., Detroit, recently talked about restoring an old six letter word, "to its proper place in our vocabulary." Here's how he put it:

"Back in Mark Twain's day, square was one of the finest words in our language . . . you gave a man a square deal if you were honest.

"And you gave him a square meal when he was hungry.

"You stood foursquare for the right as you saw it, and square against everything else.

"When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellow man square in the eye."

"A lot of strange characters then got hold of this honest, wholesome word, Brower said, with the result that a square today is "the man who never learned to get away with it; a Joe who volunteers when he doesn't have to; a guy who gets his kicks from trying to do something better than anyone else can; a boob who gets lost in his work; a fellow who doesn't have to stop at a bar on his way to the train at night because he's all fired up and full of juice already.

"This country was discovered, put together, fought for and saved by squares.

"It is easy to prove that Nathan Hale, Patrick Henry, Paul Revere, George Washington, Benjamin Franklin . . . were squares —by simply thinking what they might have said had they not been square:

"Nathan Hale—'Me spy on those British? Are you trying to be funny? Do you know what they do with spies they catch? I'll give you a news flash, chum. They hang them.'

Patrick Henry—'Sure. I'm for liberty. First, last and always. But we've got to be a little realistic. We're a pretty small outfit. If we start pushing the British around, someone is going to get hurt.'

"George Washington — 'Gentlemen, I am honored. But I do wish you would try someone else. Let's say General Gates. I'm just getting things organized at Mount Vernon. Also, you might say I have already served my time. Against the French, you know.' "

"Today," Brower declared, "Too many of us haven't the guts to stand up straight and dare to be square.

"We know too many short cuts," he said, "and too few know or care where the path leads. Too few of us dare to leave the path, because the path is always the easy way, the way most people go.

"But there is no path to the future, no path to greatness, no path to progress, no path to outer space or to inner satisfaction.

So, you see, Alan Shephard, John Glenn, Scott Carpenter and Walter Schirra —like the Founding Fathers—are square.

Would that there were more of them.

TO THE EDITORS:

The week of May 5 to 11 will be observed throughout our Nation, as the 49th "Be Kind to Animal Week," by the American Humane Association and over 500 affiliated organizations of which the Lenawee County Humane Society is a member.

Bake sales are held in January, February and March of each year, (the space for them provided by a business man in the down town area of Adrian) by members and friends of the Lenawee County Humane Society.

Part of this income is used to purchase the posters which are distributed to the schools and libraries throughout the county each spring. These Posters are welcomed by the superintendents, principals and teachers with whom we come in contact as well as the librarians as a part of the educational material for our youth.

The "Christian purpose" of our local Humane Society, like those in all areas of the nation, asks the aid of our county citizens as follows:

"Please take unwanted animals and birds to our shelter, or phone us. We are prepared to give them good care and find new homes for them. A small donation towards cost of food and care will be appreciated. The Humane example you set before your children, and others, is priceless, as in God's reward to you."

By the support and full cooperation of all of our citizens we can do a better work in providing homes for animals where they will be kept within the bounds of their owner's yard so that children and adults will be protected from the dogs and cats that have been running as strays and the animals will have protection from unkind children and adults.

Many county citizens make regular donations to our humane work, alone at the shelter, 2½ miles east of Adrian on Academy Rd. and others have good intentions.

Our treasurer's address: Miss Marvel Steinhoff, 109 Oneida St., Tecumseh. Or write Dr. Hope Lowry, 1374 Terrace St. Adrian

"Contribute to kindness," is the theme this year.

Open house all the week of May 5 to 11. Visiting hours every Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m., week days 10 to 5 p.m.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Glenn H. Peck,
Lenawee County
Humane Society

TO THE EDITORS:

Wittfogel says that oriental despots kept their subjects in bondage by control of water supply.

Our Department of Agriculture is trying for a stranglehold on farmers by tightening wheat controls.

May 21 is set for an "election" which, if carried by two-thirds of the farmers voting, WILL BIND ALL WHEAT GROWERS BY ITS TERMS.

Other citizens cannot vote, but do pay for crop controls in taxes and higher prices.

Terms of the election were decreed by the Secretary of Agriculture. Appeals would be referred to appointed bureaucrats, who would act as prosecutors, judges and juries.

Farmers who raise wheat to feed their own poultry or live stock are not exempt. They are denied protection of our Bill of Rights.

Under the proposed rules, they would be forced to testify against themselves; denied jury trials; and their property subjected to arbitrary search and seizure.

Because of the Yankus case, American farmers have reason to oppose this tyrannical proposal. Stanley Yankus, on his farm near Dowagiac, raised wheat to feed his chickens.

He accepted no government subsidies. He told me that he had been refused a jury trial. In defense of his Constitutional rights, he waged a country-wide campaign.

When the Haley case, similar to that of Mr. Yankus, was arbitrarily reversed by the United States Supreme Court, he gave up, sold his farm at auction, paid his fines and moved with his family to Australia.

In continued support for freedom in farming for wheat and other crops and in defense of other industries threatened by bureaucratic tyranny, let us all use our influence to defeat proposed wheat controls.

George M. Zimmerman
Respectfully,

TO THE EDITORS:

I am sending you a picture and a little write-up for your paper. So hope you can use it.

We are having the most beautiful weather down here. Flowers are beautiful. Temperature is up in the 80's every day. No rain, need it badly.

We have enjoyed so many of the Tecumseh folks who have been vacationing in Florida.

Sure seems like old times to have the opportunity to visit with all the home people.

We look forward every Saturday to getting the home paper, and we read every word. It really helps to take the place of not being able to meet you people face to face.

Best wishes to everybody in the old home town, and many thanks for everything.

TO THE EDITORS:

We are frequently reminded of the slogan "Shop Tecumseh First"—help local merchants maintain their business so that they can pay taxes.

I am a small businessman in the printing and advertising business and when I noticed the numerous stickers appearing on car bumpers to "Shop in Tecumseh", I naturally was curious to see who supplied these in our shopping area.

They are not printed in Tecumseh and neither I nor any of the other local printers were given a chance to bid on the job.

We do all silk-screen process printing, such as bumper stickers, posters, boat numbers and letters, decals, etc.

It seems to me that we should PRACTICE WHAT WE PREACH.

Very truly yours,

Will Tecumseh Take Part?

"One hundred and eighty-seven years ago on July Fourth, 56 freedom loving men penned democracy's greatest manifesto. The Declaration of Independence embodies our proven and great American principles and represents the bedrock foundation of our nation and our people. "This was a divinely inspired document voicing what our nation's founders believed would be a new order of the ages," Gov. George Romney said recently.

"On July Fourth each year Michigan citizens pause with the rest of the country to pay tribute to the founding day of our nation and to reaffirm our deep and unwavering belief in our rich American heritage and principles.

"We must, however, do more than make this a day of rest and vacation. We must let the rest of the world know that we do 'hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights."

"To secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

The governor spoke of the nation's No. 1 holiday in conjunction with the coming "Let Freedom Ring" idea in which communities throughout the state will ring every bell available for four minutes on the Fourth.

Gov. Romney asked that those organizations interested in participating in the bell ringing — and the Governor's office has already received numerous pledges of participation—should write to: David Dekker, State Chairman, "Let Freedom Ring," State YMCA, 2111 Woodward Ave., Detroit, 1.

The boys get in the act from time to time and become henpecked husbands, who are required to wash the dishes.

☆

ART WORK is always lots of fun — with poster paints at the easel or finger painting. Airplanes, boats and guns students build at workbench are all painted.

Last week youngsters made spy glasses out of two sections of egg cartons, then painted them.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

RIDING DOWN THE CREEK

Several week ago a much needed rain turned our creek into a wide, fast running but oh, so muddy river; some exciting new and oh, so welcome visitors turned it into a toboggan run, a roller-coaster ride or something.

We have seen many things come down the creek — everything from stately blue herons stalking breakfast along the water's edge to adventure-loving canoeist who put their aluminum canoe into the high spring flood waters. The latest watching thrill was one of the best, however.

It seems strange, but in all the years we have watched and loved Evans Creek, this is the first time we have ever seen wild ducks on it. So unprepared was I, that it took a minute to register.

Something dark was in the shallow water on the bend in back of Gertrude's — my first thought was of grackles; they are always splashing and bathing.

When the dark somethings started out into the creek though, I took a second look. Grackles stick close to shore; they wouldn't be swimming.

"Ida," I started shouting because the light had just dawned, "ducks! There are some ducks out here!"

☆

SHE FLEW to the window just in time to see the pair come bobbing under Doctor's bridge.

They were in the middle of a fast current and what an exciting ride.

Quickly, much too quickly, they raced through the window picture and disappeared. As they swished by, we had a wonderful look; they were so pretty and having such a lot of fun.

At least, it looked like fun to us. The water was moving breathtakingly fast and the ducks were riding along with armchair ease. Wow!

Mr. Mallard was a handsome fellow. His head was a dark lustrous green and a pure white band was a perfect collar around his neck.

Mrs. Mallard was, of course, much on the dull side.

Her streaked brown and tan would never win high fashion honors but, for sitting on a nest and being inconspicious, her coloring was perfect.

We had barely recovered from the excitement of seeing our first pair of wild ducks when, you guessed it, two more came bobbing along!

They too were out joy riding and obligingly held the route which brought them close to our bank.

Speak of having your cake and eating it too—we not only had ducks but they came near enough for unusually good close-up views.

☆

BUT THE DUCKY adventure was not yet over—and didn't you just know that I could not do a whole article without resorting to that low play on words?

Maybe thrill-type rides are no fun alone; the last duck we saw was a little female working her way along the opposite side of the creek. Sticking strictly to business, she was nibbling at the grasses and roots at the water's edge.

Poor wall-flower, after seeing the two pairs, to have this little lady so all alone was a bit sad. I hope she found a mate soon.

So it is that for the first time I have seen wild ducks around here; others have occasionally spotted an outrageously beautiful wood ducks but the five mallards pleased me—it was fun to see them riding down the creek.

Country Fair at Greenfield

Color and spirit of a nineteenth century fair will be recaptured at Greenfield Village May 16-18 as an estimated 35,000 children and adults participate in the "Country Fair of Yesteryear."

Vision Program Will Aid Youths for Later Years

An addition has been made to the school vision program, which has been carried on by the Lenawee County Health Department for some time.

A screening of youngsters three and one-half through five years of age to equip them better to handle their learning experiences is one of the aims of the new program.

Prevention of one-eyed blindness is another major aim.

It has been estimated that over 5,000 children in Michigan each year are destined to grow-up blind in one eye.

☆

A CHILD develops vision habits before entering school. Eye doctors say that often the "lazy eye" problem can be corrected when the child is three or four, but by the time he enters school it is often too late and permanent blindness in one eye results.

The new screening program with tests given by a vision technician, trained and certified by the Michigan Department of Health, will alert parents at a time when correction may be made in many cases.

The major difficulty lies in stimulating 100% response on the part of parents of these youngsters.

☆

CHILDREN entering kindergarten in September have been invited to have the tests. Parents may obtain appointments at the Kindergarten Round-up, from the school principal or by calling the Lenawee County Health Department.

A Kindergarten Round-up is in the planning process and more details will be available at a later date, according to James McDowell, superintendent.

Parents will have an opportunity to visit the school, register their children and learn more about the opportunities of kindergarten.

Dr. Eleanor Skufis, director of the County health department, said "We cannot carry out a successful program without community support, but together we can make a real contribution to the improvement of children's vision.

State Park To Feature New Library

The Walter J. Hayes State Park at Wamplers Lake will be among 47 recreation areas in Michigan to have camp libraries this summer.

State Librarian Genevieve M. Casey announced that this is the largest number to offer the service since the program began 15 years ago.

More than 9000 books have been readied for the summer program sponsored jointly by the State Library and Conservation Department.

Park libraries, located in the park manager's office, average about 200 books.

Rotary Club Hears Talk on Good Will

Earl J. Hill, administrative assistant of the public relations department for Consumers Power Co. was guest speaker at Rotary Club Tuesday evening.

His topic was "Accent on Good Will".

Mr. Hill stressed the fact that listening is one of the most powerful ways to compliment others.

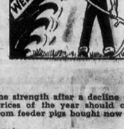

He stated "To be able to speak several languages is an asset, but there are times when to be able to hold your tongue in one language is priceless."

NITRATE POISONING may be a problem where cattle are grazing plants fertilized with high levels of nitrates. Non-toxic nitrates are changed to toxic forms in the animal's system and reduce the oxygen carrying capacity of the blood—suffocation results. Signs of poisoning are a bluish skin color, a staggering gait, bloat and labored breathing. Animals showing these symptoms should be removed from the suspected pasture and a veterinarian called.

THE SUMMER THUNDERSTORM SEASON is on the way. Farmers, working outside most of the time, are in more danger from lightning than the average person. The safest places to be in a thunderstorm are in a steel frame building, a building protected by lightning rods, or in an automobile. One of the most dangerous is on a tractor cultivating in an open field. If you are caught in this situation during a thunderstorm, get off the tractor immediately. Indoors, avoid open windows and doorways, fireplaces and metal objects such as the kitchen sink.

CONTROL CORN FIELD WEEDS by getting an early start. As soon as the weeds break through, use a rotary hoe or harrow to kill the seedlings. Broad-leaved weeds can be controlled after the corn is up with 2,4-D and other herbicides. An over-all spray can be applied until the corn is about 6 to 8 inches high. Once the corn starts growing rapidly, 2,4-D should be applied with dropped nozzles to avoid over-all application on the corn leaves.

HOG PRICES are beginning to show some strength after a decline during late March and early April. Best prices of the year should come during August with good profits likely from feeder pigs bought now and marketed during this period.

JUST A HAPPY COINCIDENCE — That's what sponsors of the circus tell us when this elephant picture turned up. What Jumbo is standing on is a newly-developed, unbreakable beverage dispenser bowl. Now the local angle, they tell us, is that these are for Jet Spray units, which are cooled by one-quarter and one-third horsepower Tecumseh Products Co. compressors. The bowl is made of polycarbonate resins and is the result of two years study and testing. And by chance, Circus day in Tecumseh comes Thursday with performances at 3:30 and 8 p.m. Now, please turn to page six for the BIG picture.

Women Gain Equality

(Editor's note—In this article about Taiwan, Sharon tells of family standings of men and women in this culture. She lived with a variety of families during her six-month stay in the country.)

by SHARON RIES

What is it like to be a man or woman in another culture? It certainly cannot be the same, but yet it's not as different as we may think.

In Taiwan, the oldest man is always head of the household. This honored position is handed down from grandfather to father, to son, to oldest brother or son.

A man's responsibilities grow as he ages.

When a son marries, he brings his wife to his father's home, where they live the rest of their lives.

After marriage (usually 18 to 24 years of age) a man has begun to enter adulthood. But even at this stage he is not independent.

The head of the house has the final word in all decisions which affect the family. Until a man attains this position he never makes any important decisions on his own.

Due to the extended family system I just described, some men may never be the head of their own individual family within this household.

☆

THE NEXT logical question which may now occur to you is where the woman's place is in this patriarchal structure.

As might be expected, a woman is subservient in almost all aspects of the Taiwanese culture.

There are no taboos against women speaking in front of men, but they are expected to offer opinions on any decision only when asked (which is seldom).

A wife tends to the children and their training, the kitchen, her garden and helps her husband with the farm work during planting and harvest.

No matter how lazy or ambitious her husband may be, a Taiwanese wife will stand by him because he is her husband.

The Taiwanese man has privileges of going and coming as he pleases and seeing whom he wants for as long as he likes. His wife accepts this as normal and natural.

The wife does not have these same privileges whatsoever and does not resent this, considering her fulfillment to her children and a happy family.

This acceptance which is an integral part of the Taiwanese culture probably has a great deal to do with their great number of happy stable marriages and low divorce rate.

This is not to condemn our system whatsoever or to discredit Christianity because I myself am in favor of our system for us.

But the fact still remains of their great number of successful, happy arranged marriages.

☆

WHAT IS TAIWAN'S future in this area? Are these roles changing or stagnating?

The roles of men and women in Taiwan are definitely changing toward a western ideal with the emancipation of women.

The men are finding it difficult to look to a woman for advice and consultation, but the change is gradual and they are becoming accustomed to it.

Even though women have always been subservient, they have never been used, making this change easier in the Taiwanese culture than the Japanese.

What these changes will mean to Taiwan, its people, the stability of marriages remains to be seen.

Presently, the Taiwanese are integrating old and new, making a new entity.

As long as integration continues on a constructive level the outcome will be positive.

We are also going thru change of a similar nature.

Let us hope we also have the ability to select the outstanding features of old and new with a resulting stronger character.

The parking ban will extend for 500 feet east and west of Hane Hwy.

Highway Dept. officials said patrons of a summer theatre in the neighborhood are creating a traffic hazard on US-12 by leaving their cars too close to the pavement.

All Bikes Have To Be Registered

March 1 was the deadline for registrations.

Up 30 Million Bushels Yearly

Prices for the 1963 crop of soybeans will be supported at the same level as for 1962, Carl Shumway, chairman of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation state committee announced.

The national average support will be $2.25 per bushel, reflecting approximately 75% of March parity price.

Soybeans eligible for support will grade No. 4 or better and contain not more than 14% moisture.

Continuing expanding use of soybeans, Chairman Shumway points out, has provided producers—particularly in the major feed-grain producing areas—a desirable alternative to feed crops for which the production potential exceeds current needs.

Domestic and export demand for soybeans has increased by more than 30 million bushels per year on the average over the past 10 years. Market prices for the increasing supplies of soybeans general have been well above price-support loan levels.

Bond Issue Vote Is Monday

BRITTON—The $200,000 building program at Britton-Macon Area School will be voted upon Monday.

The program would include

► Erecting seven elementary classrooms.

► Converting two of the elementary classrooms into a science laboratory.

► Remodeling the kindergarten room so it can be used as a library for the high school and elementary.

► Enlarging the office space in the high school.

The bond issue if passed, would run for 16 years at approximately 4% interest. The average tax levy for the 16 year period would be $17,787 per year or 2.32 mills on state equalized valuation.

After the 1951 bond issue is retired in 1964, the levy would be no more in the future for debt retirement then the taxpayer is paying now, explains Supt. Bill Saxton.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Many years ago a famous artist in London decided to paint a picture of the most beautiful woman in the world. He searched the streets of the city for a model, but his search was in vain and he returned to his studio and sat dejectedly before his canvas and easel.

Suddenly, the door opened, and a slender grey-haired woman softly entered the room bringing him a cup of tea. He looked up at his mother; there was tenderness, love, compassion and beauty in her time-worn face.

She laughingly rejected his proposal to pose for him but sat in the chair as he directed. Thus it was that James A. McNeil Whistler produced his greatest masterpiece . . . known all over the world as "Whistler's Mother".

Perhaps none of us will ever be able to produce a great painting, but in our hearts we all carry a picture of the most honored and beautiful woman in the world to us . . . our Mother!

A special day has been designated in her honor, and most everyone will want to remember her with a gift.

We would be most happy to help you make the choice; it could be a sweater, knit suit, blouse, skirt and blouse set, playclothes, beachwear, fabrics . . . gift certificate. Gift wrapped if you choose.

We invite you to shop today, tonight and tomorrow. Sunday, we will be open, why not bring Mother over and let her browse . . . she will enjoy it.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Business firms, according to a New York advertising executive, are becoming more and more interested in reaching "leadership people" in their advertising.

This theory of advertising is based on the idea that every type of group from sewing circles to bankers clubs is influenced by key individuals who are regarded as experts.

One woman might be considered the community expert in cake making. Another might be the recognized authority on home laundry units. Research has indicated that each of these "leaders" has a great influence on the shopping decisions of others.

The same research picture the group "expert" as an avid reader of newspapers, and an especially constant reader of newspaper advertising related to his field of interest.

The group leader maintains his position by learning of changes and new products quickly and completely. Newspaper advertising gives him a full and up to date report.

"Apparently a man can not be a 'leadership person' unless he is also a regular reader of his local newspaper," the advertising executive commented.

ROMNEY REPORTS

BY GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY

This is the first time I've been able to sit-down and record some of my observations about capitol events for the weekly newspaper readers who comprise such a large segment of Michigan's population.

I intend to make this a weekly habit, and I hope that you will make it a weekly habit too. I believe that one of the most important ingredients of good government is effective communication between governmental leaders and the people they serve.

Of course this is a two-way street. The editor has graciously afforded me this opportunity to express my views and the least I can do is to invite you to express yours.

The Capitol has a pretty big mailbox, but as far as I know it hasn't been filled to capacity yet. If you have opinions which you want to get off your chest, why not sit down and write a letter about them?

Send your letters to your own legislator or to Governor Romney, Lansing, Michigan.

Your response will help me keep informed about what you're thinking, and that's one of the most important parts of my job.

☆

YOU HAVE been hearing a lot lately, I'm sure about the dispute over the Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed program which passed the Legislature with bipartisan support only to be delayed by federal officials in Washington and certain state officials.

I feel strongly about this matter and I want to make my views known.

The purpose of this program was to make federal funds available to the states to help them meet the needs of families living on reduced income because their breadwinners were unemployed.

When Congress passed the law, it adopted language which made it crystal clear that the states would be able to define who should be covered under the program.

Michigan's program was designed by officials of the State Department of Social Welfare who over the years have become experts in administering programs of this type. It was also approved by the Regional Office of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The social welfare department devised a program which would accomplish three things:

1. Save taxpayers money by using existing agencies to administer the program.
2. Retain the strength of local welfare departments.
3. Provide special help in managing costs for the needy in unstable and uncertain work areas.

This is the program that the Legislature adopted and which I signed into law. It is not a perfect program but it is the best one that could reasonably be expected to pass through the Legislature.

I went to Washington in an attempt to discover why federal authorities appeared to believe that our program failed to meet specifications laid down by congress. I came back as mystified by their reasoning as ever.

You may have heard talk lately about how my refusal to bow to the dictates of federal authority is depriving needy children from the assistance of this program.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In the first place, no children are going hungry because they are all covered under general welfare assistance programs right now.

Secondly, I have not stood in the way of this program. I have signed it into law.

The delay has been caused by federal officials attempting to force their will on our state, and by an attorney general in Michigan who ruled that the bill was unconstitutional.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: My father gets disability payments from social security. How long will they continue?

ANSWER: If he recovers from his disability the payments will stop. If he doesn't recover, they will continue until he is 65, at which time the disability benefits will be converted to retirement benefits.

QUESTION: My son and daughter-in-law were killed in a wreck last year. I've been taking care of their two children since then and get a social security check for them every month. Another son of mine wants to adopt the children. Would that stop their social security checks?

ANSWER: No. They can be adopted by an uncle, aunt, grandparent, or stepparent without losing their social security payments. If they were adopted by anyone else, the benefit payment would have to be stopped.

QUESTION: I make over $4800 a year. Under the law I can get credit on my social security record for only $4800. Can I voluntarily pay social security taxes on the rest of my salary and get credit for it on my social security account?

ANSWER: No, You can get credit for only the first $4800 of your earnings in a year.

Water Safety Week To Begin May 12

Michigan Water Safety Week will begin May 12, Sgt. Carl Anderson of the Clinton State Police post announced Monday.

"The week marks the beginning of the greatest activity in fatal water accidents, 236 persons were drowned and 191 were injured.

During 1962 here were 209 water accidents, 236 persons were drowned and 191 were injured.

Twenty-four children under the age of 10 lost their lives by falling into the water.

Common causes of accidents are swimming alone and swimming in unauthorized waters such as gravel pits; failure to provide life preservers on boats; reckless operation of motor boats; failure of water skiers to wear life belts and failure to properly supervise small children playing in or near water.

"Mouth to mouth resuscitation is highly recommended because it is a new technique that is easy to learn and is highly effective," said Sgt. Anderson.

Throughout the year the department will give demonstrations on water safety and resuscitation methods.

The Clinton post will also hold an open house on Hospitality Day, May 21, in observance of Michigan Week.

Visiting hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Albert Todd Will Entertain Past Chiefs Club

Mrs. Albert Todd will entertain members of the Past Chiefs Club Thursday, May 16, at her home.

Mrs. Verdi Skinner is the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Todd requests that members arrive promptly at 6:30 p.m. as lunch will be served before the meeting.

JUMBO (Continued)—Here's the rest of that elephant story. To get the proper perspective, fold this section open wide and you'll have a complete picture. You'll have to admit, trying to get a whole pachyderm onto one newspaper page is a pretty tough chore. That's why we took two and probably in the process made newspaper history by being the first to continue a picture from one page to another. Jumbo is still standing on the beverage bowl and the circus is still going to be this Thursday. Proceeds earned on the event by local service organizations will be used to build a kitchen in the Community Center.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

No opus this week, too much happening around town. in the past few days and space is at a premium.

Congratulations are due several groups, including the Jaycees and high school coaches who staged their annual track Relays Saturday.

Plaudits too to the folks who worked so hard on the circus, which showed a profit for "Operation Kitchen" of $1,200.

Youngsters doing posters for Michigan Week in the "RAY-diate Tecumseh" competition turne in some priceless work. Blue ribbon winners are grouped on a window in the Adrian Federal building. Runners-up dot stores all around town. In my book they're all excellent.

Mrs. Carlton Cook, who chairmans Michigan Week locally, has done a tremendous job — witness the lineup of events in an adjoining story.

ONE OF TRACK'S ODDEST RELAYS—It's called the shuttle hurdle relay and the only event in which runners go in two directions. Top photo shows Jim Baker sailing over the sticks, bottom one Jay Osburn coming back in the anchor leg. In between, Steve Derby and Bill Bartenslager, performed. The time of 1:00.9 set a Tecumseh Jaycee Relays record. Willow Run edged THS, but was disqualified when one runner started early.

New Bus Plan Working OK, Officials State

Apparently, the Tecumseh school management and supervision of the busy system is working out satisfactorily. This impression was made Monday night at the school board meeting by Norval Bovee, business manager, and Robert Moore, board member.

Mr. Bovee said that the schools were getting garage labor at a cost of $3.75 an hour, less than the $5 paid to Lee Purkey & Son garage, parts at maximum discount. He said parking and running the busses out of the board of education parking lot was satisfactory.

He remarked that Harold Warren, school maintenance supervisor, was checking the busses out early to see if they would start and tow those which would not.

Mr. Moore said that Ed De-Lisle, garageman now repairing the buses, Mr. Bovee and Mr. Warren were doing a good job.

He said costs for May will be compared with costs for May 1962, and he was certain that the board would find expenses much less.

In reply to a question from a board member, Mr. Bovee admitted falling behind in his work and said that Supt. James McDowell was conducting the school census, which he had planned to do.

Mike Anderson, chairman of the Bus Drivers Association, did not indicate agreement nor disagreement with the present bus system, but told the board that some changes must be made for next year.

LETTER ON SUBJECT SECOND SECTION. PAGE 7

"We can't operate out of maple trees," he explained, referring to the buses being parked under the trees at the board office and bus drivers doing some of the maintenance work.

Mr. Anderson said there is a "lost" feeling among the drivers, since they no longer have the help and facilities once enjoyed at Purkey's.

☆

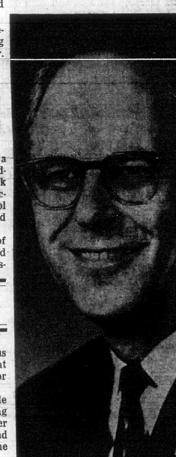

HE INFORMED the board that where drivers used to have a minor or quick-repair job completed in a few minutes, they now have to wait for a spare bus.

Mr. Anderson also said that some people have remarked that now the break has been made they would like to see the school get its own garage. This thinking by some people for a school garage was dropped in favor when it was mentioned that it would have to be paid for by taxes and probably through a hike in taxes.

Mr. Moore said that "something" pertaining to the bus system would have happened if it had not been for last week's editorial in The Herald, and this "something" would have been very beneficial to the schools.

The "something" was not explained.

Mr. Bovee said the bus system and supervision would continue as is, at least until the next board meeting. At that time, comparisons in costs can be made.

VISITING MAYOR — Edgar Beck of Frazer will be in town Monday, Exchange Mayor Day. He will be accompanied by his wife, Councilman David Cotton, City Clerk Richard Nicolai and their wives. The High School Band will lead a parade at 10 a.m. Mayor Beck and his party will tour area government offices, schools and industry and churches. Evening will bring a banquet with guests representing city government and the community. Tecumseh's Mayor Harold Easton will visit Frazer the same day.

Four Goslings Born at Evans Lake

By MRS. LLEWELYN PILBEAM

EVANS LAKE—Four beautiful Canada goslins have joined our community and the proud parents had their young out on parade the second day after birth.

Miracles never cease, as the old saying goes and nature is always appalling as well as a mystery to all of us, and so much beauty comes with all this.

Several weeks in the past, we seen our fine feathered friends had returned as they do each year, looking for food. The following day my husband stopped at a farm on his way home from work and seeing a man out in a corn field, ask if he could have permission to gather some corn that was on the ground.

This gracious man asked what it was for and after the story was told of our returning geese, he said to drive the pickup back into the field and pick it off the standing stalks.

Havihg done this he thanked the gentleman (I'm sorry he didn't get his name), returned home to shell his prize possession.

☆

MOST EVERY evening the beautiful pair would be out in front of our home waiting for their supper, after they learned they were going to be fed, and if not there, my husband would whistle and soon one or the other or both would fly or swim from their nesting place, Cameron's Island, and cautiously come up and eat the corn.

For two days our friends didn't appear for food and we were afraid that some culprit had taken a shot at them as we learned two of the goslings were killed last year.

But using the field glasses soon learned the proud parents were hovering over their new family.

Two days later, on Wednesday, May 8, at 6:45 a.m. my daughter shouted to come quick, that mama and papa were out in front with their family. I grabbed a coat, a bucket of corn and ran out to feed them.

☆

WHAT A beautiful sight and loving nature as I do, I could have cried as I watched these two proud parents with their little bundles of joy.

Papa hissed at me and wasn't long gathering up mama and his family back into the water, as he knew I was a stranger and not the party who came out there every evening to feed them.

☆

IT WAS so interesting to watch papa goose as he was keeping an eye on me at all times, and having broadcast the corn around, I left and he immediately swam back to the beach with his family following him, and all proceeded to eat.

After they had their fill of corn they swam over to where Mr. Cameron was and the little ones soon devoured the bread he had for them.

In the meantime I had called our neighbor Mr. Priest about our new family and he in turn came with Mrs. Priest to try and get their pictures, but without success, so when the master of the house goes out tonight to feed them, I will be out there with a camera, but hid so they won't see me and maybe we can get a picture for The Herald so everyone can see and enjoy our little family of the wild.

☆

WE HOPE the vulture-like human has run out of shells this year because we of Evans Lake are already to form a crew of The Rifleman, Rawhide, Have Gun Will Travel and Mr. Dillon. This is not a threat just a warning.

Current Methodist Church outdoor bulletin board, "Come in and have your faith lifted."

When the Rev. B .O. Bashe[illegible] local Baptist minister, learned the Methodist Church was getting mention in this week's paper, (see above) he said to be sure and make note that the national Baptist convention will be this weekend in Cobo Hall, with an anticipated 10,000 in attendance, including Baptists from Tecumseh.

Seville, O., a town of 1,200, is going to have a sidewalk antique and arts festival June 22 with 40 dealers displaying prized items and art objects along the curbs in front of stores throughout the business area. Paintings are to be hung on clotheslines, ala the French quarter. Rare antiques are coming from all over northern Ohio. How about one in Tecumseh?

No wonder they made Mrs. Elmer Spreeman chairman of the recent St. Elizabeth Rosary & Altar Society Mother-Daughter breakfast. Her son, Charles, a former Marine Corps cook was joshed into getting up the ham and egg meal. Charles asked only one concession: "I don't want any help. If I can cook for 2,000 marines, I guess I can cook for a couple hundred women." The gals raved about the food and it looks as though Charles may have done too well, putting himself in line for more of the same in future months.

Forty young patrons of the Adrian Skate Arena really lifted "Uncle Ernie" Jeschke up to "Cloud 9" Friday evening when they held a surprise birthday party for him on his 25th anniverary.

The Herald printer who spends most evenings at the skate palace, was completely unaware of the festive occasion until closing time found him the center of attraction.

Jane and Ellen Spreeman cooperating, with Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, the arena operators, made the arrangements including a huge cake decorated with black and white icing featuring a skate design. The group presented Ernie with a pair of skating boots.

Dolls for dolls. That's the Jaycee Auxiliary idea on the pretty baby contest currently being staged. Pictures of contestants, with containers that will hold votes—pennies, nickles, dimes, quarters, half bucks and dollars—are located in most city business places. Child gets a vote for each penny. Money will be used to buy dolls at Christmas by the Auxiliary for underprivileged little gals. So vote early and often, advises Mrs. Dike Helms, co-chairman with Mrs. Frank Sandhoff.

Dennis, Brice and Larry Schultz, ages 8, 9 and 11, 1791 W. Valley Rd., were brought by officers to the Tecumseh Police Station Thursday evening and safely taken home by their parents after they had been reported lost at the circus grounds. The boys had decided to walk home after taking in all the sights and sounds at the big top show.

Does anyone in Tecumseh have a Michigan Flag? Mrs. Carlton Cook has looked high and low for one with no results. She also reports that no complete history of Michigan is available in one edition.

Jesse Sluyter is sporting some new earrings, a gift from Jean Anderson, former Tecumsehite. What makes them unique is the "In" on one and "Out" on the other.

John Surratt and several other telephone callers disagreed with Otto Baaske as to when the circus was in Tecumseh as stated after running an elephant picture in the Herald recently.

Mr. Surratt said that the picture could not have been taken in 1936 as Cal's Tog Shop did not go into the location in the picture until 1953.

Realtors from the area will join more than 73,000 across the nation in celebrating Realtors Week, May 12-18. This year the slogan is "A Home Means Happiness — Happiness With a Home Means a Realtor."

In recognition of the event, Mayor Harold Easton signed a proclamation.

landscaping plan will begin to give the front of the hospital a new look soon.

Pennies from Patterson Elementary School have bought a Magnolia tree in honor of Ray Herrick which has been planted in front of the school library.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Facts, Figures Next Week

A solution to the present school bus dilemma is apparently no closer to being solved than it was in the beginning, about three weeks ago.

For picayune savings — if that — the Tecumseh school board has assumed a problem and a responsibility that was already being handled satisfactorily.

This problem and responsibility belongs to the schools, we'll admit, but now is not the time to assume it unnecessarily.

How can a school board, which once investigated costs and the bus situation not too long ago, change its position so radically?

The Tecumseh school board approved the Purkey management and operation a couple of years ago. At that time, members felt the board had an excellent arrangement.

What's happened? Some members are still on the board and certainly they recall that the board was unanimous in favor of Purkey's running the bus system.

It's usually best to admit an error, although it may hurt the pride, and rectify the situation.

The school board would do the district a favor, we feel, if they would renew its relationship with the local garage.

Next week's Herald will contain a comparison of Tecumseh's bus costs for the entire school year of 1961-'62 with all other Lenawee County districts, from a survey made by school boardsman Robert Moore.

140 Girls Attend

Forums, where international purposes were discussed by panels, were outstanding events at the International Conference at Camp O' The Hills last weekend.

About 140 Senior Girl Scouts attended the event questioning and airing views with the nine foreign exchange students from Germany, Portugal, Holland, Japan and Austria, who were special guests.

Girls from 14 other councils of the Great Lakes Region 7 from four states and Canada were guests of the Irish Hills Council's Senior Planning Board.

The weekend climaxed months of preparation by the four general committees and the adult camp committee.

☆

FESTIVITIES included a get-acquainted evening, housing in cabins of the various units throughout the campsite, eating at Hill House, bus-rides and tours of Irish Hills Towers and Walkers Tavern, the International forums at Napoleon High School, entertainment and participation in dances with the International Folk Dancers Troupe of Detroit.

Many new friendships were formed and the ceremonies included Scouts Own and Flag Ceremonies. There were always snacks and singing, singing, singing.

☆

THOSE attending from Tecumseh included Linda Callihan, chairman of the hostess committee and panel hostess; Mrs. John C. Cameron, adult advisor; Vicki Brees, unit co-hostess and bus captain; Lana Callihan, unit hostess, bus captain and member of the hostess committee.

Others were Fawn Choske, unit hostess, panelist and member of the hostess committee; Ann Drake, alternate panelist; Edith Holmes, Peggy Morris, registration hostess and table captain; Sue Rutherford, registration hostess and Karen Goller, unit co-hostess bus hostess and member of hostess committee.

The last Planning Board meeting of the school year was held May 13 at the Ackerson Lake School.

The present officers are all seniors in high school.

Next year's officers include Linda Callihan, president-elect and Fawn Choske, treasurer-elect.

Post Office Contract Being Let

Postal department officials in Detroit were to award a contract to one of three bidders for the new Tecumseh post office building Wednesday afternoon.

Council accepted the low bid of Krieghoff-Lenawee Co. Monday night at a special meeting. Krieghoff's bid was $113,000 and was accepted by the city as its bid for the building.

City officials hope to get the bid, retain ownership of the Adams Park site, and own the building.

The city, if successful, will rent the building to the government for $9,000 annually for the first 10 years, and $10,000 annually thereafter.

Other bid opened at the meeting was from Goodrich-Hazen, also from Adrian, for $124,000.

Aldrich Construction, Adrian, was expected to have a bid at Wednesday's meeting in Detroit.

In other action, Council approved the 1963-64 budget with anticipated income at $547,780, and expenditures, $543,042.

Supt. James McDowell reported the problems to the school board Monday night:

► Inadequate high school building

► Insufficient number of books in library.

► Need of assistant principal for the high school.

Board member Robert Moore indicated that additional classrooms would probably be made available for the high school with work starting early next year Manner in acquiring the classroom addition was not disclosed.

Upon recommendation of Supt. McDowell, the board approved changing Donald Brazee's status from teacher to assistant principal for Neville Hart.

☆

MR. BRAZEE will assume some of the duties now handled by Mr. Hart on school day afternoons. He will teach three classes in the morning.

$22,000 Not Lost After All

Tecumseh school officials, fearing a loss in revenue of about $22,000, learned Wednesday that the county Tax Allocation Board has allowed the schools differential millage.

With the townships taking one-half mill and the county superintendent's office .2 mill, the local schools were in endanger of losing over $22,000.

Differential millage will allow the schools to receive additional monies from tax collections from the City of Tecumseh and Ridgeway Township.

Except for the .2 mills, tax collections will be the same as last year. There is no increase in taxes for property owners.

Although the schools will lose .2 mills increased local evaluations will approximately cover the $7,000 to be given the county superintendent's office.

School Not Interested in Land

Business manager Norval Bovee reported to the school board Monday night that the schools were not making application for the off-street parking lot on S. Pearl St., behind Adrian Federal.

Mr. Bovee, City Manager Cal Zorn and state representatives met last week and agreed that the lot could not benefit the schools.

A proposal from the Federal government three weeks ago to give the lot to the schools caused city officials some alarm, since zoning and plans already made the area a part of the downtown off-street parking program.

☆

IN OTHER action the board:

► Approved a brief report from boardman Ralph Comfort that the Ridgeway PTA had given $300 for a concrete walk at the Ridgeway School.

► Authorized a technical change in title for Mr. Bovee to Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs. The change will conform with state education department requirements, effective next year.

► Delayed action on selecting a track coach for next year until the May meeting. Donald Brazee has resigned to become assistant high school principal.

Mayor Starts Sun Shine Club With Antique Suit

CLINTON — An entirely new club has been organized to further the 125th celebration in Clinton.

Mayor and Mrs. Art Schuler happened to come across some fetching bathing suits of yesteryear in an antique shop recently and quite fortunately they happened to be the right size to fit the couple.

Donning the attractive beach wear, the mayor, who is also a vice president of the local bank and head of the Industrial Committee, and his wife strolled down Michigan Ave.

Pictures were taken and next day their neighbor, Mrs. Glenn Harrison posted a sign on the Schuler lawn stating that this was the headquarters for the Sunshine Club.

The Schulers were not at home at the time.

Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of Elmer Harper, Tecumseh artist.

Her poster portrayed the beach garbed couple well.

Thus the new club was formed with eligibility resting on the simple fact that those that have an old-fashioned bathing suit may join.

The Schulers are planning to wear their suits in the parade.

Cranbrook Nips THS in JC Relays

By JIM LINCOLN

Finest track meet ever held in Tecumseh was run here Saturday in the annual Jaycee Relays.

Top Class B school, Cranbrook, broke four meet records in rolling up 60 points. Tecumseh placed second with 42, established two new marks.

First record to fall in the pole vault, Dan Greene of Tecumseh going 12'4 ¾". He topped his old meet record by over eight inches.

All of the Class B relay records were broken, with Cranbrook setting marks in three of them.

In the two-mile, Cranbrook knocked 11 seconds off the former mark of 8:37.8. The Indians, who finished second, were six seconds under the old record.

☆

THE WINNERS ran the Tecumseh Medley Relay in 1:40, beating the former record of 1:42.2, set by Grosse Ile last year.

Bedford's two-year mark in the mile relay was bettered by Cranbrook with a time of 3:37.

The Tecumseh shuttle-hurdle relay team—Jim Baker, Bill Bartenslager, Steve Derby and Jay Osburn—won the event in record time, 1:00.9. Ironically, the Indians finished second to Willow Run, but the Flyers were disqualified.

Jim Coburn of Cranbrook easily won the mile, also a record performance, in 4:36.4. His victory was six seconds under the old mark.

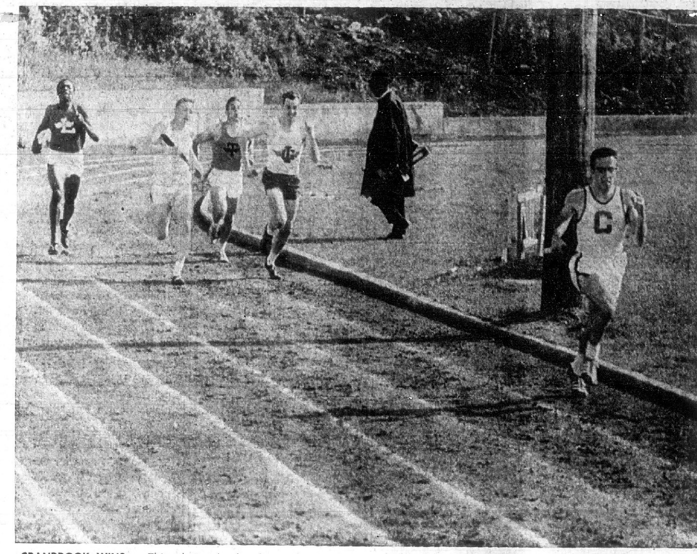

☆

OTHERS IN order for Class B were Willow Run 35, Grosse Ile 32, Saline 22, Milan 18, Blissfield 16, Ypsi-Lincoln 14, Jackson St. Mary 12, Flat Rock 2, Jackson Northwest 2, Dundee and Airport,0.

In the Class C division, besides Morenci's winning performance, the surprising Class D entry, the Britton Tories, raised some eye brows by picking up 20 points.

With the exception of Morenci, the Tories gave indication of holding their own against the other C schools.

Tom Komon picked up Britton's only individual first with 15.2 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles.

CRANBROOK WINS — This photo clearly shows the ease in which a fine track team from Cranbrook won the Class B division of the Tecumseh Jaycee Relays Saturday. The Indians, rated a top contender in this mile relay event, finished fourth. Dave Lemerand, top Tecumseh quartermiler, picked up about 10 yards in his anchor run with the baton, but failed to catch any of the three front-runners here.

Two Teams Are Needed for League

A recent Red Cross folder stated:

HEY, THERE!

YOU, WITH THE BLOOD IN YOUR VEINS . . .

HERE'S SOMETHING YOU OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT THAT RED STUFF YOUR HEART IS PUMPING AROUND.

Your body contains about 12 pints of blood.

When you donate a pint, that wonderful body of yours goes right to work and manufactures more to replace it.

And in short order, you're right back where you began with 12 pints of blood in your veins once more.

Everything is the same as before EXCEPT now there are 13 pints of your blood in existence!

Twelve for you and one for someone who needs a little extra to stay alive.

YOU CAN SAVE A LIFE WITH THE BLOOD YOU CAN SPARE.

MRS. PAUL BRANTINGHAM

Cake Is Decorated with Entire Choir

Mrs. Clark Pearson honored the choir of the Tecumseh Friends Church in an unique way last week.

Following regular rehearsal Thursday evening, she entertained about 15 members with their director, Mrs. Paul Brantingham, organist, Mrs. Amos Wilson and pianist, Mrs. Ashley Chase, at a "Thank You" party.

It was held in the Pearson home.

Mrs. Pearson said that the party was in appreciation for the Easter Cantata, which the choir presented during Holy Week.

☆

A HUGE sheet cake was served with other refreshments.

The top of the cake held a miniature choir loft, complete with tiny figures of the members, the organist, the pianist and the minister, with his legs crossed nonchalantly, as is usual with the Rev. Brantingham.

A verse written in icing on a lower tier read,

"This comes to tell you
thank you
And then to tell you too,
The world's a whole lot nicer
Because of folks like you.'

Pipe cleaners, gum drops, styrofoam and icing were incorporated in the decorating.

The top of the cake was on display in the case at the public library to honor National Music Week.

The queen, Helen Rudd, was accompanied by her court consisting of Carol Allen and Cathy Peters, Libby Mudgett as crown bearer, and James Ford and David Pizana, who followed the queen carrying her train.

The crowning was followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and the singing of the litany of the Blessed Virgin.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

In behalf of the student body of Boysville, I wish to express our thanks for the gift of tickets for the circus.

Besides having enjoyed the circus, we also saw a demonstration of the value of civic pride as shown by the cooperative efforts of the organizations and businesses in the Tecumseh area.

Thank you again.

Yours truly,
Stanley J. Klos
Student Council President

—o—

TO THE EDITORS:

In reading your "Voice of the Herald" editorial last week I was quite amazed as to how a newspaper would go on record and front page at that with an editorial that expressed mostly opinion and very few facts.

The Tecumseh school board and Robert Moore in particular should receive a great deal of credit for having the backbone to look into the school bus situation and accepting the challenge of better bus transportation at a lower cost to the taxpayer.

I would like to point out that it was not the school board who broke this agreement but Lee Purkey and Sons garage. After several years of maintaining the buses Purkey's "dumped" them into the boardsmens laps with approximately one week notice. Possibly with the idea that after finishing the six weeks of this school year the board would come back begging them to take the buses again at any price, which would be contrary to the best interest of the taxpayer.

We were paying five dollars an hour for labor plus parts and three dollars and a half an hour for supervision on the buses. And we had no work guarantee at all. This means that if a bus was repaired one day and came in again the next with the same trouble it would be charged out twice and the school would pay the bill. If this was your car would you pay it?

Purkeys received three cents per gallon for pumping school gas from the school owned tank into school owned buses and now that they have decided to cancel their agreement the tank the school purchased and installed on Purkeys property belongs to them free and clear. To purchase and install a tank of this type cost the school approximately fifteen hundred dollars.

You said that Purkeys record for repairing, maintaining and supervising the buses was excellent. I would like to see that record. I was a bus driver for approximately three years in the system and from my experience they left a lot to be desired. I for one would like to see a school owned and operated garage. While we do not know if this would be cheaper it certainly should not be any higher than a privately owned garage operating off of our business.

As for the cost of supervision at three dollars and a half an hour this is now eliminated by the business manager who now assumes this responsibility.

Lets keep the buses under schcool supervision and control and explore all possibility of building our own garage. Then, if we can't have our own set up, lets put the maintenance work up for bid and employ good business practice to insure ourselves that our tax dollars are not being washed down the drain.

Raymond R. Jackson
Box 45
Tipton, Mich.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Mr. Jackson, a candidate for the school board, was a bus driver but quit. He terminated his working relations with the schools after he was told that he could not park his bus at his home, that he could not drive it back and forth from Purkey's Garage to his home, and after he once used a bus for transportation to his regular job.

We have talked to many people connected with the bus system, some who were close to the picture several years ago and who deemed the schools were enjoying excellent service.

We feel that we have the facts and background information as to the dissolvement of the school-Purkey pact.

Remember, former board members who once checked into this also were intelligent and they approved the arrangement. Are we to suppose that they did not have the facts.

Do you, Mr. Jackson?

Miss Martin Is Youngest at Banquet

Shawn Marie Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, was the youngest daughter present at the mother-daughter banquet May 6 in the Youth House of the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Eddie Kirkland assisted by her daughter, Susan, presented a stuffed toy to little Miss Martin and floral arrangements to:

Mrs. Herbert Carter, Perrysburg, O.—the mother who traveled the greatest distance

Mrs. John Surratt — newest first-time grandmother

Mrs. Roy Kempf — youngest great-grandmother

Mrs. Kempf was also honored as the only mother with four generations of her family present.

Mothers with three daughters present were Mrs. C. O. Baily, Mrs. Laine Holden, Mrs. George Burkhard, Mrs. Benny Gove, Mrs. Joseph Laslo and Mrs. Edna Withrow.

Tables seating 176 mothers and daughters were decorated in a colorful Holland theme with large multicolored cut-out tulips as center pieces and smaller tulips fastened to lolly pops at each place setting with programs covered with a tulip cut out.

The speakers table was centered with a huge tulip bouquet, a miniature Dutch girl and Dutch windmills.

Mrs. Richard Lask, Mrs. Burkhard and Mrs. George Van Camp, Jr. did the decorating.

Mrs. Floyd Barratt, chairman, and a kitchen committee prepared the roast beef dinner which was served by fathers and sons of the church with Robert Gillespie as chairman.

Mrs. L. N. Sisson gave the invocation. Mrs. Donald Cobb was mistress of ceremonies introducing Cathy Carter who gave the mother's toast and her mother, Mrs. Richard Carter, who toasted the daughters.

Miles Cowdrey from the high school music department presented Ann Marks and Dexter Bailey who sang a duet accompanied by Mrs. Paul Brantingham.

Mr. Bailey played a piano solo, a "Homer and Jethro" skit was presented with Dick Fielder accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. Orville Bishop, Women's Society president, Mrs. John Surratt and Mrs. James E. Danforth were the program committee.

The German band delighted the audience with several comical selections.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Retailers know from experience that no kind of advertising can be a substitute for good description of individual products on sale.

Merchants, however, who are alert to attract plus-business have found that it may be profitable to let people in the community know just what a business contributes to the general welfare.

Every business firm from manufacturer to the corner sandwich stand adds something to the economic health of the whole citizenry. Employment, purchase of local produce sponsorship of civic projects, special service to individuals and organizations, and stimulation of trade in general are by-products of nearly every type of business.

Yet few citizens regard a business as an institution which serves beyond its selfish profit-making interests.

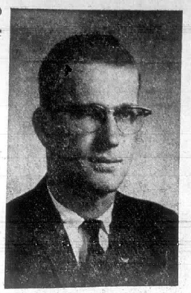

Advertising which tells the public of the value of a business to the community has proven to be a valuable supplement to item-price advertising. This is true even of grocery stores, the most consistent users of hard price advertising.

Safeway Stores in Fresno, Calif., found that a series of newspaper advertisements describing the contributions of the company to that area had a dramatic educational value.

Many who were benefitting directly from the company's operation became aware of the benefits for the first time. A company official said:

"It seems to me that many companies have similar reports of localized importance . . . These impacts are important whether the company be a chain store or a user of scrap metal."

In goodwill building, as in straight selling, nothing can be taken for granted, the official noted.

He is a member of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity and has held the office of treasurer for the past year.

2 Music Clubs Combine for 1963 Spring Concert

WHEREAS it is desired to establish an agency by which these matters can be handled.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

1. APPOINTMENT. Under the provision of Section 5.2935 Michigan Statues Annotated, as amended, a Board of Appeals is hereby created. Said Board shall consist of 5 members appointed by the City Council who shall be registered electors and real property owners of the City; provided that no elected official of the City, nor any employee of the City may serve simultaneously as a member of the Board. Initially one shall be appointed for one year, two for two years, and two for three years. Thereafter each member shall hold office for three years or until his successor is appointed and shall qualify. Members may be removed by the Council for inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office.

Any vacancy on the Board shall be filled by the City Council for the remainder of the unexpired term.

2. POWERS—Such Board shall fix rules and regulations, including election of Chairman and Secretary, to govern in its procedure in acting upon appeals, and shall hear and decide appeals from the review of any order, requirement, decision or determination made by an administrative official charged with the enforcement of the Zoning and Building Ordinances. It shall also hear and decide all matters referred to it upon which it is requested to pass under said Ordinances. The concurring vote of four members of the Board of Appeals shall be necessary to revise any order, request, decision or determination of the administrative official, or to decide in favor of the applicant any matter upon which it is required to pass under said Ordinances or to effect any variation in said Ordinances. Such appeal may be taken by any person or by any officer, department, board or bureau of the City.

3. APPEAL: — Such appeals shall be taken within such time as shall be prescribed by the Board of Appeals by general rule, by the filing with the officer from whom the appeal is taken and with the Board of Appeals of a Notice of Appeal, specifying the grounds thereof, and accompanied by a fee of $5.00. The officer from whom the appeal is taken shall forthwith transmit to the Board all the papers and substantiating information constituting the records upon which the action appealed from was taken.

4. STAY:—An appeal stays all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from unless the officer from whom the appeal is taken certified to the Board after the Notice of Appeal shall have been filed with him that by reason of facts stated in the certificate, a stay would in his opinion cause imminent peril to life or property, in which case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restaining order which may be granted by the Board of Appeals.

5. HEARING OF AND DECISION UPON APPEAL: — The Board of Appeals shall fix a reasonable time for the hearing of the appeal and give due notice thereof to all persons to whom any real property within 300 feet of the premises in question shall be assessed, such notice to be delivered personally or by mail addressed to the respective owners at the address given in the last assessment roll, and shall decide the same within a reasonable time. Upon the hearing, any party may appear in person or by agent or by attorney. The Board of Appeals may reverse or affirm, wholly or partly, or may modify the order, requirement, decision or determination as in its opinion ought to be made in the premises, and to that end shall have all the powers of the officer from whom the appeal was taken. Where there are practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship in the way of carrying out the strict letter of such Ordinances, the Board of Appeals shall have power in passing upon appeals to vary or modify any of its rules, regulations or provisions relating to the construction, structural changes in, equipment, or alteration of buildings or structures, or the use of land, buildings or structures, so that the spirit of the Ordinances shall be observed, public safety secured and substantial justice done. The Board of Appeals shall not have power by its own action to change the classification of any property on the zoning map nor or make any change in the terms of the Ordinances, but only to interpret them and to authorize variations in accordance with this Section. The decision of such Board shall not become final until the expiration of fifteen days from the date of entry of such order unless the Board shall find the immediate effect of such order is necessary to the preservation of property or personal rights and shall so certify on the record.

Long and Short

(Editor's note — This week's Long and Short was prepared by a guest writer, Anthony C. Riordan of Boston, an uncle of this column's regular author. He jetted to Michigan last week to accompany his nephew, and Hugh Walter, 1013 Red Mill Dr., to Indianapolis Speedway, where the trio spent Saturday and Sunday in the pits and around Gasoline Alley during time trials for the Memorial Day Classic-500. The Massachusetts Riordan is an absolute "nut" on all types of auto racing.)

By ANTHONY C. RIORDAN

There were over 200,000 people at the Indianapolis Speedway for time trials last Saturday.

People in large crowds like this act in strange ways. No matter what spot they're in, another one looks better, so they move in that direction.

Another thing, crowds are always hungry. Hot dogs, hamburgers and other eatments are consumed by the millions, along with frosted malts, pop and coffee.

Little children stray from their parents and the public address system implores the pops and moms to come and claim their little wanderers.

Mix in a lot of noise, dust, hot sun and a breeze blowing briskly and you have the ingredients of a busy day.

But this year at the Brickyard (alas the old brick paving of this famous track is now hot topped) something new was added. An international flavor of Grand Prix and champion road racers joined the old reliables.

Some comedian once said that driving on this track consists in going straight ahead as far as you can, then making a left turn.

But these road racers run on the same streets that carry the hum-drum traffic of every day commerce. They make left turns and right turns, no corners are banked, there are humps and bumps, ruts and grooves. A stray animal or human adds to the hazards.

Yet the speeds they make are nothing short of fantastic and their driving skills are of the highest order.

Pedro Rodriguez is a road racer from Mexico City. He's partaking of Indy this year, qualified in an interesting car, the same Cooper rear-engined job which Jack Brabham of Australia drove so well in the race of 1962 and finished in a respectable position.

Pedro has driven well in international competition with his late brother. He is slight of build, serious, wears a two-piece faded blue suit of coveralls, which advertise Dunlop tires in a restrained manner.

When not in racing helmet, he dons a deer-stalker, a two-way cap of the type made famous by Sherlock Holmes.

Pedro is in his early twenties and has earned an excellent reputation as a capable pilot of the bright red Ferrari cars of Italy.

Girl, 6, Earns Bike, Then Gives It Away

Six-year-old Patty Beaubien just earned a bike in The Herald's circulation drive.

Seems hardly a world-shaking story. A bunch of others have already done the same thing.

But Patty's bike is different.

She will never ride it.

No, Patty isn't handicapped, she's a normal, healthy first-grade student at Tecumseh Acres School.

It seems that Patty earned her bicycle to give away — to a missionary who is leaving shortly for Liberia in West Africa.

Patty's accomplishment makes a fascinating story.

Several weeks ago, like about 70 other youngsters, Patty registered to sell Herald subscriptions so she could have her own bike.

A few days later, Patty attended Wednesday evening services at the Tecumseh Assembly of God Church with her family. The pastor, the Rev. Harold Speer, reported on a project the congregation had undertaken.

Two used bicycles were to be reconditioned and given to a missionary, who was to leave for a post in Africa in June. Heading overseas will be the Rev. James Barnard, returning to his former post after a one-year furlough in the States.

☆

THE REV. MR. BARNARD had formerly been a pastor in Olivet and Hastings, then was sent by his church to Africa to found a school.

Bicycles were badly needed, the missionary reported in newsletters to various Assembly of God congregations. Native evangalists needed them to make their rounds in the vast Firestone plantation.

So, the local congregation was going to rebuild and send a pair, the minister told his flock that Wednesday night.

Patty Beaubien listened intently to the plan.

Then she thought what she might do. Suddenly the idea struck — instead of keeping the cycle she was working to earn for herself, she would give it to the missions.

She told her mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beaubien, of the idea. They relayed Patty's thought to their minister, who, of course, was delighted.

☆

PATTY AND her mother spent many busy hours from that point as they hustled about nailing down the sale of 15 new Herald subscriptions.

Patty quietly checked in Saturday and the bike was her's.

The Rev. Mr. Barnard was in Tecumseh Wednesday evening for a scheduled talk and to accept the three bikes — two reconditioned models and Patty's new one.

Ladies Get Yard Goods for Africa

Fifteen ladies of the Missionary Council of the Assembly of God have been busy the past three weeks sewing 18 little girl's dresses and 35 pieces of yard goods to be sent back to West Africa with the Rev. and Mrs. James Barnard.

Natives told the missionaries that they knew they were really loved after receiving American colorfast yard goods because their own fades during the first washing.

The Rev. Harold Speer is sending a movie camera and film back with the Barnards so that once each quarter the Tecumseh congregation may see pictures of the misisonary work done by the couple.

The ladies meet each Wednesday at 10 a.m. to sew, clean the church and to other necessary work.

Porky's Grill Gets Criticism of City Council

By JIM LINCOLN

Porky's Grill, now owned by Harold Edgar, formerly of Adrian, came under criticism by councilmen and Murell Clark, police chief, Monday night.

Chief Clark said the new owner had not fulfilled all requirements and cited several examples where the proprietor had been negligent. He and Mayor Harold Easton both remarked about the poor attitude now displayed in replying to city requests.

Several councilmen, including John Hamilton, local Teen Club advisor, expressed opinions that the business should be closed unless properly operated.

Problems with juveniles, in the past and present, at the grill were discussed.

☆

IN OTHER action, Council:

► Denied a bill of $34 to Wilson Motor Sales for replacing a gasoline tank on a patrol car.

► Appointed Smith, Moore and Dale of Detroit as auditors for city books for 1962-'63.

► Approved installation of about 100 feet of sidewalk on N. Evans St., just south of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Indians Win Regional Track Meet; Greene Vaults 12' 11"

Tecumseh's tracksters added another laurel to their wreath Saturday when the Indians copped the Class B regional meet at Ann Arbor high school.

Coach Don Brazee's team qualified in six events for the state meet with Dan Greene's performance in the pole vault leading the way.

Greene, top Class B vaulter in the state, set two records in the regional by skimming over the bar at the 12'11" mark. The winning height sets a new Tecumseh school record, a regional mark, and is three inches over the Class B state record.

The THS senior, now among the top four or five vaulters in Michigan, will be a heavy favorite in the Class B state meet to be held this Saturday at Ferry Field in Ann Arbor.

At the regional, the Indians posted 27 points in edging Milan by one point. Third place went to Michigan Center with 22 points.

Qualifiers for the state meet and point winners Saturday were:

Shot put — Bill Thomas, 3rd place, 45'11".

Broad jump — Jim Johnson, 3rd, 18'11¾".

880 — Dave Lemerand, 3rd, 2:06.7.

880 relay — Johnson, Steve Derby, Jay Osburn, Tim Collins, 3rd, 1:38.

Mile relay — Bob Wilbar, Greene, Jim Brown, Lemerand, 2nd, 3:41.9.

Also winning regional points for Tecumseh were:

Derby, fifth in both the high and low hurdles.

Johnson, fourth in the 220-yard dash and fifth in the 100.

Terry Johnston, fifth in the mile run.

The slow track and cold, windy weather affected the times of all runners.

Tecumseh 86 — Airport 23

The Indians completely outclassed Airport Tuesday of last week, winning firsts in 12 of 13 events for a walloping 86-23 victory.

Top Tecumseh performer was Jim Johnson with firsts in the broad jump, 100-yard dash, and the 220. He also anchored the winning 880 relay team.

Long & Short

Masten Gregory is a native mid-Western boy, long of hair, serious in manner, soft-spoken and quiet. He now has a residence in Paris and has a well-earned reputation as a first-class driver.

Before he took his rear-engined Chevrolet powered car on the track for a practice spin, he carefully polished his goggles, holding them up for checking until he was perfectly satisfied that they were clear and clean.

One thing these drivers have in common is serious purpose. There is no dare devil, carefree spirit, this is a real hazardous activity and the first mistake may well be their last.

They all have a healthy respect for the high-powered cars which they operate, and their attitude is similar to that of any businessman at the top of his profession.

A genius is defined as a person with an infinite passion for detail, this one trait they all share in common.

Dan Gurney, a Lotus-Ford driver and tops in his chosen line, has driven sports cars, stock cars and about everything on wheels that goes fast.

Dan is a remarkable character with an uncanny ability to shift from one type of racing to another, always being among the leaders.

Put him in a business suit and you'd have the model of a top-flight executive. But once he has donned his helmet and goggles, carefully pulled on his gloves, he is a picture of relaxed concentration.

Duane Carter is familiar to many people in Tecumseh, who have either heard him in person, or heard of him during a visit here last winter.

An old pro, quiet and dignified, he will pilot the Thompson-Harvey Aluminum Special he qualified.

This is a rear engined job, powered by Chevrolet, with wide-tread 12" tires. the car being knee high at the windshield.

Unlike the others, Duane was not in international competition, but strangely so like the others in determination, poise and balance.

So here emerges a composite picture of today's race driver. He may lack the color of the cigar-smoking Barney Oldfield, but he is driving a much faster and more powerful machine. The stakes are high both in danger and in money.

He must keep in good condition to meet the strains both physical and mental which he must endure. He must know the limits of man and machine, and skirt these limits but never go beyond them.

He must have a spirit to take discouragements today and hope for better tomorrow.

On footwear, we see an amazing variety. One man sports white woolen sweat sox and loafers. Another prefers low boots with trouser bottoms tucked within.

The choice of one more is a sloppy pair of high shoes with no laces, while a pal wears high-laced Tyrolean shoes featuring wedge rubber soles. Each driver picks the type which appeals to his own idea of comfort and still will be practical.

This promises to be an interesting year at the Indianapolis 500 — five rear-engined cars have qualified, two each Lotus-Fords and Harvey-Aluminum specials, one Cooper with Aston-Martin engine.

Waiting and hoping are the rear-engine Buick powered Jim Kimberly entries. Opposed to them are the time-proven conventional front engine, rear-wheel drive Offenhauser beauties.

They come in every color of the rainbow, their drivers are skilled old masters of the track.

That sentimental favorite of the crowds, the Novi's, have already qualified one car with Jim Hurtubise screaming down the track to the cheers of thousands.

How they love this car which has so long been dogged with misfortune, yet comes back year after year.

For a colorful event, this one is unequalled. Each year, as car speeds have slowly climbed, the skills of the drivers are honed to a razor edge.

Celebrities from all walks of life are in attendance, Joe Blow is there by the thousands, lugging around his cooler with food and drink.

Fantastic head coverings beggar description, clothes of every sort are worn and somehow all seem to be just the thing.

The town is bursting at the seams, traffic jams are beyond belief, hucksters peddle almost everything at highly-profitable rates. It is like a fairy tale come to life for the dedicated race fans.

Like the faithful Moslem, who hopes to make the trip to Mecca and become entitled to wear a green turban, so too each year the stream of Speedway devotees, swarm to the Hoosier capitol city to view this spectacle, which really is beyond all description.

Legion, VFW To Place Flag on GI Graves

Members of the Hall-Slater Post of the VFW and the Underwood-Orr Post American Legion want to make sure that no veteran's grave is left unmarked by an American flag on Memorial day.

Each year an effort is made by the veteran's organizations to place flags on the graves. Some are omitted because relatives do not know who to contact.

VFW Commander Lloyd Stites, 423-3835, Legion Commander Douglas Maves, 423-4136, and Merrill Murphy, 423-3105 will be glad to receive these calls.

Shawnee Squares Welcome Dancers of Western Variety

Glenn LeFever will call when the Shawnee Squares hold their regular square dance Saturday, May 25, at the Community Center from 8 to 11 p.m.

All western square dancers are welcome.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

New Development in Bus Situation

A newspaper has the right to publicly agree or disagree, approve or disapprove, with or without popular opinion—in regards to actions and proposals affecting the area and people.

It should consider all facets.

On May 1, the Tecumseh schools assumed a giant headache—complete control of the schools' bus system for the first time in 15 years.

During the past two weeks, we have editorially objected to the school bus arrangement and severance of relations by Lee Purkey & Sons garage from the local schools.

We felt, and still do, that our position then was justified, and the schools had an excellent bus arrangement. We were afraid of an expenditure of present tax monies, or a request to the district's electorate for more millage for a new garage and site.

Now, there is a new development, one which prompts complete re-appraisal.

We have learned from the school board's committee chairman on buses, Robert Moore, that the schools might have an opportunity to acquire a new garage and site without any tax money—no cost whatsoever to the taxpayer.

If the board is offered such a site and garage, it would be foolish not to accept. The board and district would be grateful.

Mr. Moore has stated—and others too—that spending tax money now or asking property owners to vote new millage for bus facilities, would be detrimental to the district and schools.

We're in complete accord with this thinking.

Welcome home, Betty Bishop. A fitting climax to Michigan Week in Tecumseh will be the return to Tecumseh of Betty after having been hospitalized in Niles since Feb. 14, following a near-fatal car accident.

Betty is expected to arrive at Herrick Memorial Hospital this weekend.

She was placed in a body cast Monday at the Pawating Hospital and physicians said that without any unforseen complications she would be released there Saturday.

Good news accomplishes wonders sometimes. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bishop, Gus and Mary were all suffering with the 24-hour bug Monday, but after Betty's phone call that evening, Mr. Bug didn't have a chance.

Belles Prove Tops in Tug

CLINTON — Activities in the Belle and Brush Chapters are flourishing with Tug-O-Wars in the limelight this week.

Last Wednesday night, Brothers of the Fuzzy Forty challenged the Belles on Michigan Ave. — the ratio two Belles to one Brother.

The streets were lined with spectators when 26 Belles in their celebration dresses and sunbonnets pitted their strength against 13 Fuzzies.

Thirteen proved an unlucky number for the Brothers, when the Belles scored victoriously the first two out of three pulls.

Then one bearded Brother challenged two Belles, which proved to be a repeat performance and the Fuzzies conceded that they had been outpulled.

Rumor has it that the next Tug-O-War will be across Raisin River and someone will get wet.

☆

SATURDAY afternoon found the rooms of Smith Kimball Community Center the scene of a silver tea and bake sale.

The Bouncing Belles, in costume of course, used hand-painted cups from their own collections for the event.

Brothers of Soloman's Whiskers proved they knew who to select when they challenged the Fuzzy 40 to a blooper ball game Sunday.

The Whiskers led all the way and as far as is known, no one knows the final score or how many innings were played.

The teams knew they had played ball, however since they all had aches and pains and twisted ankles to prove it.

☆

SUNDAY MORNING 20 Clintonian Belles served pancakes at the Purity Grill until noon.

Tables lined the sidewalks to accommodate the overflow crowd, while every available griddle worked at top capacity.

The Cashier Cuties have challenged the Bustle Rustlers to a softball game this Sunday, at 2 p.m. on the Clinton School athletic field.

WINNERS—Two young men view the poster contest winners on display at the Adrian Federal Savings and Loan building. The posters, promoting Michigan Week and using the single theme "RAY-diate Tecumseh," were particularly colorful and well made.

on's Friendly Service station.

Mr. Butler says that anyone wishing to take part in the parade — whether on decorated bicycles, go karts, golf carts, horse-drawn wagons — is invited.

Participants should be on hand before 6:30 the night of the parade and contact Clarence Beach, march chairman, for positions.

Immediately after the parade and crownings, there will be a ribbon-cutting at the Safety-Check lane to open it officially.

From that point, the real business at hand begins.

☆

VEHICLES WILL be given a free 10-point safety check — brakes, steering, tires, lights, wipers, horn, mirrors, glass, exhaust system.

Mechanics, on loan from local auto dealers, garages and gasoline stations, will do the inspections.

Mr. Butler promises that there will be no arrests, annoyances or reprisals at the safety lane. In fact, when vehicles are found to have some defect, which the owner will have corrected and later return for approval, he'll be eligible to win a prize.

The owner of every 10th car through the lane will also be in line for a prize. More than 25 prizes, donated by merchants will be given.

Safety lane will be open until 9 p.m. Monday night, on both Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Motorists may enter from Chicago Blvd. down Pearl St.

Each car passing the 10-point test will receive a windshield sticker stating the vehicle has officially been Safety Checked for 1963.

Dealers, who provide the safety-check materials, will stage a Spring Out Auto Show along S. Pearl St., next to the lane.

Visiting Mayor Has Busy Day

By JUDY FIELDER

"I was particularly impressed by our half-hour talk with Ray Herrick. I'll never forget the man," said Mayor Edgar Beck after his tour of Tecumseh on Monday.

The visit with the chairman of the board at Tecumseh Products Co. and a tour of the plant were among the highlights of a whirlwind schedule here for the chief executive of Fraser on Mayor Exchange Day.

Mayor Beck and his wife, Helen, were accompanied to Tecumseh by Councilman and Mrs. David Cotton and City Clerk and Mrs. Richard Nicolai.

The guests marveled at the hospitality and friendliness of everyone during a day that started with a parade in the morning and was capped with a banquet at Tecumseh Country Club that night.

☆

A VARIETY of events throughout the day included a driving tour of Tecumseh. The group viewed all schools, city departments and other places of interest.

Cars were donated for the occasion by Tecumseh Motors Inc., Schneider Chevrolet-Buick, Wilson Motor Sales and Underwood Chevrolet-Pontiac, Inc.

Luncheon with Tecumseh councilmen and their wives at Don's Beef Buffet followed the tour.

In the afternoon the men viewed the industrial area. Besides seeing the Products, they toured Tuttle Mfg., Faraday Inc. and Jiffy Mfg.

The ladies toured Herrick Memorial Hospital and the Artist's Key Club, had tea at the home of Mrs. Neil Pearson and enjoyed her garden.

The group rendezvoused at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in the late afternoon for an inspection of the new facilities and a coffee break, then relaxed for an hour at the Country Club before dinner.

Baby Arrives, So Do Flowers...

An interesting sidelight to Mayor's Day here came when Dr. Carlton Cook had to leave the evening banquet to deliver Jonathan Rene to Mr. and Mrs. William Falls. Mrs. Edgar Beck, wife of the visiting mayor, sent the baby flowers given her earlier at the noon luncheon and Mrs. John Hamilton relayed her evening corsage to Mrs. Falls.

THE 60 GUESTS at the dinner represented the city government, community and service organizations.

Mayor pro-tem John Hamilton acted as toastmaster—presenting Mayor Beck with an engraved desk pen and holder.

The Sauerkraut Six, high school German Band, composed of Barry Bradish, David Dustin, Tom and Tim Dickinson, Larry Harper and Larry McClain, had toes tapping with their lively music and quick jokes.

Dr. John Dawson spoke stressing "Hometown". He stated, 'A town can only be great in the minds of people who have lived there. It is remembered for certain people who lived there."

He referred to Tecumseh as an active community with good strong traditions and loyalty that binds.

The committee stated they were proud of all of Tecumsehites who turned out for the banquet and helped RAY-diate Tecumseh for the visiting mayor and his party from Fraser.

Memoriam

IN LOVING memory of our dear husband and father, G. A Abner, who passed away five years ago, May 26, 1958.
So many things have happened
Since you were called away
So many things to share with you
Had you been left to stay
We cannot bring the old days back
Ways of the world are such
But we have many pleasant memories of the one we love so much.
Sadly missed by his wife, children and grandchildren.
Mrs. G. A. Abner

CLEARING LAND THE MODERN WAY—One of the area's most historic farm properties changed hands when Ron Pocklington sold his family's 418-acre layout south of Ridgeway, to Mr.. and Mrs. Tom Vreeland, formerly of Washtenaw County. Much of the acreage has never been farmed. Mr. Vreeland is clearing it all with bulldozers and a powerful crane and everything is planned to be under cultivation. Tre es, fence rows, wood lots and creek banks are being stripped and leveled. Giant fire burn th e brush and trees. Mr. Pocklington's great grandfather came from Pocklington, England, t aking over the land in 1842 with the original deed being signed by President Andrew Jack son. The farm has been in the family until the recent transfer of ownership. The new owner 's father was Henry Ford's physician. Roe and McNeil Construction Co. of Tecumseh handle s the clearing chore. Pete Perry of Ridgeway will tile the land.

Representatives of County Fund Discuss Goals

Lenawee County United Fund agencies discussed campaign goals, budget procedures, public relations, fund allocations, fund raising structures and fund organization improvements at a meeting recently.

Milton A. Nicolai, county budget chairman, distributed annual budget forms which will be returned for review by the committee May 15. Last year's budget was $153,203.

Agency representatives discussed methods to create better public awareness of services available to county residents.

Many times such services are taken for granted because they have become a part of everyday life—particularly in health programs, recreation for youth character building, family counseling and local welfare.

Member organizations at the meeting were American Red Cross, Family Counseling Service, Boy Scouts, Adrian YMCA, Catholic Social Services, Camp Fire Girls, Associated Charities, Child Guidance Clinic and Salvation Army.

The Tecumseh Community Fund Foundation, Inc. annually gives $14,822 directly to agencies of the county and Boy and Girl Scout Councils and also $6,593 to the Michigan United Fund.

28 from THS Trod Campus Along the Red Cedar

By MIKE FERO

Michigan State University is currently the home of a colony of Tecumseh young people with 28 Tecumseh High graduates enrolled in various fields of study.

Coming to college has produced a variety of mixed impressions about college and other realms of life. Most of the students are more than satisfied with Michigan State, but do not look at it as haven from the hard, cruel world.

It is a combination of hard work, satisfaction and a place to gain the necessary qualities to figh[illegible] dreams.

Some had rude awakenings, but all have realistic attitudes toward life and what it means to possess a college degree.

One aspect which all seem to realize is that Michigan State offers as much as any college in the nation, but that one must actively seek its benefits.

Here's the current Tecumseh crop of MSU students:

☆

JON AHO, who is a graduate of the Class of 1961, is a Social Science Divisional major who plans to enter law school upon graduation.

As a sophomore, he is a member of Phi Delta Theta where he is vice-president. While maintaining a 3.2 all-college average, he has w[illegible]ed at the reception desk of Wilson Hall and is a member of the Varsity football squad.

Last summer, Jon labored as a plumber in Tecumseh and enjoyed the new experience. He hopes to work at it again this summer. His favorite activity, when not studying or engaged in his other responsibilities, is reading books.

"Since coming to college I've discovered how much I don't know," he said. "I feel that I've matured somewhat as well as changed my viewpoints toward life and people in general."

☆

CHUCK BAIRD, a 1960 graduate majors in hotel, motel, and club management and would like to manage a large country club someday.

He worked this past winter instead of going to school. Last summer, he attended Ferris Institute, but decided to return to State this term. His reason for coming to college is very simple.

"I wanted to better prepare myself for the future," he said.

☆

LEE BRITTON, another 1960 graduate is majoring in pre-med and plans to enter Wayne State or Michigan to do graduate work. A junior this year, he is maintaining a 3.1 all-college average.

He has been active in dorm activities as well as working as a resident assistant in Bailey Hall. He is a member of Tri Beta, biological science honorary, and is pledging Delta Tau Delta.

During the vacations he has done bartending and worked at grain elevators. Last summer he was a resident assistant during counseling clinics at State. His parents are moving to East Lansing this June.

"I think I have learned a lot about people since coming to college,' Lee said. "I came to school to learn and I haven't been disappointed. I appreciate people for what they are now, and respect them as individuals."

☆

EUGENE BRION, a 1961 graduate, is thinking about going into teaching chemistry and physics, while coaching baseball. Until this quarter, Eugene was undecided about his future, but now he may transfer to Eastern Michigan University.

"I feel that I won't be satisfied with myself until I get a degree and qualify to teach," he said.

He likes State, but feels that it can get pretty frustrating at times. He has spent his summers working in Tecumseh for the State government, but hopes to get a job with the city this summer. He feels that college has made it easier for him to meet people and get along.

SHARON BURLESON, THS 1959, is majoring in home economics and will graduate in June. She has been active in several campus activities during her four years at Michigan State.

☆

MARY COLGROVE, a 1960 graduate, is majoring in executive secretarial administration and hopes eventually to work for a large corporation. She entered State on a two-year course, but decided to go on for the full four.

As a junior, Mary is vice-president of Phi Gamma Mu, business honorary, and has been a member of All University Student Government judiciary board. She is currently working part-time as a secretary.

Mary feels that college has broadened her interests by meeting different people. She plans to work in Lansing this summer and attend school.

☆

JIM CURTH, a 1960 graduate known as "Bubbles", is a pre-vet and hopes to enter veterinary or dental school after graduation. He has been active in many dorm activities in the capacity of athletic chairman and vice-president.

He has applied for a resident assistant position in Wilson Hall for next year. Jim has worked for the recreation department and at R. S. Moore and Son Lumber Co. during his summers. This vacation he plans to attend W. K. Kellogg Biological Station on Gull Lake near Kalamazoo.

"After three years here, I feel I have gained more independence and a certain amount of maturity," he said.

☆

BARBARA DAMON, a graduate of the class of 1961, is majoring in English and plans to teach secondary school. As a sophomore, she is a member of the Young Republicans, the Case Hall standards board and teaches Sunday School at the East Lansing Presbyterian Church.

She enjoys gin rummy during academic breaks, although she takes her studies seriously. She had planned on becoming a doctor, but changed her mind this year. Barb attended school last summer and has accepted a position as a waitress in a restaurant in St. Ignace this summer.

"I can't think of any place I'd rather be than Michigan State." she said. "I've learned how to study and have discarded my 'big dream'. I'm more realistic now, especially in those things that I like and enjoy."

☆

BOB DICK, THS 1960, majors in psychology and carries a 3.2 all-college average.

He is a member of Kappa Sigma, where he serves as athletic director and as a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council speakers committee. Bob worked part-time on Saturday afternoons parking cars for football games. He has also participated in the annual Junior 500 push-cart race.

Last quarter he had a rare opportunity to teach a seminar for graduate and undergraduate students—while only a junior. He has spent his summers working at a Lake Michigan resort in Charlevoix, but may go to summer school this summer.

"I feel that college has made me more independent and has increased my ability to get along with people," he said. "My favorite activity here is probably the betterment of myself educationally and socially."

☆

LINDA DICKS, a 1962 graduate, is thinking about entering social work. She enjoys the lecture-concert series and feels that this helps her broaden her background in areas where she has had little contact.

She hopes that her college experience will help her find an occupation which will suit her and be a benefit to others at the same time. It's not definite at this time, but she wants to go to school and work this summer.

She likes classes, but feels that the informal life at school is important also. Informal discussions and get togethers, "Are just as much a part of your education as classes are," she said.

"I haven't changed much since coming to State except in my attitudes," she said. "I'm not so ready to condemn other people and I have gained a great deal of confidence in myself."

She feels that proper study habits have been her biggest asset. A big school is more of a challenge to the student because it forces him to go out and seek an education, she said.

"At State, it's easy to get help from your professors if you make the extra effort," she said. "They seem more willing to take time to help than my teachers in high school were."

☆

PAT FERO, a 1957 graduate, is enrolled in Russian and plans to teach in secondary school or work for the State Department ultimately.

He spent four years in the Air Force and attended Syracuse University during that time, as well as spending one year in Turkey. Pat, a sophomore this year, is working full-time in Lansing while going to school.

He married the former Mary Jo Tressler and lives in married housing with their son, Michael Patrick. He plans to continue work and go to summer school.

"I feel that a college degree is essential to my familys security,' he said. "I enjoy school, but am certainly anxious to get out and go to work."

☆

KENDRA FROST, a grauate of the class of 1960, transferred from Albion College this year. She is majoring in English and plans to teach in secondary school.

At Albion, she was a member of the Contributors Club, a journalism group. Her favorite pastime is attending the lecture-concert series and folk singing. At present she is learning how to play the guitar.

"I got tired of the smallness at Albion," she said. "As a first impression, I feel Michigan State is more intellectually alive and offers more things to do."

Kendra came to college because she felt a need to be able to do something with her life. She feels that she has broadened her whole outlook and is more interested in other people and their activities and ideas.

"The neatest thing I can think of would be to get along with someone entirely different from me" she said. "The point being that I want to be able to appreciate more things."

☆

SUSAN FROST, a 1962 graduate, is thinking about English literature. As a freshman, she has helped campaign for a presidential candidate for student government.

"I've been drifting around trying all sorts of possibilities for the future," she said. "I came to college to further myself in many ways and I hope to find something I want to do for the rest of my life."

She felt that college was one continual study session, but soon found that it could never work out that way. Her favorite pastime is doing something different all the time. She feels that she has benefited from meeting a variety of personalities, by coming to college.

☆

WALT GIRBACH, a 1961 graduate, is majoring in electrical engineering and hopes to work with computers. He stayed out of school last fall and worked in Ann Arbor.

"I planned to stay out for a whole year, but one term was enough to convince me to come back," he said. "I didn't want to spend the rest of my life doing something like that."

He enjoys working out at the Intramural Building in his spare time. He feels he has changed since high school mainly by meeting new people and being away from home on his own.

MSU STUDENTS — Jim Curth, Chuck Baird, Doris Oliphant, Mary Colgrove and Lee Britton. Mike Fero, writer of the article, is now studying advertising and plans to enter public relations. He has been president and council member of his dorm, also works at registration each quarter. He is a member of the staff of the Michigan State News. Mike plans to go to Argentina with his family this summer and return to Michigan State in January.

☆

BOB GRAY, a 1960 graduate, is majoring in physics and plans to enter research or teach in college. He transferred from Adrian College this year, where he enjoyed travelling to other colleges as a member of the varsity baseball squad.

"I prefer a small school to a big one because you're a person and not just a member," he said. "However, I am happy at State. It's as good a big school as you can find anywhere."

He entered college because he knew it was essential in his desire to work in physics. He feels he hasn't changed much since graduation, but has learned to study more and now does the things that should be done instead of putting them off. Bob plans to work in the physics department at State this summer.

☆

ROGER FOX, a 1962 graduate, is planning to enter pre-law and eventually set up a law practice. He came to Michigan State to get an education and broaden his capabilities.

He feels that college has made him more tolerant and grown up. He plans to work in Ypsilanti or Jackson this summer.

☆

DAVE HOLDEN, a 1959 graduate, is majoring in divisional social science and plans to enter graduate school and get a business administration masters. With this, he hopes to enter industrial relations counseling. He will graduate in June.

He has been extremely active in campus activities, while maintaining a 3.0 all-college average. As a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, he has worked on the Junior 500, Homecoming banquet and was song chairman for the fraternity.

He is also a member of Pi Gamma Mu, a social science honorary. Dave is currently serving as associate justice on the Student Traffic Appeals Court, and is working for the department of Public Safety.

He was a member of the Saber Drill team for two years and served on the J-hop committee.

During the summers he has worked at the Lansing Country Club the Tecumseh Country Club and a resort in Wisconsin. He plans to work this summer and possibly enter graduate school.

"I think I have learned to think a lot more before doing things and have done a bit of growing up since coming to college," Dave said.

☆

TOM HICKS, a 1962 graduate, is in pre-dent, but plans to change to psychology. He wants to enter clinical psychology as his life work.

"I'm not satisfied with college right now," he said. "I'd like to get a job and work for a while."

He likes living on his own and the challenge of getting along by himself is invigorating. He came to college to prove to himself that he could succeed. Swimming is his favorite activity.

☆

GREG MASON, a 1959 graduate, is majoring in general communications arts and plans to make the army a career. He wants to enter army intelligence.

A member of Phi Kappa Si, he has been vice-president, secretary and treasurer. He has also served on the Inter-Fraternity Council and is a member of the Military Science Club, where he is currently vice-president.

During vacation, Greg has worked in concrete construction and at the Joyce Andrews Memorial pool. Last summer he spent six weeks at ROTC camp at Ft. Reilly, Kansas. Greg will graduate in December.

"I feel that I have gained a greater self-awareness of myself and have adjusted to different people and their customs since coming to college," he said. "The fraternity and ROTC, have helped the most."

☆

HELEN MILLER, who graduated in 1961, is majoring in microbiology and public health and plans to enter research work or hospital work after college.

She has been a member of the Michigan State Judo Club and has worked in her dorm kitchen. She likes to swim and read in her spare time. Last summer she worked in a chop suey plant in Ohio and found it very enlightening.

"To me, a formal education is essential," she said. "If I didn't have a vocation, I would consider myself useless. Microbiology offers a challenge and a chance for advancement and that's what I'm looking for."

She feels that college has broadened her outlook and she seems to be less concerned with little things. She feels that she is more interested in understanding other people and can see why people do certain things that she couldn't before.

☆

BILL NEWELL, a 1957 graduate, is majoring in accounting and plans to graduate this June. He was recently married and lives with his wife in Lansing. He plans to take an accounting job and eventually earn a CPA degree.

☆

DORIS OLIPHANT THS 1960 is majoring in executive secretarial administration and plans to get a job working for some large corporation or industry.

A junior transfer from Colorado University, Doris maintains a 3.0 all-college average, while serving as president of Phi Gamma Mu, a business sorority.

She also works part-time as a secretary for the New England Life Insurance Co. She feels that college is essential and likes State better than Colorado because she comes in contact with a wider variety of people and backgrounds.

"State offers a better education and has brought me in contact with more interesting people," she said. "I think I will benefit more this way."

Her favorite activity is her work and the experience connected with it. She plans to continue work and attend summer school.

☆

MARY KAY RIES, a 1960 graduate also, is majoring in elementary education and plans to enter teaching. She works as a secretary in Snyder Hall.

"I wouldn't miss college," she said. "It has given me a chance to further my education while making me more well-rounded."

During her summers, Mary has worked at a resort in Bellaire. Her favorite activity is playing bridge and dancing. She plans to work in Lansing and go to school this summer.

☆

MAX SMITH, a 1958 graduate, is majoring in hotel management and will graduate in June. He has secured a position doing office work at the Dearborn Inn.

"I'm satisfied with my college education right now," he said. "Some day I hope to run a country club."

During his summers, Max has worked at a resort in Wisconsin, and at the Lansing Country Club.

"Since coming to State, I've garnered a lot of gray hair," he said. "This must be a sign that I've matured mentally, too. College does that to many people."

☆

NANCY SMITH, a graduate of the Class of 1961, is majoring in Home Economics child development and plans to teach early elementary school after college.

In the two years she has been at school, she has served on the Snyder Hall standards board and has worked on various dorm projects such as Homecoming. She has worked in the dorm grill and in the dining room as a cook.

She enjoys any physical activity, especially bowling and softball. Last summer she worked at a resort on Lake Michigan but plans to go to summer school this June.

"I would have been very disapointed if I were unable to continue my education after high school," she said. "College life has enabled me to take every day events in stride. I don't get easily upset anymore."

An example of this was seen last weekend when her roommates presented her with two baby chickens.

"This was a good example of what I mean," she said. "I was quite surprised, but I solved the problem by taking them home. They were a welcome addition to the family."

☆

ALICE TITLEY, a 1960 graduate, is majoring in elementary education and plans to teach kindergarten, possibly in California. A transfer from Eastern Michigan University, Alice likes State because it offers more activities.

She went to the World's Fair in Seattle last summer and plans to work in Lansing while attending summer school. Her favorite activity is playing bridge.

☆

CARL WILT, THS 1962, is majoring in hotel management with the hope of owning his own resort business. As a freshman, he is a member of the Michigan State Hotel Association and enjoys archery in his sparetime.

Last summer, he worked at Kroger's and plans to attend school while working in Lansing this summer.

He came to college to gain experience and raise his potential earning power.

"The immensity of MSU is my biggest thrill," he said. "I meet so many different people each day that it's amazing."

Carl feels that he has gained confidence and a realistic outlook since coming to school.

THROUGH MY WINDOW

SOMEONE HAS BEEN IN THE RASPBERRY JAM

So far it has been a good spring—good that is, if we discount the weather. That, at times, has been ridiculous. I can still shiver at the memory of April 30's snow and gale type winds.

But from a birdwatching point of view, it really has been a good spring.

The other day, for example, we had some most exciting visitors. While not candidates for my first-sighting list, they are so rare up here that it is almost the same as a first.

Who? Purple finches I realize some people have them almost regularly but here, at the west end of Logan St., I think this is only the second or third time we have hosted these birds.

They are as cute as can be. A favorite and most apt description likens them to sparrows who have been dipped in raspberry jam. They do look like it, truly they do.

About the size of sparrows, the males are the "gay blades." Their heads and lower backs are a purplish red but on their bodies, rather indistinct stripes tone down the color. As might be expected, the females are a dull, drab group. They look much like sparrows.

☆

WE FIRST noticed our visitors when one contested his right to be on the feeder with a sparrow. This was quite a thing—no actual combat, but there was certainly much language and posturing thrown back and forth. The battle ended in a draw. Both birds left. 'Twas fun while it lasted, though.

The finch surprised us by being a little bit of a toughy. While telling off the sparrow, the feathers on the top of the finch's, head were all bristled up and his strong-looking bill was open wide.

I'm inclined to think that perhaps these little birds have a disposition to match their "red hair."

When he left the feeding station we were pleased that instead of running away, he flew to the top of the creek bank. Surprise --no sooner had he hit the ground than four others joined him.

They had apparently been just out of sight or more likely, our attention had been fully occupied by the sparrow-finch duel.

Anyway, we were most pleased to see the five all at once. Two pretty males and three nondescript females.

☆

THEY BUSIED themselves munching on seeds and, I hope, some of the scratchfeed Dad had scattered on the ground. Before they left for parts unknown, one of the pretty boys flew up to bid good-byes.

He lit on the post which stands on the corner of the feeder and cocked his head first this way then that. I'm sure he was saying to take a good look because who knows how long it will be until we return.

Fortunately it doesn't happen often, but our bird books let us down when we tried to do some research on the finches. All of them devoted much space to the birds' song and manner of singing.

During the courting period the menfolk put on an outstanding performance. They combine vocal and aerial gymnastics—interesting but, of course, we are never treated to this type of show.

So it is that although the purple finches' seranade is noteworthy, we are more interested in their appearance—they do look like someone has been in the raspberry jam!

News From Boysville

HELD OVER FROM LAST WEEK

By RICHARD MC MILLLAN

Freshmen and sophomore classes have accepted the invitation to a dance at the Thunderbolt Teenage Club. Boysville's "Copy Cats," a vocal group made up of four students, will be the guest entertainers for the May 18 dance.

✓

The annual Boysville Open Hous[illegible] Sunday. About fifteen hundred guests are expected to be in attendance. The majority of these guests will be Knights of Columbus from all over the state.

✓

Stan Klos, a senior, pitched a no-hit ball game last Thursday against Whiteford as the Knights took a close 3-2 game. Errors accounted for the 2 unearned runs.

A ninth inning rally by Whiteford almost tied the game, but Stan was able to retire the sides before the base runner crossed the plate.

The past week also proved to be a good one for the track team. May 6 the boys out-raced Summerfield to the tune of 64 to 45. Bob Stuart was high point man in this meet with 9¼ points. Other high scorers were Tom Ryan and Gregory Gard.

A track coach's often repeated advice that even a half point counts certainly proved true May 8 as Adrian Catholic Central and Boysville tied 54½. The needed half point was picked up by Frank Turner when he placed third in the high jump.

✓

This Saturday the track team will participate in the Regional Track Meet to be held in Ypsilanti.

✓

The faculty and boys would like to thank the different merchants in Tecumseh for the tickets to the Mills Bros. circus. We enjoyed the afternoon with the variety of entertainment it afforded us.

Mercywood Hospital in Ann Arbor was host to Boysville's Glee Club last evening. This is the second time this year the boys sang for the patients and personnel.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

The national and world spotlights are on Michigan this week. During this 10th annual Michigan Week celebration, our great state is wearing its best suit and putting its best foot forward.

For seven days more than 10,000 citizens are joining together to unfold the story of Michigan, both in serious undertakings and in a light manner.

Michigan has much to be proud of—much to boast about to the world.

While this 10th anniversary celebration, with its appropriate theme of "Science and Research For Our Future", is an excellent vehicle for promoting the state's greatness, I think it is also important to sell Michigan, its vacations, its products and its industrial potential all year long —at home and abroad.

Each of us should feel a strong sense of duty, coupled with intense pride, to promote our state —at all times, to all people, in all places. We who live in Michigan are its best salesmen and we have an impressive historical, cultural and economic story to tell.

☆

WE CAN modestly point out that:

► It was two years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in 1618 that Etienne Brule reached what is now Michigan's Upper Peninsula, and the state's first permanent settlements were made at Sault Ste. Marie in 1668 and at St. Ignace in 1671 by Fathers Dablon and Marquette.

► Four flags — French, English, Spanish and American — have flown over our state, and now it is an unmatched combination of industrial empire, recreation paradise and diversified agriculture.

► Michigans shoreline is longer than either the Atlantic or Pacific coastlines.

► Ironwood is as far west as St. Louis, Mo.; Hancock is farther north than Montreal, Canada; and Port Huron is as far east as Greenville, S. C., or Asheville, N. C.

► Michigan leads all states in per capita support of higher education.

► Michigan has 109,643 miles of public roads and streets — enough to go around the equator four times.

► Labor's achievements in Michigan have added a brilliant page to the state's history. The Detroit Mechanics' Society, founded in 1818, was one of the first unions in the nation.

► The 330-mile new highway stretching from the Ohio border to the Straits of Mackinac is the nation's longest toll-free superhighway.

► Michigan's farmers gross more than $770 million annually from 15 million crop acres an the annual retail value of agricultural output in the state is over $2 billion.

► Direct tourist expenditures in 1962 were estimated at $680 million.

► Michigan ranks second among the 14 leading industrial states in productivity as measured by value added per employe, and ranks third by value added per man hour.

► The Upper Peninsula Copper Country, the largest commercial deposit of native copper in the world, has yielded nearly 11 billion pounds during the past century.

☆

FOR THE past few years Michigan's name and reputation has suffered. It was called a problem state, a poor state in which to do business. We still have many hurdles to overcome. But, Michigan has made an about face and once again is headed in a forward direction.

Excessive political bickering, which handicapped our state in the past, has subsided and I hope will not be renewed. This year our Legislature set one of the most progressive and distinguished records in recent history.

Both of these changes have favorably impressed businessmen everywhere.

Job-producing employers, instead of leaving our state, are staying to build and grow. Today, economic experts are predicting impressive capital spending in Michigan industry.

Auto manufacturing companies have committed themselves to investments of over $1.1 billion in facilities and equipment during 1963. Our five major public utility companies have made plans to invest more than $240,000 in the state this year.

☆

JOB opportunities in manufacturing concerns are expected to increase 17 percent within the current decade and service jobs will increase 30 percent, according to economic predictions.

It is this rebirth of industry, renewed faith and vigor, a new self-confidence and spirit of team play that will usher Michigan into one of the brightest decades of its history.

Michigan Week is dramatizing the assets of our state.

Agriculture in Action

By M. L. WOELL

Michigan Farm Bureau

"Newspaper publishers have about the same problems as do farmers."

That's the observation of Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, and a life-time farmer who has a healthy respect for the newspaper industry.

Mr. Wightman participated in a series of news-seminars planned as part of a recent tour that took him to several areas of the state. In comparing the news industry with agriculture, the farm leader pointed to many sweeping changes in both industries and to the enthusiasm and vision with which these challenges are being met.

"Its not easy to be competitive," he said, "farmers know this, and so do those who publish newspapers. Farmers have been facing a cost-price squeeze, also familiar to those in the publishing business.

In both cases, the cost of labor has climbed to new highs and truly skilled labor is hard to find. Both groups have compensated with higher per-man investments." He indicated that this investment was "somewhere around $50,000 per man, currently."

☆

AMONG OTHER parallels, the farm leader mentioned a close-knit feeling of teamwork found both in newspaper and farm work, and the fact that many of the most efficient operations in either case depended upon a strong "family" attitude.

He added that each newspaper is an independent local business, just as are farm operations, and that both add greatly to a higher standard of living.

Mr. Wightman said that farmers should not forget that newspapers are "our best allies when it comes to building bridges of understanding between rural and urban groups, and when it comes to supporting the free, competitive enterprise idea.'

He laughed at the popular notion that newsmen "exploit" people and communities in which they live for the sake of headlines. "Newspapermen are responsible people, and they accept their responsibilities seriously."

The Farm Bureau president said that a newspaper subscription is an investment in communications, and that local newspapers are one of the few real bargains that remain.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: Two years ago when I was 65, I was told I was not eligible for social security benefits because I had not worked long enough to be insured. They said I needed 13 quarters of coverage and I had only 10. I have not been able to work any more, but I've heard that Congress had made changes in the law. Now I am 67 years old and infirm. Can I get social security benefits now?

ANSWER: Most likely you can! In fact, you have probably been losing benefits since August 1961. On that date, Congress reduced the work requirements to qualify for social security benefits. Beginning with August 1961, you needed only one quarter of work for every year elapsed after 1950. Therefore, after August 1961 you needed a total of 10 quarters of coverage to be eligible for benefits. We suggest that you visit the nearest social security district office at once and file your application for benefits.

QUESTION: If I start getting social security disability benefits now at age 36, do I get as much money as people who work until they retire at age 65?

ANSWER: Yes, your benefit is figured just as though you reached 65 in the year you became disabled.

QUESTION: Do I need a doctor's statement that I am disabled before I make a disability claim?

ANSWER: No, your social security office will explain just what medical evidence you need to support your claim and will give you the proper medical forms when you apply.

M-52 Traffic Detoured South of Adrian to Ohio

Traffic is detoured for automobiles starting at M-52 and M-34 in Adrian, east on M-34 to Treat Rd., south to Ohio 120 and 109.

The detour is four miles longer than the regular route.

The detour for truck traffic starts at M-34 and M-52 in Adrian, west on M-34 to M-156, south to M-120 and east to Ohio 120 and 109.

The change will be in effect all summer.

Brother Phillip of Boysville to Attend Mackinac Session

Brother Philip Armstrong, C-SC, Director of Boysville at Macon will represent the faculty of this unique boarding school for boys, at the annual state meeting of Michigan's Knights of Columbus, June 6, 7 an 8 at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Michigan's Knights of Columbus were instrumental in founding the school, and annually furnish its maintenance funds, nearing the $2 million, over the past 15 years since its dedication on Oct. 24, 1948.

Some 800 delegates, State and Diocesan K of C officials, members of Michigans Catholic Hierarchy and clergy, guests and their ladies, will participate in the three-day session.

Macon's Boysville will rank high in the convention agenda, with progress report and the reaffirming of the annual maintenance budget which will exceed some $155,000 for the current fiscal year.

Report Compares Bus Systems

How did the school bus operation in Tecumseh during 1961-'62 compare with other districts of Lenawee?

The statistical chart printed below gives the answers. In a meticulous job, Robert H. Moore, school board chairman on buses, gathered the information for this report from a variety of places, including the State Department of Education and other school offices.

The act[illegible] more details than the summary figures shown here. Readers interested in reviewing the entire report are invited to do so in The Herald office.

Mr. Moore is to be congratulated for his efforts, which touch every facet of school bus operation — maintenance costs, cost per mile, cost per pupil, miles traveled, etc.

Overall, Tecumseh ranked among the more economical, while doing the biggest transportation job. Maintenance cost per bus was high.

The future of the local bus system is currently in a state of flux since Lee Purkey & Son Garage resigned the job of maintaining and operating the system as of May 1.

There now is a possibility of the schools being given a site and garage — with no cost to taxpayers or the district — which may solve the problem for future years.

Anyway the question is regarded, running a school bus system the size of Tecumseh's is big business.

Speedway Track Record Falls for Second Week

For a second consecutive week, the Manchester Speedway track record was broken, this time by Jim Stemen of Hillsdale, who qualified at 20.41 seconds.

Lynn Hunt and Lee Brayton were also fast qualifiers.

Lee Brayton set a new 10-lap record while winning the first heat.

Doug Harvey captured the second heat.

Ken Roberts won the third heat.

Neil Grady won the fourth heat title.

John Stephans broke Lee Brayton's 10-lap record while winning the Austrailian Pursuit.

Driver Grady took the semi-feature and Lee Brayton jockied his car to victory in the feature.

Mary Stephens of Hanover won the Powder Puff race with Judy Root second.

The mechanics race was taken by Harlan Boyd, with John Ranger second.

Friday night sky driver Eddie Green will parachute at the Speedway. For the kids, televisions clown, Ricky, will appear.

NEWCOMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wagenschutz of Livonia and their two sons, Craig, 5, and Lon, 3½, have moved to the farm formerly operated by Ken Knudson on N. Britton Hwy.

They purchased the farm and moved there about the middle of March.

Crop farming is the major operation at present, but the couple hope to have animals later on.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagenschutz are members of the Grace Lutheran Church of Tecumseh.

Craig will start school at Britton in the fall and Lonnie will help his dad operate the farm.

Nearly 1,000 area circus fans poured into the Mills Bros. big top May 9 for the two Tecumseh performances. There was a variety of traditional three-ring entertainment — clowns, aerialists, wild animals, not to mention gobs of cotton candy, popcorn and colored ice cones. It was fun for the spectators, from two and three-year-olds to gray-haired grandparents. But the story doesn't end with an afternoon and evening of entertainment. The circus was brought to town by a group of civic-minded local groups who want to earn enough money to build a kitchen for the Community Center. The various committeemen and women were proud of the results—a local net profit of $1,281.99.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITORS:

In reading your "editor's note" I was both gratified and sorry. I was gratified because of all the facts in my article of last week there was not one statement the editors could pick out and say, "this is not true and we can prove it." I was sorry because in writing a letter of truth, which I am prepared to back up from school records, the editors found it more to their choosing to "sling mud" than to stick to the subject at hand.

I shall not ente- -nt- a "mud slinging" contest because I feel it does not prove a thing and only tends to belittle the person or persons involved. However, you made some charges that were intended to belittle my character and shed doubt on my reliability as a bus driver and I shall try to give you and the readers a truthful answer. Here again you preferred to get your information second hand. If I were going to find out why someone terminated their employment, I would ask the person who resigned not someone who "might" know as the editors did.

Last fall after the business manager and the school board demanded that drivers sign for all repair bills, something which had not been done in the past, I became disgusted with the way our tax money was being spent. After signing some of these bills which I made known were questionable, friction began to build up between myself and the bus supervisor whom by the way was in charge of the garage. I was also president of the bus drivers association which I helped organize and on which the bus supervisor said he would like to see in effect. However, most of the grievances the association had he chose not to co-operate with and blamed me personally for inquiring, which I did as driver representative.

I was going to quit in December but the business manager when informed of this asked me to stay away from Purkey's Garage whenever possible, but to continue driving. This I did until April when they decided to have all the buses brought into the garage after the daily routes were finished. Since my route started and ended in Tipton this meant driving an empty bus from and to Tecumseh four times a day. This in my mind was a way of putting pressure on me personally and so rather than to continue arguing over a part time job I resigned with the thought of helping the school board clean up a bad situation.

Charge number two, I never asked to nor was I ever told that I could not drive the bus back and forth from Purkey's garage to my home as I had no reason to do so.

Charge number three, I once used a bus for transportation to work, this is true but I would also like to give the circumstances. One afternoon at four p.m. the supervisor called and said he needed a driver to go to Grosse Isle to a basketball game. I told him I could not go because I had to be at the Tecumseh Products at eleven p.m. for work and I had been one half hour late the night before because I attended a bus drivers school in Hudson. The Products is my full time occupation and I feel that it should be my first obligation. However, the bus supervisor assured me that I would be back no later than ten thirty p.m. which would be time enough to get to work. I arrived back at the high school at eleven ten p.m. already late for work two nights in a row, so here's where I made a mistake and I will be the first to admit it.

I drove the bus two blocks out of the way to the lighted parking lot where I felt it would be safe for the night and went to work. The next morning I drove it on home where my route began on Monday morning. I was later told by the bus supervisor that I should have parked it on a side street where no one would have seen it. I felt that the lighted Tecumseh Products parking lot was the safest place to park it and I can assure you if I had it to do over I would not have taken the trip with the supervisors word that I would be home on time.

I also remember Mr. Editor that many of the former board members who once checked into the bus situation are still on the board and as you know have "not protested" Purkey's resignation. Since they now have new facts and figures I feel that the school board with the business manager's help will provide better bus transportation at a lower cost.

I would like to further point out that the Citizens Committee report for the Tecumseh Public Schools of 1961-62 recommended that the schools go to their own garage for greater savings on transportation.

Your newspaper is not doing our school district justice when you criticize our school board for trying to promote savings which would be used to further our children's education and help to put our schools back on a full schedule.

I am merely a laymen and I shall not continue to fight the editors of the newspaper with words. However, when I was raised I was taught to stand up for the truth and this I shall continue to do. So in conclusion Mr. Editor, I hope that you and your newspaper will do the same and not "sling mud" at people merely because they disagree with you and your opinion.

TO THE EDITORS:

As district director for the American Meteor Society I have been busy gathering reports on a large fireball which travelled eastward over southern Michigan about 8:36 p.m. the evening of April 21st.

It was seen at least as far west as Milwaukee and was apparently a spectacular sight from Grand Rapids, Muskegon, and other towns to the west of you. When last observed it was somewhere between Jackson, Ann Arbor and Adrian.

In all probability, fragments from this object fell to the ground not far from your city as meteorites. If any have been found, it is important that they be made available for scientific study as soon as possible.

Freshly-fallen meteorites preserve a very interesting record of cosmic radiation in space. With the passage of time, this record becomes increasingly difficult to read.

Meteorites sometimes bury themselves a foot or more in the ground. Anyone who has noticed a fresh, crater-like hole should dig it up to see if there is a meteorite below.

The chances are that the meteorite would be of stony composition, grey and granular inside, but with a thin coating of black due to the high temperature developed by atmosphere friction. A few meteorites are solid iron. It is likely that the fragments fell over an area of several square miles.

I shall be very grateful if you will publish this letter asking anyone who may know where fragments fell, or who saw the fireball and can give details of its course, to get in touch with me.

Very sincerely yours,
William F. Read

TO THE EDITORS:

We would like to take this means of informing the people of the Tecumseh School District that the accusations and personal opinions expressed by our formers workers are not those of the group as a whole.

We would like it known that up to about a month ago, we had a pleasant and enjoyable working relationship with Dick Purkey.

We do not mean for this to be interpreted by the school board as a request for it to renew this relationship. However, we would not hesitate to return to it, if the school board and Mr. Purkey should come to a working agreement.

We feel that primarily that Mr. Purkey acted in the best interest of the drivers and the Tecumseh Public School system. But, we leave this to the people who were elected to conduct the school business for the tax payers. We feel they are intelligent, qualified people capable of the job.

We would like to add that regardless of the supervision and maintenance policies decided on by the board, we will do our best to aid them in attaining the best possible service to the public.

TO THE EDITORS:

Have you ever read in a magazine where a reader didn't like a certain story the magazine published and they told the editor to cancel their subscription? We all don't think the same — we should be thankful for the freedom of press to be able to voice our opi- T- -the Tecumseh Herald for instance. It is a wonderful weekly paper and I don't like to miss an issue—yet I don't agree with everything they come out with—but I do feel free to voice my opinion about the article and you, the editor, are willing to publish it, even if you don't agree with it.

I would like to see someone besides Purkey run the school busses—and according to the census the PTA's put out, I think quite a few people would. Perhaps we are wrong but don't you think it would be worth a try?

After reading your "Editor's Note" beneath Ray Jackson's letter in last week's paper I would like to ask you this question—

Have you, Mr. Editor, talked to Mr. Jackson?

Mr. Jackson has been the President of the Tipton PTA for the last two years and has done an excellent job. He has never missed a meeting and has helped in all the projects the PTA has done for the school.

I think that anyone who has worked with Mr. Jackson on a committee can tell you that he puts every effort into seeing the job done well.

If he has made a statement in your paper, you can be sure he has the facts to back his statement up.

I, for one, would like to see Mr. Jackson on the school board. I am sure he would do the best he can.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ray Buell

TO THE EDITORS:

Sunday evening, April 21, at 8:36 p.m. a bright meteor, called a Fireball, was seen passing over lower Michigan. Since that time, I have attempted to obtain observations of this object in the hopes of doing three things.

First, plotting its path through the atmosphere. Second, determining its orbit in the solar system before entering the atmosphere. Third, determining the impact area in hopes of recovering fragments of the meteorite.

Results thus far indicate that the object was last seen over the region somewhere between Ann Arbor, Jackson, and Adrian.

I would greatly appreciate your help in obtaining additional reports of sightings of this object. It was spectacular enough that many people would remember it even though it took place sometime ago. I would like to receive observations from anyone who saw the meteor, regardless of their location.

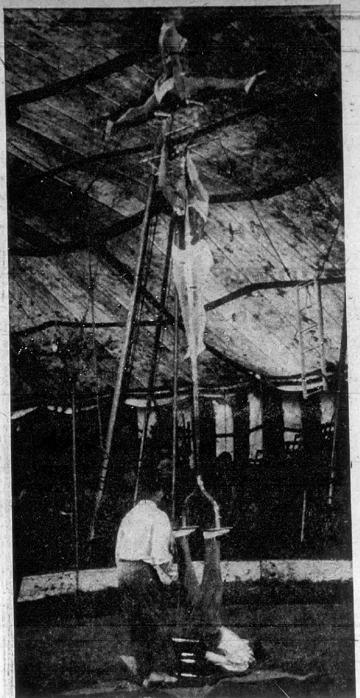

In addition to reports of sightings, I would like to receive reports of an explosion similar to a sonic -oom heard about that time and reports of any recovered fragments of the meteor. Such fragments will probably be pitted and covered with a black "fusion crust."

I would like to receive post-cards from people reporting as requested. I will then send questionnaires to them for their information. Reports should be addressed to:

CROWD PLEASERS—An acrobatic team of two women and two men thrilled the crowds attending the recent Mills Bros. Circus in Tecumseh. One of the men balanced a 25-foot pole on his feet as others in the act skimmed up and did balancing feats that looked so easy, but which must have taken years in the learning.

Well-Worn Streets Due for Asphalt

Several of Tecumseh's well-worn streets are about due for a topping with W. Pottawatamie, from S. Pearl to Adrian St., scheduled first.

City Manager Cal Zorn says bituminous concrete will be used on W. Pottawatamie St. within the next week or 10 days.

Bituminous concretae also will be used, probably in July, on the 100 block of S. Pearl, 100 block o f S. Union, and on Shawnee St., from Ottawa to Maumee Sts.

Seal coating is planned for Oneida St., several roadways in the Sunset and Cairn Sts. area, S. Maumee St., near Faraday, and Russell Rd. to Maumee St.

Some re-surfacing will be done on some of the existing streets.

Ayling-Cunningham Asphalt Co. has been awarded the bid for this work.

2 Runners, Relay Unit Make Finals

BRITTON—Piling up 21 points in the state Class D regional meet, Britton-Macon qualified two individuals and its mile relay unit for the Michigan finals Saturday.

These will be run off at Central Michigan State University.

Those who qualified:

► Tom Komon, who finished second in both the 180-yard low hurdles and the 120-yard high hurdles, will appear in these events.

► The mile relay team of Walt Korican, Russ Lutton, Ron Miller and Ron Mastie will appear in the state finals.

The foursome combined to post 3:48.9 in taking a third in the regional and at the same time establishing a Tory record.

All regional first, second and third place finishes went on to the Michigan finals.

Miler Terry Auten didn't qualify, but he did hit 5:02.5, which is a new school mark.

Third Graders Report on Trip Through Herald

Third grade students at Ridgeway School, taught by Mrs. Hazel Todd, toured The Tecumseh Herald plant May 7.

Returning from their trip, they received an assignment to write about their visit.

Here are some of the comments the youngsters made:

Michael Miller—"The thing I liked best was when the man pulled a lever and some iron came out, it looked like water."

Linda Korth — "I appreciate your taking the time to show us your nice place and I will try to win a radio by selling subscriptions."

Hazel Frazer—"I don't see how anybody could learn how to work those machines."

Keith Schafer—"I like the machine that made the print."

Tommy Osburn—"I learned a lot about how the machines make The Tecumseh Herald. We get the Herald because it tells all about the deaths and other things we ought to know, so I think every body should get it."

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

Goodness only knows what will ever happen when jokes about women's ages cease to be popular . . . this one came to us recently.

'Said the clerk, 'How can I stop women customers from talking about the low prices in the good old days?"

"The store manager suggested, 'Act surprised and tell them you didn't think they were old enough to remember them.' "

Old or young, make little difference, prices are high and everyone is out to get the best buy for the money. Whether it is a little or a lot that you have to spend, the women of today want the most for it.

We have something very special to offer at Clinton Woolen and would like to tell you about it. We said last week it was our annual inventory time and were marking down items here and there in hopes to reduce the inventory job.

There are fabrics marked as low as 48c per yard . . . others at 68c and 78c.

In our ladies sportswear we have marked down a great number of skirts, knit wear in slacks etc.

Real special buys are a few Tara Tweed, two piece, suits from $19.95 to $15.98. Skirts with coordinated blouses from $12.95 to $9.98.

We were busy last week opening our summer store in Traverse City. If you get up in the Grand Traverse Bay area be sure and stop at THE CHALET on US31 North, Traverse City. You will enjoy seeing this novel store. Rose, Jean, Betty, Debi and sometimes the old man himself will be there to greet you.

Oh Yes, we will be open in Clinton as in the past . . . Week Days 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sundays 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. These hours will continue until some decision is reached by the Supreme Court.

200 Attend 'Warming' for Garage

Most folks have sometime attended a housewarming for friends or relatives, but how many have ever gone to a good old fashioned garage warming?

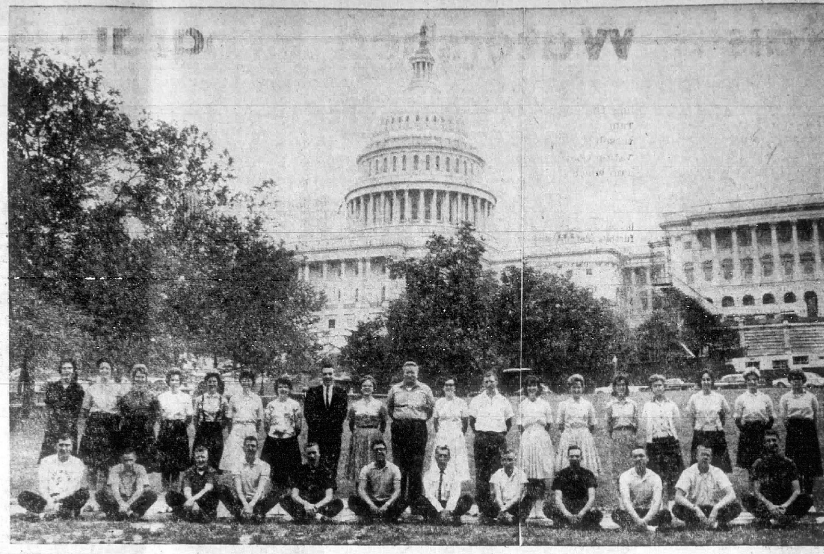

Saturday night the Lee Taylor Garage on West Chicago Blvd. was fairly bursting at the seams with well-wishers from Jackson, Adrian, Dundee, Blissfield, Deerfield, Tecumseh and Britton.

Round and square dancing was enjoyed by most of the over 200 guests by a lively five-piece orchestra that at times grew to nine and ten pieces.

Others received the recent basketball tournaments in which the Britton Tories won the class D State Championship, while others spent the evening visiting and talking over old times.

The Taylors served a buffet luncheon to the group which included friends, relatives, employees and business associates.

Mr. Taylor uses the garage to house and service his fleet of trucks which are used for commercial hauling as well as for his farming enterprise.

SENIORS AT THE CAPITOL—The group toured Washington, D.C., Mt. Vernon, Arlington and National Cemetery. They also visited Christ Church in Alexandria, Va., Jefferson Memorial, Washington National Cathedral, Smithsonian Institute and Embassy. The class also took a moonlight cruise down the Potomac River. Mr. and Mrs. William Hetrick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Long and Robert Miller chaperoned the seniors. Raisin Watershed Program Clears First Hurdle

Good news arrived last week regarding the proposed River Raisin Watershed reclamation program.

It came in the form of a letter from Russell G. Hill, executive secretary of the State Soil Conservation Committee and a member of the six-man inspection team which toured the watershed last month.

Mr. Hill's correspondence reads:

The State Soil Conservation Committee at its May 9 meeting, acting for Governor Romney formally considered a report by its Technical Watershed Review Committee dealing with the Raisin River as possibly being developed to receive Federal watershed assistance under Congressional Act 566.

The committee is of the opinion that the problems of the watershed are of such character and of such extent that it appears to qualify as a "566" watershed project.

This conclusion, of course, is subject to further detailed engineering studies that would be necessary in this extensive watershed.

It is recognized that the area embraced by this watershed is nearly 700,000 acres. This far exceeds the 250,000 limitation which Congress placed on the size of any one watershed requesting "566" assistance.

This would necessitate the division of the Raisin River area into a series of smaller projects, each one of which would not exceed the 250,000 limitation.

☆

A FURTHER complication in treating the entire Raisin River Watershed is a local legal sponsorship for such a project. The sponsors must have legal authority to:

► Construct, operate and maintain works of improvement

► Enter into contractual agreements with the Federal Government

► Have the right to use eminent domain if necessary

► To levy such assessments among the people of the area as may be necessary to finance local costs and obligations.

These local legal sponsors are necessary in addition to the soil conservation districts involved which should be co-sponsors of such projects.

☆

WE UNDERSTAND that a River watershed citizens committee has been established representing not only the geographical areas but also the water interests. This group should be appraised of our recommendations.

No doubt this local watershed committee will consider all possible approaches to the solution of its water problems and especially the matter of legal sponsorship which will be necessary regardless of the type of government assistance made to it.

Please let us know if we can provide additional information. If the local citizens committee decides to proceed further under Congressional Act 566, it should work with the designated agencies to carry out an extensive education and information program to acquaint the people with the entire project.

It should carefully review its total goals and objectives.

It should give serious thought to this entire matter of legal sponsorship. Only after these efforts are resolved will it be possible for official applications to be prepared and submitted to our office, the letter concludes.

Say You Saw It in The Herald

LOCAL BUSINESS

This spring a California rancher sold a half million dollar estate through a want ad which cost less than ten dollars.

The sale illustrates one of the primary functions of newspaper advertising—locating unknown prospects. In the case of the rancher, there was probably only one prospect among thousands of people. The regular problem of the seller was to find the rare prospect.

The individual or the merchant who wishes to sell a highly specialized product would be at a loss without newspaper advertising. The newspaper is the only medium available to the entire public at any time. It is the only local medium which, within the bounds of reasonable cost, is likely to reach the whole citizenry in a trade area.

Who is the best prospect for a new automobile, a new tractor, a new home, a horse, an airplane, or a farm? Not even the most experienced salesman can be certain. The best prospect may be a person who would not appear to be in the market at all.

College professors buy farms. Children buy horses. Farmers buy airplanes. People with fine old homes buy modern homes. All of these people read the local newspaper. All might appear to be unlikely prospects before newspaper advertising makes contact with them.

The general retailer—the grocer, the drug store, the dry goods store—has a similar problem of locating new customers, since there is a rapid turnover of people supporting any business.

From the whole public, the general retailer must find new customers for hundreds of items each week. This problem of location is necessarily met by newspaper advertising.

Tecumseh Nine Stops Blissfield

Tecumseh High posted an upset win over high-flying Blissfield, 8-5, on the Royals' diamond Monday.

This was Blissfields second loss of the year as the Royal crew battles Milan for the Huron League flag.

Greg Allen and Norman Tucker combined on the mound in the Indians' victory.

Allen struck out three in four innings and permitted five hits. Tucker allowed two blows while fanning two.

THS scored a marker in the first without getting a hit, combining two walks and two errors.

Things began popping in the fourth when Tucker, Mark Vaillencourt, Tim Sisson and Pat Vallad all singled and Don Baird walked to push over three runs.

☆

IN THE final frame, Sisson led off with his second hit, then was forced out on an attempted sacrifice, Vallad getting to first.

Jerry Hebb singled and when Gordon Gibson's grounder to short was fumbled, all hands were safe.

With the bases loaded, Baird was hit by a pitched ball and Vallad scored. Hebb followed him in on a wild pitch a moment later. After Allen fanned, Jeff Osburn came through with a single, bringing over Gibson and Baird.

Blissfield could manage only one marker in the last half of the inning.

Coach Carl Hale sends his charges against Airport on the Jets' field Thursday. Flat Rock will come to Tecumseh Saturday morning at 10:30 for a single game. Tecumseh travels to Milan Monday in the final Huron League outing.

To date, THS stands four wins, eight defeats.

LENAWEE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING TECUMSEH, BRITTON, RIDGEWAY, MACON AND TIPTON

VOLUME 112 — ONE HUNDRED THIRTEENTH YEAR — NUMBER 34 | TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1963 | 16 PAGES — TEN CENTS A COPY

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

It pays to try.

Agreeing on this are two youngsters, John Rumpf and Roger Ashenfelter, who wanted to—but didn't—earn bicycles in the recent Herald subscription campaign.

The junior salesmen were required to sell 15 new subscriptions to get the top premium. John tried his hardest and signed up six. Roger worked equally as hard, getting five.

They missed their goal, apparently, but each realized he had made a concerted effort.

Then something mighty nice happened.

In wrapping up the effort, The Herald gave away two bonus prizes—a bike and transistor radio.

Eligible for winning it were John and Roger, along with 27 other boys and girls who signed up for the campaign and sold at least one new subscription.

Merlyn Downing, an officer of the United States Savings Bank, plucked two names out a cigar box, which contained all 29, in the newspaper office Monday afternoon.

First out was John Rumpf, age 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rumpf, 704 Outer Dr. John received the bike.

Second slip bore the name of Roger Ashenfelter, age 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ashenfelter, 4127 Comfort Rd. Roger was presented the transistor.

In the drive, the young sales people signed up 280 new subscribers and also collected 66 renewals.

This helped push The Herald's regular press run to a modern, all-time high — 3,525.

Twelve youths earned Hiawatha bikes and two selected RCA Victor transistor radios. Those who didn't earn premiums each got $1 commissions for every new sub and 25c per renew.

This was the third such circulation promotion.

☆

For eight weeks this summer, The Herald is going to run an experiment.

Beginning with the July 3 edition, we'll leave free copies of our paper on the front porches of 1,000 cottages throughout the Irish Hills resort area.

A dozen or so merchants in town are underwriting the program by paying 10c per copy each week. This covers cost of the additional paper, press time and also distribution charges.

Delivery will be handled by Herald bookkeeper, Mrs. Robert Hunt, who'll take the paper's station wagon early each Thursday morning, accompanied by three or four young people who will act as "jumpers," over a route around six lakes.

The idea, of course, is to draw resorters into Tecumseh to do their shopping. It's a good break for Herald advertisers, who'll have the opportunity to merchandise for vacation trade.

If the program works out well for all concerned this year, we'll incorporate it as an annual thing.

Bert Applegate was surprised and pleased with the Long and Short offering of May 9.

"It isnt every day a man can walk into a newspaper office and then get such a column written about him. It lifted my spirits and strengthened my morale," Bert noted in a letter.

Bert said the story "brought back to memory those wonderful days at Michigan State."

My story said that Bert had been gently nudged out of MSU by the administration, but he corrects me on this point.

"I must do justice to the administration of Michigan State, though, Tom. I was not asked to retire early. It just seemed that way.

"In 1954 I reached the automatic retirement age for those in administration, and President Hannah asked me to remain an additional year while he sought someone to replace me.

"Ralph Young (athletic director) was in the same situation—that same age as I—but President Hannah had a successor selected for that position."

Bert goes on to say, "You can judge for yourself the fun I am

Rates Soar on Collection of Rubbish

Many downtown Tecumseh merchants have rebelled against new —and higher — rates for trash collection now being charged by Dependable Garbage Service, Inc., of Napoleon.

A meeting, which included Dependable's owner, failed to solve differences Monday morning.

Many merchants report collection charges from three to five times the amount previously billed, and some are now planning to have employees haul their trash, or are making other arrangements.

Dependable holds a city contract to haul residential trash and garbage and was supposed to negotiate with businesses for collection rates.

Few, if any merchants were contacted about commercial rates and did not realize until the May billing that collection rates had soared.

GOLFERS SECOND—One of the finest golf teams to represent Tecumseh in a number of years finished second in the state Class B matches Saturday morning at Jackson. Mike Rice, Jim Newell, Dave Blanden and Jack Dick lost but twice in dual matches, were coached by Doug Murdoch. All five will be mising next year. Rice, Blanden and Dick graduate this June, Newell is moving to Marion, O., and Murdoch has accepted a new position near Holland.

Golfers Finish Second in State

Playing steady golf under great pressure, Tecumseh High's golf squad finished second in the Michigan Class B tournament at Jackson Cascades course Saturday.

Kalamazoo University High took the crown.

Mike Rice of Tecumseh fired a 77, taking runner-up medalist honors in the 15-team playoff.

Tecumseh's Jack Dick turned in a 79, Jim Newell an 83 and Dave Blanden an 87.

"The kids played consistent golf," their coach, Doug Murdoch, reported.

The Kalamazoo squad got red hot rounds from its quartet—Bob Hammond, a freshman, Jeff Blankenburg and Tom Schwartz, both sophomores, all posted 78s. John Manske, a senior, turned in an 81.

Best scores were posted by Bob Michalke of Dowagiac and Chuck MacGillivray of Swartz Creek, both of whom had 74s.

☆

SINCE TECUMSEH began to field a team golf in 1958, the Indians have won a state championship, finished second twice—and in a sudden-death playoff with Grand Haven, while also picking up four regional titles.

The Michigan championship squad from THS in 1958 included John Elliott, Dave Lamkin, Dick Baker and Max Smith, Jr.

Library Faces Major Problem in Financing

Voters will decide June 10 whether the Tecumseh Public Library will continue to have their tax support.

The Library Board will ask voters to exchange a 32/100ths mill tax which soon expires for a three-year, 6/100ths mill tax.

The new tax amount would increase the library budget by some $9,700, and allow the library board to restore the drastically-curtailed services cut last December.

Because of a drop in income, the board has been without funds to buy books since the beginnnig of 1963.

In past years, most of the library's income came from state aid. This money has dropped $2,300 in two years and is expected to fall another $1,000 this year.

Coupled with a large increase in use of the library, this means the library has had to cut the services it offered.

Contracts for new books and magazines were canceled, one part-time worker was let go, and other services were cut. Still, the budget will be in the red by some $1,500 by the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Part of the new money would go to erase this debt. Another $2,000 will cover the increase in cost of utilities.

The new building has about four times the floor space of the old library and the cost of heating and lighting it, while more efficient than in the old structure, still is double the former cost.

The new building takes about $4,100 a year for heat and electricity.

☆

WHILE THE income has been going down, use of the library has gone up.

The library serves the same area as that served by the Tecumseh School District, which includes all of the City of Tecumseh, plus all or part of seven townships. Some 15,000 persons live in this area.

In the first 10 months the new library was open, 11,705 persons were counted actually sitting down and using library facilities —either studying, using reference works, reading or listening to records.

In the entire year previous, only 6,028 persons were counted.

Circulation of books and periodicals currently is about 10% above a year ago. The increase was much greater just after the new building opened last September, but dropped off after the beginning of the year, when the purchase of new books was halted.

If the new millage is defeated, the library board still would have the old 32/100ths mill of local taxes. This would allow the library to operate, although still without new books.

However, the old tax, voted in five years ago, expires this year.

☆

WITHOUT at least 3.10th mill in local taxes, the state will not pay any money to suport a library. This means the Tecumseh library would be totally without funds.

This also means a new vote would have to be scheduled next year, and another defeat would mean the library would close.

New Store Will Open During June

A new retail business will open in Tecumseh during early June.

Called Uncle Bill's Vitamins & Cosmetics Distributors, Inc., it is the third store in a chain operation, the other two outlets doing business in Berkley.

The owner, Harold Weinstein of Southfield, says that an intensive survey of small community markets was made in Washtenaw and Lenawee Counties before Tecumseh was chosen.

Mr. Weinstein states that a fourth store will also soon be opened in the Pontiac area.

Uncle Bill's will be located in the corner half of the Pallman Building, which was formerly occupied by the Watkins Shop.

To be self-service, there will be a 25 x 55 feet area for merchandise. Four women will probably be employed, Mr. Weinstein said.

If You're Driving, Do It with Care

Tecumseh area motorists were urged to "drive for a safe holiday" by following six driving tips.

These are offered by the Safety Check committee, which is sponsoring a "Drive Safe Memorial Day" program in co-operation with Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee.

The tips include:

► "Plan a safe drive; allow plenty of time for your holiday travel. On long trips make frequent stops. Arrive relaxed.

► "Be sure your car is safe, drive with good tires, properly adjusted brakes, lights and turn signals operational and windshield wipers functioning properly.

► "Use seat belts whenever and wherever you drive. Seat belts are 'circles of safety' for you and your family.

► "Use courtesy abundantly, resolve to make courtesy your code of the road. It pays!

► "Be alert to hazards, drive in keeping with road, weather and traffic conditions. Remember, most holiday accidents involve drinking and speed too fast for conditions.

► "Watch out for others, make allowances for unpredictable driver and pedestrian actions. Give yourself and others an extra margin of safety."

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

There is an old saying . . . "when worst comes to worst in married life, you will find that something still worse can happen."

Don't know for sure where we read this and maybe we just thought it up . . . but anyway it does not keep people from getting married.

There is something nice about going to weddings. It gives you a sentimental feeling, you forget the problems of the day, the ceremony is impressive, the bride is beautiful, and it makes you sorta feel happy about everything in general.

June, the famous month for wedding is almost here and every day we have customers come in with that "I'm-in-love" look, and we can almost feel the rice and smell the orange blossoms.

While we carry very little to outfit the bridal party, we can see that both the bride and groom are properly attired for the play time on the honeymoon. Whether they are headed for the lake, the mountains or the city we have the sports clothes for them. We all have the problem of a gift. Our suggestion . . . a FLIGHT-LYTE blanket . . . in the past few years we have sold hundreds of these beautiful 100% wool light weight blankets.

This blanket is not only one of the prettiest on the market, but one of the most practical. All brides welcome this gift.

June is also the month for FATHERS DAY, June 16th. Here we can really be of service . . . you can choose from fine Botany cotton sport shirts, knit sport shirts in great variety, bermudas, swim wear, beach wear, sport coats, jackets, slacks, sweaters and many other wanted items.

We are now open seven days a week and it will be our pleasure to have you visit us on the day of your choice.

Congregation Will Travel to New York

"It will be three conventions instead of two for the United States this year," Daniel Kierczak, presiding minister of the Tecumseh Congregation of Jehovah's Witness announced.

This came as a surprise to the congregation as Mr. Kierczak read the announcement from the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, convention sponsors.

"Milwaukee has been added to New York and Los Angeles," Kierczak said. "This became necessary due to limited facilities in New York. The new stadium for the New York Mets baseball club is not completed, and thus the Polo Grounds will not be available for our use," he added.

According to Mr. Kierczak the majority of the congregation will be traveling to New York for the eight-day gathering which will be held July 7-14 in Yankee stadium.

A crowd of 125,000 is expected for the New York meeting.

"This will be our sixth convention in a Yankee stadium since 1950," Mr. Kierczak pointed out.

"Following the New York gathering," he continued, "we will begin a series of conventions around the world. There will be 22 in all which will take some 550 delegates from the United States and Canada in Europe, Asia, Australia, Philippines, Hawaii and back to the United States for the Los Angeles convention in just sixty days."

YOU TOLD US

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

Memorial Day in Tecumseh, with its beautiful heart-warming parade, is a truly inspiring occasion.

For years residents, have been treated to this thrilling experience as they watched carefully drilled units step out to the marching music of the high school band.

It's a long hike for all, from the ladies of the drill team down to the little Cub and Brownie Scouts, but we are so glad that they make the effort.

Certainly every red-blooded American, who is able, will want to come out and get a lump in their throat as they watch Old Glory pass in review and bring to mind the sacrifices of blood made by departed fellow Americans.

√

Duncan Lectka and Don Mason of Michigan State University were in Tecumseh Monday.

√

LaVern Russell returned Monday from Bixby Hospital where he underwent eye surgery.

Indians Win League Track Meet

By JIM LINCOLN

One of the greatest track teams in the history of Tecumseh walked off with the Huron League championship last week at Ypsilanti.

Rolling up 50 points to Ypsilanti-Lincoln's 44, the Indians won three firsts, three seconds, two thirds, four fourths and two fifths.

Feature of the meet was Dan Greene's vault of 13'1¾" breaking the school and meet marks, which were also held by Greene.

The 13-foot leap was the best recorded by any Class B vaulter in the state this year, and is over five inches above the state record.

Jay Osburn, running the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.1, took a first with Steve Derby third.

The Indians 880 relay team—Jim Johnson, Derby, Osburn, Tim Collins—won in the time of 1:36.3.

☆

OTHER POINT winners were: Bill Thomas (2nd) and Steve Fretwell (4th) in the shot put.

Kirk Lucas (5th), broad jump.

Johnson (4th), 100-yard dash.

Derby (2nd) and Osburn (4th), low hurdles.

Johnson (4th) and Tim Collins (5th), 220-yard dash.

Dave Lemerand (3rd), 880-yard run.

Tecumseh mile relay team — Greene, John Clark, Jim Brown, and Lemerand — 2nd place.

Following Tecumseh and Lincoln, were Milan 38 points, Grosse Ile 32, Flat Rock 24, Blissfield 21, Dundee 8, and Airport 1.

UP, OVER - CHAMP ! ! — Dan Greene, one of the most versatile athletes ever to wear the Orange and Black, added another feather in his cap Saturday at Ann Arbor by winning the Class B pole vault championship. This week's Lenawee County Invitational Meet ended Greene's prep career, which also included four years on the varsity football team (one of the tri-captains last fall) and three years on the varsity basketball team. He hopes to be a freshman this fall at Michigan State.

Beevers	8	4

THS Leads Meet

Tecumsehs strong track squad opened the annual Lenawee County Invitational Track Meet at Adrian Monday by winning three of four field events.

Working in the rain, Jim Johnson hit his prep high in the broad jump, going 20'4".

Dan Greene found the rain troublesome, but still managed a first with a vault of 12', far below his average.

Bill Thomas won the shot put at 46'9".

With three firsts already won, Tecumseh was a big favorite to event.

Gale Mikles Is Speaker

A sports banquet on Thursday, June 6 at the high school cafeteria, will be held in honor of the Indians basketball, baseball, track and golf teams.

Dr. Gale Mikles, chairman of the physical education department and assistant athletic director at Michigan State University, will be the principal speaker.

The public may buy tickets at Eggleston's Jewelry or at the high school.

Greene New State 'B' Pole Vault Champion

Dan Greene won the state Class B pole vault title Saturday at University of Michigan's Ferry Field, but failed to crack the Class B mark as local track fans had hoped he might.

The state mark of 12'8" was expected to fall since Greene had topped the record several times, even going 13'1¾" in the Huron League meet last week at Ypsilanti. His winning vault Saturday was 12'6".

A first in the pole vault coupled with a sixth in the mile relay gave Coach Don Brazee's team nine points in the state meet, which was won by River Rouge.

The relay team of Jim Johnson, Greene, Jay Osburn and Dave Lemerand romped away with their heat of the event, winning by at least 20 years. Time of 3:37.1 is a school record.

Johnson, qualifier for the broad jump, leaped 19'11" and just missed the finals.

Bill Thomas, sophomore shot putter, hit over 46' and missed the finals by about four feet.

Moonlight and Old Henry Ford

SECOND SECTION
TECUMSEH HERALD
THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1963

By RONALD CORL
As told by Melvin Travis

Michigan history is full of unusual and interesting stories about people and places. One of these might be titled "Moonlight and Henry Ford."

It was sometime during a bright moonlight night and a full moon shone down on a rolling country side. A new 1930 Model A Ford moved slowly down a dusty country road.

As the car entered a little village it came to a stop by the side of the road. Everything was peaceful and quiet as four well-dressed men stepped out of the car.

They examined the country side and the houses about them. As they walked and talked they came upon an old two-story brick store building.

Suddenly, one of the men became particularly interested in it as he walked around and around the building, studying it carefully.

The front part was a two-story brick, but it had been built on [illegible] story cobble stone structure.

☆

FINALLY THE man stood in back of the building looking and thinking. After a few moments he spoke.

"I almost believe that before the front part of this building was built on, this was the old community school house. I want you men to find out for sure—and everything else about it that you can."

The man was the late Henry Ford. The building in question had been the Pennington Old Stone School, built in 1851.

The year was 1930, and, as many of the local residents remember, Henry Ford was at that time buying up large quantities of farm land in and around the northeast corner of Lenawee County.

For some time, Mr. Ford had been sending buyers out from Detroit to purchase as much farm land as they could.

Cash was paid for the land and buildings, but the original owners were given a life lease to the house and yards. Henry Ford had an idea—for a brainstorm as some might have called it. He was going to take down the fences of the purchased property, make one big farm and raise soybeans.

The soybeans would be used to make plastic, and the plastic would then be used in the manufacture of automobiles.

☆

MR. FORD even had visions of making the entire car body out of plastic, since this lightweight material would not dent or rust.

The plastic automobile body never really became a production reality, but Mr. Ford's huge soybean farm and all that went with it did.

One of these things was the restoration of many of the one room school houses located on the property he bought (and in particular the cobble stone school house in Macon.)

During the buying of land to be used as his soybean farm, Mr. Ford was not too anxious for anyone to know that he was doing the buying.

My guess is, he didn't want the prices to go too high, which they well might have if the people had known that the wealthy Mr. Henry Ford was the buyer.

It was for this reason that he did not want to appear on the scene, at least during daylight. However, he did want to see and examine what he had bought, and so, on clear, bright, moonlight nights he and his aides came out from Detroit to have a look around.

It was on such a night as this that the rebirth of the Old Stone School in Macon began.

☆

WHEN IT WAS definitely learned that the building in question was the Old Stone School, excavation and restoration proceedings were begun.

Any part of the old building which was not an original part of the old school house was torn down or taken off. When this was done, the school house was rebuilt to look as it had some 70 years earlier.

However, duplicating the old school house, inside and out was not a simple matter. Only two or three of the local residents were still alive who had attended school in the old school house and they could remember very little of what the building was like.

Finally, Mr. L. R. Hatch, a local resident, who now and then accompanied Mr. Ford on his rounds of his property, suggested a retired school teacher in Toledo who might be of help.

The teacher had often talked with Mr. Hatch about the old Macon School. His descriptions had been so detailed that Mr. Hatch felt sure the teacher could be of help.

It wasn't long before Mr. Ford was discussing and explaining to the teacher his desires to restore the old school. The school teacher agreed to help and before long the old Macon School was a reality.

The school teacher was Jerome Travis, father Melvin Travis, the man who told me the story.

☆

SCHOOL OPENED in the fall of 1931 and the school house looked like a picture in a Michigan History book. Almost exact replicas of the solid black walnut desks were in their proper places.

A teacher's desk and chair like the one used some 70 years earlier was at the front of the room.

An American flag hung on a pole standing to one side and in back of the desk. Behind it was a black slate chalk board.

On opening day people waited outside to take their first look. An almost forgotten page and scene in Michigan History was about to be reinacted.

The oldest living member and one-time student in the original school, Ella Pennington Cotton, raised the flag to the top of the pole outside. The teacher rang the bell and school was in session. The children took their seats and class began.

The teacher Mr. Ford had hired was none other than the man who had helped make this possible, Jerome Travis. He and Mr. Travis, also a school teacher, taught for six years, handling 12 grades in that one-room school house.

☆

THE MACON SCHOOL, like all the rest of the schools that Henry Ford restored and put into operation, was well taken care of. Free medical, hospital, and dental care were given to all the students.

Although he stressed the teaching of reading, writing, and arithmetic, Mr. Ford would send out music and dance instructors to teach the children.

It is often told by those who attended his schools, that from time to time Mr. Ford, himself, would pay the school a visit and join in the activities.

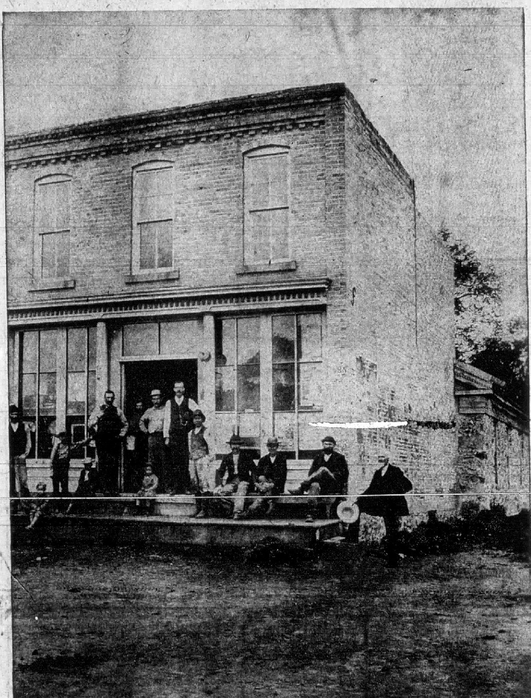

As the years went by Mr. Ford's health began to wane, so did his interest and activity in his school program.

The school in Macon, which had been expanded in later years by using several other buildings to add an arts and crafts and a vocational program, was discontinued.

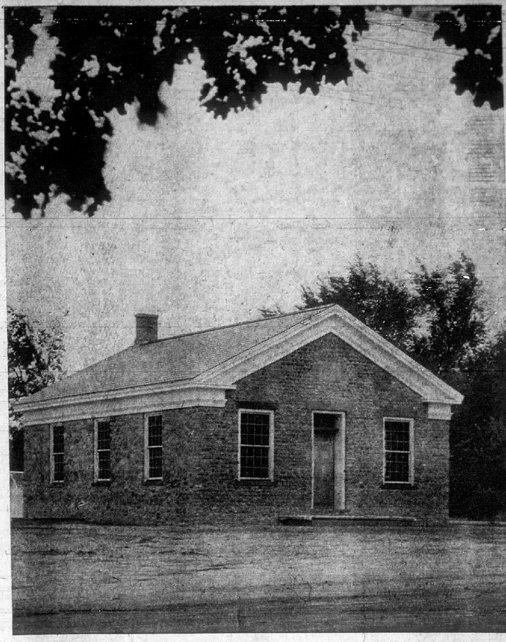

After Mr. Ford's death in 1947 the farm land, the schools and other buildings were sold.

Today the old Macon School is now the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards.

The Old Stone School is no more, but it is still remembered by many who learned their ABC's in the school that Henry Ford found in the moonlight.

Mrs. Ken Hunter Attends Meeting

Mrs. Kenneth Hunter was a guest at the home of Mrs. Donald Baker in Clinton for the May meeting of the Raisin Green Bees Extension Club.

Mrs. Stanley Dermyer, project leader, presented the lesson on "Herbs." Use of herbs in everyday cooking to make common meals tasty was stressed and some old-fashioned medicinal uses of herbs were given.

This being the last formal business meeting of the extension year, the group decided to go to the Old German Restaurant in Ann Arbor June 17 for the "Annual Eat Out.'

Members may call the chairman, Mrs. Robert Beevers, if they cannot go, otherwise members are to meet at the Clinton Country Market between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

The roll call for the month was answered when everyone brought a topping for the pizza pies that the group made with the help of the hostess, Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. Kenneth Hunter won the mystery gift made by Mrs. Wynne Matteson.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Three Michigan businessmen have just returned from a three-week trip to Europe which produced evidence that Mich[illegible]n's economic future could well have a foreign-tinted silver lining.

L. William Seidman, Richard M. Gillett and Herbert G. Daverman all from Grand Rapids conducted a whirlwind reconnaissance of the European Economic Community that took them to Switzerland, Belgium, the Netherlands, West Germany, France, England and Portugal.

With the built-in advantage of a small group, they cut through red tape to squeeze more than 50 frank and informal discussions into their packed itinerary.

They talked to mayors, economic ministers, financiers, importers, exporters, foreign service officers, manufacturers, brokers and professional men.

In their report to me, these forward-looking businessmen outlined the history of the Common Market and the steps Michigan should be taking to capitalize upon the enormous trade potential which it affords.

☆

CREATED IN 1957 by the Treaty of Rome, the European Economic Community (more often called the Common Market) includes West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

It is a loosely-knit union which resembles in some respects the original American colonies. Although its base is an economic one, it has developed a political and social superstructure.

The underlying theory of the common market embodies a philosophy to which I have long adhered: That individuals, groups and nations can achieve the greatest progress by subordinating their separate interests to the purposes they hold in common.

The expression of this ideal in the reality of the Common Market has worked well—so well, in fact, that within the market's boundaries there is little unemployment, the market has a greater annual growth rate than the United States, and the 170 million people who comprise it are tasting prosperity for the first time in generations.

Although the Common Market has had its difficulties, there seems to be little doubt in the minds of Michigan's economic scouts that its future is bright.

☆

WHAT CAN Michigan do to extract full advantage from the opportunities of the Common Market? Here are their suggestions:

► Michigan businessmen must recognize the European market as part of their sales territory. But to succeed, they must bring something special to the market.

► Michigan communities might explore the possibility of attracting capital investment by Common Market industrialists, emphasizing the advantage of low interest costs on loans for industrial expansion.

► Encourage investment by Michigan industrialists abroad. This need not necessarily deprive Michigan citizens of jobs, since foreign-based Michigan firms often import parts made in Michigan for assembly overseas.

► Michigan can and should apply more thought and energy to attracting European tourists, capitalizing on the increasing pressures which Europe's population is exerting on its limited recreational space.

☆

SEIDMAN, Gillett and Daverman outlined ways in which the state could assist businessmen in capitalizing on the Common Market and I am giving these recommendations careful study.

Some of the possibilities they suggested were formation of a small but enthusiastic corps of Michigan foreign trade ambassadors, the improvement of Michigan's seaway ports, the investment of state money to attract European tourists, making the soon-to-be revamped Economic Development Department especially responsive to the needs and inquiries of European businessmen.

Motorboat Registrations Are Snagged

Hundreds of motorboat owners fail to get a prompt return on the motorboat registrations they mail to Lansing because they make one or two common errors in their applications.

Secretary of State James M. Hare points out that these incorrect applications are not only frustrating to the boat owner who wants to get his craft into the water but are costly to the State as well.

"One unfortunate error,' Hare said, "is that many applications come in on obsolete forms in use three years ago when the MC series of numeral identifications began. At that time the law required a $2 fee.

"New legislation has now raised the fee to $3 for a three-year registration. When a boat owner sends in a check for $2, we must get in touch with him and remind him to send the extra dollar."

"The law," Mr. Hare added, "forbids us to process the registration until we have the proper fee in our office. All of this correspondence takes time, costs money, and makes for a lot of needless delay and concern.

"For that reason, I'd like to remind boat owners that the 1963-65 application blank is of a yellowish hue, that registration costs three dollars, and that it is good for three years."

11 Teachers Leave City School System

The coming school year will see a turn-over of at least 11 teachers in the Tecumseh system.

In the high school, John Bacon, who has taught English here for two years, is leaving to accept a position in Plymouth.

Robert Rogers, a math teacher, has resigned after one year in Tecumseh.

Edward Sergent, who came during the first semester to teach social studies, is going back to school for his master's degree.

While at Michigan State University he will be a resident advisor in one of the boys' dorms.

Douglas Murdoch has accepted a teaching and coaching position in West Ottawa, a suburb of Holland.

Mrs. John Bacon is leaving the junior high after teaching English for one year. She does not plan to continue teaching.

☆

IN THE elementary schools several teachers are leaving.

At Patterson Mrs. Bertram Updike is retiring after 34 years of teaching.

Doris Heckert, a sixth grade teacher, is also leaving. Mrs. Charles Knapp, a first grade teacher at Tecumseh Acres has resigned.

Mrs. James Bleesner, a third grade teacher at Tecumseh Acres, is moving to California. Two special education teachers at Sutton School, John Dempsey and Clarence Long, have also resigned.

☆

THIS LEAVES three social studies positions and one English position open in the high school.

In the junior high school there are three combination positions open:

► English-foreign language.

► Social studies-group guidance

► English-art

There are no positions open at this time in the elementary grades.

Marda Gene Duncan's

THROUGH MY WINDOW

OUR RECORD IS CLEAN

To fully appreciate this, you must know two things about me first. I do not wake up well in the morning, becoming fully conscious is a several hour's struggle, and second, the exception to the above statement occurs at Christmas-time and vacation-time. Well, we are in the exciting second phase now, this year's trip is near.

The other morning the folks were amused, but not surprised, to find me wide awake and 'rairing to go' at six-fifteen. (Ugh, my normal self winces at the thought.)

There was no use wasting a beautiful morning, so Mom whisked open the drapes. I did not have time to comment on the weather 'til she started exclaiming.

There was a bird in the yard, rather large, extremely handsome and oh, bless his heart, he flew up into the wren-tree.

A call to Dad and the bed was whisked around to where my view was perfect. A rose-breasted grosbeak!

I am not about to cultivate the habit but, I must admit that at this season, early morning is a beautiful time of day.

Everything is so fresh and new-looking but, of course, that is spring. And, can you imagine a more exciting way to start a perfect day than by seeing a rose-breasted grosbeak — I can't.

☆

HE WAS, as we said before, sitting in the wren-tree. The leaves, just beginning to show their maple-leaf shape, were a yellowish-green and the spot he chose was bright with sunlight.

What a perfect background and imagine, it was not more than 10 feet from the window.

Handsome is hardly adequate — his black head and back, black and white wings, and white tummy were set off to perfection by his bright rosy-red cravat.

Later in the day, Ida and I spied what looked to be a large, in fact extremely large, pretty sparrow.

No — a second look showed plainly that this was no overgrown sparrow. She was much too pretty; the markings on her head and breast too distinctive and that heavy broad bill could belong to no-one but Mrs. Rose-breasted Grosbeak. Wow, quite a full day.

☆

OUR EXPERIENCES with the glorious rosy-breasted grosbeaks have, to say the least, been peculiar.

With the exception of last year, we have for many years seen Mr. Handsome and his wife, once each spring—but just once.

Wouldn't you think that sometime they could make a mistake or couldn't their time-table get out of order?

These are exciting birds. We would just love to have more than one sighting per year.

So it is that thanks to our up-coming vacation which gets me up early these days, we have seen this year's rose-breasted grosbeak and our record is clean.

NOTE: My, speak of the power of THE HERALD; What more can one ask than to receive action on a request even before the article appears in print!

Thursday we dictated the above and Friday the beautiful rose-breasted grosbeaks visited us again.

Adding thrills to thrills they were back again Saturday and with an addition. Three females and three elegant males—nice to have things evened up.

Our record of one sighting per year has now been broken and we couldn't be happier!

For All We Hold Sacred ... Attend Church

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor [illegible] building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Memories in the Making

A picture . . . a frame . . . to treasure always. So she believes!

The fleeting baby smile, the outgrown pair of baby shoes—these she'll always treasure.

But in later years not every mother can point with pride to her son's baby picture. Memories sometimes become tarnished with remorse.

So much depends on us.

If we hope always to treasure our glimpse of yesterday . . . we must carve with spiritual tools our vision of tomorrow.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: I'll be 65 in September and will retire on September 30. How soon after that should I apply for my social security?

ANSWER: You should apply for social security 2 or 3 months before your retirement date. This will allow ample time to complete the details of your claim, and will insure that your first check is issued without delay.

QUESTION: Is there any way I can find out how much social security will pay me, so I can decide if I can afford to quit working?

ANSWER: Your social security office will be glad to check your account for you and tell you what your social security benefit will be. In fact, it's a good idea to talk with a representative while you are just beginning to think about retirement. He can tell you approximately how much your benefit will be at 65, and what it will be if you decide to retire before 65. He can also tell you what proofs you will need when you file your claim. And by checking in advance, you can help your social security office to speed your first check to you.

QUESTION: Friends have been telling me I should file for social security because I'm past 65 years old. I just don't see why I should, because I'm still working and don't plan to quit.

ANSWER: You should at least talk to a social security representative—and maybe make an application even though you are still working. In many cases it is possible to pay some benefits for a year, even though a person works in every month. This is so because of the way in which benefits are withheld because of employment. If you earn $1200 or less for the year, all benefits are paid. For earnings over $1200 and up to $1700, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 you earn. For earnings over $1700, benefits are withheld on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Depending on your monthly benefit amount, and the wages you expect to earn this year, it might be possible to pay you for part of the year. The only way to find out for sure is to check with your social security office. If your work is seasonal, you can be paid a benefit for any month you do not work in self-employment and do not earn over $100 in wages, no matter what your total earnings are for the year. In this case, you should apply so that you can be paid for the months you do not work.

QUESTION: My maid works for me one-half day a week and I pay her $4.00 a week. Do I have to pay social security taxes on her wages?

ANSWER: Yes, if you pay her $50 or more cash wages in a calendar quarter.

QUESTION: How do I report the taxes due on my maid's wages and how often?

ANSWER: You report them at the end of each calendar quarter to the District Director of Internal Revenue. Ask your local social security office for Booklet 21 that explains this more fully.

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Water Supply Endangered

Oh so gradually, the wheels are starting in motion on the River Raisin Watershed reclamation project.

It will take years to complete, but at least we can be happy in the knowledge that the first official hurdle has been cleared.

After a careful study was made by a state-appointed committee of six, the word came through that this would make an acceptable undertaking—which means government participation in know-how and money.

Water is a precious commodity and only when it runs in short supply do we suddenly wake up to this fact.

A few Sundays back The Detroit News carried an enlightening editorial on the subject. It helps point up to us how fortunate this area will be with the Raisin program. In part, The News said:

This nation, of all nations, relatively new, with its storied rivers, vast inland lakes and great waterfalls has been universally envied for its seemingly bounteous store of water.

Let us look at the ugly truth—including the ugly facts facing Michigan.

In 1959, the U.S. Senate created a select committee to study the nation's water resources. It held extensive hearings, sometimes surprisingly with standing room only, in all parts of the country. It found water problems almost universal.

Four thoughtful members of that committee, including Sen. Phil Hart, added a supplement to the committee's findings. In it they said:

"We face a water crisis that threatens to limit economic growth, undermine living standards, endanger health and jeopardize national security. We live on the edge of water bankruptcy — so close to the edge that in the recent period of subnormal precipitation, one-fourth of the nation was rationed for water. Water is now available for vital additional uses. The free water frontier is passed."

Investigators agreed the United States has water sufficient for current needs. But not for growth. And they foresaw municipal water systems doubling their demands by 1980 and industries tripling theirs in the same period.

The report read as if it might have been written of water famine in arid regions of the West long ago. Instead, the committee found the mounting concern over water supply was more apparent in the humid East and South where industry was gulping the gallonage and populations were polluting the once inexhaustible reservoirs.

Those of us in Michigan, looking out over 94,000 square miles of inland seas, must be shaken from complacency.

Two floating scientific laboratories have been patrolling the Lower Lakes, seeking the cause of their sudden aging, the choking of their shores and channels with vegetation.

A report on their findings will be made locally this summer. They promise to be dramatic and alarming. Disaster has been building slowly and in spite of warning voices. Only concerted action by governmet and people at all levels can avert it.

Some hint of things to come could be heard from a conference of experts arranged by the Universities of Michigan and Toronto in 1962.

Scientists talked of a time when pollution could bring stagnation to the Great Lakes, when the 30 million residents around the lakes now would be doubled and dependent on rain water catch basins.

Our major parties disagree on the extent and degree of federal financing and supervision of public projects. But both concede the government must step in with responsibility where problems are too vast for local solution.

This applies to water, a universal element of life unconfined by state borders or municipal jurisdiction. Pollution released in the Detroit River today is at Toledo tomorrow. Much of Minnesota's rainfall reaches Mississippi. A plant poisoning the waters at Pittsburgh pollutes the water systems of a score of cities.

The Senate's study committee estimated roughly $200 million must be spent to protect the nation's water supply, provide adequate sewage systems and avert the threat of a water famine within the next two generations.

It conceded lack of guidelines, of basic scientific data, and voices its apprehension of public complacency.

Here is an immediate threat as real as that of the cold war, of nuclear oblivion — and much closer to home.

Water means life to Eastern people and Western people and Midwestern farms and industry.

To use it as a regional weapon would ill become a Westerner whose domain so long has been the recipient of huge grants for reclamation and public power projects.

The core of the problem, once the course to its solution is determined, will be financing.

That will demand federal help and uniform federal controls for water protection. Forty years of experience in Michigan should prove that.

A plant ordered to cease stream pollution has an edged economic weapon in these days of competition for industry. It threatens to move elsewhere. It would lose that weapon in a nation of uniform pollution laws.

A city cited for water pollution now pleads poverty. A federal matching loan plan to finance sewage treatment could force a showdown on reluctant communities.

Without water, talk of a rocketing gross national project is empty.

Without water, recreation plans for future generations are idle. Once without water, the nation is without a future.

In all this Michigan has a triple stake. It is a state in which manufacturing is the No. 1 industry.

Its second biggest industry is tourism. And this state sits in a water treasury fast fading before polluted beaches, waste oils from lake traffic, sewage-plugged feeder streams.

Michigan, along with the nation, wants intelligent action now. Otherwise the "Water Wonderland" of today becomes the "water wasteland" of tomorrow.

Why Not Every Day?

There are at least 17 days a year that flags should be flown—probably topped by Memorial Day, which comes Thursday.

On Memorial Day, the bunting should be kept at half staff until noon, in honor of the war dead.

Other major flag holidays include:

New Year's Day, Jan. 1
Inauguration Day, Jan. 20
Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12
Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22
Easter Sunday
Armed Forces Day, Third Saturday in May
Mother's Day, Second Sunday in May Flag Day, June 14
Independence Day, July 4
Labor Day, First Monday in Sept.
Citizenship Day, Sept. 17
Columbus Day, Oct. 12
Veterans Day, Nov. 11
Thanksgiving Day, Fourth Thursday in Nov.
Christmas Day, December 25
Birthdays of State
Michigans—Jan. 26

Be proud you are an American — fly your flag every day!

'Dignity of Man' Wins

One of the most interesting — and probably far reaching — votes of recent years was last week's wheat control balloting.

Farmers were asked to make a choice between absolutely air-tight controls over wheat or to drop the shackles of Washington.

To add a bizzare twist, the secretary of agriculture used all the dollar-sign, pressure he could, telling farmers they'd get $2 per bushel in support if they voted "yes" and probably half that if they said "no."

Throughout the issue was interwoven still another twist, which we like to refer to as "the dignity of man." As we said editorially several weeks ago, farmers are concerned citizens who realize Washington's endless horn-of-plenty can't be endless at all.

Men of the soil realized that the continued give-away has got to be stemmed sometime. This newspaper advised, as did many other publications, that the wheat proposal should be defeated.

Michigan wheat growers made their feelings felt emphatically, as did those across much of the nation. Nationally, the "no" side won 596,943 to 547,151.

In Michigan the issue was voted down, 61,006 to 15,483. Lenawee County farmers said "no", 2,408 to 453. Remainder of the breakdown in the area was equally as impressive on the "dignity of man" side.

	NO	YES
Tecumseh-Clinton Area	110	17
Franklin Area	115	28
Macon Area	102	23
Raisin Area	77	21
Ridgeway Area	129	24

There can be no question as to general attitude toward the proposed wheat support idea.

This paper was reasonably certain the vote in this area would go the way it did and we congratulate the farmers for their decisive action.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

For some reason, par[illegible] usually make me cry.

Especially the annual Memorial Day event in Tecumseh, which stacks up with any all across this land,, I'll wager.

For me there's a rising excitement as the time draws near and then off in the distance, the sound of the high school band playing starts.

By the time the sprightly young majorettes and the sharpmarching musicians reach the Four Corners, the tears are starting to form.

Does this happen to you, too?

Then the units began moving by, the color guards, the Scouts, floats, junior bands, vehicles, visiting drum and bugle corps, mounted detachment, decorated bikes.

Everyone seems to enjoy our parade so much, the folks in it and the spectators lining the length of Chicago Blvd. and Union St.

For the older folks there are memories of loved ones and buddies who once wore uniforms, some who lay asleep forever in far away lands.

But the tears just won't stop for me as I watch the youngsters stride happily along. These are the future citizens of our nation and it would seem a mighty stable lot.

Some suggestions about future parades have been made and these are passed along for consideration by city officials.

► Public address system.

It's annually loaned at no charge, for which the city is grateful. But it would seem Tecumseh should have one with more speakers, mounted high on trees at the cemetery Memorial Day The same system could also be loaned to the school for football games and the annual band festival.

► Parking

This probably should be prohibited along N. Union, at least in front of the cemetery and probably all the way from Chicago, thus offering more viewing area and also eliminating serious congestion at the end of the line of march.

► Brass

That is, from the rifles which fire the traditional salute as the empty casings are ejected after each volley, a mass of youngsters leap forward to pounce on the souvenirs.

To eliminate this, how about stationing a detail of Boy Scouts, in uniform, around the riflemen? Their job would be to hold everyone back until the ceremony is complete.

Without a doubt, Tecumseh's Memorial Day parade is one of the community's finest traditions.

Library Millage, School Posts Up for Vote

Voters in the Tecumseh school district will decide two issues and elect two board members next Monday, at the polls in the high school cafeteria.

The electorate is being asked to approve a small hike in millage for the library, from .32 mills to .6 mill.

Although the public library comes under the jurisdiction of the school board, it is managed completely by a library board, which a few months ago asked school officials to request voters for a small millage increase.

The increase will be used to purchase books, periodicals and for operation.

Second issue before the voters is the request to transfer approximatey $160 from the Ridgeway debt fund to the schools' general fund.

Unless approval is given, the schools cannot use the money, including depositing it for simple interest at a bank. The money would lay dormant, possibly forever, in a fund no longer active or in use unless the vote is OKed.

With exception of the library millage issue, most interest centers around the race for two seats on the school board of four years each.

Dr. Richard Dustin, incumbent, is seeking re-election. Others in the race are William K. Brown, Dr. William Adams, Edward Van Sickle, Raymond Jackson and Marvin Nelson.

Pictures, biographies and statements by the candidates are on page three.

School officials Tuesday were still concerned with whether voting machines or paper ballots will be used. The re-count in the state constitution vote has frozen the machines for other elections until the recount is completed.

STARTS FIRST JOB—Sandra Burkhead, a serious 20-year-old, has begun her first paying position, handling telephone calls in Tecumseh for Goodwill Industries. Sandra, who'll earn 25c for each one she logs, operates from a wheelchair in her home. She has never been able to walk.

Home Owner's Tax Would Increase $4.50

"How much will it cost me?" is the question when a new tax is discussed.

The proposed Tecumseh library tax which will be voted on Monday is for 6/10ths of a mill.

Broken down into "real money," here is what it would cost typical taxpayers.

CITY RESIDENT

A typical house, with three bedroom, kitchen, living room, bath and perhaps an attached garage, has a market value of $15,000. City assessor Cal Zorn would assess it at $6,000.

State equalization would take the home's value to $7,500. This is the figure against which taxes are levied.

This homeowner would pay $4.50 a year for the library.

FARM OWNER

A typical farm with 100 acres of land, a barn, one or more other outbuildings, and a house, has a market value of some $30,000.

Raisin Townshp Supervisor James Mitchell would assess this at about $7,500.

State equalization would make this just over $15,000.

This farm owner would pay $9 a year for the library.

Although the cost to the typical farm owner would be greater, it was pointed out that he is a businessman, and his farm represents income to him.

The typical homeowner's house brings in no money.

For Our Faith in God

Edward Gomez was a Marine Corps private in the Korean war with a premonition of death. He wrote a letter to his mother two days before he was killed, the Rev. Blair Bashore told the audience attending Memorial Day services at Brookside Cemetery.

Edward died a hero, falling on a grenade to spare his fellow marines. For this, he received a Congressional Medal of Honor.

His final written words were those of a patriot.

"I am not sorry I died," he had penned the note to his mother, apparently realizing death was near. "Because I died fighting for my country. Tell dad I died like the man he wanted me to be.

"And remind the kids once in a while — fight only for what you believe in. That's what I'm fighting for."

This is a statement to remember today, the speaker added.

"For America, for our posterity, for our Faith in God, let's fight only for what we believe in," the Baptist minister went on.

"Let's keep the stones of our memorials in place, knowing what we stand for, by practicing understanding and by an abiding faith in God," the speaker concluded.

Mayor Harold Easton served as master of ceremony, the Rev. Dr. Laszlo Gero gave the invocation and benediction. The mayor lauded Richard Beasley, who was this year's parade marshall.

Chicago Blvd. and Union St. were lined on both sides by spectators and the cemetery was jammed with about 1,000.

Music was furnished by the Tecumseh High School band, the THS Cadet Band, the Junior High musical unit and the Ida Drum and Bugle Corps.

City officials and cars bearing wreaths to honor war dead led the march, followed with Legionnaries and VFW units, Scouts, decorated bikes and horsemen.

Marvin J. Nelson was born in Williamston in 1934. He graduated from Owosso High School and attended Michigan State University, majoring in electrical engineering two years .

He is employed by IBM as a customer engineer, with Tecumseh Products his main responsibility.

"They are the bus system, of course; the administration; and most of all, the school's public relations.

"I have the backing of my company and of my family in seeking to be elected to this office. I have experience in most levels of school affairs."

WILLIAM J. ADAMS, DDS

Born in 1924, he is a graduate of Linden High School and holds degrees from Michigan State University (BS), Western Michigan University (MA) and University of Michigan (DDS).

☆

DR. ADAMS stated,

"I firmly believe that no other i[illegible] surpasses our public school system in importance today.

"As parents and responsible citizens we have an obligation to provide for our youngsters the opportunity to acquire the kind of education necessary to our way of life.

"Our schools need competent leadership; leadership that is unbiased; leadership that can decide issues, formulate plans, and make decisions based on careful study, logic and reason.

"Only through teamwork fostered by mutual understanding and respect can it be possible for our school leaders effectively to maintain a superior and progressive public school system in Tecumseh."

RICHARD E. DUSTIN, MD

Running for another term on the board of education, Dr. Richard E. Dustin, physician and surgeon, was born in Pioneer, O. in 1919.

He graduated from Ravenna High School and received his bachelor's degree at Hiram College in Hiram, O. He holds an MD degree from Ohio State University.

"Increasing demand for students with advanced education necessitates training our children in the best way possible to meet the challenges of life.

"A good education is the best heritage we will be able to provide for our children ,and their ability to learn to think for themselves with the proper educational background is the hope and basis of our American way of life.

"I have four children in the public schools at the present time. It is my desire to see them acquire the best possible education we can make available.

"I am still opposed to deficit financing, and do not believe that even an adequate basic education can be furnished the children of the Tecumseh School District without continuation of some voted millage for operation of the schools."

EDWARD C. VANSICKLE

Edward C. VanSickle was born in 1930 in Adrian. He was graduated from Adrian High School.

He is also a graduate electronics technician from the Radio Electronic Technician School in Toledo.

He was an officer in the Sutton Booster Club and was active in the annexation of Sutton District with Tecumseh schools.

He also was active in getting better school facilities at the West Branch School, where children from his area are attending classes this year.

☆

MR. VANSICKLE stated,

"Regarding educational philosophy, it would be simple to say. "the best possible education at the lowest possible cost:" however; this is not always an easy thing to do.

"Education is the very backbone of our country and if our country is to survive as a democracy, we must have a well-educated nation.

"Some of our students, for one reason or another, will not be able to attend college. Therefore, we must have a broad educational program in our schools, such as training for machinists and technicians of all types, along with good college preparatory courses.

"In the past, some of the elementary grades have been cut to a half day schedule. I feel that the very basis of a child's education is learned in the elementary grades, and that this is not the place to cut down on any class time.

"If a cut-back is necessary, due to lack of funds, I feel that extra-curricular activities should be eliminated in preference to the basic educational needs of our students."

RAYMOND R. JACKSON

Ray Jackson, born in 1934, has been a resident of this school district all his life. He is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and employed in supervision at Tecumseh Products Co.

Mr. Jackson and his wife, Connie, reside in Tipton at 4305

He was a member of the Citizens Advisory Group of the Tecumseh Public Schools for 1961-'62.

He stated, "I believe our children should have the best education possible at the lowest possible cost.

"Education is the sum being of all knowledge, it is the foundation of our society and has been the power which has made our democracy strong.

"The future of our nation will depend upon how well we educate our children today."

WILLIAM K. BROWN

Bill Brown was born at Dayton, O. in 1929. He moved with his family to Tecumseh in 1934, has been a resident of this area ever since.

He graduated from Tecumseh High School and received his bachelor's degree at Michigan State University.

Mr. Brown and his wife, Anna, live two miles east of Tecumseh on Hendershot Hwy., with their five children, four of whom attend Tecumseh District Schools.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of Lenawee County Cattle Feeders Association and the Michigan Agriculture Conference and president of Michigan Cattle Feeders Association.

He also is vice-president and member of the board of Michigan Livestock Improvement Association and a member of Michigan Farm Manager and Rural Appraisers Association.

☆

MR. BROWN stated,

"Of great importance in a child's development is the kind of education he receives. We must provide the best education we can, so that the students will be able to meet the demands of adult life, considering thoughtfully that our concern today with crowded colleges, automation and expanding leisure will be even greater for the children now in school.

"I feel that we should stress the basic courses, keeping abreast of new teaching methods and techniques. A good education needs not be the most expensive.

"We must furnish this education by means of an efficient school system. There can not be any waste or needless spending.

This calls for careful management in a business that spends one million dollars annually.

"The Board of Education should have a representative from the rural area. Approximately one-third of the local revenue comes from outside Tecumseh city limits."

VOICE OF THE HERALD

It's Your Choice

You have a choice next Monday.

You can finish a good job you started five years ago, or you can sit by and watch your time, effort and money wasted.

For several years you have worked hard and given generously to the Tecumseh United Fund Drive each fall, so you'd have enough money left over for a needed community project.

That money, collected from thousands of citizens in this area, built the Tecumseh Public Library.

But the job is not yet done. The library would be an empty monument, without the money to run it.

Next Monday, June 10, you will be asked to approve a small tax for the library. You did this once before, but the five-year limit on the tax expires this year.

Unless you vote to support your library, it will have to close. There's no hope from state funds. They are denied to communities which won't give their tax support to their library.

No local tax — no state aid.

You seem to like your new library. More of you and more of your children are using it.

Taxes are never popular. Lately it seems they are getting turned down more than ever.

But there are few bargains like your library. You had help from generous donors in building it. State funds will pay more than a third of the operating costs.

The tax — less than one mill — can bring a world of entertainment and information.

Say "Yes" Monday at the polls.

Tecumseh Youth To Spend Summer in Swedish Home

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Bruce King won't be in the city for graduation ceremonies with his class at Tecumseh High School Sunday, June 16.

But he'll still get the coveted diploma.

On June 14, Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, Jr., 411 S. Adrian St., will leave Detroit Metropolitan Airport with more than 500 young people on a mission under the auspices of the

ANDERS EDIN

"Youth for Understanding Program" of the Ann Arbor-Washtenaw Council of Churches.

Bruce selected Sweden as the country he most wished to visit this summer and recently the Kings received a letter from his host parents, Mr. and Mrs.Astrid Edin of Stenungsund.

☆

THEY EXTENDED a warm welcome and told of plans made by their two sons, Anders and Mats, to show their visitor the country, including Stockholm, some 300 miles from their home.

Their letter reads in part, "You may have heard that Anders has a scholarship from the Youth for Understanding program which allows him to attend a school in Michigan for one year.

"Mats has an American Field Service Scholarsthip to the United States for one year, too. He will live in Warren, Pa.

"We are much impressed with the work the United States has done to make it possible for teen agers to see and learn something about other countries."

☆

SOON AFTER the Edin's letter arrived, the Kings were notified that the exchange student they have requested through the same program for the coming school year had been assigned to them and just by chance his name is Anders Edin of Stenungsund.

What a happy coincidence.

Bruce should arrive home from his two-month stay in Sweden at about the same time that Anders will come to spend the year as the "adopted" son of the Kings.

Organized "to develop international understanding through a living experience with a family in another country," the Youth for Understanding Program is now in its 12th year of operation.

It is both interracial and interfaith in its scope.

☆

THE 70-VOICE Michigan Youth Chorale under the leadership of Lester McCoy is a special feature of the program.

BRUCE KING

Members of the Chorale also live with families and spread their influence in many communities.

Anders Edin and 349 other European teen-agers will arrive the first two weeks in August to join Michigan families in more than 160 communities to stay a full year.

The opportunity to become a host family as the Robert Kings have is still open.

Mrs. Rachel Andersen, 1930 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor is the person for interested families to contact.

Flower and Art Show Is July 20

Mrs. Richard Kureth and Mrs. John Robinson will serve as cochairmen of the staging committee for the arts and crafts section of the Little Garden Clubs Flower and Art Show.

The event will be held Saturday, July 20, from 2 until 8 p.m. at Tecumseh Community Center.

The chairmen will be assisted, by Mrs. Earl Fritz, Mrs. Ralph Dabe, Mrs. Richard Colson and Mrs. Robert Murray, members of the arts and crafts groups.

Entry blanks will be available at Sluyters Electric Store. Committee members urge area artists and craftsmen to reserved space for their exhibits.

4-H Horse, Pony Day This Week

Lenawee County area 4-H members are being provided an opportunity to get depth training in the horse and pony project by attending the 4-H Horse and Pony Day Saturday at the Lenawee County Fairgrounds.

Featured on the schedule will be the showing and demonstration of some outstanding horses that have won in national competion.

Members will have a chance to try judging, see a grooming demonstration and learn about show classes, breeding and equipment.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Those attending should bring a sack lunch, soft drinks will be available. The program will end by 3 p.m.

MARDA GENE DUNCAN'S Thru My Window

WARBLER WATCHING

Our good friend on Democratic Street, Mrs. Ruth Dustin, started it all by appearing one morning with a small box. Would we like to see a bird, something different, that she had found on the sidewalk.

Well, of course, we certainly would. A dead bird is sad, but the excitement of a "first" counter--balanced the somber thoughts.

What a pretty thing he was—Mrs. D. identified him as a black-throated blue warbler. What a discovery.

He exactly matched the color plates and descriptions in the bird books. Length about 5¼ inches. The top of his head, back and tail were blue, in the sunshine probably irridescent.

His face and throat were jet black, another well-named bird. Very distinctive were the white tummy, white bars on his wings and white patch on the under side of his tail. A perfect doll of a bird, a thrilling addition to our bird list.

☆

TWO DAYS later we had the even greater thrill of seeing a live black-throated blue warbler, in fact, there were three or four of them around.

In true warbler-like fashion they flitted from branch to branch, but the identification was sure.

They stayed with us for almost a week, but their actions were so erratic we never had a chance to call Mrs. D. and ask her over to see a live black-throat.

Our next returnees were two tiny yellow warblers. The bird-books show them as having faint breast stripes and indistinct darker shadings on back and wings but in actual sighting, the birds appear to be all yellow.

It usually takes excellent lighting and good binoculars to show the markings.

Judging from past years, these warblers should be with us all summer long. They won't be enticed by the feeder fare but occasionally we should see them gleaning through the big leaves of the wren tree for tiny insects. They almost seem to play hide and seek with us.

☆

ANOTHER BIG thrill last month was the appearance of three redstarts. They were wearing THS's school colors, orange and black—such loyalty.

Tiny little mites, they were all black with highlights of orange on their tails and two patches on each wing.

Wonder why the red in their name—the color we saw was the brightest most brilliant orange imaginable.

Our trusty old bird-book, "The Audubon Bird Guide" calls the redstarts common and speaks about their great abundance and wide distribution.

Well, who am I to disagree, but I would certainly not call them abundant around here—at least, this is our first experience but I am hoping it won't be the last.

I will go along with ABG in its description of these birds as being the livliest of all the warblers. The three males we saw were never still, they flitted and darted from branch to branch and just seemed to be bubbling over with energy.

☆

BEFORE THE leaevs reached their summertime bigness, the treetops were full of little warbler size birds.

We couldn't begin to see what they were, none of them were about to stand still long enough, for us to even think about getting the binoculars on them.

They were just fun.

So it is that May turned out to be a month full of warbler watching.

NEXT WEEK
Happy Holidays
See you in July!

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

During these week's, some 85,000 Michigan young people will be joining the solemn processionals that lead from their high school auditoriums to the broader stage of life.

I would like to be a witness to all of these ceremonies, to listen to the speakers, to hear once more the strains of the "Pomp and Circumstance March", to share in the high excitement of one of life'[illegible]portant events.

I would like to use this occasion to extend congratulations and best wishes for success to all of the Michigan young people who are receiving diplomas.

If I could be a speaker at all of those high school graduations, I know I would be expected to say something about the kind of world the graduates are entering, because that theme is practically mandatory for a commencement speaker.

You are destined to live in the greatest age in history, as citizens of the greatest nation the world has ever seen. Nevertheless, the future is full of both problems and promise.

☆

BUT ALL periods of history have been full of promise and problems.

Those that faced high school students in past years need no exhaustive review here.

The graduate of June, 1943 faced the problem of military service and the promise of a better life in the postwar era.

The June, 1933 graduate faced the terrible problem of finding a job in the nation's worst depression, but he also knew that the depression would not last forever.

Today's high school student faces the promise of living in a new age of unparalleled discovery. Not only the explorations in to space, which have already begun, but explorations into the physical and social sciences, in medicine, psychiatry and culture that will create a better life for earthbound men and women.

☆

WEIGHED against those promises are some of history's most formidable problems:

The encroaching power of the Communist tyranny, the dangerous proliferation of nuclear weapons that could destroy mankind, the moral decay and lassitude which can equal atomic weapons in their destructive power.

If my descrip[illegible] these problems sounds gloomy, it is not meant to be. It is meant to be realistic. I believe that the problems are no greater than the promises.

One characteristic of the young people who are donning graduation robes this month is reassuring—to a greater extent than many of their predecessors, they appear to be realistic about the world in which they will live.

When I received my diploma from the Latter Day Saints High School in Salt Lake City in 1926, I was part of a generation which ignored the past and laughed off the future.

Time and events have had a sobering effect. My classmates and I lived through a Great Depression and a Great War.

While today's high school graduates were born too late to experience these events, their parents' clear memory of them has apparently left its imprint.

☆

NO GRADUATION observations would be complete without advice. For 1963 graduates, mine is to continue your education with all of the energy at your disposal, in college, in trade schools, on the job, in night school or in correspondence courses.

Learn as much as you can about your country, because you can't know yourself and your potentialities without knowing your country.

My favorite success formula is going to apply just as well to tomorrow's world as it has to today's and yesterday's.

Search diligently, pray always and be believing and remember that ninety-per-cent of the time, luck is when preparation meets opportunity.

'Little Foxes' on Stage in Ann Arbor

Academy Award Winner Mercedes McCambridge can be seen in Lillian Hellmans "The Little Foxes" nightly through June 8 at the Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre in Ann Arbor.

Miss McCambridge has the rare distinction of winning an Academy Award in 1950 for her first film role in the movie "All The King's Men."

Miss McCambridge has since appeared in "Lightning Strikes Twice," "The Scarf," "Johnny Guitar," "Giant," "Farewell To Arms," "Suddenly Last Summer," and "Cimarron."

After receiving a bachelor's degree from Mundelein College in Chicago, she promptly turned to her first love — acting — by snagging a five-year contract with NBC for 10 broadcasts a week from Chicago. In a span of a few years, she became radio's busiest actress.

Her first stage break came in 1945, when she played opposite Franchot Tone in the New York production of "Hope for the Best."

"She's since appeared in "A Place of Our Own," "Twilight Bar," 'Woman Bites Dog" and "The Young and the Fair."

Reservations may be made by phoning the box office in Ann Arbor, 668-6300.

Agriculture in Action

By M. L. WOELL

Michigan Farm Bureau

Canada has found a new ex[illegible] dealing with Communists.

She announces that rejection by American farmers of the wheat control program will now cause her to step up wheat shipments to Red China.

In the eyes of Canadian officials, refusal to accept the tight controls now means that American farmers will seek new markets. They are right, but one market American farmers are pledged never to seek lies behind the Iron Curtain. Canada can be assured that in this area at least, she can sell freely without competition, if her conscience doesn't hurt too much.

How many Canadian boys were killed by Chinese bullets in Korea? When China "buries" the United States, as has been promised, will capitalistic Canada somehow be exempt?

In spite of the obvious disservice she is doing to the free world, Canada continues to ship wheat to the communist. So much that the British Columbia port of Vancouver is now the busiest in the northwest. Financially, it makes sense, for Canada has great quantities of wheat, and the price is good. Moral justification is another thing.

☆

RED CHINA uses all the wheat she can get, just as she uses her people, as another part of the power-play to advance world communism.

Most of the grain has been us[illegible] to madden Russia, already at loggerheads with China over how best to take over the world.

Russia promised aid to Red Albania, and when the differences as how best to bury the free world arose, Albania sided with Chi[illegible] Russian support was withdrawn.

To embarass the Kremlin, Red China ignores her starving people to step in with shiploads of Canadian wheat for Albania, three million bushels of it so far.

So, out goes the wheat from Canada, on goes the politics of international Communism, and Chinese continue to starve. The choice has been that of the Red Chinese. The Canadians have been helping them, and now say they will increase that help.

Just as in the recent national wheat referendum here in the United States, the real issue is not price, not dollars and cents.

The real issue is control.

Control of people based on politics.

TECUMSEH PAIR GET MASTER'S—Among four g entlemen receiving master's degrees from Siena Heights College this week were two from Tecu mseh, Ted Todd (second from left) and Mike Gendzwell (right). Others pictured are Robert McDonald and Bernard Joseph. Mr. Todd teaches at Tecumseh Junior High and Mr. Gendzwe ll at Boysville.

2 Earn Master's at Siena

Two Tecumseh men are among the 11 graduate students who received masters' degrees at Siena Heights College 40th commencement Tuesday afternoon.

This is the largest number to date.

There are 34 candidates for the master's in the August exercises at the Roman Catholic college staffed principally by Dominican Sisters.

All eleven of the June graduates are in-service teachers attending lectures at night and late afternoons. This makes their fine scholastic performance the more remarkable.

Among those receiving the masters hoods and degrees are:

► Ted Todd, who has a Bachelor of Arts from Western Michigan, is receiving a Master of Arts with concentration in administration.

He has received the highest possible rating on graduate record examinations of the National Testing Bureau depicting percentile averages across the country.

Mr. Todd is now living with his family in Tecumseh at 302 Outer Dr. and teaches at the Tecumseh Junior High School.

► Mike Gendzwill, who holds a Bachelor of Science from Western Michigan, is receiving the Master of Arts with administration as his field of concentration.

State Police Start Shorter Work Week

Effective July 14, Michigan State Police will go on a shortened five-day 48-hour maximum week with a normal working day of nine hours, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has announced.

This will be in contrast to the present six-day 56-hour week and is in accordance with a Civil Service Commission order issued Jan. 28 that enlisted personnel will no longer be permitted to work more than a 48-hour week without overtime pay or compensatory time off.

Although the order did not specify a five-day week, it was determined after a department study of the readjustment necessary that the only practical solution would be a five-day schedule.

A nine-hour day has been set, or a total of 45 hours, to leave a cushion of three hours between that limit and the maximum of 48 hours.

Defoe Family Gives Gift to MEHA Village Plan

LANSING—A substantial financial gift was given to the Michigan Education Home Association Thursday in memory of Harry J. Defoe, former Bay City principal and founder of the Defoe Shipbuilding Company.

The cash gift was presented to Theodore B. Southerland, MEHA chairman, who called the gift from the Defoe family "appropriate" in that the idea for creation of the center to be opened in the fall of 1965 as MEHA Village came from Bay City teachers.

It has won statewide recognition as the "Bay City dream."

The idea for MEHA, described as a new concept designed to provide complete retirement facilities for state educators, was proposed four years ago by Mr. Southerland, principal of Central High School in Bay City.

☆

MR. SOUTHERLAND said that nearly $140,000 has been contributed by teachers throughout the state toward a $1,250,000 fund to provide initial units of the center, which eventually is expected to develop into a $10,000,000 complex.

A 212-acre site on the northern edge of Saline is now under option in an area which Southerland describes as "a gently rolling countryside with a spring-fed stream and wooded spots, within a 15-minute walk of the Saline shopping district and churches, and a 15-minute ride to the heart of Ann Arbor."

Mr. Southerland said that initially central facilities with about 100 units to serve around 150 people will be opened in the fall of 1965. Eventually the center will accomodate at least 1,500 retired teachers in a "private, home-like atmosphere."

Southerland explained the retirement housing plan is expected to cost each person approximately $150 a month, or about 50 per cent of the individual's retirement and social security payments. This monthly cost, he added, will cover life care, food, shelter, medical, and hospital expenses.

Merritt - Handy Nuptials Spoken

Three attendants and a little flower girl preceded Catherine Merritt down the aisle of the Friends Church May 25 when she became the bride of Max L. Handy in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Paul Brantingham.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George Merritt of Tipton and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Handy of 1204 W. Chicago Blvd.

Pat Anderson of Tipton was the maid of honor, Diane Sweet and Enid Winters of Tecumseh were the bridesmaids and Carol Cooper, Clinton was the flower girl.

Helen Kinney accompanied Mrs. Dow Bilby, the soloist.

The bride chose a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned with a Queene Anne collar, long sleeves and a chapel train.

Her elbow length veil was edged with tiny pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and button earrings, gift of the groom.

Her bridal bouquet was lily-of-the-valley outlined with strands of ivy centered with gardenias.

MRS. MAX L. HANDY

The attendants wore street length frocks of yellow and blue brocade with matching accessories.

The flower girl wore a pink brocade frock with matching headpiece.

They carried baskets of yellow and white daisies centered with daisies to match their gowns.

Steve Covell was the best man and the guests were seated by Barry Hall and Craig Winters.

A reception for 200 was held in the church parlors where Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Eaton were the hosts.

A beautifully decorated cake, gift of Mrs. Mary Butler, was served.

Among those assisting at the reception were Mrs. Raymond Bond, Susan Theilan, Paul Echelbarger, Diane Handy, Mrs. Garth Hall, Lois Handy and Gerald Quinn.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the home of the groom's parents.

Monkeys Can Be Dangerous

Veterinarians throughout Michigan are alarmed at the increasing numbers of monkeys of various species that are being sold to the unsuspecting public.

On the national level, veterinary research and public health groups are seeking action to strengthen federal importation laws.

Why this concern?

In 1959-'60, Michigan's Department of Health completed epidemiological investigations which resulted in the conclusion that young (under one year) wooley monkeys and chimpanzees could transmit to humans (nine were ill) a disease clinically indistinguishable from viral hepatitis.

This observation was reported at the same time, independently, at Holloman Airforce Base where the "chimponautes" are trained.

Monkeys have also been the source of human enteric pathogens, Amaebiasis, Dysentery, Typhoid Fever have been found in humans and in their monkey "pets." Recently, two cases of strongyloides (worm) infestations in humans were traced to an infected monkey maintained as a pet.

Monkeys are valuable research animals because they are susceptible to human illness. This susceptibility also renders them more dangerous as pets.

Monkeys belong in three environments only: the jungles — research laboratories and zoos, health officials state.

The Senior Class returned from its trip Tuesday morning, May 28, after an educational and enjoyable stay in Washington, D.C.

The Fighting Knights finished the baseball season with a victory as they beat South Lyons, 6-5. Stan Klos hurled the complete distance for the Knights and was credited with the victory.

Although the Knights suffered a serious setback in the early innings of the game, as South Lyon took a 4-0 lead, they bounced back to take the lead in the fifth. South Lyon retaliated in the top of the sixth to tie the game once again at 5-5.

A "hot shot" line drive by Padilla sewed the game up for the Knights as Bill Moran scored for the Knights.

Chuck Michaluk, Stan Klos, Bill Moran, Ron Klos and Bill Weitzel made the hitting columns.

In the River Raisin League Boysville finished with a 4-3 record.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

If you were shopping in Europe there would be no bargain basements from which to choose merchandise, but you would have the Flea-market where they sell everything by fleas.

In France, the shopkeeper, would greet you with 'Bon-jour' which means 'hello' and on leaving they would say . . . 'Au Revoir' which means . . . 'until we meet again,' Spain sounds like a friendly place, they shake hands when you are coming and going, sorta like some Churches). Those Austrians, they are the flattering ones, they say . . . 'I kiss your hand, gracious lady' but they really have no intention of doing it.

All this we recently read in a folder for shoppers in other countries and we would like the chance to try it first hand. Will always remember one time when we were trying to make a purchase outside the U. S. in a little French village in Canada. Only wanted a tube of toothpaste and after motioning, pointing and shouting, they sent us to a dentist! Felt lucky to get away with our teeth.

At Clinton Woolen we have a very special greeting for you. We will probably meet you with a swim suit in hand and start right in trying to sell it to you . . . we love our merchandise and want to share . . .

Kidding aside, we do have a lot of beautiful swim-suits. The time is here when our generous supply of lakes will be calling, so be ready to take the plunge.

Don't forget Dad could use a new pair of swim trunks for Father's Day. We are showing many smart casual and play clothes for him and you know it pays to dress right for the occasion.

In any and all languages, we invite you to shop and we hope to be seeing you at Clinton Woolen.

Safety Lane Sees 521 Vehicles Roll Through for Check

The 1963 vehicle lane safety check was considered a huge success in spite of the rained-out parade Monday night and subsequent loss of a full day of checking at Safety Lane.

Totals for this year were 521 vehicles against 702 last year. Less defective vehicles were found this year and nearly all of them were corrected and passed.

C. O. Butler, speaking for the Safety Check committee, thanks all those participating and helping, especially, he said, The brave and loyal souls who got wet Monday night and came back better than ever Tuesday night to make the longest parade in Safety Check history—some 73 units."

Safety Check Queen Bonnie Staup was crowned and given a large bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Religion Often Is 5th Wheel

A children's day program will be presented Sunday, June 9, during the church school hour at the First Baptist Church at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Blair Bashore will preach on the theme, "The Recovery of Fidelity" at 11 a.m. worship service using the words written by John to the Church in Smyrna, "be faithful unto death" as the text.

"We have lived comfortably behind the rampart of mediocrity in-so-far as our Christian living is concerned, said the pastor Monday.

"The church is a fifth-rate power — sort of a fifth wheel bolted on behind, while we ride on business, government, home and school—its stewardship pressures maintained by those who can afford the luxury of this badge of gentility.

"Politics, or public life, or status, or relaxation comes ahead of worship," continued Mr. Bashore.

"With many, the country club bill is higher every month than their stewardship to the church. We come when we like, give when we please, do what we wish, say what we choose and go where we have no business.

"It is to this group of half-born people to whom Jesus cries: 'Why call ye me Lord! Lord! and do not the things I command you?' "

"There is hope for our confused world—if we will but attend to that needful and urgent command—'be faithful unto death'.

Then, there shall arise from this confused sound of voices a firmer faith than that our fathers knew," concluded Mr. Bashore.

LOCAL BUSINESS

"Whether you're selling mousetraps, motor cars, vacation resorts or travel, you must tell people the virtues of your commodity. If you do this in a convincing manner, you will make a sale . . ."

This is a statement by Russell B. Weston, sales executive of the Ethyl Corp. Mr. Weston sells a highly-intangible product through extensive advertising.

He sells travel, and his experience proves that advertising may sell ideas as well as hardware.

Mr. Weston recognizes a fact that is not clear to many businessmen with monopoly firms — that is, that in a prosperous nation, nearly every type of business is in competition with entirely different kinds of activities.

He says that his interest, travel, competes with TV, swimming pools, golf, suburban yard activities, and other home attractions.

Eight years ago when automobile travel seemed to be declining, the Ethyl Co. turned to advertising in an effort to reverse the trend. Numerous tests made by the company, on national and local levels, indicate that travel could indeed be sold.

Mr. Weston points out that the success of other large advertisers supports his findings:

"If there ever were any doubts that travel could be sold, they should have been dispelled by the success that railroads, airlines, business, resort owners, countries, states and even counties have had from the millions of dollars they have spent on advertising."

Of course, Mr. Weston's comments would apply to any kind of business, which often unknowingly, is in competition for the fickle dollar.

Don't Let Children Ride Tractor

Letting children, "ride the tractor with daddy" is extremely dangerous. Parents of 37 children can sadly testify from past experiences.

That's the number of children who have been killed in Michigan during the past six years while riding on the farm tractor.

"Experience has shown that giving a child a ride on the tractor and doing farm work at the same time is a lethal combination,' says Richard Pfister, agricultural safety engineer at Michigan State University.

Some 100 or more disabling accidents also happen each year.

What do you do when your children beg for a ride on the tractor? "You buy them a miniature-sized toy tractor and let them ride to their heart's content," recommends Mr. Pfister. "But don't combine your work with their play."

ANOTHER TYPE of accident situation — especially apparent during the spring and summer months is a slow-moving tractor on the highway.

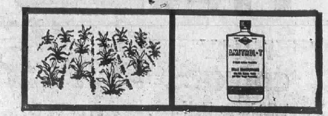

Tractors are especially dangerous on the road because they:

► Aren't designed for highway travel
► Lack signaling equipment
► Usually do not have adequate lighting
► Are slow moving.

"Farmers should use a red flag during daylight hours and a flashing red light at night to help identify the tractor as a slow moving vehicle," Mr. Pfister says.

Drivers often times don't realize the dangers with farm tractors on the highway until it is too late. To be safe, Mr. Pfister suggests to drivers approaching slow-moving vehicles to:

► Treat them the same as meeting a concrete wall
► Watch for the unusual
► Be patient
► Stay alert.

Say You Saw It in The Herald

SOYBEAN WEED CONTROL was a big problem in many areas last year. Late planted soybeans usually have the advantage of a quick "grow-off" and can get the jump on weeds. To keep ahead of weeds, use a rotary hoe once or twice between the time beans emerge and reach four to six inches high. By this time the beans will be able to shade out most weed seedlings in the row.

CAUTIOUS 2,4-D USE cannot be overstressed. Under favorable conditions, spray drift can carry a mile or more. Any damage caused by drift makes you liable, but the biggest danger is usually to your own crops. Crops such as soybeans, cotton and tomatoes are extremely susceptible to damage. To avoid drift, use amine forms of 2,4-D, keep pressures under 30 pounds per square inch and spray only when wind is below 10 mph.

IT PAYS TO USE NITROGEN on grass forage. The advantages are the increase in total forage and the percent of total crude protein. But there is another: Where nitrogen is added to land in grass production, as much as 10% more of the total protein is digestible compared with forage from unfertilized fields. Nitrogen not only increases pounds of forage, but each pound has more feed value.

SHIP HOGS IN FULL LOADS and under the coolest conditions possible to hold shrink at a minimum. Under favorable conditions hogs will not shrink excessively. However, overcrowding or careless handling can push shrink up to 15%. Whenever possible ship early in the morning. Keep wet sand or ice on floor of the truck to help keep down temperature.

When a Fellow Comes Back Time and Time Again for a Certain Brand Automobile There Must Be a Reason

Harold Cole is a dyed-in-the-wool Pontiac man.

Pontiac is his car, always has been. He has owned five. Harold, who resides at 106 Cairns St. in Tecumseh with his wife, Ruth, and daughter, Susan, purchased his first Pontiac in 1952.

It was a used 1950 model, but in good condition. At the time he was 21 years old and already in the army. In 1953, Harold obtained another used Pontiac and when 1956 rolled around he acquired that year's model.

He purchased another new Pontiac in 1959 and then last weekend accepted delivery on a new 1963 Catalina.

Harold feels that with driving habits of his family — about 10,000 miles a year, mostly in-city — his best bet is to keep his Pontiac for three years.

Over the years, Harold has amassed some definite feeling toward the car of his choice — and we're happy to report that almost all his reactions are good.

"I've always had good luck with them, never any major parts replacements," he states. "Pontiac has a real dependable engine and I've never had one which used excessive oil. It has a big car feeling which I like."

What about you? Have you taken a Wide-Track ride yet in a 1963 Pontiac. We'd love to have you be our guest.

It's vacation season again.

For The Herald, this means a summer specialist who'll fill in at the editor's chair as he darts about being "swing man" for regular employees taking their 'two weeks."

This year, a chap with a charming goatee joins us for several months. He's Tom Brien. Not O'Brien, just Brien.

Tom says his French ancestors must have at one time been Irish, but when they took off for Gual, left the Big O on the Emeral Isle.

Tom is a journalism graduate of the University of Michigan, Class of 1960. He re-enters school this fall to earn a master's degree.

For the better part of 18 months he labored with the Grand Haven Tribune, rising to the role of telegraph editor, meaning he handled copy coming in from wire services.

Tom, born in Escanaba and now 27, did a stint with the army from 1955 to '57 as an artilleryman in Germany.

Can extreme joy and deep sorrow be mixed as one?

Apparently it's possible, based on an experience of a recent morning when the funeral for a 43-year-old nun was held at Siena Heights.

Sister Mary Sheila, O.P. was formerly Pat Clancey of Detroit. Her family, my wife's and the Riordans all attended Visitation, a parish school in the Motor City.

One of the Clancey boys married my wife's sister and so we have always been close.

Sister Sheila would have been a Dominican nun 25 years this month. She entered the order immediately upon graduation from high school.

The Dominicans, whose Mother House is in Adrian and a part of Siena Heights College, make up a teaching order with schools all over America and in several foreign lands.

From all the evidence at hand, Sister Sheila did a tremendous job for God and her order.

This was vividly underlined at her funeral when nearly 500 Dominicans arrived from various posts within driving range.

Also on hand was a portion of the student body at Detroit Dominican High, where Sister Sheila had been posted for the past seven years. The seniors wore their caps and gowns.

There was a sadness at the loss of a loved one for Sister Sheila's family and her fellow Dominicans, of a revered and respected teacher by the young students.

But there was great joy, too, knowing that Sister had died a beautiful death with the words, "Jesus, I love you," on her lips.

82-Mile Winds Buffet City

By TOM BRIEN

Winds reaching 82 miles-an-hour tore through Tecumseh early Sunday morning and again Monday afternoon leaving a wake of overturned trees, damaged houses, frightened people, and downed power and telephone lines.

A reading of instruments at the University of Michigan wind velocity apparatus at Meyers Airport showed three separate gusts ranging from 75 to 82-miles-an-hour Monday, within the space of five minutes.

The recording showed nearly the same wind behavior Sunday morning.

The wind struck suddenly. The graph registered five to 10 mile-an-hour winds then shot up to 70 mile-an-hour gusts. The wind tapered off shortly after.

"The recording on the velocity graph looked like a triangle," a U-M research assistant reported. "It was as if a wave of wind rolled over the area."

☆

MANY RESIDENTS were aroused from their sleep by the noise of the fierce winds—some by the crash of tree limbs falling on their roofs or in their yards.

"The wind sounded like three freight trains,' Mrs. Nina Heath, 515 W. Kilbuck exclaimed. Even then, it took the "thud" of two large branches hitting the roof simultaneously over the childrens bedroom to awaken her.

Her daughter, Mrs. Robert Robison, was hurrying her two boys from the upstairs bedroom when a limb hit.

Mrs. Buck Smith, 202 E. Pottawatamie had an experience just as harrowing. When the wind awoke her, she took her three children down into the basement. Then she heard the tree in the yard being pulled up by its roots.

"I thought the whole house was coming off," she said. After the tree fell along side the house, she went to the neighbors house until the wind blew over.

☆

JOHN SALING, 210 S. Oneida, was pulling down the blinds on the porch when he heard a tree across the street give way. He turned to look and saw it falling toward the porch.

Luckily, he got inside before the tree landed in the driveway and spliting a line pole on the way down. The tree blocked S. Oneida St. for several hours.

Richard Covell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Covell, got out of bed to close the window in his upper floor bedroom when a large elm limb fell across the roof and punched a hole into the ceiling.

The wind struck twice at Mrs. Perry Hayden's place. Monday, a tree toppled on her back porch and rolled down into the driveway. Saturday, a tree fell into the driveway but missed the house.

Despite all the damage and falling trees, no one was reported injured.

Elsewhere, a house being built by Raymond Kempf, building contractors, was shifted four-feet off its foundations.

☆

"THE WIND damage stretches from Devils Lake to Lake Erie", said Earl Parker of Consumers Power.

In Tecumseh, the damage is scattered. Most of the service lines were down right at the houses, Mr. Parker said. At one time, the Kilbuck and Evans corner was out, depriving 300 to 400 customers of power.

Consumers Power crews went out Sunday morning after the storm and didn't return until 4 p.m. Sunday. They went out again after Monday's storm and didn't get back until 4 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Trouble for General Telephone Co. started Friday when winds and lightning hit the Saline area. Sunday's storm affected all five exchanges in Tecumseh, Britton, Saline, Clinton and Tipton.

They had no sooner cleared Sunday's damage when the storm Monday hit. Kenneth Conway, manager, estimated over 100 phones were out Sunday in Tecumseh and about 300 out in the area.

"Many of these lines were hit twice, he said. "Most of the trouble came from branches knocking out drop lines to individual houses.'

Even more spectacular, was the damage done to the trees in the area.

"There are 30 trees or large limbs down in Tecumseh," Cal Zorn, City manager said. "Some other trees sustained such severe damage that they'll have to be cut down."

Mr. Zorn estimated the damage done to city trees between $500 and $600.

Voters Defeat Library Plea

A small turnout of voters Monday returned an incumbent and elected a newcomer to the Tecumseh school board, defeated a small millage issue for the library, and overwhelmingly approved a transfer of $164 from the old Ridgeway Retirement Fund to the general fund.

Only about one-fifth of the district's eligible voters went to the polls.

William K. Brown, newcomer, was elected to the board with 487 votes. Dr. Richard Dustin, incumbent, also was easily elected with 452 votes.

Others in the race and their votes were:

Ray Jackson, 331
Dr. William Adams, 190
Marvin Nelson, 81
Richard Van Sickle, 51
James Records, a write-in, 1.

The issue which shocked many people was the defeat of the library millage, 440 to 408.

The library board was seeking an increase of millage from .32 mills to .6 mills. Approval would have given authorities about $21,000 annually for operation, salaries and purchase of books and periodicals.

The school board, which has jurisdiction over the library, expects operations there to be in the red at the end of this fiscal year, June 30.

The transfer of $164 to the general fund was approved as expected with 700 votes for to 115 against. By law, the money was of no use for any matter in the old Ridgeway fund.

City Charges $3 for Trash Pickup

Residents requesting trash pickups from the city will be charged a minimum of $3 a call.

Council approved the charge this spring after City Manager Cal Zorn informed officials that some residents called repeatedly for pickups and expected the city to continue performing the service free.

The charge will be based on the amount of trash and how much time city employees spend in handling the waste.

Last month, for two weeks, the city provided free trash pickups in preparation for Michigan Week.

Discuss Watershed

The proposed River Raisin project took a step forward with the report of the Technical Watershed Review Committee, according to John W. Comstock, county etxension director.

Several opportunities to organize information and people are available at this time, in order to complete a formal application for assistance, he explained.

A meeting will be held in the Tecumseh Community Center June 18, at 8 p.m. to discuss the alternative, Mr. Comstock said. There are several activities in which committees might actively participate to strengthen local support, he added.

The River Raisin project involves the construction of up to 40 dams along the course of the river. The River Raisin watershed contains some 700,000 acres, 19,000 of these in Fulton County, O. The rest lies in five southeastern Michigan counties.

The public is asked to attend the meeting.

4-H to Send Diane Ries to Nebraska

Diane Ries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ries, 9246 Tonnenberger Rd., will be among 33 Lenawee 4-H club members to take part in the Nebraska Exchange program this year. She is a member of the Tecumseh Top Notchers.

Vicki McVay of the Tipton Jets will also make the trip from June 27 until July 8.

The girls will live with Nebraska 4-H families for the week to learn to understand people who live and work a little differently than their own family and friends.

A square dance will be held Saturday, June 22, at the Project Building of the Lenawee County fairgrounds with James Erskine doing the calling.

This is a final project to raise money for the exchange delegates.

Old Building Must Go

A dilapidated one-time feed store on W. Shawnee St., labeled by State Police as a fire hazard, has been ordered to be torn down.

Unoccupied for almost a decade, it has long since deteriorated into an eyesore.

Owned by William B. Hotrum, 203 E. Shawnee St., the structure was used by him for 25 years as a feed store and farm machinery outlet, later leased out for a Railway Express office.

Mr. Hotrum told The Herald he will 'tear it down — eventually."

He said that financial reverses at his two farms in the past few years have created a cash problem.

"It's a matter of finances," he explained.

Mr. Hotrum said that several years ago he checked into the expense of demolishing the building, but can't recall how much it would cost.

He said a "year or so ago" he hired a man to remove part of it. The man tore down a portion, then stopped, leaving heaps of rubble strewn along a strip about 50 feet long, next to the sidewalk.

The debris is still just as it was left.

☆

THE OLD brick-and-wood structure is only a few hundred feet south and west of the new St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Both buildings are seen almost simultaneously by persons approaching from the downtown area on N. Evans St.

City officials have been trying since 1961 to get Mr. Hortum to remove the building, states City Manager Cal Zorn.

The late Ed Nelson, then city manager, wrote to the owner that year. In January of 1962, he promised Mr. Zorn that he would demolish it and Mr. Zorn said he removed the structure from the tax roll. However, when no action was taken, the building went back on again.

☆

STATE POLICE stepped in several weeks ago and upon an order from G. M. Walker, chief of the fire marshall division, the structure was inspected by Det.-Sgt. Joseph Terze of the Jackson post.

He notified Mr. Hotrum that the deserted building was "a serious fire hazard" and that the owner must:

- Raze the building
- Remove all rubble and debris from the premises
- Fill in any depressions to grade level

He was ordered to comment on his plans by June 16.

Mr. Hotrum, now 69, was a polio victim at 14 and has only been able to walk with canes

EMPTY FOR PAST DECADE, OLD FEED MILL IS LOCATED SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS FROM NEW CHURCH

Behind Page One

New discovery of an old remedy for tarnished brass. Salt and vinegar and vigorous rubbing will shine it up. It's marvelous for those not-so-expensive earrings that hurt ear lobes.

The Tecumseh Herald is found in the most surprising places, now we hear that one issue was seen beneath the surface of the sea. Susan Harris, home recently from California, told us about it. Her fiance, Bob Gillespie of Mt. Clemens, walking through the torpedo room of the USS Queenfish, a now decommissioned submarine, happened to see The Herald resting on a torpedo. He inquired to whom it belonged and found LeRoy Gillen of Macon was a member of the crew.

A "Snowball drop' and helicopter rides will be featured during the two-day Sidewalk Sale and promotion in Leslie. Several hundred styrofoam balls will be dropped from the helicopter hovering over Leslie. Those lucky enough to get a "snowball" can take them to the stores named on the ball and will receive a prize.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Alfred Lambes, who has been missing since April 27th, is asked to inform him that his mother is going to the hospital Sunday for an operation and wishes to get in touch.

Called Mrs. Al Russell Monday a.m. for information on the coming Clark Lake play, but she didn't have time to talk because her air conditioner was in the process of, quote, "Blowing Up."

Bike Pix Mix

This incident could be dubbed the "Bike Pix Mix' or just plain, "we really goofed this one."

There might be the usual assortment of excuses—fast-paced schedule, too little time, mix-signals, general confusion.

All are acceptable in this case.

The caper got going a couple of issues back, during the heat of The Herald's earn-a-bike or transistor radio campaign. A youngster selling 15 new subscriptions could capture a new bike. For 10, there would be the radio.

Every time a youngster scored on the drive, The Herald camera was there to record the joyous scene, picturing Star Salesman with premium.

The pace quickened near the end of the campaign and more and more winners checked in—which delighted Herald folks—but apparently helped spread some confusion among caption writers.

☆

A COUPLE of issues back, Vicki Reitz, age 11, smiled out from one of the pages. Vicki clutched the transistor she had earned.

Good enough.

The following week, the first press run started routinely. Included was the photo of a bike winner, this time, Susan Gresham, age 13.

However, the caption incorrectly identified Susan as Vicki Reitz.

Naturally, it wasn't until the 3,500 copies of the early section were run that someone on the staff pipped up, "Hey, that's not Vicki Reitz, that's Susan Gresham."

By then, the last run was being made up with another bike winner, this time, Linda Marine, age 12.

"Now this girl is Vicki Reitz," one of our folks stated, tapping an index finger on Linda's picture. How wrong can one be.

☆

THE CAPTION writer got to thinking real hard and came up with the perfect solution, producing this gem:

"Despite what you will read in section three, which was printed earlier this week, this is icki Reitz and the bike she earned during our recent circulation drive. Unfortunately, we mistakenly identified Susan Gresham as Vicki in section three. Susan is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Julian Gresham, 305 W. Logan St."

He had it right in the part about Susan Gresham.

But when he started referring to Miss Marine as Miss Reitz, he went off the track again.

So that's the whole messy business—out in the open once and for all.

☆

WITH THIS story, pictures of the girls innocently involved are run once more. To them, we extend our sympathies.

"We hope to goodness no gremlin will switch the caption lines on us and that each is identified properly," sigh weary Herald staff members.

But can we be sure?

Racy Comedy Ends Season

Ray St. Jacques leads a small cast through a spirited, hilarious play about race relations in the deep South in the last performance of the Ann Arbor Drama Season.

The play runs through Saturday at the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater in Ann Arbor.

"Purlie Victorious," is a double edged sword in the hands of playwright Ossie Davis, making fun of the public's picture of the plantation Negro as well as the traditional Southern land holder.

The play is built on six stereotypes: the professional Negro agitator, the Southern plantation owner, Aunt Jemima, an Amos and Andy type, the moonstruck girl waiting to be married, and the weak, ineffectual son of a rich father.

The Negroes are trying to cheat the Old Captain out of $500 — actually, a rightful inheritance that Old Captain has been too cheap to pay off — so that Purlie Victorious can open up a church.

The pace is swift and the laughs numerous. Playwright Davis, pokes fun at cherished American folk characters. While obviously on the Negroes' side, Mr. Davis does not use characters that are involved in the race struggle as we know it from recent events. He therefore, steps on no toes.

The next theater offering in Ann Arbor will be "South Pacific" by the University of Michigan Players on June 26-29.

Ends 34-Year Career

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Mrs. Bertram Updike, 102 S. Adrian St., cloces the door on 34 years of teaching school this month.

Of these, 29 were in Tecumseh.

More than 3,200 children have attended kindergarten classes taught by Mrs. Updike in this city. In later years she has been teaching the children of students she taught some years ago.

Ill health necessitated Mrs. Updike's resignation in October last year. Mrs. John Babcock has been teaching at Patterson in her place.

One of Tecumseh's favorite kindergarten teachers, Mrs. Updike was born in Morenci.

Her father, was a Methodist minister. She came to this city with her family and graduated from Tecumseh High School.

She received her bachelors degree from Eastern at Ypsilanti and did graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Before her marriage to Mr. Updike she taught school in Jackson for seven years.

☆

"YES, I'M going to miss the children, but time is never heavy on my hands. I have so many hobbies that I haven't been able to work with as I would like to, over the teaching years," said the attractive, extremely youthful appearing grandmother of four.

"I've been making clocks and they keep perfect time. Bertram puts the telecron works in them for me," she continued showing us a pretty one in early American style.

Mrs. Updike has a Hammond organ in her home and a stereo system for playing recordings which her husband made for her.

She loves all types of music but favors the classics which she used repeatedly in teaching her little youngsters. She said, "They love to float through the air with scarves to a melody form Tschaekowsky's Nut Cracker Suite.

☆

READING AND writing have been and will continue to be of the teacher's life. She has had some articles printed in Parent's Magazine. At present she is working on some others telling of her experiences with children.

She is planning to take up needle point.

When asked to generalize about her work, she said, "Kindergarten is the most important spot in the whole school system. Some have a terrible time growing up and its hard to keep them happy and wanting to come back to school the next day."

Mrs. Updike especially mentioned one student, Dexter Bailey. She said, "I could see the talent in him in kindergarten. He was the only child I was ever able to give full charge of the record player. At five years old he knew by the pictures on the record what speed to set the machine."

☆

MRS. UPDIKE and her husband have one daughter, Mrs. S. A. Whitney, 315 S. Union St., who is planning to complete a master's degree at the University of Michigan this summer. She is a physiological diagnostician working out of the Adrian office of Milton Porter, Lenawee County superintendent of schools.

This completed, the Whitneys and the Updikes plan to go to Houghton Lake for a vacation.

In the fall, the Bertram Updike are planning a trip to the western states.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG
Herald Society Editor

As the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" herald the march of 149 graduates Sunday afternoon in commencement exercises, there will be one who cares for the individual senior.

Across the mass of warm, expectant, smiling relatives, eyes of the student and perhaps his mother ... and a tear will slip out from beneath her lashes as her special graduate proceeds to his designated seat.

All the hope and dreams of years are placed in this one personality, who will receive the diploma that marks a major step in his progress through life.

Some young people realize the concern, frustration, happiness and love of their parents that have aided them in attaining this goal. Others do not.

One thing is certain, prayers will never be more sincere that each senior reach his and her highest goal than at the graduation day ceremonies.

Whistle Taken by Ligtning Bolt

"He lost his whistle. He was just as quiet as a little bird", said Mrs. Leslie Calhoun.

What could have been the end for Ted McConnell, 76-year-old partly retired farmer, turned instead into an amusing incident.

Lightning struck a tree about 10 feet in front of the tractor that Ted was using to cultivate corn. The lightning split the tree down the center, throwing branches, leaves and debris all around the machine.

Mrs. Leslie Calhoun was driving Jim Baker along the McConnell farm on Rogers Highway to relieve Ted on the tractor.

Anyone that knows Ted knows that things have come to a "pretty pass" when he isn't able to whistle. But by commencement time for his grandson, Jack, in Milan that evening, Ted was back to whistling and feeling fine except for a tingling sensation on the right side of his body.

TO THE EDITORS:

Tonite I attended a very nice Mother-daughter dinner of the Girls' Athletic Association, in connection with the Awards given to participating members.

One of the speakers referred to "tom-boy activities," but I wish you could have taken pictures of the pretty young ladies, as they clicked up to the award table on their high heels in their stylishly pretty dresses.

This GAA is an activity for girls in the High School which is being scuttled next year, because local support of school expenses is too inadequate.

The teacher, Miss Pickins, who has done such a good job of directing this GAA activity can not be expected to continue her extra-curricular activity without extra recompense.

It is evident that plenty of financial support is available in Tecumseh for Athletics that boys engage in, but this fine, wholesome athletic outlet for girls is apparently going to be completely neglected.

It was evident tonight at the Award-dinner that Miss Pickins wants, and is capable of promoting, a program that encourages girls to keep themselves physically fit — outside the gym-classes.

Why abandon GAA, which is her means of promoting participation of the girls of Tecumseh High in the extra-curricular activities which can bring rich rewards to the girls in their healthful development.

TO THE EDITOR:

As we all know the Michigan States Agencies involved in the "River Raisin Project" have found it "admirable-feasible-practical and necessary for future generations.

Bill Gardiner of the Adrian Daily Telegram, June 3, covered all of the objections and difficulties which can be propounded against the implementation of this great 700,000 acre watershed project. These comments were all raised by our elected and appointed "public servants" —many covered by Civil Service.

The public is aroused! They want the project initiated. The simple way to do this and evade all regional jealousy and create a great monument to progressive planning for the future, would be for us—the people—to write our Senators, Hart and McNamara; our Representatives, Meader and Staebler; our Gov. George Romney, and request them to work and create a "Federal River Raisin Project Authority". The necessary funds are available and uncommitted (in Washington) or can be raised by a proper central agency.

It is a most simple engineering project but, if we lose it now, as we did in the 1930's through public apathy) future generations will think that we cared little for their welfare. We must remember that this River Raisin Park and Water Project will benefit over 10,000,000 residents, not tourists.

Through my friendship and acquaintances with many Senators and Representatives and residents of our southern and western states, I know, that our Senators and Representatives in Washington could easily pass an "enabling act' with the cooperation of those other senators and representatives who have done so much of this type of work for their own states and are most sympathetic to our needs and desires.

Let us each write each Senator, each Representative and Governor Romney and tell them that we desire-request-nay demand! Action in order to get this River Raisin Watershed Project under way before the winter of 1963 and 1964 when we will, again, have many unemployed men available.

Every individual, men and women's clubs, conservation clubs, boy scouts, churches, bank, chambers of commerce, city and village councils should adopt favorable resolutions and let our elected representatives know our desires.

Write to:

Senator Pat McNamara—Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Senator Philip Hart—Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Representative George Meader —New House Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Representative Neil Staebler—New House Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Governor George Romney—State House, Lansing, Michigan.

EDITORS NOTE — Thursday and Sunday evening during the Memorial Day weekend, the Jaycees sponsored a rest stop at the Community Center.

Many weary travelers stopped to take advantage of the free service, the farthest being from a town in Texas.

This letter of appreciation was received the following week by the Jaycees.

TO THE EDITORS:

I wish to thank the Tecumseh J.C.C. for the "Rest Stop", the free coffee, the free cookies, the free cleaning of my auto's wind shield, the offer to freely participate in or watch the square dancing and above all the very friendly welcome and visit.

At first we were not going to stop as we thought it was a gimmick (as so many others did who did not stop) but soon found to our pleasure it was far from it.

We enjoyed watching the square dancing in your clean and beautiful community center and the walk we had around the old "Mill" lawn.

Although we are neighbors, we are as grateful to you as the folks who stopped in from Texas to enjoy your hospitality, and the many others, from other states.

It's friendly folks like you who are making Michigan the Nations friendliest State to spend a vacation or just visit, Thanks again.

Gary Marsh Memorial Trophy Awarded

One of Tecumseh High School's most successful years in athletics was officially closed last week with the annual spring sports banquet.

Track Coach Don Brazee and all-around THS performer, Danny Greene, were singled out for special laurels.

Coach Brazee, who wrapped up his years as a mentor to become assistant principal, was praised for his many contributions to the school sports program.

Mr. Brazee's cinder squad presented him with an enlarged, framed photo of the team, bearing each athlete's signature.

Charles Gross, shop teacher, and his students fashioned a lavish trophy, which was given Coach Brazee by his assistant, Tom Fagan.

Mayor Harold Easton read a resolution passed by City Council lauding the efforts of Mr. Brazee.

Dan was named initial recipient of a new Tecumseh award, the Gary R. Marsh Outstanding Sportsman trophy.

Long-time Tecumseh physician, Dr. R. G. B. Marsh announced the winner of the trophy, which is named in honor of his late son, a former Tecumseh athlete, who graduated in the Class of 1956.

The Gary Marsh award includes a large trophy, which will have the various winners' names engraved on it and kept in the school. The boy also receives a smaller trophy.

Dan lettered in football, basketball and track, also is the state Class B pole vault champion.

He was chosen by Athletic Director Vic Lawson and the various Indian coaches.

☆

GUEST SPEAKER for the affair was Gale Mikles, assistant athletic director of Michigan State University and a former AAU and national collegiate wrestling champion.

He stressed the need for young people to learn proper eating and physical conditioning habits so that they might enjoy good health throughout their lives.

Poor health is caused by inactivity, the speaker told his audience of nearly 200 athletes and their families. Youth must be instilled with a desire to be active.

Extra weight, from over-eating and lack of proper exercise, can create serious problems. For one, excess poundage means the heart must pump through more capillaries.

He stressed the need for a well-rounded school program — art, music, debate, as well as athletics. These help develop talents, which will play vital roles in adult life when leisure time is available.

☆

MR. LAWSON noted that THS sports teams had turned in the best record since he became athletic chief in 1952 — Huron League championships in football, basketball and track, while the golf squad captured state runner-up honors.

Coaches Brazee, Carl Hale, Doug Murdoch reveiwed the performances of their teams.

Mr. Murdoch, who will teach in Ottawa Hills next fall, expressed his thanks to school officials, fellow teachers and parents for kindnesses extended him during his years at Tecumseh.

Tom Riordan, Herald co-publisher, served as toastmaster. The Rev. Don Porteous, Methodist pastor, gave the invocation.

The roast beef dinner was prepared by Mrs. Charles O'Neil and her cafeteria staff with cheerleaders handling the serving chores.

"THE WOMEN" features a feminine cast of 35—not a single man in the cast.

Written by Clair Booth Luce, this show exemplifies every type of woman, in varying degrees of feline scheming. It is being billed as one of Clark Lake's finest efforts.

Both Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Bowen are stage veterans, Mrs. Russell having appeared in two other Clark Lake Productions, "Thurber Carnival" and "Bus Stop."

Mrs. Bowen has appeared in two Tecumseh Players' productions, "You Can't Take It with You" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

School Board Hears Bus Operation Plan

No changes in the Tecumseh school bus system were forthcoming Monday night at the School Board meeting, but one proposal was heard and some action agreed upon.

The board went into an executive session about 1 a.m. Tuesday morning, and it's not known whether other steps were taken.

School officials, who have been handling the bus system since May 1, when Lee Purkey & Sons Garage severed relations, heard a proposal from Ed DeLisle.

Mr. DeLisle, who operates Ed's Auto Service and is now engaged by the schools to repair and maintain the buses, told the board he has an opportunity to lease some property from Charles Irelan, behind Johnnie's and Bill's Cities Service on Patterson St.

☆

HE SAID the property was ample to park all the buses there, and the present building would be enlarged for garage purposes.

His proposal called for:

3-year contract.

$65 a month to park buses.

$10 a month for supervisor's offi[illegible]

10% markup over cost for his parts.

Charge (undetermined) for pumping gasoline, providing bus drivers would n[illegible]

Charge (undetermined) for servicing buses breaking down on the road.

☆

IN REGARDS to buses breaking down on the road, and unable to be towed in but warranting the front ends picked up, Mr. DeLisle said his wrecker was not large enough for the job and this service would have to be hired out.

Dick Purkey, of Purkey's garage, told boardmen that his proposal was unchanged, but he was willing to sit down with the entire board — not the board's bus committee — for discussion.

The board is continuing its investigation to acquire a site and garage free for operating its own bus system.

Coach Brazee Honored at Banquet

WINNINGEST COACH — Last week's THS sports banquet gave school and city officials an opportunity to honor the winningest coach ever employed by the Tecumseh schools. Retiring track coach, Don Brazee, was surprised at the festivities which included remarks of praise and appreciation from his boys and coaching colleagues, but also a resolution from city Council, commending him for his outstanding record and relationship with the boys he coached. Mayor Harold Easton holds a copy of the resolution; Coach Brazee, who next year will be the high school's new assistant principal, holds an autographed picture of this spring's track squad; Charlie Gross with a trophy made by his shop students, and Tom Fagan, new track coach.

City Proud of College Grads

One gauge of a city's educational system is the number of its graduates who go on through college and its faculty members who complete advanced degree work.

In this regard, Tecumseh has always rated high and June 1963 has produced another excellent crop of degrees.

Grouped together on this page are stories and pictures telling the success story of area men and women in the world of higher education.

If anyone has been missed, graduates or their family are invited to submit data and photos for next week's issue.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

We have always felt that despite the fact Michigan is a great tourist state in many areas we were lacking in our welcome . . . especially in Lenawee County. Few people realize the financial value to everyone the tourist dollar means.

We noticed that during Michigan Week many of our cities put forth an effort to make the stranger feel at home . . . however this came to an abrupt end when the week was over. This should not be . . . a courteous welcome should be extended every day.

Recently we have been in a number of communities in other states that have very little tourist business and were amazed at the welcome and courtesy extended. We will tell you about three examples . . .

We were parked downtown in one city that was loaded with parking meters. When we returned to our car, on the windshield we found a card with a nickel attached, that read . . . "Our city welcomes you . . . you need not deposit money in the meters while you are a guest of the city. We hope your stay will be a pleasant one. Please come back again."

Down in mid-Ohio we asked a police officer how to get to a shopping center. The officer jumped out of his car, gave us directions . . . a complete description on what we would find there . . . then held up traffic so we could turn on the proper street. Later in the day we complimented one of the city officials on the officers courtesy.

He said it is part of their duties . . . they are not only trained but kept posted on new business, special events and other information that would be helpful to the stranger.

We stopped in another city that is a mixed up mess due to extreme rapid growth. Here the Chamber of Commerce gave us a map that allowed us to move around the city with ease and find everything we wanted to see.

Through out the town in business establishments of every description there were signs . . .
Welcome Stranger . . .
Stop in and say Hello . . .
Information part of our service . . .

Let us put out the Welcome Mat and keep it out.

Don't forget Dad on Father's Day, Sunday, June 16th.

Byways Make State's Best Eyeways

(Editor's Note—"How to Make Eyeways out of I-Ways" is the title of a series of travel articles prepared by this newspaper and Automobile Club of Michigan. They are dedicated to making the 1963 travel season more enjoyable for motorists and more profitable for Michigan's tourist industry.)

The drive from Lake Michigan's sand dunes to Detroit on either I-96 or I-94 is about 3½ hours, but there are days full of pleasure to be found in the triangle created by these I-Ways in southern Michigan.

Starting with one of the most [illegible] in the country to visit, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, just off I-94 in Dearborn, is the nation's number one collection of Americana.

Sprawling to the north and west is a lengthy complex of parks along the basin of the Rouge River, Notes Jerry E. Fisher, touring manager of Automobile Club of Michigan.

However, they pale in comparison to the vast network of recreational areas and parks that lie slightly west, and running diagonally from New Hudson, on I-96, almost to Jackson, on I-94.

There is Kensington Metropolitan Park, where some Olympic events may be staged if Detroit gets the bid next October; Island Lake, Brighton, Pinckney and Waterloo Recreation Areas; Dexter, Huron and Hudson Hills Metropolitan Parks, together with three game refuge areas.

In the midst of them is the municipality of Hell, which, capitalizing on its name, will hold its first annual Satan's Holiday Festival the weekend of June 29-30.

To get to Hell, the motorist must have some determination, but the scenic route that he will follow is well worth it, said Mr. Fisher. The location is on Patterson Lake Road, southwest of Pinckney.

Highways M-36, M-52 and M-106 lace this area and are connected by a labyrinth of good county highways. The whole area is bounded by US-23 and US-127, in addition to the I-Ways, and also contains numerous small towns and lakes.

☆

JACKSON, at the intersection of I-94 and US-127, has the world's [illegible] institu[illegible], but prefers to claim the distinction of being the birthplace of the Republican Party—at a spot in the west of the city marked with a pile of boulders, "Under the Oaks."

A few miles west on I-94 is Albion College, second oldest liberal arts college in the state.

Marshall, at juncture of I-94 and US-27, provides a stopping place of historical significance. The Brooks mansion is the site of the birthplace of Michigan's public school system. The original Schuler restaurant; the Honolulu House, now a public museum; and numerous other colonial homes are among the attractions offered by this city.

North on US-27 is Olivet, where another of the state's early colleges still thrives. Among the relics stored in Mather Hall on the campus are rare Stephen Foster manuscripts.

Farther north, at the confluence of US-27, M-78, M-79 and M-50, is Charlotte, the market place of Michigan's maple sugar region which centers around Nashville (west on M-79) and Vermontville, scene of each spring's Maple Syrup Festival, just northeast of Nashville via county roads.

Battle Creek, farther west along I-94, still reigns as the nation's breakfast food capital, home of the Kellogg and Post companies. This also is the scene of annual amateur baseball tournament.

A pleasant by-way drive from this area is north on M-37 from Battle Creek through rolling hills to Hastings in the center of a region of 300 lakes.

A sampling of this lake country can be had by driving south from Hastings on M-43 toward Kalamazoo, to the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary on Wintergreen Lake and the MSU biological station on Gull Lake.

Farther south, on M-96, is Augusta, home of the Barn theater, oldest of the state's summer theaters.

The next stop along I-94 is Kalamazoo, where the famous Upjohn Pharmaceutical plant is open to visitors. This city is the scene of the National Boys and Junior Tennis Championships each summer.

A few miles west, on US-12, is Oshtemo, a popular antiques center.

☆

LIKE MANY state trunklines abandoned for the I-Ways, old US-12 offers pleasant country touring west through Paw Paw, center of the lush Michigan vineyard country, and farther on, Hartford, Watervliet and Coloma.

From Coloma, northward on US-31, is the dune-filled shoreline of Lake Michigan, famed Palisades Park and South Haven, a famed old resort town. This route skirts the northern end of the peach-growing belt that extends south to the end of the lake.

Northward, still on US-31, are Saugatuck and Douglas, on Kalamazoo Lake, at the mouth of the Kalamazoo River.

An annual yacht race helps liven things, and paddlewheel boats offer trips upstream. Several art schools and a summer stock theater call Saugatuck home.

Inland, on M-89, is Allegan, a quiet, historic town that was once the home of Gen. B. D. Pritchard, captor of Jefferson Davis. The city will hold its centennial celebration July 20-27.

East of the city is the huge Allegan State Forest, an area of hiking trails, camps and a favorite center for archers. The Swan Creek Wildfowl Sanctuary also is at Allegan.

Seventeen miles north of Saugatuck on US-31 is Holland, justly famous for its Tulip Festival each May.

The city is located on the shores of Lake Macatawa, where excursion boat rides vie with yachting. Ottawa Beach, where the smaller lake empties into Lake Michigan, is second only to Grand Haven in state park attendance. A short way east on M-21 is Zeeland, baby chick capital of the nation.

Grand Haven is next on highway US-31, which is limited access highway from this point north to Muskegon. Grand Haven State Park is the most popular in Michigan, with a million and a half visitors annually. In August, Grand Haven is the scene of the annual Coast Guard Festival.

It is now just a hop-skip-and-jump up US-31 to Muskegon, the northwestern anchor of the triangle, and the western end of I-96 in Michigan. July sees the annual Seaway Festival in Muskegon, an event that produces Miss Michigan and the state's official entry in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City.

☆

US-31 EAST to its intersection with I-1[illegible] leads [illegible] Grand Rapids, the metropolitan center of western Michigan and furniture capital of the world.

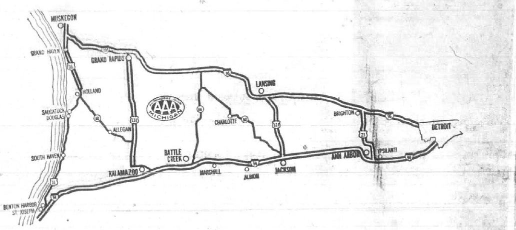

To the south, along US-131 and southeast of M-37, lies a lush area of farms, lakes and recreational areas that stretch down to I-94.

Taking I-96, the state's capital city, Lansing, and the gateway to other By-ways is next. West of the city, on M-43, is Grand Ledge, a rendezvous of many Michigan rockhounds.

The rocky ledges of the Grand River, which gave the city its name, offer unusual formations for collectors.

Straight west is Lake Odessa, a little resort town which annually stages the first Michigan country fair of the season, in early July.

Heading east from Lansing on I-96, motorists will pass one of the states major universities, Michigan State, and back along the northern border of the many recreational areas between there and Detroit.

Coast Guard Accelerates Recruiting

The Coast Guard Recruiting officer for the state of Michigan announced today that it has accelerated their recruiting program because of the large volume of men retiring after completing twenty years services since the beginning of World War II.

Regular enlistments are available for young men between the ages of 17 and 26 years and to age 35 for ex-servicemen. Enlistees fly to Cape May, New Jersey for their initial 12 weeks recruit training. "Buddies" who enlist together are sworn in and remain together through recruit training.

Young men interested in enlistment in the Regular Coast Guard are invited to write, call or visit the Coast Guard Recruiting Station, Room 108F Federal Bldg., Detroit 26, Michigan.

SOCIAL SECURITY Questions and Answers

QUESTION: I may return to work this year but I am not sure. When should I report this to the social security office?

ANSWER: When you return to work and expect to earn over $1200 in the year, you should immediately report the fact to the social security office.

QUESTION: I will receive dividend payments from stocks I have. Must I report this to social security?

ANSWER: No. Dividend payments do not have to be reported to social security. Only earnings from employment or self-employment are counted in the retirement test.

QUESTION: I am a widow with two young children. If I remarry should I report this to the social security office and, if so, when should the report be made?

ANSWER: You should report a month before your marriage. Social security payments for a widow stop with the check for the month before the remarriage takes place. Payments for the children will continue, and may even be increased.

QUESTION: I am a construction worker. Last year I worked for three different firms. I earned over $48000 at the first place I worked and paid the maximum tax. Later the other two firms also withheld tax on my earnings. I paid social security tax on over $8,500 in wages in 1962. What happens to the tax paid on the wages in excess of $4800?

ANSWER: On your individual income tax return, you may apply the additional tax on your Federal Income Tax due for 1962 or you may be entitled to a tax refund. Each employer is liable for social security tax up to $4,800 for each wage earner he employs.

QUESTION: How can I check my social security record?

ANSWER: You can obtain a self-addressed post card (Form 7004) at your local social security office for use in obtaining a record of income credited to your account. A statement of earnings cannot be furnished without a signed statement from you.

Special Meet for 4-H Club

A special meeting of the Raisin Cane 4-H group was held May 29.

Jane, Sue and Larry Jenkins decorated the float for Memorial Day parade.

Art Jenkins furnished the tractor and wagon used in the parade and leaders and members rode.

33 Units Join on Memorial Day for Best Parade

Thirty-three units participated in what has been said by several was the finest Memorial Day parade Tecumseh has offered.

Residents were generous with their praise for the efforts of Parade Marshall Richard L. Beasley and his assistant, Doug Aylesworth.

The Rev. Blair Bashore was the speaker at ceremonies at the Brookside Ce[illegible]. The Rev. Laszlo Gero gave the invocation and the benediction.

Mr. Beasley and Mr. Aylesworth expressed their gratitude to all the units and the organizations for their fine performance and co-operation in the parade especially mentioning the fine work of the Tecumseh High School Band under the direction of Don Johnson.

Ken Herrick Re-Named Board Chief

Kenneth Herrick, chairman of the Hospital board, was re-appointed Monday night by Council to a new five-year term.

John Surratt, local manager of Adrian Federal, was named to complete the unexpired term of Clarence Gilman, who resigned last month from the board.

Connie Schneider and Doris Boynton were appointed as co-chairmen for Gov. George Romney and Michigan's July 4 "Let Freedom Ring" program.

Dick Palmer Flies Solo at Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla.—Navy Ensign Richard L. Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Palmer of Britton, made his first solo flight in a military aircraft, May 7.

The flight was made at the Saufley Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station, here, while he was undergoing basic flight training in a propellor-driven aircraft.

It followed a dozen flights of dual instruction during which he learned to take off, manuever in flight and land.

The solo flight entiles him to advance to more demanding stages of the training. He will learn to fly in all types of weather conditions, communications procedure, navigation, aerial gunnery, checklist procedure and aircraft carrier landing techniques.

The 18-month program leads to a commission as a naval officer and designation as a Naval Aviator.

Before entering the service in February 1963, Ensign Palmer attended the University of Michigan.

Safety Expert Warns Parents

With the last days of school comes a warning from a safety expert who says parents hold the key to reducing child accidents.

"June, July, and August are the most dangerous months for children," says Robert Lewis of Royal Oak, chairman of the safety committee for the Michigan Congress of parents and teachers.

"It would help," he said, 'if the parents keep track of the whereabouts of their children and see that they are properly supervised."

Mr. Lewis points out that most child traffic occur within a block or two from home and that the child is to blame in the majority of cases.

"A safe route to the store is as important as a safe route to school,' the safety specialist emphasizes.

Mr. Lewis, who says bicycle accidents are on the increase, suggests that children under 12 not be allowed to ride bikes in the street, that bike riders follow traffic rules, ride with, not against the traffic flow, that parents remove riding privileges when the children disobey safety rules.

Commenting on the increased popularity of water sports, Mr. Lewis suggests that parents need to set better examples and enforce water safety rules when their family is boating, swimming, fishing or water skiing.

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADE BAND — In Memorial Day parade. Dean Hebb is playing the bass drum and Richard Sweet is on the snare drum. The band helped to make the parade one of the best in Memorial Day history.

Spanish Class Opens Thursday

The second series of Spanish classes for children at the Tecumseh Public Library, which were scheduled for Monday, June 3, will begin June 6 at 7 p.m.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

In sports, there's an interesting hit of terminology called "pulling a rock."

Translated, it means being responsibtle for a bonehead play. There's usually a great deal of irony connected with such an incident, often meaning the loss of a game or match.

Here are some fictional "rocks."

► BASEBALL — Team A is ahead by one run, it's the last of ninth and team B has runners on first and second, two out.

Batter hit sharp ground ball to third baseman, who fields it smartly. To end game and give his team a victory, all he must do is touch third.

He hears man on second rushing down base path, forgets someone was on first two, thinks he should tag runner, starts chasing him back to second, then throws wildly into right field, both men score and his team loses. A real rock.

► BASKETBALL. Team X leads 61-60 with 15 seconds to go. Team X has ball in backcourt and guard is dribbling towards 10-second line. He can make it over easily and start a stall.

For some unknown reason, he suddenly decides to make long pass to a team mate near the basket. His toss sails high, goes out of bounds.

Team Y grabs it, makes two quick passes downcourt, sinks a basket just as siren sounds. Credit the team X guard with a "rock."

The friendly fields of play aren't the only places one can "pull a rock," witness a lulu I uncorked in last week's paper.

In an ad for Underwood Chevrolet-Pontiac, there was the story of a "near brush with death with a happy ending." A Tecumseh man, Jim Mueller, escaped a freak car accident, but his vehicle was demolished.

His insurance man, Jim Records, and his auto dealer, John Underwood, combined to take care of Mr. Mueller's need in quick order.

From the time the adjustment proceedings began until a replacement 1963 Pontiac arrived at the Mueller home there was a scant three hours.

My job was to write this in ad form. Everything went smoothly BUT I fouled up the company which Mr. Records represents.

Seven days is a long time to wait to set things straight (I almost wrote "set the records straight," but this is no time for puns.)

Jim Records is an agent of State Farm Insurance, not the company that was mentioned in the ad.

When I got to talking about the booboo with Jim he was very nice and I told him I sincerely regretted the error, and that in my column this issue would be the correct data.

Jim told me a little about the firm and it turns out State Farm writes the most car protection insurance in this country—covering over 7½ million motorists.

Jim has nearly 1,000 clients in the area and about 25 called him after reading Underwood's ad to find out if he had switched firms. Which he hasn't of course.

Whenever something like this happens, in print or out, I like to look for a silver lining in the current cloud of black and there seems to be a moral in this situation.

It's amazing how much readership ads in The Herald have and how carefully folks go over nearly every line.

People don't comment too much about advertising which motivates them to buy. About the only time you can nail down the fact that people are perusing the ads is when someone pulls a rock.

I'll admit this is the hard way to go.

MOBILE PEA HARVESTERS GOBBLE UP CROP IN BRITTON AREA FOR CANNING COMPANY

Watershed Project Is Rolling Forward

Preparations to improve the River Raisin Watershed were termed "excellent" by a state official who attended Tuesday night's gathering at the Tecumseh Community Center.

Arlo Benzmann of Lansing, whose prime responsibilities touch watershed projects within the Soil Conservation Service, praised area leaders working on the Raisin effort.

He also reminded the 75 attending the session that "local people are in the driver's seat."

Mr. Benzmann explained that there are seven watershed projects in Michigan, one costing over $2½ million. The Raisin would be bigger.

Federal Government participation Under Public Law 566, which relates to waterways, will average out to about 75% to 80% of the total costs, he told the group.

☆

LENAWEE COUNTY Drain Commissioner Don Mitchell presented a proposed over-all program, adding that a citizens committee would have to guide the effort from this point.

Since PL 566 specifies that a watershed must not exceed 250,000 acres. The Raisin hits almost 800,000, including areas in Lenawee, Washtenaw, Hillsdale and Jackson Counties in Michigan and Fulton County in Ohio.

However, the Raisin could be broken into five separate watershed, none of which would top the 250,000 acre limit.

Mr. Mitchell outlined them:

► Main river, from Jackson County through Tecumseh to Monroe, 246,000 acres.

► Wolf Creek and south branch of Raisin, near Adrian

► Black and Bean Creeks

► Macon's Little Raisin and Swamp Creek

☆

THE MAIN river project would come first because of its importance, Mr. Mitchell said, and since it touches all Michigan counties, offers flood control and includes much of proposed recreation sections.

An initial application for federal assistance under PL 566 will come from local units of governments as sponsors, with drain commissioners in the affected counties acting as cosponsors.

It will be a long and tedious trail, but Mr. Mitchell was optimistic and said that 1964 could be set as a target date for the first construction.

Between now and then a tremendous public information program would be needed.

A new citizens steering committee is being formed, with representation from all sections of the watershed.

☆

NAMED TO this were:

► Dale Wagenknetch of Petersburg

► Clarence Ehlert of Palmyra

► Mrs. August Breckel of rural Adrian

► Harold Harr of rural Munith

► Bill Case of Dundee

► Royal Welch of Tecumseh

► Dick Kuntz of Manchester

They will submit a slate of possible candidate at the next general watershed gathering, Thursday, June 27 in the Community Center here.

ERNIE FORD MISSED FUN

Pea Pickers Perform

Tennessee Ernie Ford wasn't anyplace in sight, but the pea pickers have been out in force around Britton this week.

Giant mechanical pea pickers, that is, a battery of six which will strip a field of 60 acres in 20 hours.

This is the climax of a project for 10 Britton farmers and it would seem to be ending with great success.

☆

LAKE ODESSA Canning Co. contracted them several months ago to plant peas in an aggregate of 225 acres. All picking and processing would be handled by the firm and the growers would be paid $100 per ton.

The crop reached full maturity last weekend and the big mobile harvesters — each valued at $12,000 — rolled into operation Monday.

Their speed and efficiency is breath taking.

From the time the combines began rolling over the field at 6 a.m., only about 10 hours elapsed before the first load of peas was at the processing plant.

A tractor hauls each combine down a narrow mound of plants, which are cut by a mower and neatly pushed together only a few minutes earlier.

A conveyor in the center of the harvester pulls everything inside and the peas are separated from the vines and shucked. The warm little green balls then tumble out a shoot into a huge bucket at the rear of the apparatus.

When the bucket is filled, the rig is backed up to a pair of king-size tanks, loaded with 1,000 gallons of water and 2,000 pounds of ice. They sit on flat truck trailers.

The bucket, atop an hydraulic lift, is moved up and tipped into the tank.

☆

EACH OF the two tanks will hold about 16,000 pounds of peas. It takes the six combines about eight hours to fill the pair and then they're hustled to Lake Odessa, a two and one-half hour drive.

Once there, processing begins immediately.

The peas are taken from the ice water, quick-frozen in about 15 minutes, placed in 55-pound bags and stored in the firm's locker plant.

Some will be canned by Lake Odessa, but most will go in frozen form to Campbell Soup and Spartan Stores for final processing.

☆

YIELD FROM the Britton fields looks promising, reports William Allen, field supervisor from the canning company who is directing operations.

Monday's labors at Charles Studnicka's 10-acre planting produced approximately 24,000 pounds per acre, Mr. Allen explained.

If Tennessee Ernie ever saw this bunch of pea pickers at work, he'd really be impressed.

NEVER TOUCHED BY HUMAN HANDS—Lee Taylor watches giant bucket of peas grown on his land, being transferred to tank filled with ice water. Only time human hands touch crop is when a few peas spill over side. Basically machines pick, shuck and dump peas without workers fingering them.

A National Safety Council study of 658,000 traffic accidents reveals that nearly nine in ten occur at speeds below 40 miles per hour. Most accidents happen under "safe conditions" — clear, dry roads, daylight. Why? Worry, daydreaming, impatience — you name it. The plain fact is that many drivers don't look where they are going.

Adrian College men, 130 from Stevens Hall, presented the college with two United States 50-star flags. One, a three by eight foot flag equipped with standard and staff, will be placed in Dawson Auditorium. Another, five by eight foot flag will be flown from the flagpole on the Madison Street campus.

Musical Genius

INTERLOCHEN — The life story of Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, founder and president of the National Music Camp and Interlochen Arts Academy, will be released this month.

The biography, "Joe Maddy of Interlochen, tells for the first time in book form the story of America's "Pied Piper of Music," who 36 years ago started the National Music Camp here.

He had no money and only 115 campers. He battled numerous obstacles to shape its growth to its present enrollment of 1,400 youngsters every summer.

The warm, human story was written by Norma Lee Browning, Chicago Tribune reporter and feature writer for many national magazines.

☆

THE BOOK'S foreward was written by Van Cliburn, distinguished young pianist, who will appear at the National Music Camp on July 25 for his third benefit performance in three seasons.

He has described his visits at the camp as "the most memorable experiences of my professional career."

Miss Browning tells of Dr. Maddy's accidental exposure to group music which changed his life and, eventually, the lives of countless thousands of young musicians all over the world.

It relates the endless financial struggles besetting him throughout all the early years of the camp.

His headline-making battles with music czar James C. Petrillo and the National High School Orchestra's performance on the White House lawn in August, 1962, at the invitation of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy are related.

His realization of a 20-year dream when the Interlochen Arts Academy opened in September, 1962, as the nation's first boarding high school for boys and girls gifted in the arts, is also in the book.

A section of photographs traces Dr. Maddy's colorful career.

Sugar Prices Soar

The laws of supply and demand really work. Proof lies in the fluctuation of sugar prices this summer.

The price for a five pound sack of sugar soared last week to nearly $1.25 in northern Michigan.

Locally, the prices jumped anywhere from six to 14 cents per five pounds.

Kroger's reports a jump from 59 cents four weeks ago to 71 and back down to 61 cents. At the same time, A & P prices rose from 54 cents to 70 cents, and prices at the Country Market jumped from 59 cents to 65 cents.

☆

CONDITIONS ON the world market are to blame for the price increase, according to Larry Ewing of the Michigan Farm Bureau. It started in 1962.

► For many years there has been a world surplus of sugar.

► Prices dropped early in 1962 because of the surplus.

► At this point, sugar producing countries lowered production to raise prices.

► Then Cuba began diversifying its economy and cut down sugar production enormously.

► Unusual weather hit Europe,. and sugar beet production fell below normal.

► Sellers, viewing the shortage, kept asking and kept getting higher prices.

► All this plus the demand for soft drinks which reaches its peak in summer.

Ewing points to the Sugar Act developed by Congress over the years to assure the American public of an abundant supply through encouraging domestic beet production and by shifting sugar from various countries to replace former Cuban supplies.

How about Michigan's sugar-beet farmer? Those who grew beets in 1962 will find their final settlement checks slightly larger this summer, since palyments to farmers reflect changes in sugar prices either up or down.

Tecumseh Played Role in Early Negro History

By TOM BRIEN

Negro history is getting a big play these days and not everyone is looking to Africa for it.

The American Oil Company sent a curious little booklet to The Herald office entitled "American Travelers Guide to Negro Monuments." In it, historical markers and memorials are given brief descriptions.

Four Michigan memorials are included, but for some reason, probably because she wasn't colored herself, the Laura Haviland memorial in Adrian was not included.

Tecumseh played a role in the "Underground railroad" which transported Negroes to freedom into Canada.

☆

TECUMSEH was a station on one of two "railways" leading to Canada: one went through Adrian, Tecumseh, Saline, Ypsilanti and Detroit, the other went through Schoolcraft, Battle Creek, Marshall, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Plymouth and finally, Detroit.

"There is so little documentation about the "underground railway" that it is hard to tell just what part Tecumseh did play in it," Clara Waldron, Tecumseh historian, explained.

Miss Waldron is presently writing a history of Tecumseh from 1824 to 1924.

"The history will probably be completed in a year," she said, "but that will depend on my health."

So far Miss Waldron has finished 100 pages and is still in the 1830s. "That was the most eventful decade in Tecumseh's history," she explained.

☆

"THERE is actually more history written about early Tecumseh than about later Tecumseh," she noted. "The pioneers were very proud of their accomplishments, and in their later years, wrote and spoke about themselves."

"But there is little to tell about the underground," Miss Waldron continued, "because they were so secretive about it."

"The Quakers who settled along Valley Rd. between Adrian and Tecumseh were responsible for most of the activity," she claimed. "Despite many claims, only a few houses can be proved to have played a part."

The Sutton House in Tecumseh Acres; the corner house south of Wolf's Tire and Appliance at Russell Rd. and the Comfort house, which belongs to Mrs. Perry Hayden's family.

The house on Green Hwy. the first house south of Russell Rd.—was used to hide slaves when policemen were searching for them.

☆

"OCCASIONALLY southern policemen woul request northern policemen to find escaped slaves" Miss Waldron said, "but they didn't often come this far north."

"Laura Haviland was arrested several times, however," she explained, "because she made excursions down south to pick slaves up." Laura Haviland had a $3,000, dead or alive, price on her head at one time.

"The Sutton School was used to educate the Negro children who came into this area," she continued. "It was an industrial arts school that taught Negro and white children. Its conception was idealistic and impractical, however, and not too successful."

The Negroes became an integral part of Tecumseh life for several generations. "The last colored family left 10 or 12 years ago," Miss Waldron pointed out.

☆

THE MOST renowned Negro was George Washington, who claimed to have been born in Ann Arbor during his mother's flight to Canada. He came to Tecumseh in 1842 and lived with his grandmother "Black Hannah" Butler.

He never married and worked at various places in town. In 1875, he built a home on top of the bluff just west of the Globe Mill which became known as Mt. Vernon, because of his name.

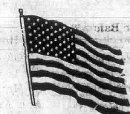

The other colored families best remembered in Tecumseh, Miss Waldron claims, include those of John Cannon, Theodore Wood, Alex Red, Clay Owens, The Grayson-Ridgeleys, a mason named Brown and the Collins family, who were the last to leave.

"Aside from this, there is very little documentated Negro history in Tecumseh," Miss Waldron added.

Enough, certainly, to have put Lenawee County in the American Oil Company's guide to Negro monuments.

Post Office Here Gets ZIP Code

Tecumseh five-digit ZIP Code is 49286, Postmaster Jack G. Metcalf announced today.

"Everyone in Tecumseh, Mich. should use this ZIP Code on all their correspondence to speed mail deliveries and reduce the chance of missent mail," Postmaster Metcalf said.

ZIP Code, the Post Office Department's revolutionary new system of improved mail dispatch and delivery, goes into effect nationally on July 1.

Postmaster Metcalf stressed the importance of all citizens learning the ZIP Code and using it in their return address.

In answering mail, he said ZIP Codes should be taken from return addresses. It should follow the city and state in addresses.

He cited this example of the proper use of ZIP Code:

Jack G. Metcalf
Postmaster
U. S. Post Office
Tecumseh, Michigan, 49286

The new ZIP Code plan will permit the Post Office Department to short-cut repeated address reading.

"The address on mail must often be read as many as eight or ten times by postal employees to get it to the proper destination," Mr. Metcalf said. "Each handling slows the process of mail dispatch and adds to the opportunity for human error."

Indelicate Side of 'The Women' Exposed by Clark Lake Players

The Clark Lake Players clawed and scratched their way through a rousing opening performance of Claire Booth Luce's "The Women."

If the all women cast of 35 looked at times like a raft of angry bobcats floating down a stream of alcohol and broken marriages, that was just what the playwright intended.

It was her intention to show the different types of women involved in the fast pace of contemporary society. And if she revealed the indelicate side of milady at the same time, that was alright too.

Most of the action takes place on New York's marriage-go-round with a group of femme fatales playing musical mattresses.

Husbands come and go as the scenes shift from the boudoir to the bathtub to Reno, Nevada and back again for a new round of husbands.

☆

HERE AND there, however, is an old fashioned sort who really wants a man for more than his money. And this is where the play gets it story and substance.

Mary Haines, played by Nancy Pobst, is torn from matrimonial bliss by a "sweet young thing" who wants hubby's money. Mary wants her husband, but lets her girl friends talk her into a divorce.

By the time she realizes the divorce was as much her fault as her faithless husband's, she is ready to try winning him back. She waits patiently for the new wife to make a mistake, and pounces.

DESPITE THE occasionally weak direction, "The Women" is fast paced and full of laughs. Carolyn Russell, as the continually married, always pregnant and relatively stable Edith Potter was funny every time she appeared. Of all the characters in a generally well cast play, Carolyn Russell seemed to carry her role best.

Worth Rowley, as the scheming, gossipy Sylyia Potter, and Helen Tarver, as Countess De Lage, a rich, stupid woman who traded in husbands as often as cars, were often hilarious and always in character.

Nancy Pobst, as the wronged and loyal wife, carried the difficult job of pretending to be true and genuine in a play that capitalized on "worldly" and often coarse humor.

Eve Bowen, as Mrs. Morehead, a somewhat doughty mother of Mary Haines, filled her relatively minor role well.

"The Women" is appearing again this week end at the Clark Lake Playhouse on Eagle Point at 8:30. The Clark Lake Players have scheduled six plays running on two successive weekends.

"Sunday in New York" will appear June 27, 28 and 29, and July 4, 5 and 6.

Emergency Road Signal to Aid Stranded Drivers

A new emergency road signal, to be given its 'pilot' test by the trucking industry in Michigan, may soon help to banish the fear most motorists have of being stranded miles from nowhere.

The signal, a light-reflective "pylon" which motorists can use to signal passing truck drivers for help, will receive an intensive six-week test in the Lansing area beginning Monday, June 17, and continuing through July 31.

The three-sided cardboard "pylon" was developed after various designs had been highway-tested for visibility by the Safety Department of the American Trucking Associations, Washington, D.C.

One side of the signal contains light-reflective red and white stripes, indicating that its user requires assistance. A second side, displaying green and white stripes, is a signal to approaching traffic that the vehicle is stopped, but help is not required. In either case, the highly reflective surface of the "pylon" will flash a warning to oncoming vehicles to use caution in passing.

The third side of the "pylon" contains a postcard which will enable a motorist who has received aid from a truck driver to provide both the Pure Oil Company and the driver's employer with the information necessary to give the driver proper recognition.

Theatre Springs to Life in Irish Hills

One expects to find magic in the Irish Hills. It shouldn't be surprising that springing up in this loveliest of settings is a classic repertory theatre — the Irish Hills Playhouse.

Opening the Classic Theatre Festival July 2 will be "Othello." Following on successive days will be "The Rivals," "The lady's Not for Burning," "Caesar and Cleopatra," and Much Ado About Nothing."

The Playhouse runs all five plays each week, showing the play that started the week, again on Sunday. This rotates the plays, so that if you went every Sunday night, you could see all five plays.

The Irish Hills Playhouse is the only classic repertory thea-

The production, direction, and force behind the performance is a husband and wife team, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Burns of Grosse Pointe.

Mr. Burns' association with the theatre extends over 14 years, during which time he directed community and educational theatre in Louisiana, Texas and Michigan. Mrs. Burns is co-producer and costume designer.

The cast selected from New York and Michigan includes ten professionals and another ten apprentices.

The title role in Shakespeare's Othello will be played by Cliff Frazier of Detroit. Mr. Frazier has experience in classic Greek and modern plays.

Donald Kint, originally of Jackson, Michigan, who has met with success both as an actor and director in New York, will be playing Cassio in Othello. His most ambitious work was the organization of "La Comedie Americaine", performing Molier's comedies in English.. The performance on Broadway extended beyond its scheduled run.

Robert I. Jones, a former student at Bradley University, currently studying for his PhD in philosophy at the University of Michigan, received high acclaim for his roles in Shakespeare's Richard III, Hamlet, and Macbeth. He received the Best Actor and Acting Achievement awards in 1959.

The apprentices, in true repertory tradition, have been cast in roles of varying significance.

One of the youngest members of these is Laura Seager, daughter of the writer, Allan Seager. Laura will play Desdemona in the Festival's opening play, Othello.

The producer-director, Larry Burns, will share the directing with Professor Robert Cagle of Bradley University, who will direct The Rivals. Dr. Cagle, head of the Bradley drama department, has had extensive experience as director of Shakespeare's works as well as modern works.

The Irish Hills Playhouse itself is housed in a rustic log and stone building which has the atmosphere of intimacy and congeniality. The use of a two-sided, "transpicous" stage is similar to the removable theatre used in the Hall of Queen's College, Cambridge in 1638. Modern scholarship believes that type of stage was used at the Globe, Fortune and Swann theatres of Shakespeare's time.

One of this season's most important and exciting undertaking in theatre is centrally located, less than 60 miles west of Detroit and Wamplers lake. It is a 20 minute drive from Toledo, Jackson, and Ann Arbor. You will find it on U. S. 12, just west of the entrance to the W. J. Hayes State Park.

Tickets may be reserved or purchased at the box office. For further information, write The Irish Hills Playhouse, Onsted, Michigan.

Kiwanians Hear Report on Survey

Dr. Benjamin Johnson, associate professor of Epidemiology at the University of Michigan told Kiwanis Club members that the second phase of the Tecumseh Area medical survey is just about one-third done.

He said that as of June 1 nearly 3,000 people had been examined.

He added that the national Heart Institute is now sponsoring the survey. It is very interested in many of the statistics now becoming available.

Dr. Johnson said it was disclosed that many people in the Tecumseh area might have better health now and live longer because of the survey.

Richard Myers, president, conducted the meeting and board meeting held after the program.

Guests included Melvin Dye of Adrian and Gene Bouchard.

DAR State Regent Tells Membership of Michigan Work

State Regent Mrs. W. Wiedlea of Sturgis spoke to 18 members of the DAR Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Neil Pearson.

Her subject was "Why DAR?"

Mrs. Wiedlea said the DAR was the strongest and largest patroitic organization in the state with 187,000 members.

She told the group of work done by the DAR in Michigan.

A picnic luncheon was served on tables decorated with a lovely variety of flowers from the Pearson garden.

Mrs. Pearson conducted a short business meeting in the absence of Regent Mrs. George Wittrup.

Mrs. Arthur Brown reported on "National Defense."

The next meeting will be a potluck lunch to be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Every on Munger Rd. Sept. 13.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

If you are one of the men who have been complaining about the high cost of living (and what normal person hasn't) and have about decided to take a slow boat to darkest Africa, be sure and take your wife with you, we read by the paper that inflation has hit the African wife market.

In the good old days you could get a bride by the simple exchange of a few cows or goats. But now they want cash. Even though the father of the bride takes livestock, he wants cows, bulls (not the kind to be tossed around), sheep, goats, hoes, arrows, and spears.

And in the places where they have price control, fathers have been known to expect 'under-the counter' cows!

What really worries us is . . . there must be no sentimental Congressmen left in Washington. Otherwise there would have been a Foreign Aid program to help these needy people. Shades of romance . . . what is the world coming to?

Well, we do not deal in wifes . . . but we sure deal with them. It is our opinion the American housewife can make a dollar go further than our Astronauts have travelled. I'll bet if they were dealing in the African wife market they would end up with two cows under-the-counter.

The male population is getting into this shopping business too. You would be surprised how many men select and buy most of their wifes clothes.

We have a number of them for customers, they tell us they like to shop at Clinton Woolen because of the friendly relaxed atmosphere. Believe me they know style, quality and good values.

You had better come over and select your summer playclothes before they are gone.

Special — we just received a shipment of Crib Blankets, 42" x 57", white, 65% wool — 35% nylon, priced at $3.45 The fabric alone in these blankets is worth a lot more than the price of the blanket.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

Revolutionary changes in public attitudes toward mental illness and programs to treat it are under way in Michigan. A primary change is the fundamental shift in the public's view toward mental illness which has taken place in the last few years.

There was a time when people thought the only way to deal with a person afflicted with mental illness was to put him away in an institution, where he would remain safely forgotten.

In recent years, however, psychiatrists have shown that mental illness is often curable, and that many patients now in hospitals do not need to remain there.

They have shown that many people afflicted by mental illness need not be hospitalized in the first place, and that the readmission rate of patients formerly hospitalized can be drastically reduced.

☆

THE SUCCESS of this treatment depends largely on its availability during the early stages of mental illness, the period when treatment is most effective.

This means that treatment must be available at the community level, where those afflicted can receive it without seriously disrupting the normal pattern of their lives.

Local mental health facilities can prevent hospitalization for three out of four people afflicted by mental illness. It can also reduce the enormous cost of building and staffing mental hospitals, you can see how desirable it is to keep as many mentally-afflicted people out of them as possible.

The State Department of Mental Health estimates that it costs an average of $1 a day per patient to care for the mentally ill if they can be released from the hospital, compared to a cost of $5.25 per patient per day in the hospital.

The costs of caring for mental health in fiscal year 1950-51 was $30.8 million. In 1962-63, it was $78.8 million.

☆

RECOGNIZING THE great human and financial benefits that would result from putting more emphasis on community care programs, I asked the Legislature to pass the Community Mental Health Services Bill. The bill was approved by the Legislature with bipartisan support.

This new law will allow boards of supervisors in one or more counties to establish a community mental health board consisting of 12 members.

The board would be empowered to devise and administer a mental health program for the district covered. It would submit the program to the State Department of Mental Health. If the state approved it, it would match local funds with from 40 to 60 per cent of the cost of the program.

As communities take advantage of this law, the emphasis in care of the mentally ill will shift from the state to the community level.

This shift could save millions of dollars, keep untold thousands of the mentally ill out of hospitals, increase the percentage permanently cured and give local communities more effective control of programs for the treatment of the mentally ill.

Farm Bureau Backs Broad Tax Reform

Michigan farmers have made it plain that they strongly support a broad tax-reform program that will lead to "a more equitable tax structure" for Michigan.

In an appearance in Detroit before one of Governor Romney's meetings with concerned groups Robert Smith of the Michigan Farm Bureau pointed out that Michigan property is now carrying more than 47 per cent of the total Michigan tax load. He said that any tax reform must serve to balance property taxes with other sources of revenue.

A return of one percent of the sales tax to counties on a per capita basis, would serve to reduce local property taxes nearly 5 mills, based on state equalized values, said Stanley Powell, legislative counsel.

The Farm Bureau representatives indicated that the big farm organization called for repeal of the business activities tax, the "intangibles" tax, and certain other taxes that deal with personal property. "We believe a broad-based flat rate income tax is the most equitable method of replacing lost revenue," they said.

AIR POLLUTION SAMPLER

Two more pollution devices are being set up by the Tecumseh Community Health Study to measure carbon monoxide thrown into the air by automobile exhaust.

The devices are housed in cabinets eight feet long, five feet high, and two feet wide. One will sit on the ground between the Adrian Federal Savings & Loan Association building and Pickard's Floral shop, and the other at the wind velocity tower at Meyer's airport.

Housed in the grey, bulky cabinet are instruments worth $5,000 that can measure concentrations of carbon monoxide as low as one part in a million parts of air by an infra red absorption process.

The large cabinets were put there by the University of Michigan as part of its continuing Community Health Study, which is interested in carbon monoxide as simply one more aspect of the environment in which people live and work.

The University plans to leave the devices in Tecumseh for at least a year. They will add to the many devices that the University has placed in several locations in Tecumseh and in the nearby rural area during the past year.

Other devices collect samples of air which are measured for total solid matter, sulfur dioxide, lead tetrethyl and lead tetramethyl, iron, calcium, and aluminum. Other gases will be samples in the future such as oxides of nitrogen, aldehydes, and phenols.

These air pollution studies are under the direction of Professor Paul Giever of the University's School of Public Health. Prof. Giever has also directed air pollution studies in Detroit and Ann Arbor. He expects to compare the different results obtained in a large city, a medium sized city, and a small city.

In places like Los Angeles, Detroit and Pittsburgh, air pollution is a serious health problem. It is not believed that there are dangerous amounts of these pollutants in the air in Tecumseh. But the fact that there is some makes it a factor to be studied.

236 Drownings Reported in Michigan During '62

Lenawee County was one of 27 Michigan counties reporting three or more deaths in water accidents in 1962 it was reported by the Michigan State Police. There were four deaths, three of these Lenawee residents.

Throughout the state, there were 236 deaths and 191 injuries reported, with Wayne County reporting 29 deaths. There were 26 fewer drownings than in 1961, and 15 fewer than in 1960.

The largest number of deaths, 96, involved swimmers and waders. Otherwise, 49 fell into the water 36 were boat operators, 29 boat passengers, and 12 fell through the ice.

Six drowned while attempting to rescue another and four drowned while skin diving. No water skiers were reported drowned.

Women were much safer in the water. Only 33 women drowned compared to 203 men.

Sunday afternoon from 2 until 7 p.m. was the most critical period. Wednesday and Saturday afternoons were the next most dangerous periods.

The greater proportion of accidents took place during clear weather and on calm water.

The Police report that many accidents are not reported. Some counties report more fatal accidents than injuries.

Material covered included: Highway Safety, Driver Liability, Laws, Policies, Emergencies, Human relations, Records and reports, Maintenance and First Aid.

Various resource persons were used including County officials, State Police, Railroad officials, and School Personnel.

Altogether sixteen local school bus drivers attended these classes.

Those completing the course were: Mrs. Clifford Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mrs. Woody Bailey, Mrs. Hugh Fowler, Jack Hollenbeck, Mrs. Gaza Kish, Mrs. Carl Williams, and Mrs. Donald Woods.

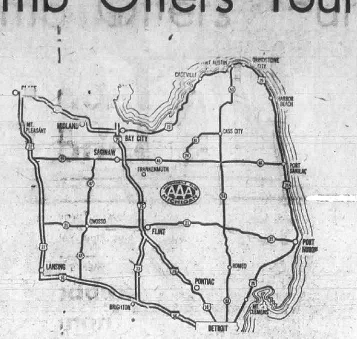

Mrs. Lang Starts French Speaking Summer School

Mrs. Walter P. Lang of Monroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dickinson, 215 N. Maiden Lane, is attending a summer school institute for teachers of French at Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y.

No language but French may be spoken at all. The school is operated in co-operation with the US Office of Education under the Language Development Program.

Thumb Offers Tourist Variety

Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of travel articles entitled "How to Make Eyeways out of I-Ways." This week's article covers that section in southeastern Michigan from Detroit to the Thumb, and from Lansing to Clare.)

The motorist who wants different places can have them all on a trip of 440 miles. He can see the blue waters of Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay, industry, the state capital and educational centers, to name just a few. Coming from the west, the I-Ways will help him reach the Thumb's Eye-Ways. But don't pass up those en route.

The variety in this area includes swimming, boating and other water recreation; picnicking, fishing and visits to man-made marvels of industry, said Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager.

There are extensive facilities to help the visitor enjoy the water. More than a dozen public bathing beaches dot the Thumb Shoreline. Protected harbors and marinas in nearly every city and village and at a number of waterside parks appeal to both boating and non-boating motorists. Many are new and extensive.

By way of contrast with the sparsely populated Thumb area are the cities and counties to the west in this segment of Michigan, headed by Flint, home of General Motors' Buick and Chevrolet cars. Here, too, are scores of other manufacturing plants, large and small. Flint's College of the University of Michigan and the Flint Cultural Center combine to make one of the finest cultural centers in the nation.

☆

IN THE SOUTHERN part of Genesee County, a large concentration of lakes offer fishing, boating, swimming and other resort activity. Fenton, off US-23, is surrounded by 52 lakes within an eight-mile radius, said Fisher.

Saginaw was the timber capital of the world before the turn of the century. Today its manufactured products are distributed throughout the world, and its agriculture makes the county a leading producer of sugar beets, beans and wheat.

The Chevrolet Grey Iron Foundry, one of the world's largest, is typical of Saginaw industry. Saginaw County has nearly 600 miles of streams and tributaries for fishing and boating and two wildlife sanctuaries.

A point of interest in Owosso is Curwood Castle, workshop of the late novelist James Oliver Curwood. Owosso also is the home town of Thomas E. Dewey, former New York governor and twice Republican presidential candidate.

Several sizable oil refineries are found in Gratiot County. St. Louis, at US-27 and M-46, is the geographical center of the Lower Peninsula. This also is the home of the Michigan Chemical Co., pioneer of the DDT field.

Bethany Indian cemetery, two miles north of St. Louis on the Pine River, is of historical interest. Originally it was the site of the Bethany Mission, founded shortly before 1848. A towering cross marks the burial place of some 30 Indians.

Midland is best known as the home of the Dow Chemical Co., which operates one of the largest chemical plants in the world.

Conducted plant tours are offered Monday through Friday, June 15 through Sept. 15. Don't overlook the Dow Gardens, designed by the late Herbert H. Dow and his wife in 1899.

Pontiac, largest city in Oakland County, is surrounded by 423 lakes that provide ideal fishing, boating, bathing and picnic facilities. Situated here are three large General Motors plants and many others.

The six non-profit Cranbrook Institutions occupy 300 landscaped acres on Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. Visitors are welcome to explore the grounds and, for a small feee, visit the park and gardens of Cranbrook House, former home of founder George G. Booth, said Fisher.

If you're a fishing enthusiast, take along your gear to angle for perch, bass, pike and other kinds. At Lexington, Port Sanilac and elsewhere you may join fishermen on the convenient park piers.

At Wagoner County Park near Harbor Beach, hip-booted anglers stroll several hundred yards out into shallow Lake Huron, casting for bass. Boats can be rented at many piers.

Of particular interest is Huron City, a pioneer lumbering town preserved as it was when lumbering dominated life in the upper Thumb nearly a century ago. Its half-dozen buildings provide glimpses of the rugged pioneer days through preservation of the architecture, furnishings, dress and customs of those times.

Huron City is adjacent to the Blue Water highway, as are most other stopping points along the Thumb route. US-25 and M-25 rarely stray more than a mile from the shore and are never more than five miles away.

At least two days are recommended for a trip around the Thumb. This will give time for thorough explorations of natural and artificial attractions, along with recreation and relaxation. A weekend is ideal.

☆

THE DETROIT-AREA motorist has two routes to Port Huron —M-29, the more scenic route, which follows the St. Clair River, and US-25, three-lane and 13 miles shorter than the M-29 route, said Fisher.

Two blocks north and two blocks east of the center of Port Huron is a small but conveniently located park overlooking the St. Clair River. From it one can look down into the clear blue-green water, watch huge ships steam under the Blue Water Bridge a half-mile away.

Ten miles north of Port Huron, the highway bisects Lakeport State Park. Lakeport is quiet and usually cool. Drives and large parking lots are newly graded and improved. The shaded picnic ground is adjacent to the parking area.

Beyond, the terrain rises gradually to a 15-foot bluff that overlooks a mile-long sandy beach and a commercial shipping lane several miles offshore. A bathhouse and clean and numerous rest facilities are available.

North of Lakeport is the tiny, attractive village of Lexington, which is expanding its fishing pier and marina facilities. Beyond Lexington, the resort and commercial establishments that extend out from Port Huron begin to disappear. On one side of the highway is gently rolling farm land, with some apple and peach orchards. On the other side are frequent glimpses of Lake Huron, said Fisher.

At Port Sanilac, anglers fish for perch and pike on the pier-marina. A small but well-kept park with a dozen or so picnic tables is nearby.

North of Port Sanilac is an area of sparse population and natural wildness that extends most of the way to Port Austin, 55 miles north. Halfway to Port Austin is Harbor Beach, its harbor watched by Coast Guardsmen who keep a 24-hour vigil from a lighthouse several hundred yards off the shore. The harbor also houses a large marina and spacious park.

Port Hope, "the Little Town with a Big Welcome," is the site of Stafford County Park, which has boats for rent, plus picnic and camping areas.

Historic Huron City is less than 10 miles farther along US-25. Four of its six buildings, all depicting life in the great lumbering days during the last half of the 19th century, are open to the public and a fifth is in the offing.

The village has been perpetuated by descendants of lumber magnate Langdon Hubbard and his son-in-law, William Lyon Phelps, noted professor of English literature at Yale University and guest minister of the Huron City Chapel for many years. The William Lyon Phelps Memorial Museum is the first stop on a guided tour of the city by young ladies in costume.

From Huron City, US-25 continues west across the tip of the Thumb toward Port Austin. Signs direct motorists on the several-mile trip to Grindstone City, whose name is a memorial to days when grindstones were widely used. There are a number of six-foot grindstones and remains of grindstone quarries. A large marina occupies the old freighter slips.

☆

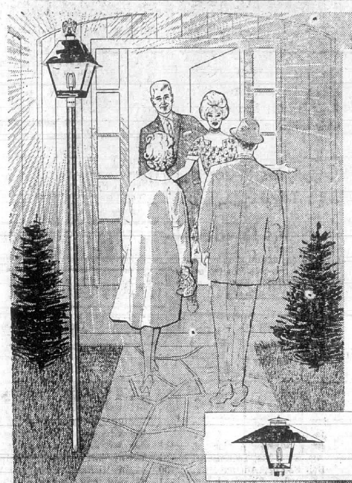

PARKS ALONG Saginaw Bay are crowded on warm, sunny summer weekends, but most are very attractive and well maintained. Tree-shaded Jenks Park, just west of Port Austin, is small, but one can picnic on a 15-foot sandy bluff overlooking the sandy beach, shaded by trees atop the bluff, said Fisher.

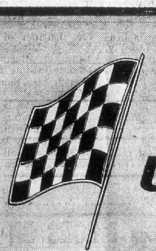

Three more parks, well-equipped and adjacent to the highway, precede Sleeper State Park. Largest and most popular of the parks along the periphery of the Thumb, Sleeper has a full mile of shoreline in its more than 900 acres. Pure, white sand graces the wide, attractive beaches and is overlooked by a bluff with picnic tables and trees.

A half-dozen miles west of Sleeper Park is Caseville, a resort town with extensive boating and marina facilities. Southwest of Caseville, the highway veers away from the bay. The drive is attraictive though, running through wooded areas where cone shaped evergreens line the highway.

Ten miles farther is Sebewaing, center for duck and pheasant hunters who flock to both public and private hunting areas.

From Unionville, where M-25 swings west toward Bay City, motorists returning to the Detroit area have at least two routes. One is to follow Saginaw Bay to Bay City, via M-25, then swing south on Interstate 75. A shorter route, via two-lane highways, is M-138 south of Unionville, continuing south on a county highway where M-138 turns west toward Akron, then east to M-24 at Caro.

THEY LEAD PROGRAM — July 4th will see a new tradition being established across the United States. Bells will ring for four minutes at 1 p.m. in a program called "Let Freedom Ring!" In Michigan the Hi-Y Clubs of the Michigan YMCAs, at the request of Governor Romney, have assumed the responsibility of coordinating the program. Directing the campaign are, rear from left, Robert White of Mt. Pleasant, Rick Hoffman of Haslett, Robert Gazetti of Hancock; and Gene Powers of Dearborn. Front from left, Sue Laliberte of Kingsford, David Dekker of Grand Rapids, Elizabeth Davies of Alma, Roger Mallette of Sault Ste Marie and Mike Evanoff of Grand Blanc. The bell ringing, "will serve as a solemn tribute to our country's founders and as a rededication to our national unity and our undying devotion to our country and for what it stands," said Governor Romney in his official proclamation of the celebration.

LOCAL BUSINESS

What is the competitive status of the very small advertiser in a small city?

This question is often raised by small shops or service units, and a typical follow-up comment is, "My gross will not permit me to buy more than a few inches of advertising in the local newspaper consistently; that would be wasted among the large ads of the big companies"

The truth is the opposite of the above assumption. Advertising research—and there has been a great deal of it during the past 25 years — indicates that the small advertiser gets a larger percentage return on his investment than the big advertiser.

Also, it has been conclusively demonstrated that the smaller the newspaper, and the closer it is to community affairs, the more intensively will advertising be read.

For instance, less than one per cent of the readers of a New York City newspaper may be expected to read a want ad. On the other hand, 98% of the readers of a small community newspaper have been found to read a single want ad.

Thus, the very small merchant, the individual service expert, the new lunch stand, have two factors working in their favor when they use local newspaper advertising.

They can get a larger audience per dollar than the page advertiser; they can be assured of an intensely interested readership simply because they are using the community newspaper.

Penelope Niblack Marries Richard Becker

Penelope Una Niblack wed Richard C. Becker June 15 in an afternoon ceremony at Ridgeway Methodist Church amid a setting of tall gold baskets filled with white and pink peonies softened by potted palms and branch candelabra faced with flowers.

The bride approached the altar on a white carpet in the center aisle marked with white peonies and pink satin bows. The Rev. Robert A. Mitchinson officiated.

MRS. RICHARD C. BECKER

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Niblack, 310 E. Chicago Blvd. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Becker of Eagle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in a white Schiffli embroidered nylon chiffon gown, fashioned with a scoop neckline above a fitted bodice accented with seed pearls, and featuring bracelet length sleeves.

The bouffant skirt, worn over family heirloom hoops and petticoats, was designed with embroidered panels and had a chapel-length train.

A Swedish crown of crystals and pearls held her bouffant veil of imported English silk illusion.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white orchids and roses, with strands of miniature ivy.

Her going-away corsage was of white carnations and stephanotis.

Matron of Honor, Mrs. Raymond Lidster, sister of the bride, was gowned in mint green cotton batiste fashioned with a wide square neckline, cap sleeves and hint of a dome skirt.

White batiste embroidered with tiny tea roses inset a flat bow in front.

Long and Short

By TOM RIORDAN

Have you ever been to Interlochen and seen Joe Maddy's National Music Camp?

Two summers ago, as the Riordans headed to the tip of Michigan for our vacation, a sign popped up along the road "Interlochen, two miles."

Having heard and read so much about this haven of fine music, it only seemed natural to take a look.

It turned out to be an exciting, interesting and informative visit, probably never to be forgotten.

Other people have evidently had the same delightful experience and thanks to that little roadside sign, there's a new book being released this month, "Joe Maddy of Interlochen."

The author, Norma Lee Browning, is a Chicago Tribune staffer who also does free lance work with her husband, a photographer.

They were in northern Michigan on an assignment and just as we had, spied the sign and went to take a look. Mrs. Browning had been a musician in her high school days and had always dreamed of going to the summer music camp, but never quite made the grade.

When she actually saw Interlochen, she was completely smitten. Her book was the result.

Learning the times and trials of Joe Maddy is fascinating. One paragraph sums up a lot: "There was one thing about Joe Maddy that always intrigued those who knew him over the years: part of his genius stemmed from never knowing when he was licked."

At one time, his music camp was $145,000 in the red with little hope of making up the deficit. Yet, he managed to do it.

Joe's latest "wild dream" was full-time high school for youngsters with rare talent.

Even his closest friends told him this idea was absolutely insane and never could happen. Last fall, Joe's School opened for the first year.

But these seem to be only pin pricks in the career of Joe Maddy, who quit school in the ninth grade — because academic subjects bored him and he wanted to enter Wichita College of Music.

He became a member of the highly-regarded Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra when only 17, went on to master almost every musical instrument there is.

An experience in Minneapolis — not being able to move up in the violin section because Joe bucked senority — prompted a method of "chair challenge" that he employed as a high school bandmaster and later at his music camp.

At Interlochen, this is referred to as "bloody Friday" and on that day each week any musician, regardless of age or experience, may challenge any other for his position. The kids thrive on the competition and the winners are chosen by vote of their fellows after each has performed a designated passage.

Instead of discouraging the teenagers, "b[illegible]" bouts spur them on to greater heights — and at the outset these kids are among the best young musicians in the United States.

During the Twenties, Joe was swept into the field of jazz in Chicago to keep eating and although he was one of the hottest clarinet players in the Windy City, he was thinking only of the time he could help youngsters learn the world of music.

Joe's big break came when he went to Rochester, N.Y. to organize music in schools there. It was all new and Joe ended up preparing his own text. Young musicians can be happy about this because it evolved into a volume called "Universal Teacher," which is still used as a basic textbook in beginning music classes.

But Rochester school officials and Joe were in for a jolt.

I'll tell you about it next week.

HAS LEAD ROLE IN "OTHELLO"—Tecumseh's Laura Seager is going to be Desdemona in "Othello", which opens the repertory season at Irish Hills Playhouse on US-12 Tuesday evening. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Seager of Tecumseh, is one of 10 apprentices in the resident-professional acting company. Laura will also have a role in "The Lady's Not for Burning." Last summer she appeared in the Irish Hills offering of "The Importance of Being Eearnest." Laura's first stage experience came in the initial Tecumseh Players' production, "Charley's Aunt."

Water Pressure Critical

A surge in water usage Monday has alarmed city officials to the point they're asking residents to limit watering their lawns.

City Manager Cal Zorn reports 3,339,000 gallons of water were used in Tecumseh Monday, a near record for the community with a still long, hot summer ahead.

What alarmed officials most was the drop in water pressure and water storage.

Between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. Monday, water pressure dropped from the normal 42 lbs. per square inch to 32 lbs.; and, users also drained the elevated tank on S. Wyandott and lowered storage in the E. Chicago Blvd. tower by 23 feet.

Lack of sufficient pressure and water storage could be dangerous to the community in case of a bad fire, or fires.

In an effort to eliminate similar conditions in the future, the city manager is asking residents living in even-number houses to water lawns only on even days, and odd-number houses on odd days only.

Six of the city's seven wells were operating Monday in an effort to keep the water level and pressure up. Only through auxiliary power to the other well could officials have kept pace.

Tecumseh wells and pumps can provide 2,700 gallons of water per minute or about 3,800,000 gallons a day. This is usually sufficient to keep the 300,000-gallon Wyandotte St. elevated tank full and 239,000 gallons in the Chicago Blvd. tower.

Water usage is up through the week — over 3,000,000 gallons per day, Monday through Friday of last week — but generally down on the weekends to about 2,500,000 gallons.

Watershed Gathering

Leaders for the River Raisin Watershed project will be elected Thursday evening in the Tecumseh Community Center at 7:30.

Interested residents from the four-county area, who attend the session, will choose a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and reporter.

☆

THE WATERSHED, covering nearby 800,000 acres, touches Lenawee, Hillsdale, Washtenaw and Monroe Counties in Michigan. It also dips into Fulton County, Ohio.

Already given a go-ahead by Michigan officials, the Raisin effort can be completed with Federal Government aid. In such projects, the government furnishes almost 80% of the funds, the rest coming locally.

A nominating committee will present a slate of candidates for consideration Thursday. There will also be nominations from the floor.

First order of business, following the election, will probably be the filing of an official request for government participation under Public Law 566. (Editorial on this subject, front page of next section.)

Another task facing the officers and their committees will be to line up various local units of government to act as sponsors of the project, which will be co-sponsored by drain commissioners in the various counties.

An intense educational program for areas to be affected by watershed reclamation will by far be the citizens committee's biggest single task.

A column in Sunday's Blade by Don Wolfe, assistant managing editor, had at least one farm wife up in arms. Don reported that farm tractors were glutting Tecumseh's Chicago Blvd. (slight exaggeration).

"We'll take our trade to Britton," the woman warned.

Tractors on the highway do cause some concern, but most Tecumsehland folks recognize that this is farming country and are happy to accept the slow traffic with the fast. Don was sort of carried away in his Blade story, but we like him so much we'll have to forgive and forget.

CLINTON WOOLEN CHATTER

By EL and FRIENDS

You often hear people (usually th male species) say that women are vain and conceited. Well, honestly, all you have to do is work in our place for a few days and you will certainly change your mind about that.

We have been fitting clothes on women for a number of years and so help us, we haven't had one admit being satisfied with her figure! They are too thin, too tall, too heavy, too short, there isn't one who will try on a new outfit and say . . . "My, but I do look lovely in this."! If one ever does, there will be no more of this chatter, because we will be floating around in that special Heaven reserved for salespeople. On the other hand, it is just human nature to try and look our best in summer and this is the most trying time for any woman's . . . or man's wardrobe. We expect the most from hot weather clothes and we always want to pay the least for them.

The best of summer is yet to come so be prepared to enjoy it looking your best. We have a good collection of both ladies' and men's sportclothes, swimwear and beach wear.

Around the resorts up North we notice bermudas or stretch pants with overblouses are leading the parade with the gals. On the beaches one sees both two-piece and one piece swim suits. It is interesting to note, at a recent meeting of young men on Water Safety, a vote was taken on their preference of girls in one or two piece swim suits . . . The one piece won by a landslide . . . the reasons they gave were the majority of girls look better in a one piece and have more sex appeal. Remember, gals, we didn't say it the boys did.

We also saw more men in swim trunks of prints and plaids, California Style than in the past year or two when the stretch trunk was the only kind. Many were wearing them for all around playtime instead of bermudas. Anyway come on over and pick out the kind you like best.

First Frost of Summer Hits County

A frost hit many parts of Lenawee County Friday night in low pocket areas, according to John Comstock, director of Agricultural Extension Service.

Not all of the corn that was hit will be gilled, he claimed, but the frost will depress yields.

Some of the damage being reported is "sun scald," Mr. Comstock noted. Sun scald comes when hot, sunny weather follows quickly after showers.

Several farmers in the Tecumseh area reported severe damage, however.

"Our corn is a complete loss," Mrs. Frank Csokasy, 6548 Smith Rd., claimed "The potatoes were frozen badly but will come qut of it.'

"This is the first time we've had a summer frost in 24 years," Mrs. Csoksay claimed.

"Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear." J27,p

VOICE OF THE HERALD

Drain Commissioner Plays Key Role

A major step in the River Raisin Watershed project was taken last week and a fellow deserving a lion's share of the credit is Don Mitchell, Lenawee County drain commissioner.

Mr. Mitchell is well versed in Public Law 566, the one wh[illegible] induce federal government participation in the undertaking to the extent of almost 80% of the total costs.

In lending assistance to interested local citizens, the drain commissioner presented a proposed application to Washington under PL 566. It is done with great care and skill. Probably, Mr. Mitchell's model can be used almost in its entirety when the time comes to file.

We would like to quote from it:

► What are present watershed problems?

"This river is being depended upon more and more for agricultural and municipal drainage as well as providing water supplies to growing communities and irrigation for an expanding agriculture.

"An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 acres of improved crop land along the river in the Blissfield, Deerfield and Petersburg area are frequently damaged by flooding from the river.

"The Raisin River at one time provided considerable recreation to local people in the area in the way of swimming, fishing and canoeing.

"Recent years have seen this river neglected and made unusable for these purposes by great amounts of silt carried in the flow from soil erosion and by increasing amounts of residential and industrial wastes being emptied into the river.

"Past years also saw many dams upon the Raisin River and some of its tributaries for the purpose of developing local power for milling, electricity and ice cutting.

"These installations also tended to help stabilize the flow and control flooding. Times have changed. Most of these installations are gone. Most of those remaining are not being used or are in need of improvements.

"The river basin was once a natural fish and wildlife habitat but man's use and abuse have seriously damaged it. Certain areas of the river basin need to be established, protected and improved for wildlife benefits.

"Silt and sediment collecting in the lower end of the river is causing an unsightly and unhealthy condition at Monroe. Sediment deposited at critical points in the many sharp turns have caused the river channel to change course at several points and diverted the flow in such a way as to cut seriously into banks. Several roads are being threatened by this damage."

► W[illegible] improvement believed to be [illegible]

"The Raisin River needs cleaning, deepening, widening, and straightening, of the channel stabilizing the banks of the main stream and establishing erosion control practices upon the land of the watershed for the purpose of:

A. Controlling soil erosion

"B. Improving agricultural drainage

"C. Aleviating unhealthy and unsightly conditions

"D. Improving the quality of water for municipal use

"E. Providing community recreation.

"Several dams need to be constructed at strategic sites creating reservoirs of water and storage capacity for purposes of flood control, increasing the supply of water for municipal use, providing community recreation and improving fish and wildlife habitat.

"Existing mill ponds located in the City of Tecumseh, the village of Clinton and the Village of Manchester need to be cleaned and enlarged for the purpose of improving health, recreation and wildlife habitat conditions in those communities as well as contributing generally to the necessary improvements of the river downstream.

"Existing dams in the City of Monroe, Village of Dundee and Petersburg need improvements for the purpose of further stabilizing the river flow and facilitating municipal water use.

"Stored flood waters are needed to augment the low flow during dry periods for the purpose of diluting the existing waste materials and providing an increased supply of better quality water for downriver municipal use."

☆

AT LAST WEEK'S MEETING, Mr. Mitchell explained that since PL 566 limits projects to 250,000 acres, the River Raisin effort can be broken into five different segments, each under the maximum amount. All told, the Raisin watershed encompasses almost 800,000 acres.

We were greatly impressed by Mr. Mitchell's presentation and think that his ideas will materially assist in helping to start the vast undertaking towards its conclusion.

As was pointed out several times, this is primarily a local project and the drive and vigor must come from interested people within the watershed area.

We Vote for Adoption of Metric System

The National Collegiate Athletic Association took a step toward sanity recently by moving to standardize all track and field measurements with the metric system.

The NCAA track and field rules committee is edging toward adopting it in place of the long used yards and inches. This would make American track events equivalent to those regulated by the International Amateur Athletic Association, which governs the sport around the world.

America could follow the leadership of the NCAA and revise their weight and linear measure into the logical, more easily handled metric system.

The metric system is common to all of Europe, with the exception of England, which is slowly changing over.

It is based on units divisible by 10, like our monetary system. Instead of the apparently haphazard linear measurement we now have (which is not divisible by any particular number) we would have a clear, uniform table.

One first reaction is to ask "Why should we change? We know our system."

But do we? Everyone knows the length of an inch, a foot, a yard, and a mile. But how many off-hand the length of a rod? a furlong? a league? a knot? a fathom? And if they don't, how are they going to find out?

Or again, everybody knows what constitutes a pint, a quart, and a gallon. But how many know what constitutes a barrel? a hogshead? Moreover, there is no way of figuring it out from 1 quart. A barrel is an arbitrary 31½ gallons and a hogshead is an arbitrary two barrels.

With the metric system, there would be no confusion. We would have a meter, a decameter (ten meters), a hectometer (100 meters), a kilomenter (1,000 meters), and so on.

This would give the United States a measuring system that would fit world standards. In this age of increasing communications and trade with foreign countries, this becomes more and more important.

The biggest objection is the trouble involved in the changeover. And granted, it would be bothersome for awhile. But once the change was made, the system would be considerably easier.

Actually, the move toward change is taking place slowly. Children are taught the metric system in the fourth and fifth grades when formerly they had to reach chemistry or physics in high school.

Science and industry have used the metric system by choice, and will undoubtedly need it more and more.

So why don't we recognize that we're moving into an increasingly streamlined society and make the change. It will make measurements easier and more adaptable.

Scholarships Offered Locally Are Unique

For Tecumseh High School graduating seniors, there is that something extra.

We refer to the six prime scholarships given annually by two local charitable foundations.

The best word to describe the gifts is fabulous.

The Herrick Foundation has offered four students the opportunity to attend the college or university of their choice for many years. This spring the Sage Foundation joined with two more.

Each of the six scholarships is worth $900 per year or a total grant of $3,600.

How many other high school graduation classes in this state have such an opportunity? We would guess few, if any.

We have always been of the opinion that money spent for the education of worthy and hard-working young people is about the best possible investment anyone can make.

Its dividends are so multi-fold they never can be measured.

To winners this year of Herrick and Sage scholarships, and especially to the folks who make them possible, The Herald offers congratulations.

Methodists Continue Stewardship Project

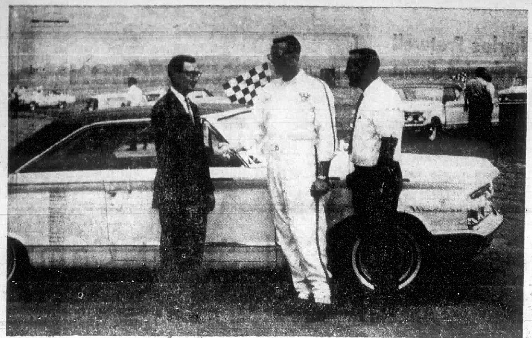

"The Problem of Liberty and Freedom" will be the theme of Rev. Donald Porteous, pastor of the First Methodist Church Sunday, June 30.

The Stewardship Talent Project begun June 1 will continue to Sunday, July 14. This project was given unanimous approval of the Official Board of the church and presented to the congregation.

Each Family of the Church was given a silver dollar and asked to add to this dollar other dollars through their talent as a Good Steward of the Lord.

At the present time there are a number of projects being carried on by the members.

Sunday, July 14 has been set for the return of the increased money carried on by each member's own Stewardship Project. Any member who has not received their silver dollar, may see Mr. Merlyn Downing at the United Savings Bank.

GOVERNOR ROMNEY REPORTS

For a couple of weeks late in June, the Governor of Michigan is going to see a lot of Michigan scenery.

Sixteen meetings in all parts of the state have been scheduled in nine working days — or should I say, nine running days—to bring to the people of Michigan some of the aspects of the state's financial situation in the months and years just ahead.

Meetings were arranged in Jackson, Lansing, Detroit, Monroe, Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Marquette, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Benton Harbor, Midland, Saginaw, Flint, Muskegon, Port Huron and Alpena. Announcements were sent to residents of every county, from every walk of life—agriculture, business, labor, education, local government, religion, citizens' groups, and all the rest.

The purpose?

Well, I'm personally convinced—both as a Michigan citizen and as Governor—that Michigan's tax structure is badly in need of a thorough overhaul.

☆

SINCE JANUARY, we also have been able to institute several ideas which should result in significant savings of tax dollars. A team of the ablest accountants and management specialists in the state has been working in this area, and their preliminary findings indicate that savings can be made through centralization of some present state operations, changing concepts in other areas, and close analysis of the way things are being done in several departments. We expect to follow through diligently with this effort.

So I decided the best way to get this total story across was to go directly to the people, spread out for them the basic facts of the situation, discuss some of the implications and possible alternatives, and ask for their ideas and comments.

There is no question that the ultimate decision on what will be done on taxes rests squarely with public officials—the Governor and the Legislature. And this is where the hard decisions will come from in the case of tax reform, too.

But I always have found it helpful if all those concerned are proceeding from the same true set of facts, and if all those concerned have an opportunity to be aware of the alternatives that lie ahead ad have a chance to let their voices be heard.

☆

AFTER WE complete our schedule of regional tax reform discussions then we will sit down with members of the Legislature individually and in small groups and go over what possible courses can be taken.

Then after all this groundwork has been laid, I'll sit down with my staff and come up with my own ideas on what should be done. These will be submitted to the Legislature when it returns for a special session in September.

We are trying to accomplish four objectives:

► We must have a tax structure that will encourage and not discourage job creation.

► We must reduce the proportion of the state tax burden paid by families of low income.

► We must provide local governmental units with broader revenue sources.

► We must have a tax structure that will provide adequately for the public services that the people of Michigan need and want.

There will be no "great debates" on taxes in these meetings. We will not line up spokesmen for and against an income tax, or for and against the sales tax, or for and against any tax.

There will be no popularity polls. We will not ask for a straw vote on how many favor an income tax, or a sales tax, or property tax exemptions, or drastic slashes in existing state services. We have no intention of throwing the ball back to the public—especially on such a complicated matter as tax reform.

But we do need your understanding, your interest and ultimately your support if our state is to have a state tax structure that will encourage progress, spread the tax burden equitably, and provide adequately for the services that the people have a right to expect from their state government.

The young folks especially enjoyed being part of a parade in which they rode all the way.

LOCAL BUSINESS

The delayed action of advertising is one of the most significant factors in retail sales.

No one can tell just how long the appeal of an advertisement may remain in the mind of a potential consumer. There is evidence that consumers may be influenced by advertising which they read more than a decade before the purchase of a product.

One of the worlds largest automobile dealers put it this way:

"Many people are still buying Fords and Chevrolets because of images created by advertising in community newspapers 25 years ago. The aspiration to own a Cadillac has been traced to even older advertising."

Advertising then, is more than an appeal to a present market, it is also a preparation for the market of the future.

The girl who is now in the market for her first party dress, is already forming opinions about grocers, tot shops, and even mens stores where she will buy shirts and ties for a future husband.

The shortstop on the high school baseball team is already forming concepts which will cause him to buy a particular type of tractor, truck, or airplane. Advertising probably has already had a major part in determining the model of his first automobile.

The consistent newspaper advertiser, because he reaches the whole family in every economic and social category. provides for future businss while he maintains a prosperous day to day traffic.

Sixty Drown This Summer

Sixty persons have been drowned and at least 12 others injured in 69 water accidents this year up until June 17 in Michigan, according to a State Police provisional report.

Twelve of the drownings resulted from falls from bridges, banks, docks or piers and through ice and included five children up through age nine.

In a somewhat comparable period last year (through June 13), there were 83 accidents in which there were 50 drowned and 34 injured.

Huron Trails Are Found North of Bay City

Editor's note — This is the third in a series of travel articles entitled "How to Make Eyeways out of I-Ways." This weeks article covers the northeastern section of Michigan.

North of Bay City lies the immense outdoor playgrounds of northeastern lower Michigan we have called Huron Trails.

Bounded on the south and west by I-75 and on the east and north by Lake Huron, these 8,000 square miles contain some of the [illegible]ly settled country in Michigan, including the Upper Peninsula. From the Detroit area to Michigan's next-to-the-last county in population —Oscoda—it's a 3½-hour run.

At the US-23 and I-75 split west of Bay City, the first big decision comes: north or west? Either prospect is exiting. All outdoors is ahead and Lake Huron is minutes away to the north.

Two hundred miles of near-shoreline driving is the prospect up the US23 to the Straits. Via the west and I-75, it's another 200 to same destination. It's what's in between that counts. The 14 counties encircled have enough outdoor variety to keep a family in sport forever, said Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Clug of Michigan touring manager. Add some of it up:

☆

THE HURON National Forest, 11 state forests, a dozen canoe streams, acres and acres of public land to roam on, to seek mushrooms on, to hunt on.

Plush motels and lakeside resorts or state parks and hundreds of forest campsites for roughing it. The roar of Great Lakes surf laced with the indescribable smell of big water. Mile upon mile of meandering back roads to lake big and small, steamy with dew in the morning and smelling of pine needles.

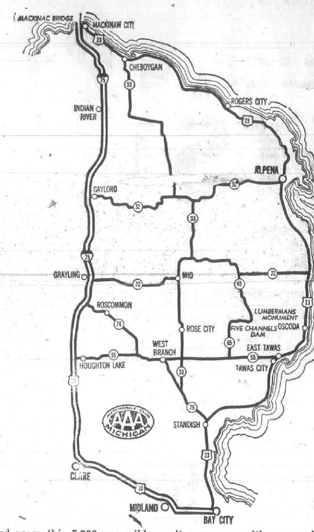

Six-hundred-pound antlered bull elk and half-ounce Kirtland's warblers, one of the world's rare birds, which nest only in this part of Michigan.

Spring woods bright with sun, clean and insect-free with their lure of trout and mushrooms. Majesetic native pines at Hartwick rising out of a pungent thick-needle forest floor. Big woods of pine and aspen, rocked with the roar of power saws and heavy logging equipment as the forest gives up crops of ever-growing timber. Mennonite farmers at Fairview and a transplanted Polish farming community at Posen. Shore birds and Lake Huron sand.

Lakes, lakes, lakes strung across the map like pepper dots in the heartland between Gladwin and Glennie. And big lakes, like Higgins, Mullet, Hubbard, Black and Fletcher Pond.

After the flatlands of Bay and Midland counties, a motorist starts breathing northwoods air above Clare. If he turns east off the freeway, he's in the Houghton Lake and Higgins Lake state forests almost before his carburetor breathes its last freeway air.

Paul Bunyan? He's here with the new look. A dozen miles south of Houghton Lake on M-18, Gladwin Game Refuge signs appear. Poke the front bumper into the first fairly good sand trail and roam this 5,000-acre wilderness. One hears a power saw roar. Follow the trails through the oak and aspen until the roar gets loud. Then park and walk—carefully—for here is the new-style Paul Bunyan. He's a one-man logging operation named Eugene Cohee, who operates almost continuously in the refuge.

Standing on soft, fresh aspen sawdust watching Cohee man his saw in a cloud of blue smoke, one may think him no superman. But the wood he cuts in one year would make a roadway of logs eight feet wide, four feet deep and a mile and a half long. Watch while Cohee drops trees. It looks easy.

Down the road is a deer enclosure; it is an interesting lesson in biology, a short course in nature. Driving the refuge's sand trails is a nerve-quieting pleasure in itself. Deer bound from roadside beds. Beaver dams with fresh cut "popple" are just off the sand trails.

UP PAST Grayling with its famous archery factory and canoes piled high for Au Sable River floats, a spur turns east from Frederic, leading to Hartwick Pines State Park. Here a remnant of Michigan's once-towering white pine has been saved, and the state tree can be viewed as it once was, with crowns in the sky so high that only strong breezes bring the fine-needled wind-soughing down to insignificant people below.

North on I-75, through Gaylord, take the blacktop threading east of Vanderbilt into the Pigeon River State Forest. From here to Atlanta, all byroads lead to elk, Fisher said.

Elk-watching is one of Michigan's fastest-growing sports, and nowhere else east of the Rockies is it possible to watch this majestic overgrown member of the deer family in full wild glory. Elk-listening has become almost as popular as elk-watching. Sometimes elk-listeners appear in the woods with elaborate recording equipment.

From a plant of six or seven elk in World War I days, Michigan now has up to 3,000 which range mainly in the hills and swamps—between Gaylord and Wolverine on the west and Atlanta on the east. One day soon, biologists predict, we'll have an open season for elk. A big bull will outweigh five Michigan deer.

The Pigeon River State Forest has sand trails galore. Tiny pothole lakes sparkle between slender red pine and light-olive aspen forests. At the state forest headquarters a dozen or so miles east of Vanderbilt, a detailed byroad map is free. Fishing here is unusual, for lakes and streams are planted experimentally with trout and regulations vary from spot to spot. Trails are marked, with a wealth of camp and picnic spots.

☆

ON UP I-75, past the huge wooden crucifix at Indian River, turn east at Indian River village to try the back way up big Mullett Lake. Wind along the southeast shore of Mullet to Aloha State Park. Tall tales are spun at fishing points up the shore. And the tall tales are true. Whopping sturgeon from this lake tip the scales at more than 150 pounds—the weight of a big buck deer.

At Mullet's northeast end, cross the inland waterway near its junction with the Black River and a traveler is in historic Cheboygan. From here, it's just 16 miles of windswept woods and shore to Mackinaw City.

From the Straits and the Mackinac Bridge, it's a short ferry hop to the horse-cart byroads of Mackinac Island. And there's Bois Blanc Island nearby, a forested hunter's paradise where Model A Fords still skim along woods roads. The ferry to Bois Blanc leaves from Cheboygan.

Backtrack now, southeast toward Presque Isle County with its magnificent Lake Huron shoreline. A fire tower crowns the heights northeast of Black Lake.

While at Black Lake, byroad to take in Rainy River and Ocqueoc Falls. Then east to Rogers City for a look off the brink of the huge limestone quarry. South east, between Grand Lake and the shore of Lake Huron, roads lead to the old Presque Isle lighthouse.

This rugged shoreline is famous for shipwrecks and today is a magnet for skin-divers, said Fisher.

At Atlanta, if a motorist hasn't seen his share of elk or deer, stop at the local weekly newspaper office and ask editor John Weber of the Tribune which way to drive. Or ask game biologist Ted Fairbanks at the Conservation Department headquarters. They keep track of big elk concentrations. Often 20 or 30 elk feed in a forest meadow in daylight.

South of Atlanta, in the aspen hills, a sign marked Fonro points east down a dirt road. Take it. Especially if one is hungry, thirsty or weary. It is hard to believe it until one arrives, but one of northern Michigan's plushiest resorts—Fonro Lodge — is at the [illegible]'s backwoods road.

South a short piece, just below the Mennonite farming community of Fairview, is another backwoods oddity, a complete working narrow-gauge railroad, the Pinconning and Blind River line, operated by a whimsical former auto engineer, Carrington Eddy. Set deep in his thousand-acre forest, the railroad serves Eddy's small sawmill. While it is a working railroad, visitors are welcome and passenger cars replace logging units when tourists arrive.

☆

JUST SOUTH are Mio and the famous Au Sable River. Here in the heart of a county of only 3,400 souls are a number of attractions. East of town, down a steep trail laced with scarlet spicy wintergreen berries, is a giant of a cedar tree—the largest ever discovered on Michigan's mainland. The trail is marked, and the view of the Au Sable is worth the short hike, said Fisher.

At Sportsmen's Park in the pines just west of town, the Great Lakes Forestry Exposition will be held July 25-27. Last year, 15,000 persons attended to see big-muscled loggers vie for prizes in sawing and chopping contests.

In the hills southeast, toward Mack Lake, something new is being added—a Kirtland's Warbler Management Area in the Huron National Forest. Bird-watchers travel hundreds of miles in spring and summer to see and hear the Kirtlands—a perky, tail-wagging warbler with a wren-like song. Only 1,000 of these birds exist, experts say, and they all nest in the vicinity of the Au Sable Rived valley. After nesting, they fly to the Bahamas to winter.

South of Mio and Rose City, the northwoods gradually turn to farmland toward Standish and Lake Huron. Near Alger, Melita and Omer, however, the canoe-banging Rifle River drops through a spur of the Ogemaw State Forest. This is favorite white water.

At Standish, it's either south to the cities or back north for more. Au Gres, Alabaster, the Tawases and Oscoda offer perch fishing, beaches and charter boats. Southeast on the horizon are the Charity Islands and small-mouth bass.

☆

INLAND FROM US-23 and up through the old logging town of National City, roads lead to the scenic Au Sable River drive. Lumberman's Monument, the High Rollways and other lore of river drive days contrast with vapor trails in the blue above from jets stationed at nearby Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

North and into Alcona County, king-size Hubbard Lake is the center of backwoods resorting. On through Alpena is the Presque Isle country again, the end of this byroad tour.

The fast way home is south via US-23 to join the ever-increasing streams that melt into a river of cars at Standish.

With so much so close, weekends take on a new appeal. When the laundry is done and the car is fresh-washed and greased, maps are apt to appear. Exploring can go on forever.

RALPH HELZERMAN (CENTER) WITH TWO FELLOW GLEE CLUB MEMBERS IN ROME

U-M Glee Club Wows Europeans

Ralph Helzerman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Helzerman, 612 W. Chicago, is spending his summer with the University of Michigan Glee Club which is making another successful tour of Europe.

The Glee Club was in Rome, where the audience was somewhat cut down in size due to the Pope's death, and is now in Athens, Greece.

Ralph ... tion the Glee Club is getting, and some of his impressions of Europe.

"Our first concert was at the Medical School of Rome, and due to the church frowning upon a festival, our audience was somewhat cut back in size.

"But they sure had spirit. When we finished our concert, they gave us a standing ovation, and then sang us their alma mater to show us their appreciation."

THINGS WEREN'T always that pleasant, however. Ralph complains about the driving conditions in Rome.

"The Romans seem to have a fascinating game they love to play. At about 8 a.m. they get out of bed, fill the gas tank in their Fiat, and spend the rest of the day aiming that little car at unsuspecting Americans.

"If they miss the first time, they swing around the block and try a second shot at you."

Their reception in Greece has been even better. The Glee Club sang in an ampitheatre in Patras built in the 3rd Century A.D. before an audience of 3,000.

"THEY SAID it was the biggest thing that happened to their city since the revolution of 1812."

The English- language Athens News claimed, "It was a real joy to watch and listen to the clean-cut youth of America in their excellent interpretation. The young men built a musical bridge between their nation and those fortunate Greeks who attended."

The University Glee Club is on a 10-nation tour that will last until July 15.

Wheat Marketing Cards Mailed

1963 Wheat Marketing Cards Are Being Mailed

The Lenawee County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Office announced today that 1963 Wheat Marketing Cards would be mailed to wheat producers in Lenawee County starting Friday June 21, 1963.

Producers harvesting wheat must have a 1963 wheat marketing card in order to sell any wheat harvested this year or held over from a various year according to Walter Sager, Chairman of The Lenawee County ASC Committee.

Anyone not receiving a 1963 wheat marketing card who has wheat for harvest this year should contact the ASC Office in Adrian, Michigan before July 1, 1963. Some marketing cards are being held up according to Mr. Sager because of excess wheat acreage.

In all but a very few cases this excess wheat has been reported as destroyed but because of the large volume of excess wheat farms it has been impossible to complete the remeasurement's by this date.

Also, some marketing cards cannot be issued until the "Report of Acreage" form is signed by the producer. Some of these forms were not signed at the time of the measurement because the producers were not at home.

The card will not be enclosed in an envelope but will be in post card form and could easily be misplaced or lost. These marketing cards are serially numbered and recorded just like a check.

If one is lost or destroyed it must be cancelled and all wheat buyers notified of the cancellation before a duplicate card can be issued. This requires time and labor and causes the producer and the wheat buyer considerable inconvenience.
